Million Jobless as Castro Orates, Fumbles

Fidel Castro,
. . . words, words, words

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — More than one million persons — one-sixth of Cuba's population —are out of jobs.

The government is operating in a state of disorganized confusion.

Business paralysis is setting in as industry waits to see how far Cuba's socialistic-minded savior, Fidel Castro, will go.

Yet despite the business collapse and the Communists' hopes of moving in when the hero-worship of Castro wears off, there is still a hope for recovery.

It hinges on the efforts of two Castro aides, Dr. Regino Boti, minister of the National Economy Board, and Dr. Felipe Pazos, head of The National Bank. Both are extremely able. If Castro gives them a chance, they may be able to reverse the trend which Castro has initiated.

Castro, as self-appointed prime minister of the revolutionary government, calls the shots and outlines policy as he goes. Frequently policy seems to be made on the spur of the moment, without rationalization, in the middle of one of his hours-long speeches.

If he keeps it up, observers here feel the Russians and their Red party leaders need move hardly a finger toward eventual capture of this sugar republic and a strategic North American beachhead.

Yet, the Cuban people—90 per cent Catholic—are instinctively anti-Communist and pro-capitalist.

What is happening here is reminiscent of Guatemala four years ago when the Communists were able to push Jacobo Arbenz into power. But then it took long months of careful, crafty planning — of infiltration and manipulation.

In Cuba, it is being accomplished by the national hero, a man who is not a Communist but rather is an inept administrator, idealist and demagogue.

Some alarmed Cubans have suggested that Nikita Kruschchev's secret agents and organizers aren't needed in Cuba — that Castro himself is unwittingly "talking" Cuba into the Communist orbit.

In fairness to Castro, it must be emphasized that he appears completely sincere. And he has achieved, for the moment at least, honesty in government, a quality hitherto unknown in Cuban politics.

Despite his sincerity, he gives every indication of doing a beautiful job of fouling up this island-nation's economy, driving it toward bankruptcy, upsetting traditional social customs and creating an atmosphere of "government by confusion."

He may know where he is heading, but that's more than do some of his closest supporters who are government officials.

Several whom I talked to admitted they are baffled. Others maintain all is well, that this is simply a transitory period.

All swear blindly by the leader who directed the revolution which overthrew the seven-year regime of Dictator Fulgencio Batista last New Year's Day.

"Don't condemn Castro," pleaded youthful looking J. A. Ossorio, American affairs officer in the Prime Ministry. "There is absolutely no connection between the Castro

Behind the By-Line

This, in part, is the conclusion of The Herald's foreign-analyst, John B. McDermott, as he revisits Cuba for a look at the sugar republic's stormy rebirth under the banner of the rebel hero Castro.

In recent years McDermott has traveled to trouble spots of the world— Russia, Africa, Germany, the Near East — to look at politics in terms of people and their leaders.

Too Contradictory

Cuban Business Future Is Dark

By WILLIAM GAUDET
Special To The Herald

HAVANA, Cuba — The cooler heads of businessmen see the answer to Cuba's future in plain everyday economics.

And they are disturbed by what Fidel Castro's government has done, or failed to do.

They cite paradoxes — the government doing one thing with one hand and the opposite with the other — which they believe could spell serious trouble for the island unless there is better coordination.

* * *

CASTRO'S REDUCING RENTS all over the island — and the stress at the same time is on the need for new housing construction.

* * *

THE government order to the Cuban Telephone Co. to sharply reduce monthly charges — and the announcement that followed it closely that there was going to be a vast expansion program.

GAUDET

MUCH TALK about the importance of private enterprise aided by foreign capital and know-how — and not one law so far to help expansion by private enterprise already here, or to attract new foreign capital.

It is not that the businessmen are against the announced Castro policies of reform to help the little men. Many of them are little men themselves. But they believe the reforms should come side-by-side with laws which help rather than hinder the role of capital.

Many businessmen will tell you they are deeply concerned over how to protect capital they have already invested. Property values in Havana and elsewhere, for instance, already have dropped — some say as much as 40 to 60 per cent — as a result of the rent reduction decree.

Another incongruity, observers say, is the much-talked-of drive to produce in Cuba, by Cubans, the things which Cubans need and use.

But, asks the businessman, how can this sort of nationalism work in a country which itself depends more than anything else on the export of sugar? And whose largest market, the U.S., is maintained through a system of quotas — the U.S. imports so much sugar in return for export rights of its own goods to Cuba?

Take away the U.S. as a sugar market, and the entire economy of Cuba will crumble, the businessmen say.

Government officials say the government controls over foreign exchange will be lifted when sale of the sugar crop — expected to bring between 500 and 600 million dollars to the island — begins. But some capitalists doubt it. They believe the government will not allow many of the dollars to get out of Cuba.

Already, practical businessmen say, there are many working quietly to find a way of getting their capital out of Cuba.

But this unrest is not obvious.

To the visitor, the thousands who jam into the Plaza whenever Castro speaks are the obvious sign that he is the Cuban hero and that the huge mass of people is willing to believe — for awhile, anyway — his idealistic optimism and accept his actions.

Nicaragua Invasion Brewing?

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — (UPI) — The Dominican military intelligence service said Saturday that former President Jose Figueres of Costa Rica is massing men and weapons for an invasion of Nicaragua.

An official communique said that 35 Cuban "barbudos" (bearded followers of Fidel Castro) landed on the Costa Rican coast near the Nicaraguan frontier March 19 from the Panamanian ship White Shadow. It said arms for 500 men also were put ashore.

According to the communique, the band is now in the mountains where it is being "directed" by Figueres from his ranch La Lucha.

The invasion of Nicaragua from Costa Rica, the communique said, would be combined with similar operation from Honduras.

"The Dominican intelligence service knows that a network of conspirators exists in the Caribbean which has violated all international rules by using ham-wave bands to maneuver against countries to foment armed revolt," the communique said.

Cloudy But Dry Forecast

There may be some clouds but there shouldn't be much rain to spoil Easter in Florida, weathermen predicted Saturday.

Fair, mild weather was forecast for most of the rest of the nation, except for showers expected in the Rockies and a few snow flurries in the Northwest.

Florida's skies should be a bit more cloudy than expected, weathermen said, because of a stationary weather front hanging over most of the state.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower, spending the long Easter weekend in Gettysburg, pa., planned to lead the nation in worship by attending services at the Presbyterian church near their farm. They planned a "very quiet weekend."

And New York's Fifth Avenue will be bright with the annual parade of latest fashions past St. Patrick's Cathedral. The picture will be the same on Chicago's "Magnificent Mile," and in Miami and on main streets throughout the nation.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., 100 motion picture stars will accompany 100 crippled children in a parade dedicated to Easter Seals, and at the Hollywood Bowl more than 20,000 are expected to hear Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson deliver his Easter mesessage.

Before day broke on Easter, the Roman Catholic world had its message from Pope John. Departing from the custom of delivering Papal Easter messages on Sunday, Pope John spoke to the world from Vatican City Saturday night.

In a broadcast heard around the world in many languages, the Pope offered prayers for the rulers of the earth and for peace.

Hundreds of Christians gathered within the walls of the old city of Jerusalem for midnight services in the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre. Scores of pilgrims and tourists remained for Catholic masses offered in the three chapels of the ancient basilica shortly after midnight.

Outside, the narrow streets of the old city were dimly lit and largely deserted after a bustling day. The stars shone in a clear sky.

Blockade Of Russia Our Tack?

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Washington Evening Star said Saturday the U.S. is considering a naval blockade of Russia in the Baltic and Black Sea areas if the Soviet Union cuts off the West's access to Berlin.

"This is one of the measures short of nuclear war this country recognizes it has at its disposal, officials here confirm, if the Soviet Union goes through with its threats to oust the West from Berlin," The Star said.

It added that no decision has been reached on the point at which such a serious counter-measure would be ordered. The newspaper said the plan may be discussed here this week at the secret sessions of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers meeting.

At the State Department, Press Officer Francis Tully said of The Star's report:

"We are considering many different possibilities from time to time of things that might or could be done (about the Berlin situation) but as to any military decisions that might be made, I can't comment."

Privately officials said a naval blockade of a major power would have to be considered an act of war which could be used if hostilities actually started. But they noted that President Eisenhower has emphasized at news conferences in recent weeks that if there is to be any shooting it will be done by the other side.

Pointing out that Turkey controls the Bosphorus and Dardanelles outlets from the Black Sea, and Denmark controls the Kattegat at the mouth of the Baltic Sea, The Star said both nations could become key nations in the Berlin crisis.

Vice President Richard Nixon said in Miami Saturday that the U.S. has enough military muscle to stand up at a summit conference without fear of submitting to Russian blackmail.

He conceded the Russians have more long-range missiles and submarines.

"But in over-all military power, we, with our allies, have greater strength."

Here with his wife and two daughters for the Easter holidays, the vice president also maintained that the Republican Party must be rebuilt and that the administration must post a good record from here on in to win the 1960 presidential election.

Skirting questions about his own potential candidacy, Nixon commented:

"By concentrating on those two efforts we can win no matter who is nominated . . . I am not working or engaging in activities toward the nomination."

With aplomb and a polished delivery, he touched on a wide range of topics, including the missile program, foreign relations, Latin America, inflation and presidential qualifications.

At one point he digressed to remark on the difficulty he has with arithmetic while helping his young daughters with their homework.

"If anybody has any ideas about American education, they should try doing their children's arithmetic problems. I can do long division but I'm not so good in algebra and geometry," he confessed.

Turning to weightier subjects the vice president made the following observations:

As Demo Senators Rally to Ike

Hike in Foreign Aid Looms

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Eisenhower has enlisted bipartisan Senate support for an effort to boost the 100 million dollars voted by the House for foreign aid development loans.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader, predicted the Senate will add at least 75 million dollars to the loan fund. The fund provides low-interest loans to assist public works in underdeveloped countries friendly to the West.

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said in a separate interview he will urge the appropriations committee to raise the House-approved total to 200 million dollars.

This still would leave the fund 25 million dollars short of Eisenhower's request for 225 million dollars in emergency money for the remainder of this fiscal year, ending June 30. A compromise between Senate and House figures would be likely to leave the total even lower.

When the House Appropriations Committee cut out all of Eisenhower's request the President termed the action irresponsible.

The Story, and Meaning, of Easter

'He Is Risen'--the News That Never Grows Old

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

In stately Latin and melodious Polynesian, and in virtually every other known tongue, they repeat the news that sped through the demoralized company of Christian disciples on the first Easter morning, 1,929 years ago.

"He is risen!"

Easter is the oldest and most sacred of Christian holy days for good reason. Unlike the Oriental religions which are based on mystical experiences and metaphysical speculation, Christianity is anchored in his tory to an event — the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

From its earliest days to the present, the Christian church has never hesitated to stake its whole case on the claim that this event really happened.

"If Christ be not risen," the apostle Paul told the Corinthians, "then is your faith in vain."

What is the evidence for the resurrection?

Many Christians probably would answer that question by citing the Biblical stories about the finding of the empty tomb. These stories dramatize the fact of the resurrection as nothing else can, and their devotional value has earned them the central place at most Easter worship services.

But to the rigorously objective modern scholars who have exposed the New Testament to the most searching scrutiny ever given to any book, the empty tomb is secondary evidence.

These scholars point out that there are a number of discrepancies in the various gospel narratives about the awesome discovery that greeted the devoted women who went to the tomb "early in the morning on the first day of the week."

These discrepancies do not mean that the story is untrue. On the contrary, even a newspaper reporter can discern, in the different accounts, just that variation in detail but agreement on essential fact, which is the hallmark of authentic eyewitness accounts of any momentous event.

But the discrepancies do indicate to Biblical researchers that the first Christians did not attach primary importance to the empty tomb. If they had, a greater attempt probably would have been made to pin down the precise facts, to harmonize the disparate versions that circulated freely in the oral traditions until they eventually were set down in the gospels.

What pushed the empty tomb into the background of the early apostles' thoughts? The answer is abundantly clear in all of the gospels, in the book of Acts and in Paul's letters.

Red China Abolishes Rule of Dalai Lama

Puppet Regime Set Up

TOKYO — (AP) —Red China Saturday abolished the Dalai Lama's regime in Tibet, elevated the rival Panchen Lama in his stead, and imposed military rule on the rebellious Himalayan land.

Peiping asserted the revolt that erupted March 19 was crushed in two days and 4,000 rebels were captured. But Red China admitted rebel bands fought on in varoius parts of the land of the Lamas. Peiping asserted these bands were being mopped up.

Broadcasts from the capital of Red China asserted the 23-year-old Dalai Lama was abducted by the rebels and "under duress" tore up the 1951 treaty with Red China under which he was allowed to retain nominal rule.

This tended to bear out reports from India and elsewhere that the Dalai Lama had made good his escape from Lhasa, the capital, and had joined the rebels, probably in southern Tibet.

Presumably, the Dalai Lama is with the fierce Kampa tribal warriors, who from positions in southern Tibet have been fighting the Chinese Reds for three years.

The Panchen Lama last was reported at his religious headquarters at Shigatse, southwest of Lhasa. The 21-year-old spiritual leader now may be in Lhasa. He is considered the spiritual equal of the Dalai Lama but traditionally wields no temporal power. He generally has been considered more complaisant toward the Communists than the Dalai Lama.

Peiping asserted the command center of the revolt was Kalimpong, in northern India where the trade routes wind in from Tibet.

Nationalist China airdropped supplies to the rebels in their stronghold south of the Tsangpo River, Peiping said, thus supporting Chinese Nationalists' claims that they have been aiding the rebels. The Tsangpo River flows south of Lhasa.

Peiping said "radio stations were set up there by agents sent by the imperialists and the Chiang Kai-shek (Nationalist) clique to further their intrigues."

Trouble broke out, Peiping said, after the Dalai Lama was scheduled to attend a theatrical performance in the auditorium of the Tibetan military command. Accounts from Tibetans reaching India have said the Dalai Lama was ordered by the Red Chinese to come without companions and this raised fears for his safety among his followers.

Sunny Fortune Splits $400 Prize

By SUNNY FORTUNE

Sunny Fortune's personal Easter rabbit spread $200 eggs from Miami to Key West today—splitting the $400 prize for his puzzle between a pair of women in the two cities.

"Good for me," whooped Mrs. R. T. May of Miami. "I'm so proud I could cry," was the reaction of Mrs. Ollie Jenkins of Key West.

SUNNY

Ten other persons just missed a share of the eggs by a rabbit's whisker when they were one word off the correct answers.

They'll have another chance this week as Sunny drops a fresh $300 into the nest and starts building a fund for the next winner. You'll find the puzzle waiting for you on Page 4-B.

For both Mrs. May, of 490 NE 61st St., and Mrs. Jenkins of 912 Whitehead St., the prize money came "just at the right time."

Mrs. Jenkins, who has been working the puzzles about a year, said her part of the prize would go for bills and a spring outfit for her 10-year-old daughter, Sharon.

The $200 meant an Easter outfit for Mrs. May, too. "Now I can splurge," she said. "That shopping trip I was going on will become a real tour."

Neither woman takes time from her domestic activities to make a practice of entering contests. "But I've been working this one since it started," Mrs. May said, "and just decided I wouldn't give up."

during the current session of Congress. Unless the federal budget is balanced, it will be difficult to balance the family budget.

FOREIGN AID — Nothing could hurt the U.S. in the cold war more than a partisan debate on foreign aid. A vote to cut mutual security is a vote to raise defense expenditures and a vote to increase the draft of American boys.

MISSILE RACE — The Russians are ahead of the U.S. in some areas, such as the production of intercontinental and intermediate ballistic missiles, but we are in front in research and development.

FOREIGN RELATIONS — The bond between the U.S. and Great Britain is closer than at any time since World War II, thanks to President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The U.S. makes the mistake of thinking of Latin America as one great area, instead of in terms of individual countries with different problems. U.S. prestige generally is better than a year ago.

FIDEL CASTRO — If there is anything the U.S. wants it is friendship and cooperation with the Cuban people and government. Castro has indicated opposition to some U.S. policies, but it is based on misunderstandings which can be removed when the rebel leader visits the U.S.

Nixon added that U.S. relations with Latin America are being improved through the creation of an inter-American loan institution, studies aimed at stabilizing prices of Latin products and mounting interest in Latin America.

He noted that world peace has been maintained during the seven years of the Eisenhower administration, "but we are going to have crises in world affairs as long as international communism persists in its present tendencies."

He said that the major qualifications of presidential candidates shift with the times and their issues.

In addition to the usual prerequisites, he opined that presidential timber must have experience and understanding of international affairs, plus a working knowledge of domestic economics.

government and the Communists.

"Socialist? Yes. But Communist? No.

Another official admitted off-the-record that Castro "talks too much when he should be listening."

"Cuba today is in a state of shocked hero worship," said this official with surprising frankness. "Unfortunately, the most 'fidelista' of all — believer in Fidel Castro — is Castro himself. Soon he must come down from the clouds and face reality."

A prominent Cuban newspaperman, known as a long-time Castro backer, said he is fearful that while the 32-year-old prime minister talks himself hoarse on radio and television, left-wing extremists are moving into key advisory positions.

Among these are Alfredo Guevara, who directs classes in Marxist teachings to the army; Baco Alanso, head of the National Fine Arts Commission; Carlos Franqui, former proofreader on the Communist organ "Hoy" who now runs Castro's governmnet newspaper "Revolucion;" Antonia Antuna, who directs the National Institute of Culture under the Education Ministry; Casals Perez, head of "Rebel Radio," and many others.

Castro's brother, Raul heads the new army and "tolerates" communism. Another military strongman, now ill, is Argentine-born "Che" Guevara, who claims to be non-Communist although he has played ball with the Reds.

Two leftist authors, Emil Roig de Leuschenroig and Antonio Nunez Jimenez, have been reinstated to places of prominence and their works are being used in the schools and in indoctrinating the military.

Alberto Suno, assistant secretary general in the Prime Ministry, discounted the Red threat to this newsman.

"There is no question but what the Communists are trying to get into Cuba's government," he said. "They won't succeed.

Castro has lofty aims. But too many of his plans are unrealistic and dangerous. Right now he appears to be in the position of an amateur tightrope walker on a high wire for the first time without a net.

Prayer for Today

Oh, Blessed Night When Christ Rose

By JIM BISHOP

Go With God

St. Gregory, the first of 16 Popes of that name, was a patrician who held a high political post in Rome before he felt the call to religious service. He then gave his wealth to the poor and made his home into a monastery. He rose to be Pope, from 590 to 604. As Pope he sent St. Augustine to effect the conversion of Britain to Christianity. His name also is associated (perhaps incorrectly) with the arrangement of so-called Gregorian mode or chant. The following Easter prayer comes down from him.

It is very meet and right, with all powers of heart and mind, and with the service of the lips, to praise the invisible God, the Father Almighty, and His Only-Begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who paid the debt of Adam for us to the Eternal Father, and effaced the bond of the ancient guilt by the Blood poured forth in loving-kindness.

For this is the Paschal festival in which Thou first didst bring our fathers, the children of Israel, out of Egypt and madest them to pass over the Red Sea dry-shod.

This, then, is the night which cleared away the darkness of sin by a pillar of radiance.

This is the night throughout the world which now restores to Grace and unites to holiness believers in Christ, separated from worldly vices and from the gloom of sin.

This is the night in which Christ broke the bonds of death and ascended from the grave, the conqueror. For to be born had been no blessing to us, unless we could have been redeemed.

Oh, the inestimable tenderness of Thy love. To redeem the servant, Thou gavest up the Son.

This holy night, then, puts to flight offenses, washes away sins, and restores innocence to the fallen and joyousness to the sad.

Oh, truly blessed night, which spoiled the Egyptians and enriched the Hebrews — the night in which Heaven and earth are reconciled!

We pray Thee, Lord, therefore, that Thou wouldst preserve Thy servants in the peaceful enjoyment of this Easter happiness; through Jesus Christ our Lord, Who Livest and Reignest with God the Father, in the Unity of the Holy Ghost, God now and forever: Amen.

Joyful News : 'He Is Risen'

"For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins in accordance with the scriptures, that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day in accordance with the scriptures, and that he appeared to Peter, then to the twelve.

"Then he appeared to more than 500 brethren at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have fallen asleep. Then he appeared to James, then to all the apostles. Last of all . . . he appeared also to me."

It is sometimes said that the resurrection of Jesus is "the best-attested fact in history," because the whole Christian church bears witness to it.

Those who make this statement usually have two ideas in mind.

First, they mean that the existence of the church can hardly be explained except in terms of the resurrection. As one scholar has written, "it is easier, even for a non-believer in miracles, to accept the fact of the resurrection than to find any other adequate explanation of the change that came over the disciples within three days after they had fled Jerusalem in terror."

The second meaning is that the church, from the time of the apostles until now, has consisted at its core of men and women who are convinced — not by anything they had read or have been told, but by the irrefutable evidence of their own experience — that Christ is living still.

Stay in Berlin, Most Say

Nikita Is No Better Bluff Than Stalin, Poll in U.S. Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J. — Nikita Khrushchev is having no more success in threatening the American people on Berlin than his Kremlin predecessor, Josef Stalin, did 10 years ago.

Then, as now, the basic issue at stake in the beleaguered German city, as the public sees it, is the same:

"We've got to stand firm or Russia will overrun all of Europe."

If standing firm means keeping Western troops in Berlin even at the risk of war, the public is willing today — as it was over a decade ago — to take that gamble.

The Gallup Poll

The latest vote on the issue, in fact, is amazingly similar to that recorded in the late spring of 1948 when the Soviet blockade of Berlin provoked one of the first major crises in the "cold war."

At that time, Gallup Poll reporters asked voters across the nation:

"Do you think the U.S. and her Western European allies should stay in Berlin, even if it means war with Russia — or should the U.S. give up Berlin to the Russians?"

The vote:

STAY IN BERLIN?

Stay in Berlin	80 Pct.
Give up Berlin	11 Pct.
No opinion	9 Pct.

When Gallup Poll reporters asked voters their sentiments on the same basic issue in recent days, here is how those persons familiar with the Berlin crisis replied:

"Do you think we should keep American forces in Berlin — along with British and French forces — even at the risk of war?"

STAY IN BERLIN?

Yes, should	81 Pct.
No, should not	11 Pct.
No opinion	8 Pct.

Since Khrushchev raised the Berlin issue anew in his ultimatum to the West last November, checks on public opinion have found virtually no change in voters' attitudes toward keeping U.S., British and French forces in West Berlin.

The most recent vote, for example, closely parallels that recorded immediately following Khrushchev's ultimatum on the subject as reported last December.

The vote among those familiar at that time (77 per cent):

STAY IN BERLIN?
December '58

Yes, should	78 Pct.
No, should not	11 Pct.
No opinion	11 Pct.

Compared to other critical national issues of recent years, the Berlin crisis has stirred up wide interest throughout the nation and in all segments of the population — 78 out of every 100 voters nationally say they have heard or read about it.

Police Haul In Rock 'n' Roller

Coral Gables police hauled Edward Provencher, 35, to the station Saturday night on a hotel manager's complaint that the rock 'n roll music he provided in a hotel dining room for a teenage party wasn't the kind his agreement called for.

Muriel L. Egizi, who leases the Antilla Hotel at 111 Ponce de Leon Blvd., told police that when a group of 40 teenagers came for dinner Saturday night, they started dancing to rock 'n roll tunes. When she asked Provencher to stop the music because it was disturbing guests, she said, he refused.

Ice Show Producer Tyson Dies

Other Deaths, Page 2C

George D. Tyson, producer and co-founder of the Holiday on Ice show, died of cancer Saturday near the eve of his extravaganza's opening in Miami Beach. The 1959-60 premiere of one unit of his show will open in Moscow today — the first U.S. ice show to play behind the Iron Curtain, and the winter debut of the parent show is Monday night at Miami Beach Exhibition Hall.

Mr. Tyson was to be on hand to see the results of his work in planning the entire production.

Mr. Tyson, 58, had been ill for several weeks. He suffered a relapse following a recent operation, associates said.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyson came to Florida in 1947 and lived in Fort Lauderdale until 1949, when they moved to Coral Gables. Then to South Miami in 1957.

Mr. Tyson became general manager and executive producer of the shows in 1945, when he teamed with Morris Chelfen. Chelfen is in Moscow.

Holiday on Ice started as a one-unit touring show with a company of 40 skaters. In 14 years, it grew to six units, employing more than 500 skaters and 70 technicians. The enterprise grossed some 10 million dollars in 1958.

He is survived by his wife, two sons by a previous marriage, Ronald and George Jr., both of New York, and a brother in Indianapolis.

National Summary

A high pressure area pushing southward from Canada resulted in fair and cool weather over most of the country from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic during mid day Saturday with temperatures ranging from the 20s in the northern tier of states to the 50s in the Gulf States, except in Florida where readings reached the 80s.

Fair weather will continue over much of this area through Sunday, but frost was expected to extend as far south as the Carolinas by dawn today. Slowly rising temperatures are expected in this area by afternoon, however.

Scattered thundershowers or rain showers from eastern Texas into the lower Mississippi Valley will move into the eastern Gulf States today, while the variable cloudiness over the plains will continue through tomorrow.

Fair to partly cloudy weather will continue through Sunday over the southern portion of the Rocky Mountain States while showers or snow flurries will be scattered over the northern part accompanied by variable cloudiness during the same period.

Northern California, where snow fell Saturday, will be cloudy today, while the remainder of California will remain generally fair.

GI Gets Lesson In Law

COLUMBIA, S.C. —(UPI)— An Army private with only a half-year of legal training got a two-hour lesson in law from a federal judge here and went back to soldiering.

Pvt. Walter A. Warren, 25, of Hampstead, N.C., pleaded his own case before Judge George Bell Timmerman Sr. on his complaint that his draft board had inducted him without a fair hearing. The judge denied his plea.

Warren was thrust into khaki last month and sent to Fort Jackson here for basic training.

He argued he should have been granted student deferment. As a freshman student in the Wake Forest College law school, Warren was in the top half of his class and was doing satisfactory work.

However, U.S. Attorney N. Welch Morrisette told the court Warren had already received several student deferments while attending Wilmington Junior College and East Carolina College as an undergraduate.

Morrisette also said Warren had several other deferments on the basis of an apprenticeship in a critical occupation at the U.S. Marine Air Station, Cherry Point, N.C.

"Since there was no war going on and there has been a draft cut, I don't see why I have to be drafted," the Hampstead, N.C., soldier said.

Timmerman told Warren he had already been deferred "longer than I thought it possible for anybody to get a deferment."

'Foolish' Woman Goes to Prison

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. — (AP) — "You're a very foolish woman," said Federal District Judge William G. Juergens.

He had just sentenced Mrs. Florence Ann O'Riley to 18 months in prison. She admitted embezzling $11,300 from a Waterloo, Ill., bank and giving the money to a St. Louis dancing school instructor.

Mrs. O'Riley characterized the dancing instructor as "no good from start to finish," but refused to disclose his name. She will remain free under bond until April 10 to arrange care of her two sons, nine and 12.

FACING UP to the situation, a member of the Amish sect prepares to receive a Salk polio shot in Georgetown, Pa. Although the religious beliefs of the Amish prevented them from taking shots before, they are believed to have changed their minds because of a polio outbreak.

Ex-Casino Man Booked

He and five others, including Miami Beach businessman Joseph R. Merola, 33, of 2018 North Bay Rd., were charged Friday with plotting to smuggle stolen guns to Castro forces in Cuba last November.

Rothman made $5,000 bond after an appearance before U.S. Commissioner Roger Davis. He gave his address as the Riviera Motel, Hallandale.

Cancer Can Be Stopped From Feeding On Rats—But Cure Won't Work on Men

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — A medical researcher after 10 years of scientific work apparently has uncovered the secret of cancer's ability to grow at the expense of its victim.

From what he has learned, he can prevent an implanted cancer from growing in a rat, and he can let a rat cancer get started, then stop it.

This suggests that there can be a way of stopping early cancer in humans, or preventing the growth of malignant cells that have been unavoidably left in the system after removal of the original cancer.

In that event, surgery followed by the researcher's method of drug treatment could mean cure. Or a small cancer, treated early, might be starved to death.

But the method has not been tried on humans. It has been used only on rats. It is not ready for the cancer patient. There is too much difference between rat and human cells to make the transition easy. And the rat cancer-stopping drugs are poisonous to man. One of them causes a form of madness.

However, there are related drugs which are less poisonous to humans and which still can stop rat cancer. The question remains whether these drugs also could stop human malignancy.

The experimental findings were made under the direction of Dr. Kenneth Scott of the University of California Medical School. They were made public by the California division of the American Cancer Society, which supported the work in part.

Dr. Kenneth Scott

. . . through the maze

Uncovering the cancer cell's growth secret required the researchers to make their way through an unusually complicated biochemical maze.

First they noted that cancer cells are greedy for iodine. They get it out of the blood stream, diverting it from its normal target, the thyroid gland. They also get it by breaking up thyroid hormone.

Then the investigators found out what the cancer cells do with the iodine. They use it to build a protein-like substance, an iodine-containing polypeptide.

This polypeptide attacks and disintegrates mast cells, which are normal body types. From the disintegration products the cancer cells get serotonin, a hormone-like substance which they apparently need to achieve their wild, uncontrolled growth.

Dr. Scott injected the cancer polypeptide into a rat to destroy the animal's mast cells. Hours later, after the mast cell debris had been carried away by the rat blood stream, the experimenter injected cancer cells into the rat. The cancer cells did not grow.

Then the researchers injected cancer cells into another animal and quickly administered the polypeptide. This time the polypeptide tore down the rat's mast cells just in time to supply the newly implanted cancer cells with serotonim. The cancer cells grew luxuriantly.

From this Dr. Scott reasoned that if cancer cells need serotonin for growth, they can be stopped by lack of it. He began a search for something to block serotonin.

Other researchers had found that serotonin is blocked by the drug, lysergic acid diethylamine, (LSD) which is much used by psychiatrists to induce madness and hallucinations in human experimental work on mental disease.

Dr. Scott tried LSD on rats with rapidly growing transplanted cancers. It slowed the malignant growth by as much as 80 to 90 per cent and in some cases stopped it entirely, he said.

He injected normal animals with LSD, then planted cancer in them. The malignancy did not grow, he reported.

One drawback against trying LSD to stop cancer in humans is that to be effective, so much would have to be given that the patient would be poisoned.

But there are some chemical derivatives of LSD that work about as well, Dr. Scott reported. One of them is 3.7 times as potent in blocking serotonin as LSD and does not produce madness. But all of them are too toxic for human use.

'Mother of Year' Now Just 'Mother'

Mrs. Krueger

WASHINGTON, Kan. —(AP)— Mrs. Nellie Krueger, who had gone about her chores for the past week in the belief she had been chosen "Kansas Mother of the Year," has reverted to being just plain mother.

She learned that a letter informing her of the honor was all a mistake.

No other newspaper in Kansas had the story. Inquiries brought out that a state committee would not meet until Monday to select a Kansas mother of the year, and that Mrs. Krueger had not been nominated.

How was it, then, that Mrs. Krueger, a 63-year-old farm woman, received a letter notifying her that she had been chosen?

The question was put to Mrs. Daniel A. Poling of New York, chairman of the American Mother Committee, which sponsors the selection of state and national mothers of the year. Here is her explanation:

Mrs. Krueger, who has five children and nine grandchildren, is a new member of the group.

Routine letters welcoming new members are mailed by New York headquarters. Also ready and waiting was a letter of congratulations to be mailed to the Kansas Mother of the Year once she was chosen.

A clerk in the New York office mailed the wrong letter—the one offering congratulations—to Mrs. Krueger.

Mrs. Krueger learned of the error from a newsman, who reached her by telephone at her farm home near this northeastern Kansas County seat.

Mrs. John Selfridge of Wichita, chairman of the state election committee, said she tried repeatedly to reach Mrs. Krueger by telephone to extend the apologies of the state and national organizations. She said she was told Mrs. Krueger was not available.

"Well, it was fun being 'Mother of the Year' for a little while, anyway," Mrs. Krueger told the newsman who broke the news.

"Words couldn't explain how happy my husband (George Krueger) was," she said.

"I wanted to go to New York two years ago. I've never been there. But somehow I didn't make it."

One of the rewards of being Kansas Mother of the Year would have been an invitation to New York for the annual mothers' conference May 5-8.

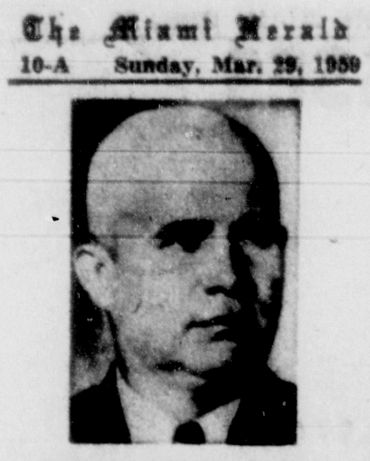
Nikita Tells Germans Reunification Unrealistic



Nikita Khrushchev
... urges patience

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS
The New York Times Service

MOSCOW — Premier Khrushchev has declared that reunification of Germany "would be unrealistic today." He has urged East Germans to "make no haste" toward unifying the two rival Germanys.

These declarations, made public for the first time, were made by the Soviet premier March 7 in Leipzig at the conference of the All-German Workers. They were published in major Soviet newspapers only after the Western powers had proposed to the Soviet Union the convening of a four-power meeting of foreign ministers in Geneva to discuss the German problem.

In effect the Soviet leader was telling his hosts in East Germany that, at the present stage of political developments, the time was not ripe for trying to unite East and West Germany under Socialist rule. And he certainly was not prepared to permit East Germany to fall under capitalistic rule.

Diplomats in Moscow were somewhat puzzled at the timing of the release of this speech made by Khrushchev almost three weeks ago. The length of the published speech indicated that it had been reproduced almost in its entirety.

The feeling among the diplomats was that Khrushchev, having weighed the present situation between the two divided German states and having understood the Western stand regarding reunification, had decided that to bring up the question at this time would only create a stumbling block in the road of negotiations toward a German peace treaty. He was urging the East Germans not to be impatient for such unification.

Khrushchev declared however that the Soviet Union had "always been for a united Germany." He said it was the Western powers that had "clamored in their time for the dismemberment of Germany."

Linda Christian in Court Again; Wants More of Tyrone's Estate

PEOPLE

LOS ANGELES — (UPI) — Actress Linda Christian has gone back to court with another claim against the estate of her former husband, matinee idol Tyrone Power.

In a petition filed by Attorney James M. Fizzoli, she sought $32,752 in back alimony for the years 1957 and 1958.

She said she was to have received $43,000 annually in alimony under terms of a 1955 property settlement, but got $44,000 for the two years.

Miss Christian, mother of Power's two daughters, Romina, seven, and Taryn, five, asked the court to hold Power's estate liable for part of a $25,000 federal income tax assessment levied against her four years ago.

Power died last November in Spain. Miss Christian earlier was awarded approximately $1,300 a month in child support from the estate.

Hit Show Has Its Third Star

NEW YORK — (AP) — A new leading lady has been signed for the Broadway hit "A Touch of the Poet." She steps into a role two actresses have quit in less than a week.

Cloris Leachman was signed for the starring role of Sara Melody in Eugene O'Neill's play. Kim Stanley quit the show March 20, giving differences with Costar Eric Portman as her reason.

Nancy Malone, her 24-year-old understudy, was given the spot, but handed in her two-weeks notice Thursday. Her complaint was hurt pride — and money.

She turned down a $450 weekly salary, and quit because she couldn't get $500. As understudy she drew $150 a week, plus $35 for every time she appeared on the stage when Miss Stanley was ill.

Dulles Receives Easter Bunny

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of State John Foster Dulles found a six-foot-high, paper Easter bunny Saturday among his morning mail and newspapers.

The bunny, sent by the seventh grade of Kensington Grammar School of Berlin, Conn., was the largest of more than 20,000 get-well messages sent to Dulles since he entered a hospital Feb. 10 for cancer treatments. An aide said that the messages have come from all over the world.

Joan Caulfield Hurt in Collision

INDIO, Calif. — (UPI) — Actress Joan Caulfield and two other persons were injured when her car was involved in a head-on collision with another one mile east of Palm Desert here.

The blonde actress required surgery for a cut inside the mouth, but was not seriously hurt.

The California highway patrol said Miss Caulfield, 37, her passenger, Mrs. Josephine Anderson, 61, of Beverly Hills, and the driver of the other vehicle, Arthur J. Wise of Indian Wells, were taken to Casita Hospital.

Air Marriage Goes on Rocks

OLATHE, Kan. — (AP) — A marriage that began in the air four years ago is on the rocks.

Mrs. Marion Williams filed suit for divorce from Edward L. (Doc) Williams, one-time millionaire cemetery promoter.

Mrs. Williams, 30, a former model, was married to Williams in a chartered 44-passenger airliner 5,000 feet in the air July 30, 1955.

She alleges extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty. She seeks custody of their 2½-year-old son, David Sutton Williams, and support for herself and the child.

Little Car A Playground

TULSA, Okla. —(AP)— Small automobiles which are easy to park and are light on gasoline consumption have drawbacks.

Ronald L. Arganbright found young boys can get on top of his foreign model easily. He said their playful activity caused him to spend $400 to get roof dents ironed out.

More Attaches

BONN — West Germany expects to extend its network of military attaches this year. Attaches will be sent to Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Pakistan and India.

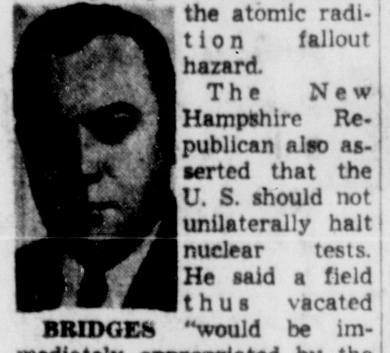
Senator Urges Study of Fallout



BRIDGES

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Senate GOP Policy Chairman Styles Bridges called Saturday for a prompt federal study of the atomic radiation fallout hazard.

The New Hampshire Republican also asserted that the U. S. should not unilaterally halt nuclear tests. He said a field thus vacated "would be immediately appropriated by the Soviet Union, and to our detriment."

Bridges took note of the current storm of debate on the fallout problem in a prepared statement in which he stressed the "military security need of further experimentation." He is the ranking Republican on the Senate Armed Services, Preparedness, Space and Appropriations Committees.

He did not enter the flourishing argument over whether responsibility for protection of the public from fallout should be transferred from the Atomic Energy Commission to the Public Health Service. This was recommended Thursday by the Public Health Service National Advisory Committee.

But he said "the already considerable public concern in regard to fallout from nuclear experimentation will be much heightened by the revelation that fallout is at a considerably faster rate than originally anticipated."

"Although the rate is still far below permissible levels, and there is thus no cause for alarm," he added, "I nevertheless feel the American people, and those of the Free World, are entitled to the best our scientific know-how can produce. I therefore call upon all agencies and functions having to do with nuclear experimentation, or having the capacity for evaluation, to coordinate their efforts for an immediate and complete study."

182 Receive Heart Grants

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The American Heart Association announced the award of grants totaling $1,562,243 to 182 scientists engaged in research to discover the underlying causes of heart and blood vessel disease.

The awards were made to scientists in 28 states, the District of Columbia, and two foreign countries.

Bandit Loses Most of Loot

SEATTLE — (AP) — Two boo-boos by a butter-fingered bandit cost him a bundle of cash in a bank robbery here.

The robber walked up to the cage of Teller Georgia Wolfe in a downtown branch bank during the afternoon rush hour, poked a gun at her, handed her a sack and ordered her to fill it.

Mrs. Wolfe complied and handed the bandit the sack after she had put $2,587 into it.

Then the bandit pulled his first boo-boo. He hurriedly stuffed $1,278 of the loot into his pockets.

He wheeled around and started to flee the bank, thereby making his second boo-boo. He dropped the sack and the $1,309 it still contained.

He ran out the door without bothering to pick it up, dashed down the crowded street and into a large department store.

The money he had jammed haphazardly into his pockets started working out and before he cleared the other side of the store he had left a trail consisting of $740 in greenbacks.

Police and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents are still looking for him . . . and the $538 he presumably still has.

Engineer Out After Accident

COS COB, Conn. — (AP) — The New Haven Railroad has taken out of service the engineer of a passenger train which had to be derailed to keep it from plunging into the Mianus River.

A spokesman said the engineer, W. D. Smith of Mamaroneck, N. Y., would not work pending the outcome of an investigation into Friday's accident. No one was injured in the derailment.

Smith has been in railroading 40 years and has been an engineer since 1946, the spokesman said.

Teachers Hurt, Schools Close

HOLLIS, N. H. — (AP) — This town of 1,500 residents must shut down its schools this week due to the death of one teacher and injuries suffered by four others in an automobile accident.

Mrs. Lucien Fortier, 55, died when the car in which she was a passenger skidded and struck a pole on a snow-coated highway.

The other teachers taken to Nashua Memorial Hospital were Mrs. Lester Perham, 36; Mrs. Robert Craig, 28; Mrs. Harold Foote, and Mrs. Winifred Casey, both 58, all of Milford.

AF Ordered To Fly Teams

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Pentagon has overruled an Air Force decision to back out of plans to fly a team of handicapped athletes to the annual Wheelchair Basketball Tournament in California.

Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles reversed the flight cancellation after protests that the tournament might have to be called off.

Sen. Paul Douglas (D., Ill.) said the Air Force cancellation order may have been a reprisal against him for his Senate speech this week criticizing junkets in military planes.

In overruling the Air Force, Quarles directed the military services to go ahead and fly teams from New Jersey, Brooklyn, New York City and Tampa, Fla., as well as the Illinois group, to the California tournament.

The Letter That Proved the Rule

Jimmy Hoffa's 'Don't Write It' Gets Undermined From Below

By DAVID KRASLOW
Of Our Washington Bureau

Dave Frechette
. . . a carbon, too

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Hoffa has good cause to wish his Teamster Union subordinates would follow the rule by which he lives — don't put it in writing.

Because a Miami Teamster official didn't obey the rule, the Senate rackets committee was able to slug Hoffa with a letter which can prove quite embarrassing to him.

Yet the letter, addressed to Hoffa, spells out in detail a plot to coerce a Miami builder by threatening to have Negroes try to buy homes in his housing development.

The idea was to scare off the white customers. And since the financing for the homes was to be guaranteed by the federal government, the builder would have cause to worry on another count if he refused to sell to a Negro.

As Dave Frechette, the Miami Teamster official, explained in the letter: ". . . A formal complaint is immediately registered with the FHA and VA, who, as you know, whenever any federal money or guarantees are involved, can brook no discrimination.

". . . If it (the financing) is fouled up, or he (the builder) thinks it's going to be fouled up, he's dead."

This, the committee charged, is the rankest sort of exploitation of the Negro.

Frechette, who invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked about the letter, even proposed that Hoffa put up the $15,000 for the certified check so that the Negro could show the builder he was ready to buy.

"Jimmy must have turned purple when he read Frechette's letter," a committee source said.

"Hoffa has a horror about putting anything in writing. He uses the telephone rather than write and he's careful about how he uses the telephone. (Hoffa is known to have a penchant for using pay phones.)

"When we ask him for his correspondence files, he says, 'What correspondence? — I have no files.' "

The Frechette letter is a case in point. As Committee Counsel Robert Kennedy explained, that letter is "missing" from the Teamster files.

Frechette did more than just put it in writing to Hoffa. He sent a copy to Peter Fosco, secretary-treasurer of the International Hod Carriers and Laborers Union and a top Democratic politician in Chicago.

(Frechette said in the letter that the Laborers' locals in Miami would cooperate by supplying the Negroes.)

Kennedy says the committee did not obtain the letter from the Teamster files, but he refuses to disclose the source.

Rally Called to Bolster Battle for Urban Renewal in Miami

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

A public rally around Urban Renewal was called Saturday by the Citizens Housing and Planning Council, Dade's most active blight fighters.

FOWLER

KISLAK

They will bring Tampa Attorney Cody Fowler here April 29 to answer questions about the big federal program. He will tell what Florida must do to get its share of Urban Renewal funds, now being spent by the billions in other states.

The drive to bring Urban Renewal to Florida by changing State law also got an assist from another source Saturday.

Jay Kislak, a Miami mortgage banker, said opponents of the program are wrong when they complain it smacks of public housing.

"They are attempting to confuse the public and undermine the program," he said, "by throwing up a socialistic or public housing bugaboo.

Kislak is former Urban Renewal chairman of the Home Builders Association of South Florida and former commissioner for the redevelopment agency in Jersey City, N. J.

Florida, he explained, is cut off from a big share of federal funds because it can't condemn slum property for resale to private enterprise. In other states where there is no restriction, the U. S. is paying two thirds the cost of such projects.

The State Legislature will be asked at its upcoming session to remove the restriction. Among the many making the request will be the Florida League of Municipalities and Gov. LeRoy Collins.

The April 29 public forum sponsored by the Citizens Council is part of a county-wide educational program announced Saturday by Architect Irvin Korach, its president.

It also is offering a study course for persons who would like to know more about the blight problem and the programs that are available to fight it.

And it opened its membership ranks to anyone interested in working for a change in the state law.

Information about membership, or about the four-night study course, is available, by calling Mrs. Elizabeth Virrick, corresponding secretary, at MO 1-2136.

"The reason Florida is so far behind in cleaning out its blighted areas," said Mrs. Virrick, "is that the people don't know what Urban Renewal is all about. So they don't know what to do."

Crampton Wins New Citation

At 81, Dr. C. Ward Crampton of Miami is still winning awards.

The latest one is for his work in physical education and geriatrics.

In receiving it at Portland, Ore., he sent a word of warning to the younger people:

"Our land must not be the place where wealth accumulates and men decay."

He pleaded for improved standards of physical education in the U.S., saying that American boys and girls are neither as strong nor as agile as those in many European countries.

"We eat well," he said, "but we lead sedentary lives."

The William G. Anderson award was made to Dr. Crampton at the convention of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation in Portland.

Dr. Crampton is a consultant in geriatrics at the University of Miami School of Medicine. He has spent the last 50 years speaking and writing on ways to make life more livable.

Setting Cement Traps Workman

LYON, France — (AP) — A workman on a building project was caught up to his neck in hardening cement.

Abderrahmane Maouche, 42, was at the bottom of a 15-foot hole being dug for a cement piling. About a yard away workmen poured cement into another hole. Earth between the two holes gave way and cement rapidly filled the hole around Maouche.

Firemen pumped oxygen to Maouche while coworkers tugged and strained to free him. After two hours of frantic effort, they pulled him loose. Maouche is expected to recover.

Reds Revamp Spa

LONDON — (UPI) — Moscow radio said that a $3,500,000 reconstruction program is underway at the Russian health resort of Sochi. When the program is finished in 1965, the Black Sea coastal resort will provide accommodation for 1,200,000 vacationers, the radio said.

Anybody Like a Little Game of Tennis

Golden Age Tennis Tourney Proves Years Don't Count

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

OFFBEAT
with Mike Morgan
MIAMI

Considered from both a sports and a medical point of view the first annual Golden Age Tennis Tournament was quite a success.

It was rather unusual in the annals of tennis history because all the contestants had their blood pressures checked, and cardiograms taken before and after competing.

Maybe it isn't quite the way the American Lawn Tennis Association conducts tournaments but, after all, this was the first time a regular tournament was held where the players had to be 65 years or over.

Bad for your heart?

Not so! says Miami heart specialist Dr. E. Sterling Nichol. And his opinion is not weighted by the fact he is past 60 and wields an active tennis racquet himself — in fact he played in the tourney.

Dr. Nichol does not propose that oldsters suddenly start playing tennis. But if they have been playing it, and are in good physical shape, there is no reason they can't continue. Exercise will help the heart stay strong.

One of the more enthusiastic elders of the Miami tennis courts is 65-year-old Jack Flood.

When Jack called out, "Anyone for a Golden Years Tennis Tournament?" a whole clutch of energetic elders volunteered.

The tourney was staged in West Palm Beach to make it an area affair. In the future it will be played in Miami.

Most of the entrants play three times a week or more. You can see a number of them dashing around the Henderson Park courts almost any afternoon, daunted neither by years nor sun.

The surprising thing is how many of these men can play the strenuous form of singles. Such as regular at the Henderson Courts, 74-year-old Harry Dickes (75 in April) who didn't take up the game till he was 50.

When Flood organized the tournament, Doc Nichol thought it would be a good idea to try a bit of checking in an effort to learn the effects of the strenuous game on men 60 to 80.

Some startling facts developed from the limited test. Of the 21 men who were examined before and after playing, the cardiograms disclosed that only one might be taking a risk by engaging in the sport.

His cardiogram was somewhat abnormal before playing, and showed up worse after. The man is 71-years-old and was advised to quit the game.

All the others were perfectly normal after the fast sets.

As for blood pressures, in several instances the blood pressure was lower after playing than before.

Only in five cases did the blood pressure reflect a slight increase.

"It indicates what medical men have contended for some time," observed Dr. Nichol, "that exercise, if you pursue it frequently, can be continued to a ripe old age. Even a sport like tennis.

It's also interesting to note that during the tournament the men average 16 games a set.

Tennis, anyone? How about Grandpa!

140,000 Drivers Represented in Battle

Auto Association Joins Tax Hike Fight

Board members representing 140,000 Florida drivers and their families stated their stand on 17 points which will come before the 1959 Legislature.

The organization said it will fight any increase in the state gasoline tax or automobile license tax.

It will throw its weight behind a move to revise the "three-and-out law" regulating suspension of drivers' licenses . . . . seeking substitution of a point system.

And it will call for issuance of driver's licenses good for three-year periods, with a requirement that all drivers under 18 must have a drivers' training course to qualify.

Conference Chairman Robert J. Finley, Miami, manager of the South Florida Division, said the AAA Clubs also will ask that juvenile drivers "be subject to the same rigid enforcement, trial and penalty procedures applicable to adult drivers."

Coupled with the proposal will be a request that no one be permitted to operate a motor scooter unless he holds a valid license.

"Deaths, injuries and damages caused by minors are just as tragic and burdensome to to the victims and to the public welfare as those caused by adult drivers," he explained.

The conference also will demand enactment of legislatur for "reasonable regulation" of billboard advertising along the interstate system. This would be aimed at protecting natural beauty and to qualify Florida for a federal aid bonus of some three to four million dollars.

The auto clubs — which create a strong lobby in Tallahassee — also served notice on the legislators they will press again for action on a constitutional amendment to prohibit diversion of motor vehicle taxes to non-highway purposes.

Other planks in the conference platform include: Abolition of the fee system for officers or judges in traffic cases, a uniform traffic court system, more effort toward re-examination of drivers, and revision of Florida's school bus law.

The proposals, adopted by 104 board members in 14 Florida cities, take note of AAA's traditional opposition to road blocks. They cite the Miami case, brought by former Beach Mayor Abe Aronovitz, in which a Circuit Court injunction restrained Miami police from using traffic blocks.

Camera Puts Thief in Jail

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Charles R. Bradley is working in the city workhouse and not as a janitor at St. Louis University because of a series of pictures taken by a hidden camera.

The automatic camera was installed in a canteen at the university after a series of break-ins in which $150 was taken from vending machine coin boxes.

The series of 25 photos taken the night of March 16 clearly showed a burglar entering the canteen through a window. Police said the former janitor at the university admitted the burglaries upon being confronted with the pictures.

Bradley pleaded guilty in the Court of Criminal Correction Monday to three charges of stealing sums under $50. He was sentenced to three concurrent six-month terms in the workhouse.

Fairchild Garden

Plant Scientist Named to Board

One of the world's foremost plant scientists, Dr. George H. M. Lawrence, director of the Bailey Hortorium at Cornell University, has been elected to the board of managers of Fairchild Tropical Garden.

Dr. Lawrence was principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Fairchild Tropical Garden Association.

He described the garden as the top botanical garden in the South, and said it is ready to expand its program of research and education to bring increasing prestige to the Miami community.

Others named to the board of managers were Dr. David J. Davis, minister of Plymouth Congregational Church, Coconut Grove, and Mrs. Alfred G. Kay, of Palm Beach and Chester, N.J.

All officers were reelected, including O. C. (Jack) Corbin, president; Mrs. Alvin R. Jennings, Mrs. David Fairchild, Harold F. Loomis and Roy Paige, vice presidents; Marjory Stoneman Douglas, secretary, and John Ring, treasurer.

Charles H. Crandon, formerly chairman of the Dade County Commission, was reelected chairman of the board.

Coming from New York to attend the meeting was board member Dr. William J. Robbins, president of the American Philosophical Society and a member of the board of trustees of the Rockefeller Institute.

Fairchild Tropical Garden, at 10901 Old Cutler Rd., is open free to the public from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily. It is a cooperative enterprise between the Dade County Park Department and the Fairchild Tropical Garden Association.

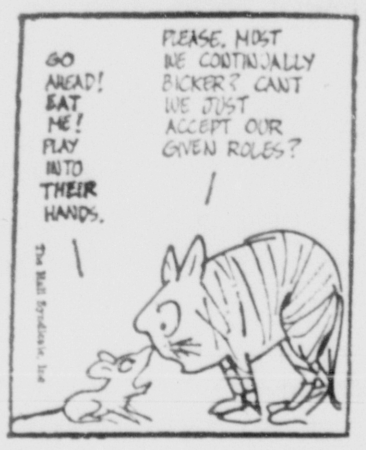
FEIFFER

Jules Feiffer, that "Sick, Sick, Sick" cartoonist, is coming to The Herald with his uncannily incisive comments on modern living that are bound to tickle your funny bone.

Cartoons by Feiffer, who won national recognition with his first book of collected cartoons, will appear in The Herald Sunday Editorial Magazine, starting next Sunday.

Besides his book, called "Sick, Sick, Sick," Feiffer contributes regularly to several national magazines.

Feiffer, 30, lives in New York and started drawing pictures at the age of five. He was employed as an assistant to several cartoonists before his cartoons in a Greenwich Village weekly won the interest of publishers.



GO AHEAD! EAT ME! PLAY INTO THEIR HANDS.
PLEASE, MUST WE CONTINUALLY BICKER? CAN'T WE JUST ACCEPT OUR GIVEN ROLES?
The Hall Syndicate, Inc

Feiffer's satire is aimed at just about every phase of modern living — psychiatry, national apathy, eggheads and just plain people.

It's not only his characters but what they have to say.

Want to know more?

Look in next Sunday's Editorial Magazine. Feiffer's strips will be there every week.

Band Lists Selections

8-Story Gate Won't Twist

EAST LANSING, Mich. — (UPI) — How do you keep a gate as tall as an eight-story building from twisting while it's in operation?

The question has been answered by a Michigan State University professor of civil engineering, Dr. Carl L. Shermer. The gates in question will be used on the Robinson Bay and Grass River locks — two of the largest on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Twisting will be controlled by precisely tensioned diagonal braces across the steel girder framework.

State Court Rapped

Herald's Gucker To Head Newsmen

JACKSONVILLE—(AP)—The Florida Daily Newspaper Association elected Arthur J. Gucker, business manager of The Miami Herald, president Saturday and took a strong slap at the Florida Supreme Court.

Arthur J. Gucker
. . . state press president

R. C. Millar publisher of the Florida Times-Union, was reelected treasurer; Robert Lodmell, publisher of the Lake Wales Highlander, was reelected a director; and George Archer, publisher of the West Palm Beach Post-Times, was elected to the board.

Gucker, 56, joined The Herald in 1944. He has been business manager and a director of Knight Newspapers, Inc., since 1955.

The thrust at the Supreme Court came over its recent decision in the appeal of Phillip Singer, a deaf mute convicted of the slaying in 1956 of Mrs. Marylin Fagin, wife of Osee Fagin, who was prosecuting attorney for Alachua County, and who now is a State Representative.

The state charged Singer shot Mrs. Fagin in revenge for his conviction by Fagin on a charge of trespassing at the Gainesville Golf and Country Club after he had been fired as maintenance man.

Singer was captured several weeks later in Canada.

The court said there was no doubt about his guilt but that "newspapers should censor crime details that might be prejudicial" to the accused.

In reply the newspaper group declared:

"Factual information, dealing with occurrences of public interest and the performances of officers in their official duties, is vital and necessary for the public and curtailment of such news would deprive the people of information required for the intelligent exercise of the responsibilities as citizens.

"The people's right to know applies to acts of violence and other crimes as well as it does to other news and such publication in many cases protects the rights of defendants from over-zealous law enforcement officials."

Group Host To Senator

U.S. Sen. Jennings Randolph of West Virginia will discuss "The Business Man in Public Affairs" before the Committee of One Hundred at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the committee's Belle Isle club house.

RANDOLPH

This will be the committee's last meeting of the 1958-59 season.

Sen. Randolph was known as the "Boy Orator" when he was a member of the U.S. House of Representatives from 1933 to 1947. Previous to his election to the Senate last November, he was assistant to the president and director of public relations for Capital Airlines.

Convention Gains Seen In Florida

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capital Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Development Commission reported Saturday nearly 57 million dollars was spent in Florida in 1958 by 530,000 state, regional and national delegates, who attended a total of 1,918 conventions.

Survey figures from 23 cities revealed a substantial increase over 1957. Approximately fifty-four million dollars was spent in the state in 1957 by 403,000 delegates, who attended 1,089 conventions.

Average expenditure per delegate attending a national convention was estimated at $126.15. Spending by a state or regional delegate averaged $111.42.

National conventions in the state are on the increase. A total of 624 national conventions were held in Florida in 1958, and 415 in 1957.

Increase of accommodations and facilities, climate and combination convention - vacations, have considerably brightened Florida's convention picture, the commission said.

Conventions already booked for Miami Beach's huge exhibition hall for 1960 will bring 187,500 persons. The city expects to equal, or better last year's business in 1959 and double it in 1960.

Jacksonville's newest convention lure will be the Sports Coliseum, with a seating capacity of 13,000 persons, to be completed in the fall of 1960.

Gables Legion Names Officers

Ed Palmer has been elected commander of Coral Gables Post 98 of the American Legion. Other new officers are: Roger Welcher, first vice commander; Dick Standish, second vice commander; M. J. H. Bearse, third vice commander; Walter Ganslow, chaplain; George Davis, historian and Dick Blow, sergeant at arms.

Our Hero! He Saved The Porch

NORTH VERNON, Ind. —(AP) — Some businessmen in Rep. Randall S. Harmon's birthplace are plugging him as a presidential candidate who saved the disappearing American front porch.

In the hullabaloo over the $100-a-month government rent Harmon collects for a home office on his own front porch in Muncie, Ind., John Powell organized a "Randall S. Harmon for President Club No. 1" here, saying:

"The front porch for American homes was finished until Harmon came along. And if he can save the front porch from extinction, he is the needed man of the hour to bring back other virtues of American living that are gradually fading from the scene."

Powell, a loan office manager, lined up 15 other gleeful citizens as club members, and they sent Harmon a straight-faced letter, asking his authorization.

There has been no reply, but Powell said he expects the Democratic congressman to approve, for the publicity if nothing else.

Civil Defense Air Drill to Silence Radio and TV

All regular radio and TV stations will go off the air for 30 minutes Friday, April 17, in connection with a Civil Defense air drill, the Federal Communications Commission announced Saturday.

The nationwide operation will start at 11:30 a.m. The only previous similar drill was in July, 1956.

About 1,200 standard AM radio stations known as "Conelrad" stations, including WCKR and WGBS in Miami, will shift to either 640 or 1240 kilocycles briefly.

The idea is to minimize use of radio beams that could guide enemy aircraft or put guided missiles on their targets.

Some 3,970 other stations, FM and TV stations, which includes the other non-"Conelrad" stations in Miami, will remain silent.

Simultaneously with announcement of the broadcasting drill, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield issued a warning that false claims are being made for some crystal radio sets being offered the public by mail for use in a Civil Defense emergency.

This type of set, which does not require an electrical plug-in, is designed to provide radio information during power failures.

Summerfield said electronic experts have pronounced some of the advertised sets as "no more, and often less, effective than the old-fashioned crystal set" commonly used in the early days of radio.

He recommended that prospective purchasers check Civil Defense authorities for information on the types of radio best for use in a national emergency.

Christ's Life Was Humble And His Teaching Simple

NEW YORK — (AP) — His message was a simple one: "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." (John 8:12).

His pulpit was on the seashore, the mountainside, the village street — and wherever else He could find listeners. He was a man of miracles. He calmed the raging sea, raised the dead, cured the afflicted.

He was Christ, the Savior.

By modern standards, His teaching missions covered a small area. His field of ministry extended but 120 miles. His ministry was believed to have lasted from 18 months to three years, during which He was constantly on the move followed by His faithful disciples.

Christ's ministry began after His baptism in the lower Jordan River by John the Baptist. Scholars believe He was about 30 years of age at the time. From there, He went to the Sea of Galilee where He was joined by His first disciples.

His teachings were to take Him and the disciples along the north shore of Galilee, into northern Judea around the Dead Sea where He added more disciples, to the area above Galilee and to the Mediterranean shore.

If Christ had a headquarters for His ministry, it was Capernaum, on the shore of Galilee. Also in the area, He performed His miracle of fish and loaves, calmed the angry waves, and delivered the Sermon on the Mount.

The group traveled in poverty, with its little money entrusted in the care of Judas, who later was to be the betrayer.

Christ faced opposition from scribes and priests throughout His ministry. They regarded Him as a transgressor who spread false words. His fame as a miracle-maker spread, though He did not wish it to do so. Rather, He wanted His words to be known.

Finally, after the Pharisees heard that Christ had called Himself the Bread of Life, and heard of the Sermon on the Mount, a delegation went to Jerusalem to present the case against Him to Pilate and the high priest.

Christ was not to be called immediately to answer the charges. He did go to Jerusalem with His disciples to celebrate the Feast of the Tabernacles which marked the end of the year and the bountiful harvest.

While there, the priests and scribes again charged blasphemy when Christ preached in the temple, helped the accused adultress, and raised Lazarus from the dead.

At last came Christ's final and triumphant entry into Jerusalem. According to the Scriptures, He rode upon a young ass while His followers joyously waved palm fronds.

Inside Jerusalem's gates lay His destiny — the betrayal by one of His own, the arrest, His trials before the priests, Herod and Pilate and, finally, the Crucifixion and the Resurrection.

Bombing Bills Are Drafted

Lawyers Seek Stiff Penalties

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Florida's prosecuting attorneys will ask the Legislature next month to enact broad laws to deter terrorist and hoax bombings.

The prosecutors will urge it be made a felony to threaten to bomb, dynamite or blow up a building, and a penalty of up to a year in jail, or a $1,000 fine, for making false reports of bombings.

The state's prosecutors and Circuit Judges have given approval to a host of other so-called "lawyer's bills."

One of the jurist's measures would increase to 10 years the terms of judges of the Supreme, District Appellate and Circuit Courts. This would require a constitutional amendment, changing the present six-year limitation.

The prosecutors guaranteed revival of an age-old fight in the Legislature by recommending for re-submission the proposal state attorneys appoint their own assistants.

Assistants are now named by the governor in every county except Dade, which has a separate constitutional amendment. The prosecutors will also recommend every state attorney be allowed a special investigator and a $300-a-month secretary.

Another controversial proposal of the prosecutors would permit automatic revocation of the driver's license of a person arrested for drunken driving who refuses a test of the alcoholic content of his blood.

The prosecutors' other bills include:

ADOPTING a model perjury act.

MAKING it an offense to resist a city police officer while he is making an arrest for violation of state law.

AUTHORIZING the search of a dwelling for any evidence of crime.

RAISING the maximum penalty to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

PERMITTING city police, in "hot pursuit" of a violator, to chase him beyond the city limits to make the arrest.

Among bills recommended by judges are:

REQUIRE suits for divorce against a non-resident to be filed in the county where the plaitiff resides.

MAKE the penalty for forgery, or uttering forged bank checks or drafts, the same as for larceny.

INCREASE mileage allowance for jurors from five to 10 cents a mile.

Vice President's Hands Expressive
. . . they are never still while he talks

Gestures Help Him Tell Story

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Richard Milhous Nixon, vice president of the U. S., paints pictures in the air.

To punctuate ideas and to give emphasis to his remarks, he uses his hands like a pizza baker.

In good humor during his hour-long press conference, Nixon also gave away other insights into his personality.

For instance, when commenting on plans to attend Easter Sunrise Services at Crandon Park, he let it slip that he is a late Sunday riser.

"This will be the earliest I've been up on a Sunday in year," he remarked — waving his hands.

Turning serious (hands clenched) he later requested that the cameramen wait until Easter to take pictures of his two young daughters.

"It's a problem to keep youngsters from the public. I'm sure you understand."

Asked about his golf, Nixon kept his left wrist stiff like a good golfer should and said he hadn't played in six months.

"I was too busy," he reported, "and then I went to England."

Then, with a motion like he was signing his signature, Nixon disclosed that he does about two hours work a day even while on a holiday.

Near the end of the interview he was asked what he intends to do if he finds himself among the unemployed in 1960.

"I follow the practice of living day-by-day. I frankly haven't given any thought to what I'll do if I'm out of a job iin 1960. But I think I'll find something to do."

That ended the press conference.

Nixon slapped his hands together as if he was clapping for joy.

Palm Reader Hangs Self

A 54-year-old palm reader and self-styled spiritualist set out a sheet of music entitled "There'll Be Peace in the Valley For Me," then hanged himself Saturday.

John S. Leonardson, who lived alone in his combined office and home at 1970 NW 27th Ave., was found by a neighbor who wanted to make a rent payment on her trailer space.

Mr. Leonardson left no suicide note, and according to a neighborhood physician whom he sometimes consulted was not in ill health.

Attacks 'Freeze-Out' Move

Teamster Accuses Collins of 'Deal'

By AL FINKELSTEIN
Herald Staff Writer

Tough-talking Teamster organizer Henry Feinstein Saturday night charged Gov. LeRoy Collins was trying to freeze his union out of Florida by working an "Iron Curtain deal" with the opposition AFL-CIO.

"Nobody is going to stop the Teamster organizing drive . . . Instead, we'll stop the stop-Teamster drive," he said.

The president of Teamster Local 237 made the comments in New York as he prepared to fly to Miami Monday night on orders of Teamster Boss James Hoffa to take charge personally of a "stepped-up" organizing drive of public employes.

Said Collins: "I truthfully don't know what the man is talking about. For him to say or imply that I made a deal or arrangement against his group is utterly ridiculous."

Last month, during the meeting of Teamster high command at Miami Beach, Gov. Collins said he hoped Hoffa would "get out of Florida and stay out."

Feinstein was quoted Saturday night as saying "the tactics used in Florida are the same as those the AFL-CIO used in Puerto Rico, where that union induced Gov. Luis Munoz Marin to recognize only the AFL-CIO as soon as the Teamsters started organizing employes in private industry.

A fight-Teamster drive was announced Friday by Tom Morgan, director of organization for the AFL-CIO state, county and municipal employes union.

Said Morgan: "We are going to stop them (the Teamsters) from exploiting Dade County public employes."

"We've got Miami Beach already sewed up, and in 45 days we should have a good grip on the whole of Dade County. I'm afraid that other group (AFL-CIO) is just a little too late."

Huet claimed he has 1,079 Dade public service employes as paid-up members ($3.50 a month) and another 500 signed but who haven't yet paid their dues.

Lee Tafel, business agent for the AFL-CIO, said his union now has registered 1,800 of Dade's estimated 25,000 public employes.

Huet said Hoffa's orders were to "get going full blast" starting Monday.

Miami Boat In Distress

An 80-foot seagoing Miami houseboat radioed for help about 15 miles southeast of Miami late Saturday as it's motor conked out in heavy seas.

The 250-foot Coast Guard cutter Androscogging was enroute to aid the stricken vessel. Seven persons were reported aboard. The owner is Hugh M. Stevens of Miami the Coast Guard said.

In a radio distress call, the boat was reported enroute to Miami from Nassau when its engine failed about eight miles east of Fowey Light.

Hotels Share Own Convention

Fourteen hotels in the Miami area will be meeting spots for the Florida Hotel Association convention, April 12-14. Arthur Feenan, chairman of the convention and manager of the Columbus Hotel, said Saturday.

EAL Fire Hearing to Be at Beach

A Civil Aeronautics Board hearing will be held Tuesday at Miami Beach in an attempt to determine the cause of a mishap involving an Eastern Air Lines Constellation, it was announced Saturday.

The hearing will be held at the Empress Hotel. CAB Chairman James Durfee will preside.

The CAB said the mishap occurred at Miami International Airport on Jan. 17. There were no injuries.

The CAB said the plane caught fire on takeoff. It returned to the field, where the 12 passengers and five crew members were evacuated.

Rocket Crashes Into Home

NASHVILEE, Tenn. —(AP)— An arrow-like rocket with a two-foot shaft of half-inch aluminum pipe crashed through William Hall's roof near here Saturday and set his living room rug afire.

The fire was put out quickly and no injuries resulted, but Hall said the rocket barely missed his wife as she sat in the living room.

"She's still in a state of shock," he said.

Hall estimated damages at $150. He said the rocket, apparently home-made, almost went on out through the living room window, but the outside screen bounced it back onto the floor.

"It smelled funny and the room was full of smoke after it hit. The rocket itself was red hot," Hall said, adding that the direction of the rocket's fall indicated it came from a ridge a half mile from his house.

He said he knew of no rocket experimentation in the neighborhood. The device bore the initials "E.M.T."

Easter Seal Sale Ahead of 1958

The annual Easter Seal sale of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults is almost $8,000 above the pre-Easter count for the 1958 drive, Frank O. Pruitt Jr., president of the Easter Seal Society, said Saturday.

Although $35,241 has been collected so far, follow-up reminders will be sent out this week to more than 200,000 Dade Countians urging them to buy the traditional Easter Seals.

Kassem Forces Expanded

Soviet Arms Pour In To Aid Iraqi Army

BEIRUT, Lebanon — (UPI) — Russian tanks, artillery and military technicians were pouring into Iraq Saturday for a major expansion of the Iraqi army of Gen. Abdel Karim Kassem. Communist-backed premier of the strategic oil-rich Middle East nation.

The Iraqi army is now composed of five divisions, including one understrength division Kassem put into the field since he overthrew pro-Western King Faisal and seized power by revolt last July. Plans for a second new division already have been drawn up.

Observers rated the Iraqi army as one of the best in the Middle East before the anti-Communist purges touched off by the Mosul rebellion early this month riddled its ranks. Communists also have taken over key posts in the government.

The new divisions were scheduled to be equipped with Soviet arms which have been arriving steadily during the past eight months. The most recent shipment, including 34 tanks, arrived in Basra last weekend.

It was the sixth shipload of Soviet arms since Kassem's coup and raised to 150 the number of Russian tanks being readied for use by the army. This was twice as many as the tanks in the late King Faisal's pro-Western army and enough to equip a full Soviet-style mechanized division.

Man, 67, Faces Lottery Charge

"Uncle Tom" Randolph, 67, of 1940 NW First Pl., was charged with possessing lottery tickets Saturday after he helped Miami detectives search his pockets. They found a bolita pad and 40 missing ducats.

Randolph was released in $500 bond pending Municipal Court hearing next Friday.

Car Has Cylinders to Spare

By Herald Wire Services

AN AUTOMOBILE engine which purposely does not hit on all eight cylinders has been patented by two Michigan inventors.

Said to be more economical, the engine works on all of its cylinders when the load factor is high, as internal combustion engines are more efficient under those conditions.

But as the cruising speed is reached — and the load lessened — half of the cylinders automatically cut off, placing a greater load on those still operating.

In order to pass another car, the driver depresses the accelerator pedal and the inactive cylinders are kicked into operation, providing the required additional power.

Measle Vaccine Success Seen

SCIENTISTS at UCLA's Medical School have achieved success with a vaccine for regular measles.

In a test at a state hospital, three times as many cases occurred in unvaccinated or control groups as occurred in the vaccinated patients. However, the significance of this result has not yet been established, the researchers warn.

Last year, more than twice as many deaths resulted from measles as from polio.

Shooting Gallery On Kwajalein

KWAJALEIN ISLAND — Scene of one of the fiercest battles of World War II — will become the key base in a program that will make the Pacific Ocean a gigantic missile shooting gallery.

The Army will build and operate facilities in the island to test its anti-missile missile, the Nike-Zeus.

Under the program, huge intercontinental missiles such as the Atlas and Titan will be launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California and the Nike-Zeus, fired from Kwajalein, will try to knock them out of the skies. The range from California to Kwajalein is 4,500 miles.

Low Rating Slapped on Navy's Anti-Sub System

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The ability of the Navy's present anti-submarine system to detect and track nuclear submarines was reported Saturday to have received a low performance rating in a secret and independent survey by a Defense Department agency.

Such a finding could have an important impact in the light of growing reports of the existence in the Soviet fleet of new nuclear submarines, presumably designed for eventual use with ballistic missiles.

U.S. Navy officials have emphasized for the last two years it should be assumed that Russian naval designers have the capability of building nuclear submarines like those of the U.S. From overseas there has come unofficial speculation recently that as many as a dozen atom-powered submersibles may have been built or started by Russia.

Without discussing any possible results of an anti-submarine warfare (ASW) study, Pentagon officials confirm that the Defense Department's Weapons System Evaluation Group has "looked into various aspects of ASW" from time to time.

The group was organized a decade ago to provide the secretary of defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff with an agency of military and civilian scientists charged with the job of assessing the value of existing or proposed weapons and weapons system under changing conditions of warfare.

One of the aspects of ASW into which the weapons group has looked apparently is the efficiency of the present system against the deadly nuclear submersible. The atom-powered submarine can dive deeper, travel faster and remain submerged longer — for weeks or months — than the conventional submarine with which ASW forces have coped in the past.

One source said the WSEG report indicated that both the present and planned capability for the Navy's anti-submarine system, as related to nuclear submarines, is totally inadequate. This applies to detection, tracking and harassment of A-subs. The study indicated a low rating, also, for the system's ability to destroy a submarine.

One test of ASW capability was understood to have been made in a 200-mile area along the Atlantic seaboard. The test area was laid out in relation to the offshore position from which an enemy submarine probably would launch missiles against targets in the eastern U.S.

Another instance, not related directly to the WSEG assessment, was reported to have involved an atomic submarine several months ago. The submarine, according to one source, made three passes under the protecting ASW screen of a task force at sea without ever being detected. On each of the passes, the submarine was in position to have fired torpedoes into the carrier and other ships of the surface force.

'Battle of The Sexes' Over, Woman Is Winner

WILMOT, N.H. —(AP)— Wilmot's town government is doing business as usual. Thus ended "The Battle of the Sexes" with victory to the fair sex.

Selectmen Miss Donna Niles, 43, and Richard Bacon have appointed the third board member. He is Philip V. McLaughlin, a retired postal employe.

When Miss Niles was elected the town's first feminine selectman at the recent town meeting, Selectmen Ernest Patten and Wayne B. Atwood resigned. They said they didn't want to work with a woman.

Even though a one-member board could not function, Miss Niles refused to be forced from the job. Town counsel told her she could appoint a second member, and the two could then appoint a third. She named Bacon, a former selectman.

Miss Niles said she had no trouble finding male applicants willing to serve with her.

So He Looks at It Sideways

It's Cock-Eyed World for Cocky Rabbit

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

It's a crazy, mixed up world anyway you look at it.

Blackie looks at it sideways.

Even so, things are better at last.

Happy Easter!

Something went wrong with his equilibrium.

It was a heck of a mess for any self-respecting rabbit to be in with THE season coming.

It started with the ears.

Who wants a droopy ear for Easter?

Then one morning, the right ear drooped, too—and no ears stuck up.

Blackie flipped.

He flipped every hour all night long.

The reason was simple—but no one understood. Not L. J. Krenach, nor Mrs. L. J. Krenach or even Blackie's owner, Robert Krenach, 15.

Blackie has lived with the Krenachs at 825 NE 120th St. for lo these three years—since he was a wee bunny.

And he's not just any rabbit. He's a big rabbit — an 18 pounder. A proud rabbit—coal black. A traveled rabbit — he journeys with the family to North Carolina every summer, riding high and mighty on the luggage rack.

Next to varsity football at Miami Edison High, Blackie is one of the things Robert is fondest of in the world.

"It's his equilibrium," the animal doctor explained.

"He thinks the world is upside down and he's trying to get straight with it."

He pumped Blackie full of shots and stuff.

Columbus or no Columbus, there was considerable more flipping. But finally, determined Blackie got well.

He feels fine.

Only now his head is on sideways.

It's a silly world.

Happy Easter!

'Millionaire' Leaves $2,082

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Reputed Millionaire A. C. Blumenthal left only $2,082.18 in cash assets to meet debts exceeding $50,000 when he died nearly two years ago.

Blumenthal, theatrical producer, real estate developer and once thought to be the owner of a couple of Mexico City luxury hotels, died in Beverly Hills July 29, 1957. He was 72.

Space Law Topic for Covention

The new problem of space law will be tackled by diplomats, jurists and attorneys from 20 Western Hemisphere countries during the 11th international conference of the Inter-American Bar Association here April 10-19.

Hosts are the Florida Bar, the Dade County Bar Association and the University of Miami.

Committees will conduct meetings on subjects affecting inter-American relations. These will include international law, civil and commercial law, criminal law and procedure, natural resources, legal education, legal documentation and the new problem of space law.

Registration headquarters and the convention banquet on April 17 will be held at the Dupont Plaza Hotel.

Jonathan E. Ammerman, Miami attorney, is chairman of the convention executive committee. Some 250 delegates from Latin America and 450 from the U.S. and Canada are expected.

Crime Gains

JAKARTA — (UPI) — The crime rate in this Indonesian capital increased 30 per cent in 1958 over the previous year, the police department reported.

Two Senators for Dade? Never, Says Rawls

Our Plan Or None, He Says

State officials are "wasting their time" trying to sell the Legislature a reapportionment plan which would include a second senator for Dade County, the chairman of a powerful State Senate committee said Saturday.

Sen. John Rawls of Marianna said Gov. LeRoy Collins' plan will never be approved as long as it includes two senators for Dade — no matter what inducements it offers to the rural counties.

Dade's Sen. Joe Eaton said, "I'll work hard to get the plan passed, but it looks like chances of its passage are very, very slim. Rawls has the votes and we don't.

Rawls is chairman of the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee which will have to approve any new reapportionment plan. A majority of the members share Rawl's views.

The senator from Jackson County also blasted Attorney General Richard W. Ervin for advancing the plan to give Dade, Duval and Hillsborough Counties each two senators:

"Dick Ervin should attend to the attorney general's office and leave reapportionment to the Legislature."

He said the committee — set to meet when the Legislature opens April 7 — will write its own reapportionment bill and the governor "can take it or leave it."

Rawls has a plan of his own which would add a few new senatorial districts for fast-growing counties which now share a senator.

The plan is not in its final form, Rawls said, but it will not go beyond the 45-Senator measure the last Legislature approved.

That plan was thrown out along with other constitutional revision by the State Supreme Court.

If Rawls' plan passes, and is upheld, it could mean new senators for Bay, Monroe Sarasota, Manatee, Okaloosa, Seminole, Brevard and Lee Counties.

It does not contain what majority leaders call the "Collins joker," a second senator for populous Dade County.

Collins sent all Legislators a memorandum last week, explaining that his plan would give additional representation to the urban areas without taking anything from the slower-growing rural counties.

Ervin, in a recommendation to the governor and Legislature, said Florida should consider granting the state's three largest counties an additional voice in the senate.

Eaton Lists Legislative Program

Sen. Joe Eaton of Miami said Saturday he is prepared to lead a fight in the Legislature for a fair distribution of state gasoline tax monies.

The Dade senator announced a program which he will push, during the session opening April 7.

Here are other items Eaton will be shooting for:

BACK slum clearance legislation.

PROVIDE adequate financing for public schools and resist school closing bills.

REGULATE mortgage brokers to control issuance of "balloon" mortgages.

RESIST efforts to broaden the sales tax, especially taxes on groceries, medicines or clothing.

Eaton said he will make a person-to-person approach to fellow senators in Northwest Florida this week in hope of getting support for his revised gasoline tax distribution formula.

Mary Lou's a Bright Gorilla, for Her Age

. . . says Mrs. Gertrude Lintz, who trained Gargantua

Kids Do Monkeyshines --But Gorilla Behaves

By PHIL MEYER
Herald Staff Writer

"There, there, Mary Lou. Don't be frightened," said Mrs. Gertrude Lintz of 19060 NE 22nd Ave.

"Urk-urk-urk-urk," said Mary Lou, clinging tightly to Mrs. Lintz' neck.

"She's very nervous," explained Mrs. Lintz. "Doesn't she look human?"

"I'd rather have gorillas than children," said Mrs. Lintz. "At least, if they go bad, it doesn't break your heart."

Mrs. Lintz, a Miamian for six years, has raised eight gorillas since 1932. None of them went bad.

All made good, especially Gargantua, who gained world renown after she sold him to Ringling Brothers Circus back in 1938.

Other gorillas she has raised now live in zoos at Colorado Springs and Philadelphia.

Author of "Animals Are My Hobby," Mrs. Lintz is working on a new book on the care and feeding of baby gorillas. Mary Lou is helping provide the material.

Developing at about the same rate as a child, Mary Lou gurgles and coos, drinks from a bottle and eats canned baby foods.

Aren't gorillas ever behavior problems?

"They're better behaved than children. If a gorilla gets into mischief, you just say, 'No, you can't do that.' That's all there is to it."

Mrs. Lintz wishes she could say the same of children who visit her pets. They tend to shinny up pillars, dangle from the rafters and generally make monkeys of themselves, she said.

Though she kept Gargantua until he got to be a 400 pounder tromping around her back yard in Brooklyn, Mrs. Lintz doesn't expect to keep Mary Lou that long.

"She'll weight 50 to 75 pounds in a year, and then she'll start to grow fast," she said.

"I'll sell her to a zoo then—if I have the heart. You get so attached to them. They're the next thing on earth to human beings."

"Urk," agreed Mary Lou.

New Natural Gas May Lower Bills

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

Natural gas, already making test runs through part of the new multi-million dollar pipeline coming here, may bring Miamians not only reduced gas rates, but lower electric bills as well.

"Gas rate reductions are certain to follow the change" from manufactured to natural gas, spokesmen for the three companies which will distribute the new natural gas here agreed Saturday.

But none would hazard a guess as to when lower bills will begin showing up in the mailbox.

Reason for the reduced electric rates is that one of the largest customers for natural gas will be the Florida Power and Light Co., which bases its rates on a sliding scale dependent on the cost of fuel it uses to produce electricity.

It will be up to the Florida Public Utilities Commission however to make any rate changes after lengthy studies.

City Cas Co. will distribute natural gas to some 15,000 customers in Hialeah, Miami Springs, Virginia Gardens and Opa-locka. The firm will sign up Wednesday to buy wholesale gas from the Houston Corp., and plans an extensive expansion program.

Peoples Gas Co. and the Houston Corp., which is building the pipeline rfom west Texas, already have promised natural gas by June 1 to 106,000 other customers.

For homeowners now using manufactured gas the changeover will mean little or no pain. Company experts will adjust burners, reset jets or valves and recommend new procedures for use—all without charge.

Residents of the newest housing developments in Greater Miami, who now are using bottled gas, will have no trouble when natural gas comes into their area. Most of these homes have the proper size pipes because recent FHA regulations demand them.

"Older" homes, however, may have to switch from the flexible copper tubing used with bottled gas to the larger lines.

Plenty of Interest, Says Teacher

Fifth Graders Get a Taste of Russian

By PHIL MEYER
Herald Education Writer

The pupils in the fifth grade at Miami Shores Elementary School don't greet each other with "Hello" anymore.

They said, "Zdrastvitier" instead.

The language? It's Russian, and the students have been picking it up from Teacher Lee Foster, who graduated in Russian at the University of Miami. Qualified for elementary as well as high school teaching, Foster got the fifth grade when there wasn't enough demand for Russian in local high schools.

"There's plenty of interest here," Foster said Saturday. "The kids have learned a few expressions and most of them wish we could go into it in detail."

Interest in Russian started when the fifth graders heard Modeste Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition" in Gail Ryan's music class. Impressed by the moody rhythms, they asked Foster where the composer got those strange sounds.

"I explained how the sounds of the Russian language are reflected in Russian music," Foster said. "Next thing I knew they were saying some of the words themselves."

"I think Russian is fun, but a little silly," said one student, 11-year-old Ronnie Caruthers. "But I guess the Russians think our language is silly, too."

"I wish we could study it as much as we study Spanish," said Carol Romey.

There were some strong dissenters, however.

"I think it's the worst thing I have ever heard of," said Melanie Kofoed. "It sounds like a pig grunting."

Auto Insurance Fight Outlined

Dade Unit Seeks Aid Outside

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

Dade motorists, soon to be stung with another auto insurance increase, need help from other states and cities in fighting the high-paid "brain power" from the insurance companies, James A. Ryder said Saturday.

Ryder, head of an 11-man civic committee fighting phony and padded claims, ambulance-chasing lawyers and high rates here, said, "The big insurance companies simply overwhelm us.

"Frankly, we are unprepared to argue with their actuaries. We feel helpless.

"They don't have the facts to back up their requests, but we can't prove they don't need them."

So the Ryder Committee is coming up with a plan to link forces with cities and states throughout the country that have the same problem.

The idea is to raise money, set up a nationwide bureau of some sort and jointly fight the companies.

"We can't afford to do it alone," Ryder said. "We can't compete with their brain power. They hire some of the best men in the country."

And it is a near certainty that Larson will grant a statewide increase in April—if not before.

Dade, as usual, will be hit hardest. The companies want to jack up the minimum rate from $71.80 to $102.60 for a car used for pleasure only.

The companies want $317.60 to insure unmarried males under 25 years old. The rate now is $220.20.

The Ryder committee will fire off a strongly-worded resolution to Larson Monday, urging him to grant nothing.

"I'm afraid the insurance companies will get part of it anyway," Ryder said. "But I don't believe they'll get everything they've asked for."

Larson was in Miami late last week.

Hilton R. Carr Jr., a Ryder committeeman who talked to Larson, declined to comment Saturday. Larson also was unavailable for comment.

Carr was supposed to attend the Tallahassee hearing, but said he developed an ear condition and could not travel by plane.

Ryder said he strongly favors getting Larson to hold hearings in Miami instead of Tallahassee all the time.

He pointed out that Dade is affected most and it is only reasonable for future hearings to be held here.

Is Friendly Milkman Vanishing American?

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

Into the shadows of history they've marched one by one.

The lamplighter . . . the bakecart rumbling along the cobblestones with its fragrant wares . . . the laughing iceman handing hunks of coolness to chasing children.

Some 457 milkmen serving homes for 10 Dade dairies are worried.

"My pay is off at least $10 a week," said slender, dark-haired John Silvestro. "And I haven't been hit nearly as hard as most . . ."

"I've been taking milk from the same dairy for 40 years. Why the milkman's a way of life," declared Mrs. Mazie Arner, of 50 SW Ninth St., one of his customers.

With prices newly stabilized, the situation is on the upgrade for route men.

"But let's face it," says Jerry Dressel, Silvestro's boss and president of the Dairy Products Distributors' Association. "There is a definite shift of buying power toward the supermarket. It's a permanent shift."

"The milkman never again will be as important a part of the American scene as he once was."

But he believes he can and should be preserved. The shift is everywhere. But in Dade, it's been underscored by a year-long price war in which milk was pressed below wholesale in local grocery chains.

Dozens of route men lost their jobs as customers had a hey-day at bargain counters. Others on salary-commission find their take-home pay depressed 20 to 25 per cent.

Silvestro—like most of the old-timers—has no yen for a wholesale route. He was advanced to one once, with a pay raise, but after a month asked to be returned to his customers.

"You get to know them — the kids, and the newlyweds, and the old folks," he explained a little sheepishly.

He grinned.

"They send me Christmas cards . . . and call me John . . . and let me sample the fresh-baked cookies . . . and offer me a cup of coffee . . ."

He likes it when little Nancy Neff, two, runs to hug his neck — "she's a doll." And when Mrs. Wieman, who walks with two canes now, passes the time of day with him—"her ankles swell awful bad."

"It's an educational job . . . I'm even learning Spanish," he declared.

He has only one real bad memory. And that was before Miami in an East Ohio oil explosion. He'd just pulled off from a house where the three youngsters were playing in the yard when it came—the thunder. Quickly he turned his truck and went back to the kids.

"They were gone . . . just gone," he said softly, the sorrow of it still in his voice. "I couldn't sleep nights for a long time after that."

But mostly, the man on Route One is a happy, whistling milkman — a youngish grandfather whose wife is up before the cock crows to give him his "first breakfast." He drops off his first quart at 3:45 a.m. and his last around noon in a day of 150 stops.

"I get 16 quarts a week. I guess that's about 10,000 quarts in 40 years—but I used to get more when my daughter was little.

Give the milkman up to history?

"Not on your tin-type," said Mrs. Arner. "Let's get the bakeman back instead."

Cow Has a Hoof In Price Trouble

How did a cow kick off a price war?

Milk is high in Miami — and thus of considerable importance to housewives and a natural loss leader" bargain item for supermarkets.

In April, 1958, both wholesale and retail prices skidded downward overnight; wholesale from 51 to 48 cents, and retail from 55 to 51 cents for half-gallon containers.

By January, loss-leader sales had become so frequent, the retail price of milk in stores had leveled off at an accepted 39 cents for the same half-gallon. Hundreds of housewives canceled home deliveries to buy their milk at super-market bargains.

Local dairy executives contend dairies and markets too, lost millions of dollars — in the year-long squeeze.

Last week — in the same lightning kind of change — wholesale and retail prices sprang back to the April, 1958, level. The going price: 28 cents for quarts, 55 cents for half-gallons.

And old Betsy, the cow?

Thus the supply and demand situation is harder to control than on most products.

Moreover, a cow likes it cold — at least as far as production, he points out. In Florida Betsy produces 10 units. In Wisconsin she gives out 16.

This — among other factors — pushes Miami prices to the upper reaches.

The answer?

2 Plus 2 Plus 2 . . . Equals Parade 2-Day

More than 300 sets of twins will parade down Flagler St. and Biscayne Blvd. this afternoon.

Traveling by roller skates, baby carriages, floats, and on foot, they will move two by two from the courthouse to Bayfront Park, starting at 2:30.

And at the end of the parade, a bugler will sound the signal for the annual egg hunt—open to all children under 12, twins or not—to begin in the park.

Prizes for the egg hunt will be awarded at the bandshell at 4 p.m. Winners will get a variety of prizes, including a radio, a baseball, glove and amusement park tickets.

Parade prizes will be awarded in three divisions — for floats, for twins from 6 to 12, and for teenage twins.

Former Gov. Fuller Warren will be chairman of the parade judges, who will include State Attorney Richard Gerstein; Mrs. Laura Sutter, supervisor of special education for Dade schools; Dr. Arthur Sokoloff, authority on twins; Pat Murphy of The Miami Herald; Rosalind Rush of The Miami News; and television personalities Chuck Zink, Bill Wyler, Molly Turner and Susan Shutter.

Joining the twins in the parade will be five local drum and bugle corps, including three state champion units.

The parade and egg hunt are sponsored by the Dade County Mothers of Twins Club, founded five years ago by Mrs. Penny Thompson.

Illness, Starvation Stalk Northwest Haiti

Drought Brings Death

Agriculture is the backbone of the northwestern area of Haiti. Farm products need rain and this area has had no rain for many months. One brief shower caused the desperate farmers to plant the last of their seed. Now, even if it should rain, there can be no planting.

On the footsteps of the drought have followed the grim spectres of starvation and disease. Evelyn DeTardo of The Herald staff recently visited Haiti and here tells the grim story of what she found there.

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

PORT-DE-PAIX, Haiti — For the last 13 months northwest Haiti has been slowly drying up.

Illness and death are now taking its toll of the starvation-weak people.

A farming region, northwest Haiti exists on its production of bananas, coffee, beans, peanuts and grain. Normal rainfall in May varies from five to seven inches in this area. Last May not a single drop of rain fell.

Except for a brief shower in December, which encouraged farmers to mortgage their homes or borrow money for seed, they have had no rain for more than a year. The seed now lies dried and rotting in the ground.

Heads of families, already weak from starvation, have left the area in search of jobs, walking as far as 100 miles. Most do not find jobs and on their return find their wives or some of the children have died in their absence.

ONE FATHER, who left to sell charcoal for his starved wife, fell from weakness on the way. After resting a day and making the sale, he returned home to find his wife dead.

A WOMAN in the area took her youngest child and set off to beg, leaving two older ones with neighbors. The children left behind are not expected to live and the father, who went in search of work and food about two months ago, has not been heard from.

The Haitians' woes began with hurricane Hazel, which battered the area in 1954. The people have not been able to recover from the economic losses of the big wind.

Animals have been holding up better than people, but they are not expected to last much longer.

Donkeys which used to sell for $12 to $14 are now being offered for $1 and $2. There are no buyers. No one has food for animals.

Farmers are starving and in debt. Merchants can no longer give credit as their customers are penniless and not buying or paying back.

A number of residents are too ashamed to leave their homes because their clothes have worn completely away and they have no money to buy new ones.

Marcel Cornet, French priest in the Jean Rabel parrish, fears a typhoid epidemic may decimate the famine stricken area. More than 200 have died already from lack of food and typhoid in that region, which has about 45,000 population. There is no estimate of the entire population in the northwest.

Father Cornet, touring the medical dispensaries in the hunger areas, said the medicine which exists is too expensive for the populace at cost, and many dispensaries even are out of aspirin.

At one dispensary they did not even have tea to give a young woman who had just given birth to a child. Instead they sent her out into the market to beg for food so she could come back and nurse her baby.

More than 2,000 persons are believed fled to the Bahama Islands from the drought stricken coastal areas in the northwest and from the island of Tortuga.

NEWS FROM AROUND LATIN AMERICA

A Baptist Church in La Belle, which used to have a congregation of about 260 had an attendance of two on a recent Sunday.

A young boy, arms and legs like thin twigs sat shelling a handful of peas for lunch. His stomach was swollen like a balloon and his cheeks puffed from fever.

His father, Estilen Vital, was boiling green mangoes in a tin can. For a change of diet they sometimes bake the mangoes.

Vital's 15-year old son recently died of starvation. The only animal they have left is a pig, which, if there were any buyers, he would have sold for his son's funeral.

Haitian funerals generally require elaborate ceremonies. Without money, the dead are now being buried under the cover of night, without coffins.

The hopeless attitude of the people is appalling.

Some have written to the president, and have received no reply. "Only God can save us now," they say.

One farming family in Fond-La-Loi works all day Sunday weaving baskets. They are able to weave about five or six a day which once sold for one cent, or two for a penny.

They then walk to the market or 30 miles to Port de Paix without hope for a sale. "But it is something to do."

Everyone left in the area seems to have the same resignation. "If rain does not come we're all going to die. If it does come we'll just have to look at it because we have no more seed to plant."

Church World Service and Catholic Welfare Organization will have sent about 6,000 tons of food into the northwest by the end of the fiscal year in July.

Mrs. Charles Zellermayer, liason between the Episcopal Deanery of Women of South Florida and Haiti's Episcopal Church, said they plan to get together about 600 pounds of food at the minimum to send in. But even at this most families are lucky if they get one meal in a month.

And, if you don't happen to be a member of the congregation, you go without.

Somoza Foes Active

Nicaraguan Group Wants Envoy's Scalp

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

POLITICAL enemies of the Somoza brothers who rule Nicaragua are demanding that U.S. Ambassador Thomas Whelan get out of their country.

SOUTHWORTH

A letter mailed to Whelan and signed by more than 50 distinguished leaders of the opposition accuses the ambassador of intervening in the internal affairs of Nicaragua.

The letter — a copy of which was mailed to The Herald—charges that Whelan has damaged the friendly relations between the two countries.

"It is sad," the letter states, "that the political forces of the opposition parties in Nicaragua to which we belong have lost all contact with the American Embassy . . .

"We believe that this change and the cold relations are due principally to your attitude for years, by words and deeds . . . of being too friendly with the dictatorship that oppresses Nicaragua . . . and by taking part in internal political matters."

WHELAN

LUIS

ANASTASIO

* * *

'Would Be in Best Interest'

THE LETTER adds that the interests of both countries would be served "if you will decide to step down from your high post."

A blue-eyed Irishman, Whelan was a wholesale potato buyer in the Dakotas before he became ambassador to Nicaragua eight years ago.

The Somoza family has ruled Nicaragua for more than 20 years. After the old soldier, Anastasio, was assassinated in 1956 his sons took over. Luis was educated in the U.S. and groomed to replace his father. Anastasio Jr. went to West Point and now runs the army.

Young Gen. Anastasio is spending his Easter vacation outside the country and President Luis scoffs at rumors that his land may soon be invaded by revolutionaries.

Nicaragua on the List

BUT THE SOMOZA BOYS know that dictatorship foes in Cuba, Venezuela and other Latin American countries have listed Nicaragua, the Dominican Republic and Paraguay as the only three dictatorships remaining in Latin America and have vowed their support of any attempt to overthrow them.

Last month Honduras and Nicaragua signed an agreement in Washington to prevent their territories from being used as bases for mounting revolutions against each other. Strong bands of rebels have been reported to be gathering on the border.

President Somoza says his government is in a position to "repel any armed attempt against it, whether it comes from inside or outside the country."

* * *

Two Already Have Resigned

LAST WEEK, Nicaraguan Ambassador Leonte Herdocia and Nicaraguan Minister-Counseller Otto Somarriba resigned their posts and were given diplomatic asylum by the Costa Rican government.

Herdocia and Somarriba said they could not continue to serve the government of Somoza because of its "outrages and excesses."

An expert political observer from Nicaragua visiting in Miami said the political opposition in Nicaragua is trying to find a peaceful way of easing the Somoza family out of power and conducting free elections.

'Disease' Pointed Out

'Sick' Silver Dollars Used In Campaign on Inflation

HARTSVILLE, S.C.—(AP)—A. Lee M. Wiggins, former undersecretary of the Treasury, is dramatizing a personal fight against inflation by sending "sick" silver dollars to congressmen, financial writers, editors and others.

The 67-year-old, one-time president of the American Bankers Association said he is getting some results.

He said he has received replies from almost all the personal friends in House and Senate to whom he sent uncirculated 1923 silver dollars. And "all showed keen interest," he added.

The silver dollars were accompanied by notes which said:

"Although it has done no work in the 30-odd years of its existence, it has lost about one-half of its ability to do a day's work, or to buy goods and services.

"This dollar is ill from a disease called inflation. The further spread of this disease may destroy it. Effective remedies are well known. They can be administered by the American people."

Housewife Puts Colombia In the Know

By GIL SLOAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia — As the U. S. becomes more conscious of Latin America, these southern neighbors are discovering more and more about the country to the north.

Now, any native of Barranquilla (who reads the papers) not only knows, for example, that there are such places as Richmond, Ind.

They also are acquainted with the type of family life in such a smallish, quiet town.

It was addressed simply to "Barranquilla newspaper, Barranquilla, Colombia, South America." It appropriately was delivered to the paper whose editor has a good command of the English language.

It reads: Dear Sirs:—

"I have been reading an article written by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service. It tells about some of the things your people have learned about the life of an American in the U. S. I think maybe you have not heard enough of the average American Norte Americano).

"First of all, my husband is a World War II vet. He took advantage of G. I. schooling and became a teacher. He graduated with a B. S. degree from Ball State at Muncie, Ind.

"My husband has to drive rough country roads to teach in a country school that is 20 miles away. That is the reason for the second one.

"We have several radios, one working TV set, eight room house, full basement, oil furnace, two bathrooms, automatic washer and dryer and a nice small library.

"I do not dye my graying hair, my husband does not wear a toupee on his receding hair line. Our love is wonderful.

"Thank you for listening.

"Now in France . . . Bah!

Hospital Gets New Name

Reorganization of Bel-Aire General Hospital, with a change of name to Community Hospital, effective Wednesday, was announced Saturday by Doug Eitel.

EITEL

Eitel has been appointed administrator of the hospital by new owners, a group of businessmen who took over the 42-bed institution at 162 NE 49th St. recently.

Eitel said that a contract will be let this week for renovation of the building. New furniture will be installed and all patients' rooms will be air-conditioned.

Complete medical and surgical service will be offered at the Community Hospital, Eitel said. As part of the renovation, a second operating room will be added. The medical staff now is being reorganized.

Originally named Edgewater, the hospital was founded in 1926.

Eitel has been assistant administrator at Variety Children's Hospital for about a year. He was assistant administrator of a 1,200-bed hospital in Puerto Rico for six months.

Math Expert Will Give 3 Lectures

Dr. J. L. Kelley, California mathematician, will give three talks here this week as part of a lecture tour sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America and the National Science Foundation.

He will discuss "The Nature of Mathematics" at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in a public lecture at the University of Miami Beaumont Hall.

At 4 p.m. Thursday he will speak on "Objects of Equal Size" before UM students and faculty in Room S-303 of Memorial Classroom Building and at 4 p.m. Friday in the same room he will conduct a conference of the mathematics department on "Linear Topological Spaces."

Forum Slated On Arthritis

An open forum on arthritis will be conducted at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Civic Association Building on Coral Sea Dr. in Cutler Ridge, under sponsorship of the Florida Chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

Dr. J. Francis Keeley Jr., medical chairman for Arthritis for Dade County, and Dr. Franz H. Stewart and Dr. Allen de Olazarra, members of the foundation's medical committee, will join in a panel discussion.

Organization of an Arthritis Club for South Dade County also will be discussed, and a flim, "Walk Without Fear," will be shown.

Youth Hall To Benefit

The Dade County Juvenile Council will have its ninth annual symphony concert at 8:30 p.m. April 8 as a benefit for juveniles at Youth Hall.

The council also will cite the Southwest Kiwanis Club for its work in aiding delinquents. The club put in 2,000 man hours in 1958 and raised $5,000 for the county youth.

The concert by the Miami Symphonic Society, directed by Billie O'Day, will be given in White Temple Methodist Church.

Home-for-Aged Week Readied

Jewish Home for the Aged Week will be observed by the Jewish community of the area, beginning Monday, and culminating with dedication ceremonies at the home, April 5.

A joint declaration proclaiming the observance has been issued by Aaron M. Kanner, president of the Greater Miami Jewish Federation, and Rabbi Joseph Narot, president of the Rabbinical Association of Greater Miami.

VFW Post Elects

John M. Ferguson has been elected commander of Miami Beach post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Other officers are Samuel Nebelkopf and Thomas M. Roney, vice commanders; Edward J. Campbell, quartermaster, and Charles F. (Chuck) Hall, three-year trustee.

Young Adults

Miami "Y" Young Adults will hear a report by Haskel Lazere, director of the American Jewish Appeal, on "Recent Developments on Integration in the South" Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. It will be sponsored by the Miami YMHA, 450 SW 16 Ave.

RUST STAINED walls and walks can be the result of free iron particles in the well water supply system. They are disheartening to the home owner.

Well Water Rust Now No Problem

"Why continue painting a house covered with rust stains caused by a sprinkler system throwing rust laden water when you know that in a very short time your home will again be stained by rust?" asks Dave Berman, manager of Miami Water Clinic.

"Before wasting more money on this unnecessary painting," he said, "the home owner should investigate the low cost and economical Rid-O-Rust Control System.

"Quite often, rust deposits become so heavy they clog entire distribution systems and sprinkler heads. This, naturally, would prevent effective operation of a sprinkler system.

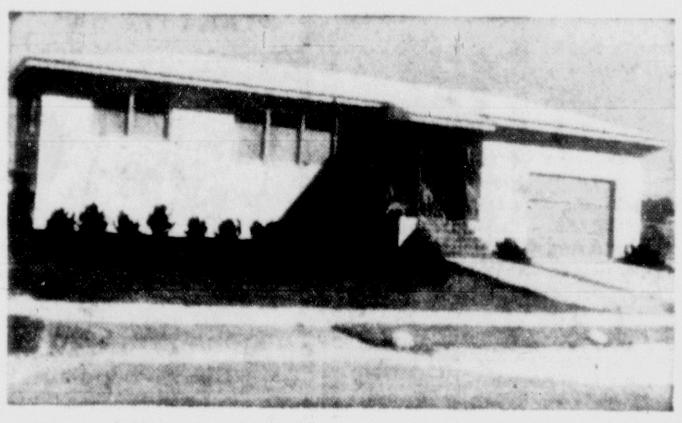
"The problem then is to treat the iron particles in the water in such a manner as to prevent them from turning to rust.

"This treatment is introduced into the water supply by means of a specially designed and patented feeder system and actually places the iron in solution. At the same time it improves the taste and purity of the water.

"The Rid-O-Rust Control System is entirely enclosed in an unbreakable fiberglass container. It can be installed easily on any well water system.

"Wherever water is used, its stability will be increased and rust and scale deposits eliminated through the use of the Rid-O-Rust treatment."

Further information about the Rid-O-Rust Control System and a free estimate may be obtained by visiting Miami Water Clinic at 965 SW Eighth St., or calling FRanklin 1-5202.



CLEAN WALLS and walks will stay rust-free where Rid-O-Rust Control System prevents the formation of stains. A special solution to remove rust stains from walls is available from Miami Water Clinic.

Gourmets from Every State Relish Hofbrau's German-American Food

World Famous
The Hofbrau Haus
world famous hofbrau haus restaurant
INTERNATIONALLY FAMOUS is The Hofbrau Haus, located on U.S. Route 1 in Hallandale, just south of Gulfstream racetrack. One of the largest and finest kitchens in Florida is maintained by this excellent, air conditioned dining place.

For many centuries Germany has enjoyed the reputation of being a country where cooking is a true art in every sense of the word. Tourists who have visited that land return to the United States singing the praises of German chefs.

While a trip to Germany would be a wonderful experience, there's no need to go there to savor authentic German cuisine, as many thousands of home folks and visitors alike will testify.

Just a few miles north of Miami, on Route 1 near Hallandale, (opposite Gulfstream racetrack) is The Hofbrau Haus, a world-famous restaurant that specializes in many different Bavarian dishes, as well as outstanding American food.

Wiener schnitzel a la holstein . . . sauerbraten . . . spring chicken saute a la chausseur . . . broiled lobster . . . steamed shrimp — these specialties and many more await you at The Hofbrau Haus, all delectable and genuine taste thrills.

Eight chefs, all trained in the European tradition of fine food, preside over one of the largest and finest kitchens in South Florida.

Diners favoring charcoal-broiled steaks and chops or a wide variety of seafood dishes also will be delighted with their selections. Incidentally, for the gourmand there's a popular "all you can eat" policy that goes along with the lobster or shrimp.

The most ordered dessert is that good old fashioned apple strudle with whipped cream, while true key lime pie is the second choice. Once you've sampled either one at The Hofbrau Haus, you'll understand the reason!

Popular prices prevail at this air conditioned eating place which is open daily and Sunday from noon to 10 p.m.

Ample free parking space is provided, with several doormen and runners to park and deliver your car without delay.

For Cars with Power Accessories . . .
The Answer to Your Battery Problems
An inadequate generating system is the basic cause of battery troubles. The increasing load of accessories takes more current out of the battery than a conventional d.c. generator can put back in. On vehicles, slow driving, long idling periods and short trips aggravate battery trouble. The result is a dead battery — frequent recharging and resulting in short battery life. A costly, heavy-duty battery is no solution.

Your vehicle will always start easily because the battery will be used for starting only. And the battery will last much longer. L-N Alternator Systems generate ample current for the electrical load. POWER 2-WAY Radio and electrical accessories without battery troubles.

Illness, Starvation Stalk Northwest Haiti

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

Drought Brings Death

Agriculture is the backbone of the northwestern area of Haiti. Farm products need rain and this area has had no rain for many months. One brief shower caused the desperate farmers to plant the last of their seed. Now, even if it should rain, there can be no planting.

On the footsteps of the drought have followed the grim spectres of starvation and disease. Evelyn DeTardo of The Herald staff recently visited Haiti and here tells the grim story of what she found there.

PORT-DE-PAIX, Haiti — For the last 13 months northwest Haiti has been slowly drying up.

Illness and death are now taking its toll of the starvation-weak people.

A farming region, northwest Haiti exists on its production of bananas, coffee, beans, peanuts and grain. Normal rainfall in May varies from five to seven inches in this area. Last May not a single drop of rain fell.

Except for a brief shower in December, which encouraged farmers to mortgage their homes or borrow money for seed, they have had no rain for more than a year. The seed now lies dried and rotting in the ground.

Heads of families, already weak from starvation, have left the area in search of jobs, walking as far as 100 miles. Most do not find jobs and on their return find their wives or some of the children have died in their absence.

ONE FATHER, who left to sell charcoal for his starved wife, fell from weakness on the way. After resting a day and making the sale, he returned home to find his wife dead.

A WOMAN in the area took her youngest child and set off to beg, leaving two older ones with neighbors. The children left behind are not expected to live and the father, who went in search of work and food about two months ago, has not been heard from.

The Haitians' woes began with hurricane Hazel, which battered the area in 1954. The people have not been able to recover from the economic losses of the big wind.

Animals have been holding up better than people, but they are not expected to last much longer.

Donkeys' which used to sell for $12 to $14 are now being offered for $1 and $2. There are no buyers. No one has food for animals.

Farmers are starving and in debt. Merchants can no longer give credit as their customers are penniless and not buying or paying back.

A number of residents are too ashamed to leave their homes because their clothes have worn completely away and they have no money to buy new ones.

Marcel Cornet, French priest in the Jean Rabel parrish, fears a typhoid epidemic may decimate the famine stricken area. More than 200 have died already from lack of food and typhoid in that region, which has about 45,000 population. There is no estimate of the entire population in the northwest.

Father Cornet, touring the medical dispensaries in the hunger areas, said the medicine which exists is too expensive for the populace at cost, and many dispensaries even are out of aspirin.

At one dispensary they did not even have tea to give a young woman who had just given birth to a child. Instead they sent her out into the market to beg for food so she could come back and nurse her baby.

More than 2,000 persons are believed fled to the Bahama Islands from the drought stricken coastal areas in the northwest and from the island of Tortuga.

A Baptist Church in La Belle, which used to have a congregation of about 260 had an attendance of two on a recent Sunday.

A young boy, arms and legs like thin twigs sat shelling a handful of peas for lunch. His stomach was swollen like a balloon and his cheeks puffed from fever.

His father, Estilen Vital, was boiling green mangoes in a tin can. For a change of diet they sometimes bake the mangoes.

Vital's 15-year old son recently died of starvation. The only animal they have left is a pig, which, if there were any buyers, he would have sold for his son's funeral.

Haitian funerals generally require elaborate ceremonies. Without money, the dead are now being buried under the cover of night, without coffins.

The hopeless attitude of the people is appalling.

Some have written to the president, and have received no reply. "Only God can save us now," they say.

One farming family in Fond-La-Loi works all day Sunday weaving baskets. They are able to weave about five or six a day which once sold for one cent, or two for a penny.

They then walk to the market or 30 miles to Port de Paix without hope for a sale. "But it is something to do."

Everyone left in the area seems to have the same resignation. "If rain does not come we're all going to die. If it does come we'll just have to look at it because we have no more seed to plant."

Church World Service and Catholic Welfare Organization will have sent about 6,000 tons of food into the northwest by the end of the fiscal year in July.

Mrs. Charles Zellermayer, liason between the Episcopal Deanery of Women of South Florida and Haiti's Episcopal Church, said they plan to get together about 600 pounds of food at the minimum to send in. But even at this most families are lucky if they get one meal in a month.

And, if you don't happen to be a member of the congregation, you go without.

NEWS FROM AROUND LATIN AMERICA

Somoza Foes Active

Nicaraguan Group Wants Envoy's Scalp

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

POLITICAL enemies of the Somoza brothers who rule Nicaragua are demanding that U.S. Ambassador Thomas Whelan get out of their country.

SOUTHWORTH

A letter mailed to Whelan and signed by more than 50 distinguished leaders of the opposition accuses the ambassador of intervening in the internal affairs of Nicaragua.

The letter — a copy of which was mailed to The Herald—charges that Whelan has damaged the friendly relations between the two countries.

"It is sad," the letter states, "that the political forces of the opposition parties in Nicaragua to which we belong have lost all contact with the American Embassy...

"We believe that this change and the cold relations are due principally to your attitude for years, by words and deeds . . . of being too friendly with the dictatorship that oppresses Nicaragua . . . and by taking part in internal political matters."

WHELAN

LUIS

★ ★ ★

'Would Be in Best Interest'

THE LETTER adds that the interests of both countries would be served "if you will decide to step down from your high post."

A blue-eyed Irishman, Whelan was a wholesale potato buyer in the Dakotas before he became ambassador to Nicaragua eight years ago.

The Somoza family has ruled Nicaragua for more than 20 years. After the old soldier, Anastasio, was assassinated in 1956 his sons took over. Luis was educated in the U.S. and groomed to replace his father. Anastasio Jr. went to West Point and now runs the army.

Young Gen. Anastasio is spending his Easter vacation outside the country and President Luis scoffs at rumors that his land may soon be invaded by revolutionaries.

Nicaragua on the List

BUT THE SOMOZA BOYS know that dictatorship foes in Cuba, Venezuela and other Latin American countries have listed Nicaragua, the Dominican Republic and Paraguay as the only three dictatorships remaining in Latin America and have vowed their support of any attempt to overthrow them.

Last month Honduras and Nicaragua signed an agreement in Washington to prevent their territories from being used as bases for mounting revolutions against each other. Strong bands of rebels have been reported to be gathering on the border.

President Somoza says his government is in a position to "repel any armed attempt against it, whether it comes from inside or outside the country."

★ ★ ★

Two Already Have Resigned

LAST WEEK, Nicaraguan Ambassador Leonte Herdocia and Nicaraguan Minister-Counseller Otto Somarriba resigned their posts and were given diplomatic asylum by the Costa Rican government.

Herdocia and Somarriba said they could not continue to serve the government of Somoza because of its "outrages and excesses."

An expert political observer from Nicaragua visiting in Miami said the political opposition in Nicaragua is trying to find a peaceful way of easing the Somoza family out of power and conducting free elections.

BUENOS AIRES — The cost of living went up 9.1 per cent in the month of February, mostly in higher food prices. It was necessary to set higher prices in March for the financing of a gigantic dam and hydroelectric power plant at Chocon in northern Patagonia.

'Disease' Pointed Out

'Sick' Silver Dollars Used In Campaign on Inflation

HARTSVILLE, S.C.—(AP)—A. Lee M. Wiggins, former undersecretary of the Treasury, is dramatizing a personal fight against inflation by sending "sick" silver dollars to congressmen, financial writers, editors and others.

The 67-year-old, one-time president of the American Bankers Association said he is getting some results.

He said he has received replies from almost all the personal friends in House and Senate to whom he sent uncirculated 1923 silver dollars. And "all showed keen interest," he added.

The silver dollars were accompanied by notes which said:

"Although it has done no work in the 30-odd years of its existence, it has lost about one-half of its ability to do a day's work, or to buy goods and services.

"This dollar is ill from a disease called inflation. The further spread of this disease may destroy it. Effective remedies are well known. They can be administered by the American people."

About U.S. Life

Housewife Puts Colombia In the Know

By GIL SLOAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia — As the U. S. becomes more conscious of Latin America, these southern neighbors are discovering more and more about the country to the north.

Now, any native of Barranquilla (who reads the papers) not only knows, for example, that there are such places as Richmond, Ind.

They also are acquainted with the type of family life in such a smallish, quiet town.

It was addressed simply to "Barranquilla newspaper, Barranquilla, Colombia, South America." It appropriately was delivered to the paper whose editor has a good command of the English language.

It reads: Dear Sirs:—

"I have been reading an article written by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service. It tells about some of the things your people have learned about the life of an American in the U. S. I think maybe you have not heard enough of the average American Norte Americano).

"First of all, my husband is a World War II vet. He took advantage of G. I. schooling and became a teacher. He graduated with a B. S. degree from Ball State at Muncie, Ind.

"My husband has to drive rough country roads to teach in a country school that is 20 miles away. That is the reason for the second one.

"We have several radios, one working TV set, eight room house, full basement, oil furnace, two bathrooms, automatic washer and dryer and a nice small library.

"I do not dye my graying hair, my husband does not wear a toupee on his receding hair line. Our love is wonderful.

"Thank you for listening.

"Now in France . . . Bah!
Yours truly,
Mrs. Wm. E. Williams
202 Northwest

"P. S. Hasta luega. We hope to visit South America when the children grow up. Maybe we might meet then."

Hospital Gets New Name

Reorganization of Bel-Aire General Hospital, with a change of name to Community Hospital, effective Wednesday, was announced Saturday by Doug Eitel.

Eitel has been appointed administrator of the hospital by new owners, a group of businessmen who took over the 42-bed institution at 162 NE 49th St. recently.

EITEL

Eitel said that a contract will be let this week for renovation of the building. New furniture will be installed and all patients' rooms will be air-conditioned.

Complete medical and surgical service will be offered at the Community Hospital, Eitel said. As part of the renovation, a second operating room will be added. The medical staff now is being reorganized.

Originally named Edgewater, the hospital was founded in 1926.

Eitel has been assistant administrator at Variety Children's Hospital for about a year. He was assistant administrator of a 1,200-bed hospital in Puerto Rico for six months.

Math Expert Will Give 3 Lectures

Dr. J. L. Kelley, California mathematician, will give three talks here this week as part of a lecture tour sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America and the National Science Foundation.

He will discuss "The Nature of Mathematics" at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in a public lecture at the University of Miami Beaumont Hall.

At 4 p.m. Thursday he will speak on "Objects of Equal Size" before UM students and faculty in Room S-303 of Memorial Classroom Building and at 4 p.m. Friday in the same room he will conduct a conference of the mathematics department on "Linear Topological Spaces."

Forum Slated On Arthritis

An open forum on arthritis will be conducted at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Civic Association Building on Coral Sea Dr. in Cutler Ridge, under sponsorship of the Florida Chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

Dr. J. Francis Keeley Jr., medical chairman for Arthritis for Dade County, and Dr. Franz H. Stewart and Dr. Allen de Olazarra, members of the foundation's medical committee, will join in a panel discussion.

Organization of an Arthritis Club for South Dade County also will be discussed, and a flim, "Walk Without Fear," will be shown.

Youth Hall To Benefit

The Dade County Juvenile Council will have its ninth annual symphony concert at 8:30 p.m. April 8 as a benefit for juveniles at Youth Hall.

The council also will cite the Southwest Kiwanis Club for its work in aiding delinquents. The club put in 2,000 man hours in 1958 and raised $5,000 for the county youth.

The concert by the Miami Symphonic Society, directed by Billie O'Day, will be given in White Temple Methodist Church.

Home-for-Aged Week Readied

Jewish Home for the Aged Week will be observed by the Jewish community of the area, beginning Monday, and culminating with dedication ceremonies at the home, April 5.

A joint declaration proclaiming the observance has been issued by Aaron M. Kanner, president of the Greater Miami Jewish Federation, and Rabbi Joseph Narot, president of the Rabbinical Association of Greater Miami.

VFW Post Elects

John M. Ferguson has been elected commander of Miami Beach post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Other officers are Samuel Nebelkopf and Thomas M. Roney, vice commanders; Edward J. Campbell, quartermaster, and Charles F. (Chuck) Hall, three-year trustee.

Young Adults

Miami "Y" Young Adults will hear a report by Haskel Lazere, director of the American Jewish Appeal, on "Recent Developments on Integration in the South" Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. It will be sponsored by the Miami YMHA, 450 SW 16 Ave.

RUST STAINED walls and walks can be the result of free iron particles in the well water supply system. They are disheartening to the home owner.

Well Water Rust Now No Problem

"Why continue painting a house covered with rust stains caused by a sprinkler system throwing rust laden water when you know that in a very short time your home will again be stained by rust?" asks Dave Berman, manager of Miami Water Clinic.

"Before wasting more money on this unnecessary painting," he said, "the home owner should investigate the low cost and economical Rid-O-Rust Control System.

"Quite often, rust deposits become so heavy they clog entire distribution systems and sprinkler heads. This, naturally, would prevent effective operation of a sprinkler system.

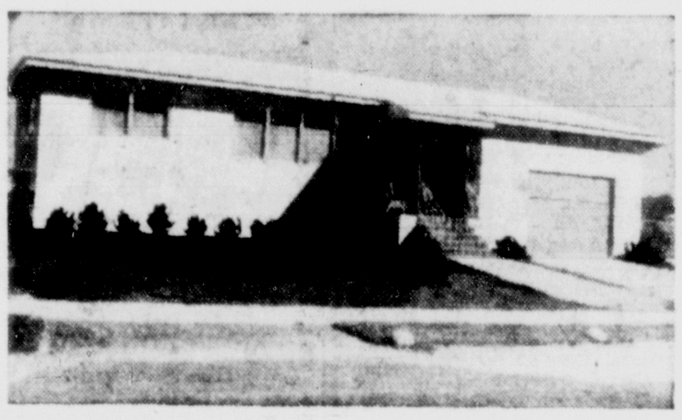
"The problem then is to treat the iron particles in the water in such a manner as to prevent them from turning to rust.

"This treatment is introduced into the water supply by means of a specially designed and patented feeder system and actually places the iron in solution. At the same time it improves the taste and purity of the water.

"The Rid-O-Rust Control System is entirely enclosed in an unbreakable fiberglass container. It can be installed easily on any well water system.

"Wherever water is used, its stability will be increased and rust and scale deposits eliminated through the use of the Rid-O-Rust treatment."

Further information about the Rid-O-Rust Control System and a free estimate may be obtained by visiting Miami Water Clinic at 965 SW Eighth St., or calling FRanklin 1-5202.



CLEAN WALLS and walks will stay rust-free where Rid-O-Rust Control System prevents the formation of stains. A special solution to remove rust stains from walls is available from Miami Water Clinic.

INTERNATIONALLY FAMOUS is The Hofbrau Haus, located on U.S. Route 1 in Hallandale, just south of Gulfstream racetrack. One of the largest and finest kitchens in Florida is maintained by this excellent, air conditioned dining place.

For many centuries Germany has enjoyed the reputation of being a country where cooking is a true art in every sense of the word. Tourists who have visited that land return to the United States singing the praises of German chefs.

While a trip to Germany would be a wonderful experience, there's no need to go there to savor authentic German cuisine, as many thousands of home folks and visitors alike will testify.

Just a few miles north of Miami, on Route 1 near Hallandale, (opposite Gulfstream racetrack) is The Hofbrau Haus, a world-famous restaurant that specializes in many different Bavarian dishes, as well as outstanding American food.

Wiener schnitzel a la holstein . . . sauerbraten . . . spring chicken saute a la chausseur . . . broiled lobster . . . steamed shrimp — these specialties and many more await you at The Hofbrau Haus, all delectable and genuine taste thrills.

Eight chefs, all trained in the European tradition of fine food, preside over one of the largest and finest kitchens in South Florida.

Diners favoring charcoal-broiled steaks and chops or a wide variety of seafood dishes also will be delighted with their selections. Incidentally, for the gourmand there's a popular "all you can eat" policy that goes along with the lobster or shrimp.

The most ordered dessert is that good old fashioned apple strudle with whipped cream, while true key lime pie is the second choice. Once you've sampled either one at The Hofbrau Haus, you'll understand the reason!

Popular prices prevail at this air conditioned eating place which is open daily and Sunday from noon to 10 p.m.

Ample free parking space is provided, with several doormen and runners to park and deliver your car without delay.

For Cars with Power Accessories . . .
The Answer to Your Battery Problems
An inadequate generating system is the basic cause of battery troubles. The increasing load of accessories takes more current out of the battery than a conventional d.c. generator can put back in. On vehicles, slow driving, long idling periods and short trips aggravate battery trouble. The result is a dead battery — frequent recharging and resulting in short battery life. A costly, heavy-duty battery is no solution.
Your vehicle will always start easily because the battery will be used for starting only. And the battery will last much longer. L-N Alternator Systems generate ample current for the electrical load. POWER 2-WAY Radio and electrical accessories without battery troubles.

Answers to Last Week's Puzzle

Across

1—It isn't often good for our peace of mind to talk about something that SADDENS us (Maddens). — Isn't often is too restrained with MADDENS, a strong term. SADDENS is better. Occasionally, talking about such a thing helps dispel the sadness.

3—Children are apt to express their dislike of a person BOLDLY (Baldly). — Apt understates with BALDLY; children usually speak in a frank and unadorned manner, because they are by nature unsubtle and direct of speech. They are only apt to speak BOLDLY, impudently.

6—Grousers usually imagine they have a lot of FOES (Woes). — Grousers, complainers, almost always have a lot of WOES, either real or imaginary. Otherwise, they'd not be grousers. Usually is better with FOES, as complainers somewhat less frequently attribute their WOES to FOES, enemies.

8—As a rule, country dwellers seem to be more HANDY than city residents (Hardy). — HANDY is better, because country dwellers are more used to improvising. HARDY, in the sense of bold, daring, courageous, is more open to question if used, here.

12—Dictates of fashion cause frequent striking changes in women's LOOKS (Locks). — LOCKS, hair, goes too far; note frequent striking changes. LOOKS, which might include locks, is more consistent with the reference to women in general.

13—A person who in conversation with us is TENSE is apt to make us feel uncomfortable (Tease). — TENSE is better because he is mentally or emotionally strained. TEASE is weak because much depends on whether his teasing is amiable or ill-natured.

14—Repression in childhood causes many a young person to seem PRIM (Prig). — Normally, repression in childhood will tend to crush individuality; and because of fear of doing the wrong thing, PRIM is better here. PRIG is less apt; a prig is a person who affects great propriety, to the annoyance of others.

15—It's often exasperating to have to listen to a pessimist's LOT (Rot.) — The word pessimist points to LOT. The lot of a pessimist is always a doleful one. As for ROT, it's exasperating to have to listen to anybody's ROT, nonsense.

Down

2—When we're in SOME difficulty it often helps us to discover our true friends (Sore). — The mildness of SOME fits well with the restraint of often. When we're in SORE, great, difficulty, it at least usually helps us to discover our true friends.

3—People are apt to be tiresome who seldom enjoy a game unless they make a BET on it (Bit). — Apt understates with BIT; then they play for the money rather than for the game. A BET might not be for money.

4—It usually makes a parent happy to give a child JOY (Toy). — TOY is weak, because the child might be too young to appreciate the TOY. Too, he might not like that particular TOY. JOY is better with usually. Not always, because giving of a particular JOY might sometimes be against a parent's inclinations, and thus he would not be happy.

5—Men are seldom deeply impressed by any woman's TASK. (Talk). — Because they're unacquainted with woman's work, they can't appreciate it until they've actually performed it. Men then soon change their minds. To use TALK to complete the statement makes it obviously wrong, because it's simply not true to life.

7—Warm-hearted people seldom feel an urge to SPITE anyone (Smite). — It's more ill-nature to SPITE someone than to SMITE, strike, someone, who might thoroughly deserve it. Note that the clue refers only to an urge and not to the action. Such people might often feel an urge to SMITE someone who deserves it.

9—A SLIP is often wounding to one's self-esteem (Slap). — A SLAP is more frequently than often wounding to one's self-esteem. Not necessarily so a SLIP, an error or mistake. There might be no observers.

10—As a rule, much tact is necessary to placate a DOUR person (Sour). — A DOUR person is fundamentally difficult to persuade or convince; he is obstinate and stubborn. SOUR means discontented, bitter; as a rule and much tact go rather far with this answer.

11—Weak characters are seldom able to make BEST of their troubles (Jest). — They're often lacking in purpose and make no effort to tackle their problems, merely treating them as a JEST. It's in keeping with their character that they are seldom able to make the BEST of their troubles by striving to remedy them.

Woman Is New Man-of-Year

WHITEWATER, Wis. — (AP) — Whitewater's "man of the year" award went to a woman. And because the winner wasn't a man, the award name was changed to "outstanding citizen."

Mrs. Roxa Pritichett was cited for her contribution to youth music education.

It's Better Here, Say Our Aliens

By ARTHUR JOHNSEY
Herald Staff Writer

Raw winds of politics as well as the less pleasant climates around the world have contributed to the makeup of the alien population in Florida this season.

Of the 74,164 aliens who reported their address as Florida during January, 21,675 were Cubans.

The alien registration was completed after 512 Cubans, under deportation proceedings here at the time Dictator Batista took to his heels, quickly packed up and went home voluntarily.

How many others in this state legally as visitors went home to greet Fidel Castro can only be surmised.

The count on those seeking political asylum from the Castro government is unavailable, too, but the political shift has been significant.

Aliens can be snowbirds, too. Many of those registering listed homelands in the colder climates around the globe. Others were from hot spots in the cold war. And some of the world's most remote spots were contributors.

Listing their states of residence in cold war trouble spots, past and present, were 623 from Hungary, 546 from the USSR, 101 Lebanese, 93 from Latvia, 416 from Finland, 4,153 from Germany, 804 from Poland, and 396 from Austria. Twenty-three listed Communist China and 182 Formosa.

Among the largest contributors to Florida's aliens was Canada, with 16,511.

Three came in from Liechtenstein and two from Nepal, but from Ghana, Laos and Yemen, nobody at all.

Meteor Test Suggested to Explain Life

LONDON — (UPI) — A scientist has suggested the launching of a meteor-catching satellite to test a theory that life arrived on earth from another star or planet by means of meteors.

Dr. M. H. Briggs of the Thomas More Institute in Montreal wrote in "Spaceflight," organ of the British Interplanetary Society, that it seemed probable some forms of life, bacteria spores for example, could survive the journey through space.

If such spores were found on meteors trapped by the recoverable satellite it would be "strong support" for the theory that life began on earth through the arrival of a meteorite although, he added, it would not absolutely prove it.

Briggs said it was possible man may turn out to be the offspring of another planet.

"Every time we look into a mirror we may be seeing a Martian," he theorized.

Busy at 93

TORRINGTON, Conn. — (AP) — Every day, despite the weather, Miss Julia Carroll arrives at St. Francis Church before 7 a.m. to play the church organ and act as choir director. In addition to playing for two regular masses each day she is on hand for evening services, weddings, funerals and frequent choir rehearsals. Miss Carroll will be 93 in May.

Ramac: It Keeps Books, Outwits Executives

Data Processing Machine Does Its Stuff
. . . Dave Crago and Howard Cutter ask questions, machine answers

Business-Finance
—Complete Market Tables
James Russell, Editor

By STAN JOHNSON
Herald Business Writer

Humming, clicking, and belching out ribbons of paper, the machine proved conclusively that it has a sharper eye for a profit than most of the $10,000 to $20,000-a-year executives who tried to compete with it.

Since International Business Machines brought its Ramac 305 computer here for demonstrations two weeks ago, only one man has managed to beat it.

A young mathematician from the Pratt & Whitney plant at West Palm Beach took the same set of figures supplied to the machine and came up with a more profitable production schedule for an imaginary paint factory.

He used his imagination.

The machine doesn't have an imagination. It can only work with information that has been stored in its magnetic "memory" discs. It cannot suppose.

Within its own area of capability, its makers say, no computer can be "beaten" by a human. It can only be excelled by a bigger, more powerful device of its own kind.

However, one computer like the Ramac can store from five to 20 million separate characters, make calculations in thousandths of a second, make elementary deductions, and print its answers at the rate of 80 to 100 lines per minute.

* * *

PROPERLY INFORMED, a computer can keep books for a business, storing information as it is received and giving it up when required.

IT CAN TELL a large department store what the effect on sales, expenses and profits will be if it remains open an extra hour each day.

IT CAN TELL a factory manager how many workers he needs to maintain production at a profitable level, and whether it is better to increase production by hiring more workers, or by putting existing workers on overtime.

Before the data processing system brought automation into the American office, large staffs of clerks and accountants spent days and sometimes weeks to supply the same kind of information.

These devices have created a new kind of office specialist — the systems man. He has become as important in the world of business as the engineer and physicist have in the world of science.

The systems man, or machine accountant as he is also called, decides what information should be given to a computer and how it should be stored.

* * *

HE IS AN expert at translating reports, records or complicated business transactions into a code which the computer can gobble up and tuck away in its storage department.

In Miami, about 300 businesses have some kind of data processing equipment, and at many of them systems men occupy top management spots.

They are comptrollers, and sometimes vice presidents, of banks, food stores, department stores, manufacturing companies and airlines.

An officer of a local bank who spent three months locating a specialist to set up a machine accounting operation thinks they are scarcer than atom scientists.

"If I were giving career advice to a high school graduating class, I'd tell them to go into data processing," he said. "It's becoming a tremendous thing."

However, the head of the machine accounting department at another local bank says technicians in his field generally earn less than engineers with the same amount of experience and training.

* * *

"THE BUSINESS machine companies have oversold their equipment and undersold the men who run them. As a result, salaries in this field aren't what they should be," he said.

The reference to "overselling" by the business machine companies is a common complaint among machine accountants.

They blame the manufacturers for the widely-held belief that data processing devices are primarily labor-saving devices; that the machines are designed to replace people.

If manufacturers once fostered this belief in their sales approaches, they are no longer doing so.

At the IBM office on Biscayne Blvd., where there's a "Think" sign on every desk and most of the walls, salesmen are reluctant to talk about the labor-saving advantages of their equipment.

"We don't present our machines in that light," said one salesman. "We emphasize their speed, convenience, accuracy, and the fact that they free clerical workers from monotonous tasks."

The Week in Finance

Wall St. Hoists Storm Flag But Weather's Fair

By THOMAS E. MULLANEY
The New York Times News Service

NEW YORK—The stock market continued to retreat this week from the record height it had achieved in mid-March. In contrast to the upward thrust, the pullback in prices and trading activity was at a more plodding pace.

There was no adverse financial or economic news to account for the contraction on Wall Street. The market's lethargy seemed merely to reflect the cautious mood that has enveloped investing lately.

While the stock market bloom was withering for the second successive week, spring was blossoming everywhere in the business world with still-expanding production and sales. A robust first-quarter is ending and an even more vigorous second quarter looms for the nation's business and industry.

* * *

Like the preceding week, prices of securities endured a sharp sell-off Monday then fluctuated narrowly in the remaining sessions, except for selected issues that responded to individual corporate developments and rumors. The exchanges were closed on Good Friday for the usual three-day Easter recess.

Although the market generally was lower for the week, some electronic, aircraft and chemical issues were fairly strong, as were the low-priced stocks.

With many investors evidently paying heed to the increased warnings of caution being hoisted by analysts, volume on the New York Stock Exchange fell to a daily average of 3,219,127 shares, against 4,322,548 in the preceding week.

* * *

Meanwhile, the week's ration of economic news was rather palatable. These were the highlights:

GOVERNMENT ECONOMISTS reported that the gross national product—output of goods and services—climbed $11 billion in the first quarter to a record $464 billion annual rate, with further gains in prospect.

MACHINE-TOOL ORDERS in February totaled $45 million, the highest in 18 months.

DEPARTMENT STORE SALES, aided by the early date of Easter, rose 17 per cent in the latest week from the year-ago figure.

AUTOMOTIVE PRODUCTION is still holding well above 1958 levels and sales in the first quarter are placed at 1.3 million units, or 23 per cent ahead of last year's depressed rate. However, about 16 per cent of current sales represents small-car purchases and half of that was for foreign models.

RAILROAD AND TRUCK FREIGHT volume again scored pronounced gains over a year ago, with rail loadings up 13.2 per cent and intercity truck handlings up 19.6 per cent.

* * *

While the nation's economic engine is rolling along smoothly into the second quarter, the specter of a steel strike at midyear and the fact that railroad labor contracts expire this fall, has caused apprehension.

President Eisenhower again appealed to steel management and labor this week to conduct bargaining "in such a way that the price is not compelled to go up." Despite his plea, business observers do not look for a settlement without a strike and eventual substantial increases in steel wages and prices.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the Treasury announced that its $4 billion cash borrowing was successful, with all three segments of the offering oversubscribed.

Lapidus Firm Changes Name

The architectural firm of Morris Lapidus and his associates has undergone a change of name to Morris Lapidus, Kornblath, Harle and Leibman. With the admission to this new status of Harold M. Liebman, the firm now has top management at the partnership level in each of its two offices—in New York City and Miami Beach.

Our Discs Are Making Friends

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The phonograph record is one of America's best cold war weapons.

Sales of phonograph records abroad have skyrocketed in the past six years, dwarfing even the sharp gain registered in the domestic market.

Sales of phonograph records in the United States totaled $420 million last year, an increase of 120 per cent over 1953. The sale of records in all other nations jumped 350 per cent during the same period to $350 million.

Virtually every American record company, including such major firms as RCA Victor, Columbia, Decca, and Capitol, now have some sort of licensing agreement with foreign record companies.

Industry spokesmen attribute the boom in American music overseas to improvements in record manufacturing and better distribution methods, plus the fact that millions abroad love things American.

D. C. Lynch, vice president and managing director of the RCA International Division, put it this way:

"Where it used to take a year or more for a hit record in America to become popular in Europe, Asia or Latin America, today hit tunes cross the oceans in a matter of days.

"The result is that American music and American artists have become influential ambassadors for the U.S. everywhere. It now is as common to hear an Elvis Presley tune on a jukebox in the Belgian Congo as in any teenage hangout in America."

Lynch noted that medical students in Moscow recently picked up Presley records broadcast by short wave and recorded them on the surface of old X-ray negatives.

On the other side of the world, American music has been enjoying a real boom in Japan, where many Tokyo coffee shops provide American records exclusively for their patrons.

Citrus Seer Sees Record Sales Ahead

LAKELAND — (AP) — The general manager of Florida Citrus Mutual predicts this will be the first quarter-billion-dollar year for the Florida citrus grower.

The forecast comes from Robert W. Rutledge, who has been accused of owning a crystal ball because of his accurate predictions.

Last year, for example, when many in the industry were moaning over the freezes that hit the crop, Rutledge said in March that growers would receive a record 200 million dollars-plus for the total on-tree crop.

Rutledge also predicted the average per-acre grower earnings for citrus this season will be about $400, compared with an average of $170 for the last 10 seasons.

In making this season's predictions, Rutledge said he is considering the fact that the 1958-59 orange crop — as was last year's — is relatively short because of the freezes. Thus, growers can demand higher prices.

But he also noted:

"It's simply this. The population of the United States is growing at about the rate of one whole Florida per year. As important, the disposable income of the country is increasing each year. These two factors — more people and more money — add up to more markets for Florida oranges, grapefruit and tangerines."

This 'And' Not Needed

Shareholders of American Title and Insurance Company have voted to delete the word "and" from the firm's name, making it American Title Insurance Company.

"The new name is more descriptive of the nature of the company's business," explained Jay R. Schwartz, president.

Profits Decline

General Dynamics Finds Space Age Feats Costly

NEW YORK —(AP)— General Dynamics Corp.—the company which built the four-ton Atlas satellite and two atomic submarines which cruised under the North Pole—reported its profit dropped sharply last year.

Heavy outlays to finance such space age feats, the company explained, helped clip profit potential. The company noted, for instance, about 24 million dollars was fed into a jet airliner program.

"As is true in every new venture," President Frank Pace Jr., commented, "serious problems and financial risks face us at the beginning, but the long-term potential is so great that the directors and I look forward with confidence to substantial profits in future years."

General Dynamic's 1958 sales and earnings, at that, stood second only to 1957's record results. Earnings came to $36,729,113, equal to $3.71 a share, down from the $44,278,763, or $4.80 a share, cleared in 1957.

At the close of 1958 General Dynamics had a backlog totaling more than two billion dollars against 1¾ billion dollars a year earlier.

World Markets Pass Us By

By ED KANDLIK

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

How They Outsell Us

OUR STEELMAKERS average $3.22 an hour. Germany's get 89 cents and Japan's 46 cents.

OUR COMPANIES must make $2.08 to keep $1 because of income taxes.

JAPAN CAN BUY our scrap, process it, ship it back and still make money.

CHICAGO — The United States, once the scourge of world trade with the outpouring of its low cost mass production factories, has become a lush market for foreign producers.

In autos, tractors, steel and oil, this nation once put the rest of the world to shame.

The tide of foreign oil was successively retarded by voluntary import controls and mandatory government controls, aided by a small tariff.

For some manufactured products this invasion of the United States has been slowed by the ability of foreign factories to produce. This market is so big foreign producers have had trouble getting a real hold on it.

Volkswagen for years limited the number of cars it would sell in the United States. It wanted to protect its other overseas markets. Now it is expanding.

* * *

U.S. DEMAND for foreign steel has become so avid the last several months that buyers abroad have driven prices up by 10 to 20 per cent.

Charges that the United States through its spiraling of wages and continued high postwar taxes is pricing itself out of world markets appear to be well substantiated by developments of the last six months.

U.S. products are not only being priced out of overseas markets but more and more foreign made items are being enabled to compete successfully in this market.

Hourly wage costs in the American steel industry now average about $3.22. In Germany they are slightly more than one-fourth as much—89 cents.

In Japan the steelworker gets 46 cents an hour. With such low cost labor the Japanese can buy scrap in the United States, ship it to their country for processing, ship it back and still sell at a profit.

In effect, they carry Newcastle coal back to Newcastle.

High taxes, both at the local and federal level, must not be overlooked as a factor in costs. To make up for inadequate depreciation charges in an inflationary economy, the large steel companies say they must make large profits. But they have to make $2.08 to keep $1 because of the 52 per cent federal income tax.

A look at the United States' 1958 export-import figures doesn't give much cause for alarm. Exports of $17.9 billion compared with imports of $12.8 billion leading to a so-called favorable trade balance of $5.1 billion. Of this favorable balance, about $1.5 billion was accounted for by foreign aid.

* * *

THE DROP OF $3 billion in 1958 exports is in part explained by an abnormally high level in 1957, when domestic oil was sent overseas to alleviate the Suez crisis.

But the total of imports went down only $200 million. They should have dropped more markedly.

The trouble is in manufactured goods, which long have comprised the vast proportion of U.S. dollar exports but have been a small, and at times almost negligible, proportion of our imports.

Many American manufacturers insist European plants are fully as efficient as ours for mass production purposes. While they use a higher percentage of labor, the American manufacturer admits he would do the same thing if he could obtain labor as cheaply.

Goodbye Cheap Toys

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BONN, Germany—Cheap toys are disappearing from the international market, say the sponsors of the annual toy fair in Nuernberg.

Firms which had costly and imaginative offerings did well at this year's showing, they say.

Expensive dolls also were preferred to their cheaper cousins. One expensive French line tripled its business this year.

Toy manufacturers, it was said, expect to score their biggest gains among "grown-up" customers.

In Britain

Will They Like Fruit?

TAMPA — (UPI) — The Florida Citrus Exchange will send one of its executives to London next month to watch British reaction to the first imports of Florida fresh grapefruit.

General Manager John T. Lesley said that James Samson, treasurer-comptroller of the exchange, will arrive in London April 1. He will arrive simultaneously with a large shipment of exchange fruit.

Samson and other Florida citrusmen will attend a British-American banquet being planned by the Florida Citrus Commission.

The fruit will be the first to arrive in England under a relaxed British import policy.

In Eight Years, Car Imports Multiplied

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

CHICAGO — U. S. auto manufacturers have been losing ground to foreign car makers since the early 1950s.

The losses are posted both at home and abroad. And they are getting worse each year.

For the first time in history, imported autos in 1957 exceeded exports. The 259,343 new cars imported here that year were nearly twice the total of exports. Only the year before — 1956 — exports exceeded imports by 63 per cent.

Last year the differential between imports and exports grew to such an extent that there was no contest. The 430,808 foreign cars shipped here in 1958 exceeded U. S. exports of 125,834 by 242 per cent.

The import figure was more than 10 per cent of U. S. production in 1958. This compares with two per cent of total U. S. production only three years ago and three-tenths of one per cent in 1950.

Why did imports rise in just eight years to more than 20 times their 1950 total?

Observers cite several reasons: Most imported cars are smaller, more economical to operate, easier to park and handle in traffic. Their design is conservative and generally unchanged over the years. Price is lower and the resale value considerably higher.

Contributing to the clamor is apparent consumer interest in the 1960 small cars expected to be introduced by the Big Three. Rising sales of six-cylinder cars over eights also illustrates a buying trend.

Why are American car exports slipping? L. L. Colbert, president of Chrysler Corp., summed up the situation this way:

"We can land a foreign car here cheaper than we can build one in the United States."

Flight for Legislators

A new Miami-Tallahassee flight especially for legislators and others traveling to the state capitol during the Florida Legislature starting April 7 will be inaugurated by Eastern Air Lines Wednesday.

Called "The Florida Statesman," the airliner will leave Miami daily Monday through Friday at 2:50 p.m. and leave Tallahassee for the return flight at 5:30 p.m.

"The new flight," said Ed Yarnell, district sales manager, "tied in with EAL flights already serving Tallahassee, will enable Miamians to fly to the capitol city in the morning in time for the opening of a day's session and fly back to Miami after a day's work."

All the shopping convenience of a charge account with the budget convenience of deferred payments. Depending on the amount you owe, your payments will vary—as your balance goes up or down, payments go up or down, as shown by the chart below:
If your monthly balance is: $10 to $60 | $60 to $90 | $90 to $120 | $120 to $150 | $150 to $200
Your payment for that month is: $10 | $15 | $20 | $25 | $35
YOUR STATEMENT INCLUDES A SMALL AMOUNT ADDED MONTHLY AS A CREDIT PRICE DIFFERENTIAL

When a housewife went shopping a few years ago, she took along a checkbook or a pocketful of money while her husband shuddered.

Today, she just makes sure she's got her charge plate. It will buy her practically anything she wants and her husband can take six months or longer to pay it off.

This is the era of revolving credit, a trend that has come a long way in a short time in American merchandising.

"It's a part of our way of life," said an official of Sears Roebuck, which started the whole thing several years ago.

In the Greater Miami area, according to one estimate, people are buying more than 40 million dollars worth of goods a year on revolving credit plans of one kind or another.

SEARS ALONE has 34,000 customers using its plan in three Southeast Florida stores. The average monthly payment per customer is $20.

Burdine's says its revolving credit plan, started last August, has been "a great success." It grew rapidly in customer acceptance and now is an established part of the firm's installment system of financing purchases.

Richards Jordan Marsh, Jackson-Byron's, and other stores have similar plans that enable a customer to set his own credit limit and buy goods up to that limit so long as he keeps making his monthly payments.

Some 800 smaller establishments in the area — covering everything from nuts and bolts to permanent waves — get in on the trend through the Pan American Bank charge plan.

Pan Am's 50,000 charge plan users buy millions of dollars worth of merchandise every year with revolving credit, paying for it in monthly installments that they themselves set. The bank collects both ways — six per cent of each purchase from the member store and one per cent a month on the customer's unpaid balance.

If the customer pays his account in full within 30 days, however, there's no service charge.

★ ★ ★

REVOLVING CREDIT has taken such a vigorous hold on the Miami consumer that the banks now are getting in on it in a big way. Four banks already have announced new quick-credit plans that let you write checks on borrowed money you can pay back in monthly installments.

The president of one, Charles Shewmake of Florida National, said frankly the idea "is to compete with the merchants' charge plans."

The banks say their quick-credit arrangements let the borrower pay for almost anything he wants — from refrigerators and toasters to taxes and hospital bills — without disclosing he's doing it on borrowed money.

Pan American Bank's multistore charge plan, in effect almost six years, has been used for things its creators never dreamed of.

A youngster whose dog got a fishhook caught in its mouth took the pooch to a veterinarian, who wound up getting paid through the charge plan. Some expectant parents paid an obstetrician the same way.

"We regard revolving credit as one of the best avenues for increasing our volume, providing services we were never able to give before, and offering customers an intelligent means of budgeting their needs," said a Sears Roebuck official here.

Sears estimates that 25 per cent of its total dollar volume of sales is handled through SRC (Sears Revolving Charge Account).

★ ★ ★

THE POPULARITY of revolving credit can be traced, said one department store official, to the modern desire for budgeting.

"Almost every family has a budget of some kind," he said, "and revolving credit lets a family set a buying limit and follow its budget."

Most of the department stores tack a 1½ per cent service charge on the outstanding monthly balance when you don't pay out the account in 30 days. So you're paying for the privilege of buying on credit.

"But you're able to get what you want when you need it," reminded one credit manager.

With the banks in on it now, the trend appears to be growing even bigger.

Pan American is aiming toward expansion of its charge plan so that a card from one Sottile group bank is good in an area where another in the bank group has a plan in effect.

SEC Official Says:

Green Co. Shortage May Halt Stock Deals

NEW YORK — (AP) — An apparent three-million-dollar shortage in the assets of the H. L. Green Co., huge variety store chain, may bring a halt in the trading of its stock.

Paul Windels Jr., regional administrator of the Securities and Exchange Commission, said trading in Green stock may be suspended before the New York Stock exchange opens Monday.

The stock closed Thursday at $37.87½ a share. It was the last day of trading before the three-day shut down for the Good Friday-Easter weekend.

Two directors of the Green company, which operates nearly 400 stores, many in the Southeast, said a March 11 audit showed "an apparent deficiency approaching three million dollars" in the firm's assets.

Just prior to the announcement, Maurice E. Olen, 35, president and a director, resigned his $49,600-a-year job. A short time later, Herschel Harris, vice president and a director, quit his $43-700-a-year job.

The Green directors, who reported the shortage during a news conference in Windels' office, were James M. Nicely, senior vice president of the First National City Bank of New York, and Joseph M. d'Assern, a partner in d'Assern & Co., a member of the New York Stock Exchange.

"This is the same sort of situation as the Musica scandal," Windels told newsmen after the announcement by Nicely and d'Assern, "but there's not as much money involved."

He referred to Philip Musica, also known as F. D. Coster, accused many years ago of swindling millions from one of the country's largest drug firms, McKesson & Robbins. Musica committed suicide in 1938.

Nicely and d'Assern said the apparent shortage stemmed from "an overstatement of inventory and an understatement of liabilities."

Olen and Harris made no comment on the Nicely-d'Assern statement but Murray Garfein, attorney for Olen said, "we are working very hard to finish arrangements for the deposit of sums to secure the H. L. Green Co. without any admission of specific liability in an effort fully to protect its stockholders."

How Do You Sell 'Against the Box'?

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. I would like to know just how "selling against the box" may be accomplished. Can you explain it? What effect does it have on a person's capital-gains taxes?

A. Selling against the box is a handy method used by investors who want to protect a "paper profit" long enough so that they will be able to turn it into a cash profit as a long-term capital gain.

Say you own 100 shares of XYZ stock. The value has risen from $20 a share at the time you bought it to $30 a share now. You have a paper profit of $1,000. But you won't have an actual profit until you sell and get the cash.

If you hold the stock less than six months and sell it, you will have to pay taxes on your profit at your regular income - tax rate. But the capital-gains tax on stocks (or any other capital asset) held six months or longer is only one-tax rate. The maximum capital-gains tax is 25 per cent.

DOYLE

So, if you have a paper profit, you naturally would like to keep the stock at least six months.

But suppose you have held the stock less than six months and you think that the price of XYZ stock may fall. You can protect your paper profit by selling short 100 shares of XYZ. When you do this, you borrow 100 XYZ shares to deliver to the buyer.

If XYZ drops in price, you lose money on the shares you hold but make an equal amount (less expenses) on your short sale. If XYZ goes up, you lose on the short sale but make money on the stocks you hold.

Q. I work for a subsidiary of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Over the years, I purchased AT&T stock everytime an offering was made to employees. The price to employees, in each case, was below the market price.

I sold all my stock last year. When I pay my taxes do I have to figure my profit on the difference between the price I paid for the stock and the price I received? Or do I only pay a tax on the difference between the market price at the time I bought it and the price I received?

A. AT&T has made quite a few offerings of securities to its employees. The tax treatment varies a bit because of this.

But, a good rule of thumb is this: You pay a capital-gains tax on the difference between the market price at the time you bought the stock and the price you received for it. You pay a straight income tax on the rest — the difference between the price you paid and the market price at the time you bought it. Both the capital-gains tax and the income tax are due for the year in which you sold the stock.

Sounds crazy, doesn't it? But that's the way these things go.

However, because of the difference in the terms of the various employees' stock offering, you would be very wise to get detailed information from the company. AT&T has been handling these things for a long time and can set you straight in a hurry.

Like most companies that offer stock to employees, it is happy to help solve tax problems. Besides, it's a good way to make sure you have your records (on purchase price, market price) correct.

Q. What makes the price of a stock go up or down? Who fixes the prices?

A. The price of a stock is determined by the old auction-market principle of supply and demand. When there is a big demand for a stock it will rise in price. When fewer people want to buy it, the stock's price will fall. Nobody "fixes" the price of a stock once it is on the open market.

That's it in a nutshell. But there's more to it than that. How big the demand will be depends on many things, such as a company's earnings, its outlook, the general economy, plus the mood of the investing and speculating public.

* * *

Q. Last year I bought four shares of American Telephone & Telegraph stock for my 17-year-old daughter. I know nothing about stocks. My son, who is a college student, said I made a poor investment. He wanted me to buy Skiatron Electronics & Television stock. Can you tell me anything about the stock?

A. First it should be explained that you invested wisely. Your son wanted you to speculate—how wise that would have been only time will tell. Skiatron is the hopeful of pay television. If everything goes right for it (it hasn't as yet) it could be a good thing. But its stock is still a very risky proposition.

Rains Hurt Citrus Crop

LAKELAND — (UPI) — A Florida Citrus Mutual official says recent heavy rains threaten the next citrus crop with fungus infection.

Dale Carlton, director of Mutual's grower relations division, said the threat of melanose on next season's crop is greater than it has been in many years.

Carlton said the fruit now on trees will not be affected.

Crash Coming? 'It's '29 Again'

CHICAGO — "It's 1929 all over again," the securities dealer lamented.

"I'm scared to death. I haven't bought any new issues for my personal account the last 12 months but toll road bonds and other tax exempts."

Head of the nation's largest securities underwriting firms, he was talking about the current mania to buy stock issues.

It has now reached the highest point since the "free riding" days of 1929. "Free riding" was the practice of entering a subscription for a stock issue and then selling the allotment of shares before the broker asked the customer to pay for them.

Free-riding in the old sense has been partly knocked out by regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

These require you to pay for the securities within seven days. But if you can "get in" on "hot" new issues you usually can scalp a profit in seven days. All you then have to do is send in a check to cover the payment and you get the funds back quite promptly.

The mania of speculation in new issues has taken a new turn. One broker complained they are being plagued by new customers wanting to open accounts.

They want accounts in as many houses as possible only so they can get preferential subscriptions on new issues.

Quick profits in new issues have brought in a flood of fast-buck boys. Securities dealers are alarmed about them because they are not bona fide buyers who intend to keep the shares allotted to them.

They are in-and-out boys. If a deal goes sour, they dump their holdings.

This tends to put an underwriter in a position where he may have to resell much of the original issue to preserve a semblance of stability in the market.

New issue buyers have been making money fast the last several months.

Chicago Aerial Industries Inc. stock, which came out at $15 a share Tuesday, was quoted $19.50 bid Wednesday.

Electro-Voice Inc. stock offered at $16 a share on Feb. 4 was $21½ bid Wednesday.

Desilu Productions Inc. stock hit the market at $10 a share on Dec. 4. It is now $23.

In the past they have always preceded a crash. Putting them together with knee-length skirts and bowler hats, brokers are moved to admit, it's 1929 all over again.

Beryllium — Light but Strong

New Metal for Jets And Missiles Ready

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

NEW YORK—A breakthrough in producing a new lightweight high-strength metal for jets, missiles and space vehicles has been announced here.

Although using beryllium in the last stage of a three-stage moon rocket would save an estimated 200,000 pounds of launching fuel, the brittleness of beryllium disqualified this metal until now.

The new forging process can eliminate excessive brittleness, Stoddard said. "We believe that for the first time, beryllium may now truly be considered a structural engineering material.

"It is anticipated that this will have far-reaching effects in propulsion systems, missile applications and space vehicles," he added.

Germans Jump For Government Stock

FRANKFURT, Germany — (UPI)— The federal government has started selling shares in the "Preussag" Corporation in its first attempt to denationalize public-owned industry.

The government is offering 145-mark ($34.52) shares in Preussag amounting to $7,140,000. Each purchaser is limited to five shares and only Germans are allowed to buy.

With its eye on the small shareholder, the government is allowing only persons with an annual income of less than $8,810 to buy shares. This income, however, is around double the average salary scale.

The demand was so heavy, banks reported, that it is probable only eight shares will soon be available for every ten buyers.

The only criticism from the banks was that the offering is far too small. While being offered at 145 marks, it is estimated that the free market value is 175 marks ($41.67) apiece.

Preussag, meanwhile, last year paid a seven per cent dividend and this will certainly be retained, or perhaps increased, in years to come.

And purchasers obviously consider they can't lose their money with a government-backed corporation.

In offering Preussag shares, it is believed the government is feeling the way towards later denationalization of the giant Volkswagen Company.

Volkswagen, while welcoming the government's intentions, has stipulated it will allow denationalization only if other carmakers are forbidden to purchase Volkswagen shares.

Government Bills Bring 3.3 Per Cent

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Treasury announced it will pay an average interest rate of 3.386 per cent on two billion dollars borrowed through a special auction of 289-day bills.

Lenders offered less than face value for the bills, the discount representing the effective rate of interest.

This issue is part of a four-billion-dollar borrowing completed with Friday's auction. Half a billion was raised through sale of 10-year, 4 per cent bonds, and the other 1.5 billion through 4-year, 4 per cent notes.

The special bill issue inaugurates a new cycle of securities to be sold regularly at auction. This is the second new bill cycle adapted by Treasury debt managers since last fall.

When the 289-day bills mature next Jan. 15, they will be replaced by one year bills sold at auction. According to the present plan, there will be a new one-year issue each January thereafter.

Next in Banking

M. M. Kimbrel, executive vice president of the First National Bank of Thomson, Ga., will address the Miami chapter of the American Institute of Banking at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the McAllister Hotel. His subject: "What's Next in Banking."

Gruen Due For Capital Boost

CINCINNATI, Ohio —(UPI) — Stockholders of Gruen Industries, Inc., have voted to give the firm a financial shot in the arm.

At a special meeting here, stockholders voted to approve a long-term 1.5-million-dollar convertible note issue to provide working capital for the company.

The 6 per cent subordinate notes will be due March 15, 1974, and are convertible into common stock at $3 a share.

a wealth of personal services

Which Mutual Fund Is Best for Income?
Which for Growth?

There are hundreds of Mutual Funds—all offer indirect ownership of a large number of securities; all offer professional management of those securities.

But which Mutual Fund is suitable for you? Some Funds are speculative; some conservative. Some pay dividends; some pay none. Some have better management records than others.

Our firm deals in all leading Mutual Funds—has a special Department devoted to helping investors select Mutual Funds. Get full information about the Fund or Funds which we believe suit you best. Mail the coupon below.

25th ANNIVERSARY CHASE FEDERAL

IN 1934
CHASE FEDERAL OPENED

...AND THAT SAME YEAR

FIRE GUTTED THE "MORRO CASTLE"

It was September 8, 1934, when tragedy struck the American luxury cruiseship "Morro Castle." Returning from Havana to New York, in a storm six miles off the New Jersey coast, a fire broke out before dawn. The holocaust resulted in a loss of 134 lives. The ship, still smoldering, was beached at Asbury Park and attracted thousands of viewers.

On the other side of the Atlantic, the same month marked a happier maritime occasion . . . the launching of the proud "S.S. Queen Mary" at Glasgow, Scotland. It was christened and named by Queen Mary of England herself. It was the fastest ocean liner of her day and held the speed record for trans-Atlantic crossings until 1952.

This was the year—1934—that Chase Federal opened on Miami Beach. The country was just digging out of the Great Depression. It was a time for hope, but not undue optimism. Few among the 150,000 residents of Greater Miami had the courage to dream that within 25 years a prosperous community would be reaching toward a million population.

Through a quarter of a century of economic changes, Chase Federal has grown with Greater Miami—has invested upward of 124 million dollars in first mortgages on homes—and will continue to do its share in shaping Greater Miami's fabulous future.

A STATEMENT OF POLICY BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF MIAMI

In response to a number of inquiries regarding our attitude toward "new" variations in the field of installment lending, we feel it is important to state our basic policies:

1. To provide all types of loans to credit-worthy people for any sound purpose.
2. To assist the people of this community in obtaining the things they need, when they need them, within the limits of what they can afford.
3. To assist people in acquiring worth rather than debt.
4. To provide trained counseling services to anyone with a financial problem.
5. To lend and invest our depositors funds conservatively and constructively.

To these policies we are dedicated.

The First National Bank of Miami will continue to add new installment lending services when it is felt they are in the best interest of our customers and are based on sound banking and prudent judgment. It is our objective to meet the credit needs of Miami adequately, imaginatively and soundly. To this end we have assisted the equivalent of one out of every two Miami families, having made in excess of 160,000 installment loans.

We will continue to meet the legitimate credit needs of this community which we have served for more than half a century.

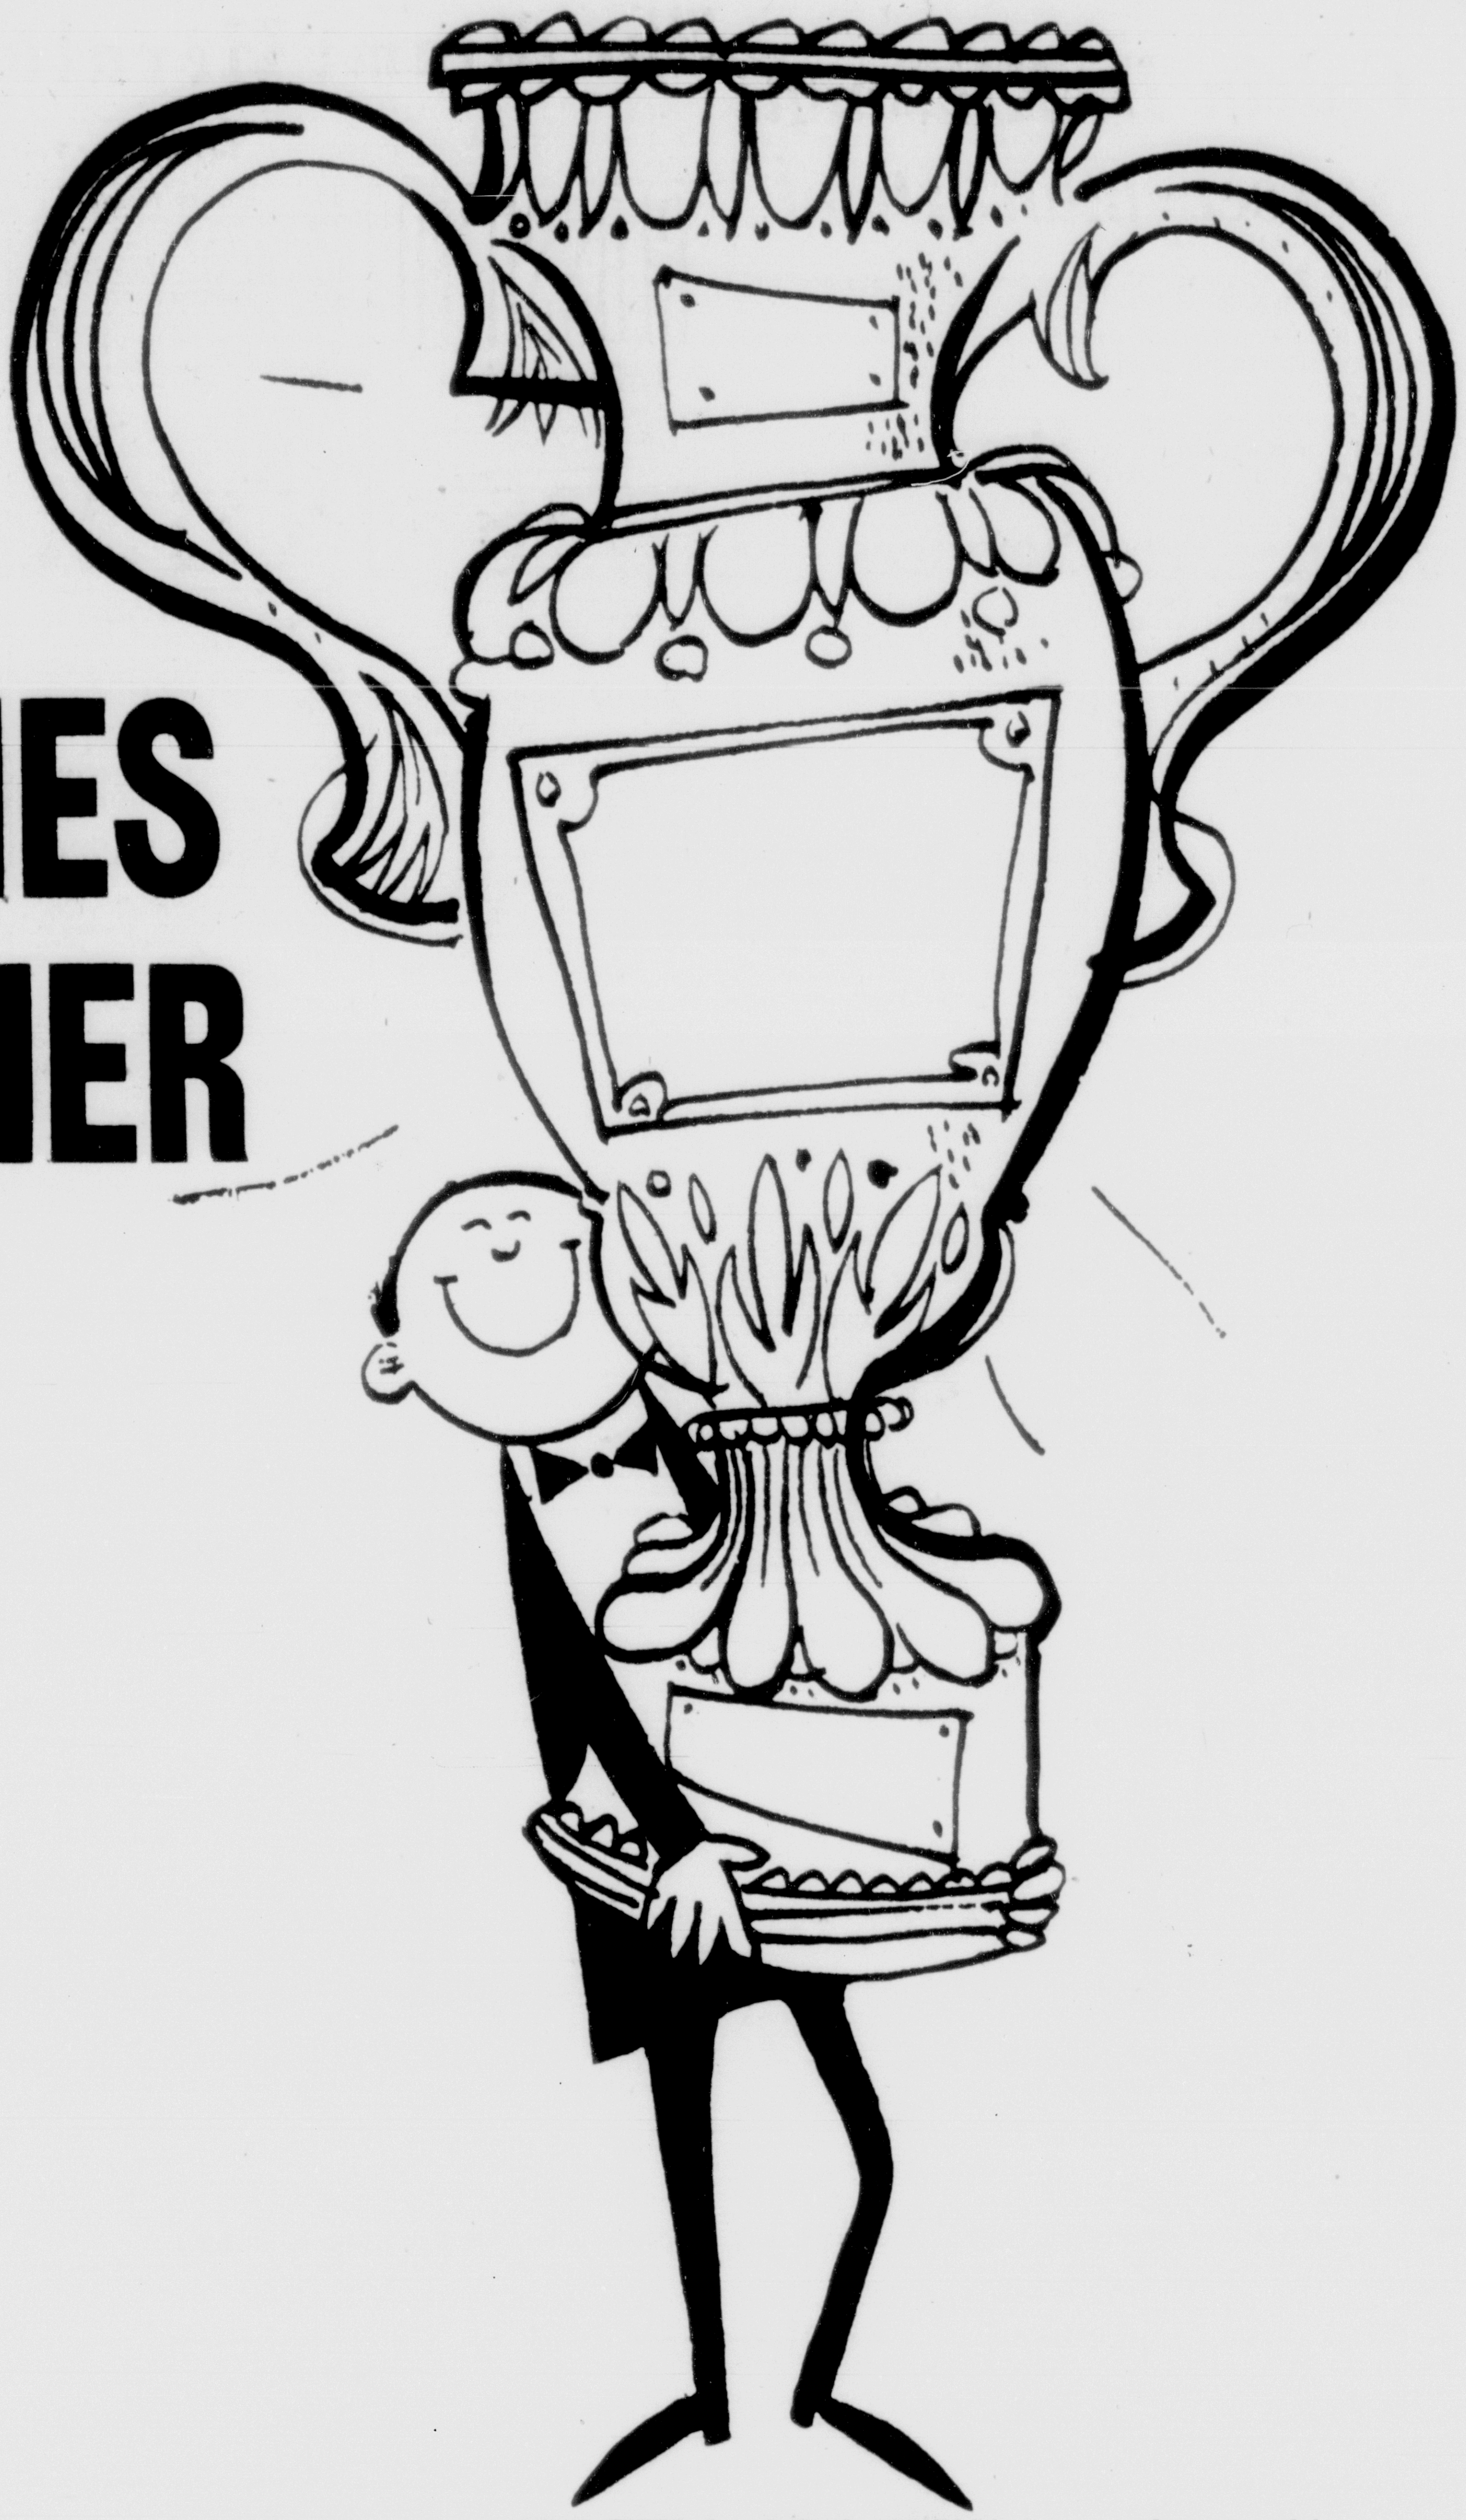
69 TIMES A WINNER



In winning the coveted FIRST PRIZE for PUBLIC SERVICE* for a series of articles on the Insurance Lawsuit Racket, The Herald for the 69th time in the past 12 years has carried off high honors in state-wide competition . . . with more citations than any other Florida newspaper has ever received.

The widely-read articles exposed a primary cause for the rising cost of automobile insurance. They were written by Joy Reese Shaw.

Other awards that added to The Herald's total were:

FIRST PRIZE for the best Page One newspaper makeup, awarded to Charles Ward. The contest judge called it "an easy, light, well-balanced page that's almost impossible to fault." It was the fifth time in the last six years that The Herald has been cited for the most effective Front Page in the state.

FIRST PRIZE for the best spot news reporting, awarded to Larry Thompson, James Buchanan and Gene Miller who worked as a team in reporting the Braniff Airline crash in Miami in 1958.

SECOND PLACE in the Feature Writing competition, won by James Buchanan for a series of on-the-spot stories with Raul Castro's rebel forces in the mountains of Cuba.

THIRD PLACE in the Sports Writing competition, won by Mel Derrick for his colorful story about the late Willie Hoppe, longtime billiard king.

On The Herald's staff are many men and women who have earned outstanding recognition. Their combined talents and capacities make The Herald the completely satisfying and influential newspaper that it is.

WHOA, THERE! What are two stone horses doing peering out of this third-story window in Cologne, Germany? Legend has it that a one-time owner of the house, despairing of his wife's life as she lay near death, exclaimed that horses might climb the stairs before he would believe in his wife's recovery. His wife recovered, and her grateful husband had the horses heads carved in stone and placed outside the window.

INSIDE YOUR COURTHOUSE

by C. G. BERNING and LEO ADDE.

Kunde's Road Hopes Really Not Fantastic

When Metro Traffic Engineer George Kunde last week called for one billion dollars in new county roads by 1975 (exclusive of expressways), the first reaction of many courthouse officials was that the program is too staggering to merit serious consideration.

The fact is, however, that the county could finance as much of the Kunde plan as the Metro Commission decides to accept. Two big revenue sources: General obligation bonds and the five-mill road and bridge fund.

Dade now has $32,098,000 in general obligation bonds outstanding. Florida law sets no limitation on issuance of these certificates, saying only that bond floating should be "reasonable" and "not abused."

In states where there is a legal limitation, 10 per cent of assessed property valuation is a common figure. At current assessment figures, Dade could reasonably float up to 300 million dollars in new bonds.

The trick would be persuading more than half the registered voters to turn out and approve the issue — the device Florida uses in lieu of a bond ceiling to keep bonded indebtedness within sensible bounds.

The county may tax up to five mills for roads and bridges. It isn't levying any of this tax now. At current rates, this source would produce some $3,750,000 a year.

Half would have to be turned over to Dade municipalities for ther use. But with Metro overseeing the whole roads program, all segments could be tied together.

As the Metro Commission debates road requirements, the big point at issue will be whether there are any financial resources to tap.

Davis Scolding Could Help Out

County Attorney Darrey A. Davis' mild scolding of the Metro Commission and county administration for their mutually stand-offish attitudes could have a beneficial effect. No official in the courthouse is more highly regarded for levelheadedness and patient wisdom.

The Metro "team" is fitted out with the best equipment, Davis said, and its excellent personnel has the benefit of superb coaching. But, sadly, Metro has no schedule to play.

Metro Agenda Runs 4 Pages

The Metro Commission's agenda for this Tuesday's meeting is the longest so far—four legal-sized pages. Likely hot debate topic: Creation of a new county publicity section, tied in with Miami's existing setup. Metro's $27,000 contract with politically-influential Hoite Agey and Dick Troxel for part-time drumbeating has six months to run.

* * *

Economy Wave Snowballing

A wave of economy hit the county manager's new offices on the ninth floor of the courthouse after word got around that workmen were installing a miniature kitchen, complete with sink. County Manager O. W. Campbell picked up discarded carpeting from remodeled circuit judges' offices, resulting in a patchwork of carpet colors that would drive interior decorators to tears.

The new luxurious-looking wood paneling actually represents an economy move. Cost of plastering the suite's walls would have been $7,000. The paneling is a $3,000 item.

Leatherman's Moving Out

Circuit Court Clerk E. G. "Buck" Leatherman, planning to retire at the end of his present term next year, really will be removing himself far from the hubbub of Metro activities. He is building a house at quietly peaceful Lake Placid in Highlands County.

'First-Glass' Reason to Sue

Particular precaution was taken to protect courthouse visitors from walking through the new plate-glass storm doors at both the north and south entrances. Aluminum bars on both sides of the glass doors cut the illusion of emptiness.

Many a suit has been filed in the courthouse by persons who were injured by walking through similar doors in other public buildings.

Plate-glass panels on both sides of the entrances however, are not marked—and some day, courthouse people fear, someone in a hurry will bump right on through.

The latest such suit was by a Miami Beach hotel guest who walked through a glass partition between the lobby and pool.

Services Monday

Calvin D. Kinsman, Nurseryman, Dead

He lived at 3315 NW 46th St., and came to Miami 35 years ago from Austin, Minn.

He was owner and operator of the Kinsman Nursery and was a charter member of the Miami Springs Rotary Club.

He was a former president of the Florida State Florists Association and had been a member of the American and Southern Nurserymen Associations.

Surviving are his wife, May J.; a daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Heap, Burlington, Iowa; a son, Dr. Calvin T. Kinsman, South Miami; two sisters, including Dr. Linnie K. Black, South Miami, and four grandchildren.

Services will be at 1 p.m. Monday in Combs' Coral Gables chapel, with burial in Woodlawn Park Cemetery.

Alaska Talk Slated Here

Ernest Gruening, first U.S. senator from Alaska, will talk here April 2 at a dinner honoring Sam C. Levenson, president of Temple Israel.

GRUENING

He will discuss "The Prospects of Our Northern Territory" during the testimonial event in the temple's Wolfson auditorium.

Sen. Gruening's analysis will be drawn from his experience as director of the Division of Territories and Island Possessions from 1934 to 1939, and his journalistic background.

In addition to editing many publications, he is author of "The State of Alaska" and several other books.

Search Pressed For Death Car

Police and volunteer divers Saturday unsuccessfully combed four Greater Miami lakes and a half-dozen rock pits in a renewed search to find the car in which airline clerk Mary Meslener was believed murdered Feb. 22.

"It's almost like looking for the needle in the proverbial haystack," said Metro Homicide Sgt. Pat Gallagher who directed the all-day hunts.

He said he still believes a murky pit of water is hiding Mrs. Meslener's missing 1958 Nash Rambler.

But so far, he admitted, "we have come up with nothing new" toward solving the month-old slaying of the red-headed, 23-year-old woman. Her body was found on the bank of the Miami River, near NW South River Dr. and 75th Ave.

Mother Keeps News From Her

Gay Cinderella Dances Unaware Dad Is Dead

NEW YORK — (UPI) — A pretty 13-year-old ballerina danced the role of Cinderella for the Perry Como television show Saturday, unaware that when the ball was over, she would be told her father was dead.

Sharon Lerit's father, Sanford, 43, died in a Newark, N.J., hospital Friday night. He had been ill 10 years and in a hospital for 11 weeks. But Sharon's mother, Florence, decided to bear her grief alone, until after Sharon had appeared before a nationwide television audience.

SHARON

The members of the cast and others associated with Como show kept silent about Sharon's loss, so her mother could break the news to her after she returned home to Newark Saturday night.

The news was kept from Como, too. His associates said they had drawn a curtain of silence to keep Sharon's loss from him because it would upset him to know.

"He's a softy," a source close to Como said. "If he knew about it, he'd take her off the show to spare her from the possibility of being hurt."

The Como show on the National Broadcasting Co. television network, was in rehearsal throughout the day, and Sharon did not miss a step.

Everyone tried to treat her as though nothing had happened, but it was difficult with a score of reporters and photographers clamoring for photographs of the little Cinderella.

"We are sure she doesn't know her father is dead," a program official said. "She has been very excited over her chance to be a TV star. It is difficult for us to treat her as though nothing were wrong, but we have really worked at it."

Sharon, an eighth grade pupil who looks like a miniature version of the famous ballerina Maria Tallchief, wants to be a ballet dancer when she grows up.

She danced the Cinderella role in Como's Easter show last year, and was invited for a return engagement as the prima ballerina of a troupe of 12 little girls from the New York City Ballet School.

"I'm sure her father would have wanted her to go through with it," Mrs. Lerit said.

MOVERS NEEDED!
Would you like to earn an average of $1,000 per month? Many successful van operators do this regularly driving for Aero Mayflower Transit Co., Inc., under 48-state contract. "I net over $1,000 per month, have paid for two tractors, own a new car, new household furniture, and have built up a nice bank account since joining Mayflower's contract fleet in 1953," says George Robinson. We are expanding Mayflower's service and need additional van operators 25 years or older to go into business for themselves with Mayflower. We furnish company paid training, if needed, at no cost. All you need is desire to become independent businessman and a 1957 or newer model tractor titled in your name that meets Interstate Commerce Commission safety requirements. Personal references needed. Write Jack Adams, P.O. Box 107, Indianapolis 6, Indiana.

SHOW HOME

HERE is the last word in modern home building accomplishment. No expense has been spared in architecture, engineering, and decorating. As you enter you will be impressed by a sense of quality and completeness, from the white tile floors in the living area to the decorator selected light fixtures. The basic requirements have not been slighted either, with 400 Amp electrical service, well and pump for the oversized pool and sprinkler systems, and separate central heat and air conditioning. The "Mutchler" kitchen is something you have seen only in the magazines. And the 4 baths are works of art in tile and color. To complete all of this it is located in a walled estate area. Just off Old Cutler at Davis Road ½ mile South of Sunset. Sure, its expensive but drop by anyway, just to see it.

QUALITY BOATS
NO BOAT is better than its frames and fastenings. Stem, keel, stringers, gussets and frames must be strong enough to withstand years of pounding of seas, motors and trailer hauling. Fastenings must be inspected before a boat is painted. A paint job can cover a multitude of inadequacies. For superlative construction details, come in and inspect RAY BOND (Cuda Craft) BOATS 2410 S.W. 27th St. (U.S. 1 at 24th Ave.)

WHEN YOU NEED A LOAN

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN MIAMI!

THE NEW METROPOLITAN REDI-CREDIT CHECK PLAN

Metropolitan Bank is proud to be first in Miami to offer this new low cost banking service. It has already been successfully introduced in many cities throughout the nation—in fact because of its simplicity and convenience, it is sweeping the country!

HERE'S HOW YOU USE REDI-CREDIT:

1. Make your application to Metropolitan Bank.

2. Simply decide how much you can afford to pay the bank each month. Multiply that figure by 20. This will give you the maximum credit you may establish under Metropolitan's Redi-Credit system.

3. Upon approval of your maximum credit you will be given free of charge a book of personalized Metropolitan Redi-Credit checks.

4. These checks may be used in payment for any purchase you make; just as you would use a personal check. You may use part or all of your maximum credit whenever you wish and for whatever you wish.

5. Cost of Metropolitan Redi-Credit is only 5/6 of 1 percent per month on the outstanding balance plus a charge of 25 cents per check. You pay charges only on what you use—no loan, no cost. There is no charge for opening a Metropolitan Redi-Credit account.

6. Your loan will be covered at no cost to you with life insurance up to age 65 on your Metropolitan Redi-Credit account.

7. No charges are made until you decide to make use of your Metropolitan Redi-Credit account.

8. Regular monthly payments reduce your loan and at the same time increase the amount of credit available for your future use. You may apply at any time to have your maximum credit increased.

ADVANTAGES OF METROPOLITAN REDI-CREDIT

ECONOMICAL—No charge until you use your first check. Pay interest only on the amount used.

CONVENIENT—Spend only what you want, when you want and where you want.

LIFE INSURANCE—Covers liability on your account free of charge.

FREE CHECKS—Your name imprinted on checks which look like all other checks.

MONTHLY STATEMENTS—Indicate checks issued, balance due, interest and available credit.

AVAILABLE—To almost everyone between ages of 21 and 65.

Who's Marciano?

Bonnie Riegel (right) and Vikki Ricciardelli pay no attention to former World Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano as they trade leather in a Police Athletic League "Kid Gloves" bout Saturday morning. The seven-year-olds clashed in one of nine fights held in the North Miami Armory. Bonnie won the decision, without damage to opponent or self. (Story on Page 6D).

Floyd's Match Reset

GOTEBORG, Sweden —(AP)— Floyd Patterson will defend his world heavyweight boxing title against Ingemar Johansson of Sweden in New York on Thursday, June 25, promoter Bill Rosensohn said Saturday.

He made the announcement shortly after arrival from New York. The decision was reached following a conference with Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's advisor. Previously, June 23 had been the suggested date.

Rosensohn did not specify the exact site of the bout except to say that it would be in New York. Yankee Stadium is available from June 21 until July 3. He also has an option on the Polo Grounds.

Johansson, European heavyweight champion, plans to come to the United States in mid-April for his final training sessions. He has not yet picked his camp.

Rosensohn said that Patterson first would defend his title against Brian London, former British Empire champ, in Las Vegas, Nev., probably on May 1 and rated the match "an ideal tuneup for Patterson's bigger bout."

250 Fans Brave Drizzle

Marlins Whip Pappas, O's, 8-3

By LUTHER EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

With a printer (Knobby Rosa) and a plumber (George Wehmeyer) in their injury-stripped lineup, Miami's Marlins made Baltimore's springtime baseball champs look like chumps Saturday night at Miami Stadium.

Aided no little for seven innings by the borrowed right arm of veteran George Bamberger, the Marlins surprised a smattering of 250 fans, the Orioles and probably themselves by breezing to an 8-3 victory.

It was only the third victory in seven starts for the Marlins, who can't beat minor leaguers.

It was only the sixth defeat in 16 games for the Orioles, who can't beat minor leaguers either.

Today the drizzle-pelted teams will go their separate ways.

The Orioles will pit Hoyt Wilhelm and others against the Pittsburgh Pirates' Harvey Haddix and Elroy Face in a 2 p.m. match at Miami Stadium.

Manager Pepper Martin will send his patchwork clan against its two-time conquerors, the Dallas Rangers of the American Association in an 8 p.m. affair at Miami Beach's Flamingo Park.

Late working hours Friday forced Rosa and Wehmeyer, both former Class B operatives under Martin, to be AWOL as Miami surrendered to Indianapolis. The Orioles probably wish they hadn't shown up Saturday night.

Each played an integral role as Bamberger and rookie Herm Starette out-pitched golden-armed Milt Pappas, Jerry Walker and Rolf Scheel, officially on Miami's roster.

Rosa had two singles and scored twice while successfully handling three of his four fielding chances at second.

Wehmeyer contributed a single, scored once and performed flawlessly in six defensive opportunities at shortstop.

Pappas, 10-10 last season as an American League freshman, had a 3-1 lead when the sixth inning arrived. He retired at its completion on the short end of a 5-3 stick.

Young Californian Equals World Shot Put Record

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—(AP)— Dallas Long, blond giant from the University of Southern California, Saturday equalled the world shot put record as record holder Parry O'Brien finished third in the Easter Relays.

Long, O'Brien and ex-Kansas star Bill Nieder all threw the 16-pound iron ball over 62 feet.

O'Brien, ex-USC star, hurled the shot 62¼. It was his first defeat since Ken Bantum of Manhattan College bested him in the 1956 National AAU meet.

Nieder did 62 feet, 9 inches.

Meet officials said Long's toss will be submitted for a world record.

Medicine? 'King's Romp the Greatest'

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

One-Eyed King came from behind Saturday to win Gulfstream's $28,450 Donn Handicap and help speed the recovery of Cain Hoy Stable Trainer Woody Stephens from a virus attack.

"That's the best medicine I've had," said Stephens, who was released from a hospital just last Thursday after five days of treatment.

Owner Harry Guggenheim was pleased, too. He had flown down from New York just to see the race and he cheerfully agreed that "this victory made the trip worthwhile."

Third — but not least — among Saturday's satisfied people was winning Jockey John Sellers.

"I never rode with more confidence," he said. "One-Eyed King was a beautifully trained horse. When we got to the front, he tried to loaf, but I hit him once and we kept going. Except for that loafing we might have set a record."

"He was a tough luck colt and we doubted if we'd ever get him to the races," added Guggenheim. "When he was a two-year-old, One-Eyed King ran into a fence and injured his knee. Fortunately, he didn't break anything."

One-Eyed King Demotes 'General'

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Cain Hoy Stable's One-Eyed King, given expert guidance by Johnny Sellers, won Gulfstream Park's $28,450 Donn Handicap on the turf by three widening lengths over Hasty House Farm's Ekaba Saturday.

Brae Burn Farm's General Arthur, favored at 7-5, finished third, two lengths behind Ekaba in the eight-horse field.

One-Eyed King covered the mile and a half on the grass in 2:25.4, only two-fifths of a second off the world record. St. Vincent set the world mark in 1955 at Santa Anita on a course which is downgrade for about half a mile.

The winner paid $7, $3.50 and $2.50. Ekaba, coupled in the Hasty House entry with Aysha, returned $3.50 and $2.40. General Arthur was $2.40 to show.

A crowd of 16,793 witnessed the proceedings in overcast but comfortable weather. They wagered a total of $1,528,029.

As expected, Aysha set the pace with her stablemate, Ekaba, leading General Arthur and One-Eyed King in that order for the first mile. Mariners Guide, Trasgo, Point of Order and Firesickle were well to the rear.

As Aysha began to weaken under Lois Cook, Bill Harmatz sent Ekaba to the lead. At the same time, Sellers moved with One-Eyed King. The Cain Hoy horse went up on the outside to pass General Arthur and took command from Ekaba on the turn for home.

Bill Hartack sent General Arthur along the hedge in the drive, but the General couldn't gain ground under his burden of 126 pounds. One-Eyed King was carrying 116; Ekaba 117.

Trasgo was a distant fourth and none of the others threatened.

It was an unrewarding afternoon for Hartack's followers. The 27-year-old jockey rode eight horses, but failed to reach the winner's circle. Five of his mounts were favored.

For Sellers, it was a most happy day. The Oklahoma lad banged home Long Sword ($8.20) and Day Court ($6.40) in addition to One-Eyed King. Long Sword had the distinction of being Saturday's lone public favorite to reach home on the front end.

Ron Delany Wins Mile In 4:06.4

CHICAGO —(AP)— Ron Delany burst ahead of Penn State's Ed Moran on the last lap Saturday night to win the Bankers Mile of the Chicago Relays in 4:06.4. It was the Irishman's 34th straight mile triumph and his third in the meet to retire the trophy.

It was Delany's fifth poorest time of the season. His others were 4:08.3, 4:06.5, 4:07.1 and 4:06.6 last week.

The quarter times were :61; 2:05.1 and 3:07.5.

Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan repeated as the 60-yard high hurdles champion, matching the American Indoor record of :07.

For the third straight year, Ira Murchison flashed to victory in the 50-yard dash. He finished about two feet ahead of Penn State's Bob Brown in :05.2. The time duplicated the meet record.

D. Rathman Hits 173.21 At Daytona

His average, which clinched the pole position, was slightly faster than the 173.01 practice run Friday around the 2½-mile banked Daytona International Speedway.

Rathman's qualifying time set a record, bettering the 171.82 by Marshall Teague of Daytona Beach on Feb. 9—two days before he was killed in a Sumar Special.

Jim Rathmann, Dick's brother from Miami, turned in the second best speed Saturday in a Simonz Special at 172.01. Roger Ward of Los Angeles, in a Leader Card Special was third at 171.03.

In all, eight drivers qualified Saturday out of an entry list of 26. Strong gusts of wind kept down the speeds.

Qualifying runs will continue today and Thursday for the 100-mile event sanctioned by the U.S. Auto Club and FIA.

Vertex Breezes Home In Hundred-Grander

BOWIE, Md. —(AP)— Vertex, a fragile-legged horse, turned into a well-heeled one by easily winning the John B. Campbell Handicap for his second Saturday $100,000 victory in a week.

His profit of $74,595, added to last Saturday's fist prize in the Gulfstream Park Handicap, gave the 5-year-old chestnut total paychecks of $153,743 in eight days.

Vertex, owned by J. J. Brunetti and F. A. Piarulli, is only the second thoroughbred in history to win two hundred-grand races in such a short span. The first was Round Table in 1957, who won the Hollywood Gold Cup and Westerner.

Only doubt cast on Vertex Saturday was at the end, when Jockey Walter Blum on runner-up Backbone claimed he was fouled by Vertex as they raced head and head entering the backstretch.

Vertex subsequently pulled away to win by six lengths, and the judges disallowed Blum's foul claim.

As a result, Vertex rewarded them at only $3.80, $3.20 and $2.20. Boncrist Farm's Backbone returned $6.60 and $4.20, while third place Talent Show, owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice, paid $5.60.

Vertex, who has had frequent leg trouble including loss of part of a hoof, ran as sound as an old dollar in covering the mile and a sixteenth in 1:43 1-5.

He was carrying 124 pounds, ranging from seven to 14 more than any of his nine rivals. A week ago he won at Gulfstream carrying 125 pounds for a mile and a quarter.

It was the third victory in four races for Vertex this year. He would up his 1958 campaign with a triumph in the Pimlico Special the day before his sire, The Rhymer, was burned to death.

Silberman Dreaming Of Lighted Tropical Park

PRESIDENT SAUL SILBERMAN of Tropical Park must be allergic to daylight. Squinting at the sunshine flooding Gulfstream Park's infield Friday; Silberman allowed he still thinks night flat racing would be a good thing for his track.

"They're talking about harness racing," Silberman snapped with the disgust of a thoroughbred addict for trotters. "If they want racing at night, why not let me light up Tropical? It wouldn't cost over $300,000."

Actually the desire for harness racing appears to be limited to an out-of-state group which will try to open the gates by having a Pompano track legalized by the legislature.

A couple of weeks back the talk was the boys would succeed. The latest dope is they'll be tossed for a loss. Many people agree with President Jimmy Donn of Gulfstream that Florida has enough racing.

It was last year that Silberman said he would approach the State Racing Commission, which sets the time—now limited to daylight hours—for horse racing. For reasons of his own Silberman has not made the pitch.

"You can say that I'm toying with the idea," said Silberman. "Actually the state, which appears to be interested in more revenue, should tell me to go ahead with the idea. It would increase our betting 25 per cent and mean that much more in state revenue.

Night horse racing may come, but not without a fight which no one—including Silberman—appears willing at the moment to undertake.

Dodgers Making Progress

DRESSEN

"There was no game, so Manager Walt Alston gave us the day off," said Dressen. "I played golf at the Hollywood Beach Country Club and then came over here."

Dressen agrees the Dodgers will be much improved this season, allowing, "If we can get two more pitchers to go with our other three, we may do right well."

The starting trio (when last I talked with Manager Alston) was Johnny Podres (13-15), Sandy Koufax (11-11) and Don Drysdale (12-13).

Tip on the Masters

ANOTHER ON hand to contribute towards improvement of the breed was Toney Penna, the smiling McGregor executive. It was easy to get Toney to talk about The Masters golf tournament starting at Augusta next Thursday.

LITTLER

I plan to be on hand for the colorful event, but meeting Penna provided an opportunity to get early dope.

"Gene Littler is the most improved pro on the PGA tour," Penna volunteered. "I think he can win at Augusta. He has changed his grip from hooking to a more orthodox and versatile one. He has his right hand on the shaft more."

PENNA

If Littler fails, Penna still thinks the upcoming Masters will be bagged by a younger player. It is about time for youth to be served, Toney allowed.

How Golfers Missed $11,900

ENROUTE BACK to town, I stopped to see Jim MacLaughlin's new Miami Shores Country Club pro shop. It's a dandy, located in an attractive building between the ninth green and new No. 1 tee, and modern in its design. It embraces the ideas of Jim's assistant, Joe Benner.

MacLaughlin

Jim revealed that he and six other Miami Shores members sent $700 to Augusta last spring to be wagered on Palmer. The messenger did not arrive in time to get the money down at the prevailing odds of 17-1, which would have meant a payoff of $11,900.

McCALL

Benner assured me that Miami Shores Village Manager Lawton C. McCall deserves credit for the new and modern pro shop. He okayed the project and pushed for its completion, plus clubhouse and course improvements. The Shores has a good golf staff in Bob Patrick, starter; Martha Benner, registrar; Maynard Gustafson and Tom O'Neill. Russell Kerns, new greenskeeper, has the course in excellent condition.

'Swift' Atoll Romps

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Elkcam Stable of Miami unveiled its big Kentucky Derby hope Saturday in the $27,700 Swift Stakes and Atoll ran like he was worth his $100,000 purchase price as he romped home by six lengths in the slop at Jamaica.

Brookfield Farms scratched the favored Intentionally.

Atoll made it look easy as he gave the Mackle Brothers their second straight Swift Stakes victory and third in a row for a Florida-owned colt. Hubcap won for Elkcam Stable last year and King Hairan won it for Leo Edwards in 1957.

Inescapable was a length and a half in front of Jules Chambrun's Dandy Ron. It was the same distance back to the fourth horse, Reginald N. Webster's Royal Anthem.

However, stewards disqualified Dandy Ron from third for interfering with Inescapable on the turn for home. They placed him last and moved Royal Anthem into third money, moving up Orren P. Guy's Pointer to fourth.

Time was 1:11 3-5. All starters carried 126 pounds. Atoll paid $4.60, $2.80, $2.20. Inescapable, ridden by Willie Shoemaker, returned $3.80 and $2.70, and Royal Anthem, the second choice, was $2.50 to show.

Lou Chesler, a Toronto financier, said he had a tip that Atoll could be purchased, and he put up $50,000 and the Mackles made up the rest. With the $17,705 purse, Atoll is now $82,295 from paying himself out.

Sore-Necked Williams May Miss Opening Day

TUCSON, Ariz. — (AP) — Boston Red Sox Slugger Ted Williams will fly to Boston today for a Monday apointment at Lahey Clinic and may miss the opening of the baseball season in New York on April 10.

The decision to send the 40-year-old veteran home for further examination followed X-rays of his ailing neck and shoulder in Phoenix by Dr. Alvin Swenson.

Although the X-rays were negative, Dr. Swenson said Williams definitely is suffering from an "irritation of the cervical neck." He recommended placing Williams in a cervical traction collar.

The purpose of the collar is to immobilize the neck completely to give relief and speed the healing process.

According to Red Sox Trainer Jack Fadden, this would keep Williams idle from 10 days to two weeks.

"I don't know whether the Lahey Clinic will concur with Dr. Swenson's suggestion, said Fadden but I believe they will."

Williams will leave here some time today. An appointment has been arranged with Dr. Charles Fager Monday morning.

The slugger has been idle ever since he had to cancel out of last Sunday's game with the Cleveland Indians here.

He had been bothered by pain in the muscle just below the right shoulder blade since playing the second game of a week-end series with the Indians at San Diego two weeks ago Saturday.

He has received two cortisone injections for the ailment, and daily heat treatment from Fadden. But there has been little improvement in the condition.

Climaxed by Florida Derby

Gulfstream In Its Glory This Week

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Gulfstream Park swings into "Blaze O' Glory Week" Monday with a six-day span of racing climaxed by the $100,000-added Florida Derby on Saturday.

Five Derby nominees clash in Monday's feature at a mile and 70 yards. The final test for sophomore candidates for the "Run For the Orchids" will have revolutionist, Rico Tesio, Puneves, Lake Erie and Wheatley Road in the lineup.

Tuesday's attraction will be the dinner stakes for two-year-olds, followed by a dinder-dance in the Turf Club.

The Suwanee River handicap for fillies and mares highlights Wednesday's card.

The unique Grey Ghost purse, fashioned exclusively for grey horses, will be presented Friday.

On Derby eve, the annual Fiesta Tropicale Parade will be staged at Hollywood.

A special Dixieland group will be among the bands which start entertaining at 10 a.m. Derby day. The University of Miami's "Band of the Hour" will perform in a special show.

Eighteen stars from the Cypress Gardens will join in the program, with a water-skiing exhibition.

The field for the Derby is still shaping up. The big three in the lineup — Easy Spur, Troilus and Sword Dancer — are regarded as certain starters.

Robinson Rejoins O's

Infielder Brooks Robinson is getting out of the Army and will report to the Baltimore Orioles' spring-training camp at Miami Stadium Tuesday.

It was thought that the young third baseman would not be discharged until April 5, but General Manager Lee MacPhail said Robinson contacted him Saturday and said he would be on hand Tuesday.

"Robby said he has been working out at Camp Hood," MacPhail added, "But apparently most of his work has been confined to throwing and running. He says he hasn't had too much batting practice."

Score Three in Seventh

White Sox Bounce Braves' Burdette

BRADENTON—(AP)—A three-run rally in the seventh inning ruined Lew Burdette's bid to go the distance Saturday and handed the Chicago White Sox a 5-2 exhibition victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Turk Lown, Rookie Don Rudolph and Gerry Staley held the National League champions to six hits. Rudolph got credit for the victory.

Burdette showed his best form of the spring for the first six innings, but faded in the seventh.

Tigers Topple Cardinals, 8-4

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — Bill White homered for the St. Louis Cardinals in his first game since he was acquired from San Francisco, but a former Giant teammate, southpaw Pete Burnside, pitched the Detroit Tigers to an 8-4 victory Saturday.

Burnside, striking out seven, went the distance as the Tigers posted their 10th triumph in 16 games. Joe Cunningham homered for the Cardinals.

Redlegs Top Dodgers, 5-0

TAMPA — (AP) — Three-hit pitching by Joe Nuxhall and Tom Acker enabled Cincinnati to defeat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-0 Saturday.

Nuxhall reeled off the first seven innings in mid-season form, giving up only two hits, one a double by Don Demeter.

Thomson-Led Cubs Win, 10-3

MESA, Ariz. — (AP) — Bobby Thomson's fourth spring homer, good for three first-inning runs, paced the Chicago Cubs to a 10-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants before 3,537 Saturday.

Score, Rookie Stop Bosox, 5-2

TUCSON, Ariz. —(AP)— Herb Score and Rookie Jim Perry limited Boston to seven hits Saturday as the Cleveland Indians posted a 5-2 victory over the Red Sox before 3,346.

Score, pitching for the first time in eight days, allowed one run on five hits in five innings, walked five and struck out the same number.

Perry, a gangling righthander who had a 16-8 record in the Eastern League last year, was even better than the celebrated Score. He retired 11 batters in a row after Sammy White and Marty Keough greeted him with singles.

Summertime Dog Racing Out for 1959

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Even if summer dog racing in this area is legalized by the Florida Legislature, which convenes next month, it would be 1960 before the new season could be inaugurated.

The Miami Beach and Hollywood Kennel Clubs, which were to have alternated in operating 45-night July-August meetings, are now more interested in making elaborate improvements in their plants. This will make it impossible for them to start summer racing this year, track officials told The Herald.

Local greyhound operators, who a year ago were enthusiastic about the two tracks alternating summer meetings, now are colder than northern weather towards the project. It appears any push for summer dog racing at the legislative session will have to be made by hotel, motel and restaurant owners.

Little public opposition, however, has developed to the idea, which called for the summer time track giving up 45 days of its regular winter meeting. This plan would have eliminated addition of any racing dates.

"When our current meeting ends, we will start a grandstand improvement program costing around $2,000,000," said President William Johnston of the Miami Beach Kennel club. "It would be impossible for us to operate this summer."

A similar report was made by Vice-President and General Manager Tommy Lynch of the Hollywood track, who revealed President William B. Syms Jr., plans an extensive renovation program starting immediately. Hollywood closes its most successful season Wednesday night.

Under the original agreement, the Beach would have run the first summer meeting, with Hollywood operating the second.

Demolition of the Flagler grandstand has started, with the old structure to be replaced by ultra modern stands. Biscayne, which rebuilt its entire plant two years ago, continues its regular season until June.

Groza Just Got Tired Of Running

By JOHN UNDERWOOD
Herald Sports Writer

When Frank Groza of the Ohio Grozas was place kicking footballs for Martin's Ferry High in the mid-1930's, a most convenient device to save practice steps was Lou Groza, his 11-year-old brother. Frank posted Little Lou in that area normally occupied by end zone seats and bombarded him daily with placements.

As the novelty wore off, Little Lou, frazzled from the chase but thinking clearly, concluded it was more blessed to kick than retrieve.

Underwood

So on the sandlots of Martin's Ferry, sitting snugly on the western banks of the Ohio River 60 miles south of Pittsburgh, Lou set about the practical application of brother Frank's psychology.

In retrospect, he snickers at his cleverness. "When I played with guys my age, there wasn't much argument. I wanted to be the kicker. I owned the football. I got lots of practice."

Now, 482 pro-game extra points and 142 field goals later, Lou Groza is grateful for the brother Franks in his life. They chased him into becoming the greatest toe-to-ball specialist of all time.

Groza's in town for just that reason. Coach Andy Gustafson of the University of Miami, with a hungry eye toward this year's more widely separated (19 to 24 feet) posts, imported Lou for three days' instruction of his Hurricane kickers. "He's the best in the business," Gus figures. "If he can't help us, who can?"

The same sort of logic was employed by Paul Brown in 1946 when Arthur (Mickey) McBride came to him with the proposal of coaching a new professional football team. The team would play out of Cleveland and be known as the Browns, in Paul's honor.

"I'll take the job," said Brown, "if you'll get me two players — Otto Graham and Lou Groza. We'll build from there."

* * *

A Knock on Brown's Door

NEVER WAS THERE a more binding association. Lou, last of the original Browns cast, has labored 13 years with the club.

"No problem working for Paul Brown," he says. "You're expected to give 100 per cent. If you do, you're all right. If you don't, you're out of a job. It's sound business."

Lou knocked on Brown's door late in the season of 1947. He had tired of being summoned to action only when the situation dictated a placement kick. He had been an all-Ohio tackle at Martin's Ferry High and though he had played only freshman ball at Ohio State (under Brown) prior to three years army service, he felt he could be of value in the line.

A Sport In Our Town

In the championship game with Los Angeles in 1950, he kicked the winning field goal with seconds to play, "my biggest thrill." In 1953, he set a record for one season with 23 field goals. Counting his days in the AAC, he is the game's all-time high scorer.

* * *

Still a Full Set of Teeth

LOUIS ROY GROZA is now 35 years old. As a high school basketball-football sensation, he was 6-2, 220 pounds. He's now 6-2, 247 pounds, and "it's getting pretty tough working that flab into shape."

He is a ruggedly handsome man, of Hungarian-Rumanian decent, with an olive skin and a lumpy nose and a full set of front teeth. He is not particularly glib, nor colorful, but a gentleman of a high cut and notable intelligence.

The Sight The Pros Hate to See
. . . opponent's-eye view of Lou Groza shoe

A National Honor Society student in high school, he maintained a B average while working toward a degree in marketing at Ohio State. He finished his war-stalled education in 1949.

With Ernie Godfrey, he recently wrote a book on the art of place kicking and already has worked his Cleveland insurance firm through the lean years.

"I enjoy coaching, but it's strictly a part-time operation. I've got too much at stake elsewhere. This change in the goal posts has brought on more requests to instruct than ever, but I can't let them interfere with my business."

Lou Groza
. . . Mr. Offense

Helpful Virus

THE GROZAS are now five, including sons Jeff, 6, and Jon, 4, and daughter Jill, 5. Lou thanks another brother, Alex, All-America basketballer while at Kentucky, for wife Jackie.

It was in New York and the younger Groza had a date he couldn't keep. "While Alex fought virus X, I won myself a bride."

"The Toe" has no vital message to impart concerning the clobbering of a football.

He stresses fundamentals and follow-through "similar to golf," and religious practicing. To prevent slippage, he wears a size smaller shoe on his kicking foot, with a high top and a blunt toe.

"There's no secret to my success. All my life I've been very lucky. It's easy when you're on the winning side. I've had some wonderful friends . . . and some pretty helpful brothers."

Billy Cannon Booms as LSU Paces Florida Relays Field

Cannon won the 100 yard dash in 9.5 (record tying time which will not be allowed because of a strong tailwind) and anchored LSU's quarter mile relay team to victory in record time (41.9). Cannon also tied for fourth in the shot put.

LSU was the unofficial winner with 42 1-3 points. Maryland was second with 24 and FSU third with 23.

Miami Edison placed in two relay events and had three other runners finish in the money in the high school division. Fort Lauderdale's Jeff Little was the only South Florida winner with a 6-1 effort in the high jump.

Bobo Olson Will Give It 1 More Try

From Herald Wire Services

Remember Bobo Olson?

Rory Calhoun plans to put the former middleweight champ's chin to scientific examination Monday night.

PEOPLE IN SPORTS

Calhoun will find out if it's made of more solid substance than when Olson went down for the count before Archie Moore, Sugar Ray Robinson twice and Pat McMurtry.

Results will determine whether Bobo continues on his comeback trail as a light heavyweight. He has won three straight, all by knockouts.

SAM SNEAD will find it tougher this year in his bid for his first National Open golf championship. For the second time in 20 years, the man who has won more golf tournaments than anybody will be forced to qualify for the blue ribbon event, scheduled June 11-13 at Winged Foot in Mamaronek, N.Y.

Ben Hogan, a four-time winner, barely escaped the indignity of having to scramble with the common herd when he finished in a tie for 10th place in the 1958 Open.

ONLY 17, Ricardo Rodriguez of Mexico City is a two-time Mexican road champion. He and his brother Pedro, 19, have competed in sports car races all over the world. But neither has raced on a high banked closed track.

They get their first taste of this kind of racing at Daytona Beach next Sunday. Ricardo and Pedro are entered in the sports car race at Daytona International Speedway that has two 2,700-foot, 31-degree banked turns.

WILT CHAMBERLAIN, Bailey Howell of Mississippi State and Bob Boozer of Kansas State will be the prize packages grabbed first in the National Basketball Association draft Tuesday.

Chamberlain, the seven-foot Harlem Globetrotter who quit Kansas U. for a pro tour, will be territorial choice of the Philadelphia Warriors. The Cincinnati Royals have first pick and likely will take Howell. The Detroit Pistons select second and are expected to go for Boozer.

AMONG HIS SOUVENIRS, Duke Kahanamoku, Hawaii's former Olympic swimming star, soon will lose his sheriff's job. Sixty-eight-year-old Kahanamoku has been elected 13 straight times as a Republican but a new city-county charter will abolish the sheriff's office. The duke introduced what has now become the American freestyle stroke when he first competed in the Olympics in 1912.

Mutuels, Attendance Up

Derby To Drop Lid On Big Hollywood Meet

By JOE BROWN
Herald Greyhound Writer

An all-marathon racing card and the 25th annual running of the Derby Wednesday night will close one of the most successful meets in Hollywood Kennel Club history.

Every race will be 3-8 mile.

Hollywood expects to wind up with its largest increase in betting in a quarter of a century. The parimutuel-handle boost over last season handle will register nearly $16,000,000 — some $3,000,000 more than last year.

Attendance also is up, and should run about 75,000.

BROWN

Bud Jack, which ran in Saturday night's Derby elimination, has been Hollywood's top dog. He will run again closing night.

And Bud Jack's owner — Mrs. Lillian A. Ryan — is a cinch to finish as Hollywood's first women owner winner. Her greyhounds have knocked down purses of more than $28,000.

Nominations for qualifying — scheduled Thursday — include 20 Rickard Course runners.

Two stakes winners are among eligibles. They are Jarmaine, winner of the O. P. Smith Memorial, and Canadian Pacific, winner of the Gold Collar Classic last month and the Rickard Memorial last year.

ONE of the state's richest dog races — the $10,000 added All-Florida Championship — will be run May 2 at Biscayne Kennel Club.

Thirty two dogs will shoot for the title held by Perfect Zip.

First four finishers in two eliminations April 24-25 will qualify for the April 28 semi-finals. The Consolation will be run May 1.

Fuller Entry 1-2 at Lincoln

LINCOLN, R. I. — (AP) — Peter Fuller's heavily-backed entry of Goulash and Prophetic ran one-two in the $10,000 Newport Handicap before 16,593 fans at Lincoln Downs Saturday.

The entry, a 3-2 favorite, paid $5.00, $4.80 and $2.80 after Goulash finished two lengths in front of his stablemate.

A length and three-quarters back of Prophetic was G. S. Colella's Admirals Joy.

Kuharich Joins FSU's Grid Clinic

By BILL McGROTHE
Herald Correspondent

TALLAHASSEE — Perry Moss has rounded out the staff for Florida State's annual football coaching clinic, scheduled June 4-6.

Kuharich will lecture on new offensive and defensive wrinkles in the pro game. He formerly coached the Washington Redskins and was named pro coach of the year after the 1955 campaign.

Eliot will discuss "psychology of coaching." Head coach of the Illini since 1942 and dean of the Big Ten coaches, Eliot will step down at Illinois after the '59 season.

Pawlowski to Coach

DAYTON, Ohio — (UPI) — Ron Pawlowski, former Miami of Ohio center, has been named line coach at Dayton University. Pawlowski played professional football with the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Big Four Conference.

600 Golfers Eye State Test

SARASOTA —(AP)— Bill Carey, executive secretary of the Florida State Golf Association, said Saturday 600 of the state's top golfers have been invited to compete in the 42nd annual Florida Men's Amateur tournament at the Pompano Beach Country Club April 22-26.

NOT SO GOOD!!
was the rejoinder from a golfer on the range when asked how he was doing. It was time he had a lesson from Pro Willie Macfarlane. It takes a teacher to drill you in the proper habits of golfing. This golfer had been given free instruction on his previous visit and most likely could not remember all he had learned. Be sure you ask for a lesson or lessons to make what you have learned that 'good golf habit'. Lessons: $5; Balls $1.50. STOP 'N' SOCK at Houghtaling Properties, 1090 N.W. 95th St. Closed Fri. Eve. Say, Teacher, What's Good In the Third?

Looking to be a sports big shot? Teach a little history. Both the trainer of handicap racing ace Vertex (Joe Piarulli) and the general manager of the Baltimore Orioles (Lee MacPhail) taught history before they decided to try to make it instead . . . Busy boy, that Bobby Ussery, leading rider at Gulfstream and standing high at Jamaica at the same time. (He left Gulfstream a week ago for Jamaica, and no Gulfstream jockey has caught up in the standings yet.) . . . Sports idea of the year belongs to the basketball coach who suggested that baskets be reduced in size to chop scoring. The field goal already has been devaluated to a nauseating degree, and scores keep going up . . . Telecaster Jack Drees was talking about tough featherweights, and recalled Willie Pep's serious injury when a Miami-departing airliner crashed one night. One of Drees' friends visited Pep in the hospital and said, "Well, Willie, I guess you're through flying now." Pep nodded gravely. "You bet," he said. "I'll never take a night flight again."

Double Trouble

FOR a mixture of sustained misfortune and good fortune, check Miami Jai Alai's Echeverria. Within three months he was hit between the eyes by a pelota going 150 miles an hour, and crash-landed in an airplane going 300 miles an hour between two mountains in Mexico. Echeverria thought a mountain had fallen on him when the pelota connected, but he didn't get a scratch when the plane went down . . . Jack Harding offers strong support for the theory that no matter how bad things look, they can always get worse. The University of Miami athletic director decided a few weeks ago to double as baseball coach. He looked at the schedule he had made up himself—19 games in 17 days — and groaned. Then, the other day, he got a letter from Amherst College saying yes, they'd be simply delighted to play UM next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—one of the Hurricanes' rare recesses. Lamented Harding: "I'd forgotten I even asked them!"

'King' is Right

PAPAS with sons in sandlot baseball programs might bend an ear to the pitching advice of slugger Ted Williams. "I like to see young pitchers throwing overhand," says Terrible Ted. "If they are overhand pitchers and hurt their arms, they can develop a sidearm motion and prolong their careers. But a sidearm pitcher is finished if he runs into arm trouble" . . . South Carolina's King Dixon did not make an awfully large splash in our North-South Shrine football game last December but the lad stands in right well up his own way. Home folks in Laurens, S.C., named a street after him . . . Famous last words, noted while thumbing through a 1944 edition of the Encyclopedia of Sports: "Professional wrestlers are forgotten men, while amateur wrestling attracts much attention and large crowds."

Baseball Skids

BASEBALL, our so-called national game, plays second fiddle to horse racing in attendance figures replaced by the Thoroughbred Racing Association. Thoroughbreds and trotters drew 53½ million spectators last year. Baseball attracted 31 million, and football did 22½ million. The way pro football is moving, it may be in second place soon . . . You'd never know it to look at Harry Roble, Jockey Bill Hartack's tackroom valet, but he led U.S. riders in 1931 when he was 13 years old. Roble weighed 97 pounds, was making $350 a week, "and I was always hungry." Eventually he asked himself, "What good's all this money if I can't eat?" So he ate, and ate, and ate. Now, at 41, he's six feet tall and weighs 165 pounds — a trifle large to ride anything but elephants.

Howie Grant Boots In 4 At Bowie

BOWIE, Md. — (AP) — Howard Grant, 20-year-old Cincinnati jockey who has been averaging better than a winner a day at Bowie, booted home four Saturday — three of them in succession.

He started his day's work in the second race and hustled home first with Turkish Gold at a winning price of $5. He then took the fifth, sixth and seventh races with two providing sizeable returns. In between, the bettors jumped on his Dance Card and drove her winning payoff down to $3.40.

Drivers Compete In Gymkhana Today

The Miami Sports Car Club will present a "gymkhana" meet today at Masters Air Field starting at 1 p.m.

Drivers are invited to participate in the event which tests skill and speed. Six obstacle events are on tap. The Gold Coast "gymkhana" championship will be held next month.

All-American Butts Pursued By 'Everybody'

Listen, Kid, Here's the All-America Way
. . . Bernie Butts, left, 'advises' brother Ronnie

By RAY CRAWFORD
Herald Sports Writer

Already sought by most big Southern and Eastern colleges, the Hialeah High basketball hotshot can expect to hear from the rest of the nation after today.

"I guess more letters and phone calls will start pouring in," laughed Bernie Sr., after learning of his son's latest honor. "It seems like all the coaches are after him. He's heard from at least 50 schools."

Where is he going?

"I don't know," confesses young Bernie. "When I first moved to Miami from Syracuse (two years ago) I planned to return to an Eastern school. Now, I'm not sure."

Making All-America was a surprise and the biggest thrill in Bernie's action-packed life.

He wants to develop into an outstanding college player and then play professional basketball.

"He should do well in college, said Hialeah Coach Roy Brawner. "He has all the shots, is fast and aggressive. Bernie is the best player I ever coached."

Butts, a lefthander, is deadly with a one-hand jump shot from the top of the circle. He also drives in tremendously fast from either side of the basket and, if necessary, takes a behind-the-back dribble just before laying the ball up.

Besides pacing Hialeah in scoring, Butts also led in assists and rebounds.

His average, 29.6 for the regular season (621 in 21 games), is a Dade County record.

Butts' biggest disappointment last season was not making the state basketball tournament at Gainesville. A shoulder injury cut Butts' scoring down to only 25 points for the two district games and Hialeah lost to Miami High in the finals.

Although Butts was recognized as "one-man team" by most Hialeah followers, there was no dissension among other players.

"Our boys always felt Bernie was giving his all for the team," Brawner said. "I never heard anybody on the squad say anything against him."

Butts visited the University of Tennessee over the weekend, arriving back in Miami Saturday afternoon just in time to catch a plane to New York where he will appear on the Dave Garroway show Monday morning with the other prep All-Americas.

"He hit a 400-foot home run the other day," said Butts Sr., "and I hope there were no college scouts in the stands. That's all we'd need — for baseball scouts to get on his trail."

An outfielder, Butts twice was named Babe Ruth League player of the year in Syracuse.

High School Honor Roll

St. Pete, Edison Pace State Prep Track Times

St. Petersburg High has gained an early advantage in the state's top high school track times.

Through Thursday, St. Pete runners lead the state in the discus (150-11), low hurdles (19.9) and broad jump (21.4) and share the pole vault (12-6).

South Florida teams, however, lead in the all-important ten-point relay events. Miami Edison has turned in the best times for both the sprint medley (2:04.2) and 880 (1:32.4). North Miami's mile relay (3:32.8) also is the states best.

Other South Florida leaders include South Broward's Alan Wright in the 100 (9.9), Coral Gables' Frank Lasky in the shot put (55-4), Fort Lauderdale's Mike Little in the high jump and Southwest's Bob Peeples with a tie in the pole vault.

2 Key Baseball Tilts, Track Meet Top Bill

Two baseball games and Coral Gables High Invitational track meet are the "main courses" on this week's high school sports dish.

Miami Jackson, unscored on in two opening season victories, runs into defending State Champion Miami High Tuesday at Miami Field. Friday, Coach Red Tobin's young Generals visit another Big Ten Conference power, Miami Edison.

The Gables Invitational track meet Friday night at the University of Miami oval will be the first big regular meet of the season. To date, Miami Edison has won two relays.

The schedule:

TUESDAY

TRACK: Jackson vs. Miami High at Moore Park.

WEDNESDAY

SWIMMING: Miami Edison at Miami Jackson, North Miami at Fort Lauderdale.

THURSDAY

BASEBALL: North Miami at Miami Edison.

FRIDAY

TRACK: Coral Gables Invitational at University of Miami (afternoon and night).

SWIMMING: Southwest at Stranahan, West Palm Beach at North Miami.

SATURDAY

Jax Awaits Race Ruling

JACKSONVILLE —(UPI)— A federal court ruling is expected Monday on a petition that would open this city's two municipal golf courses to Negroes on a daily basis.

However, Mayor Haydon Burns declared Friday the city would sell or lease it courses before it would permit integration of the links.

"If the court rules for integration on Monday," Burns said, "on Tuesday five men on the city commission will vote for closing the course. We'll either work on lease arrangements or sell the courses."

Stobs' Swim Title Hopes Get 'Boost'

Shirley Stobs moved into position to win the National AAU Women's 100-yard freestyle championship Saturday without taking a stroke.

The boost came in an announcement from West Palm Beach, where the meet is scheduled next weekend, that defending champion Chris Von Saltza will not compete.

"Von Saltza is suffering from virus monocleosis, upon her return from Australia," wired George F. Haines, coach of the Santa Clara Swimming Club. "While she is coming along all right, she is in no shape to swim at this time."

Mesa Keeps Cubs

MESA, Ariz. — (AP) — The Chicago Cubs disclosed Saturday they are returning to Mesa for spring training in 1960. The Cubs, working on a year to year option here, have trained in Mesa for the past eight springs.

At Spring Hill Farm

Horse Show Seats Start Rising Today

Installation of 7,500 seats for the All-Florida championship horse show April 12 will begin at Spring Hill Farm today. Courses will be set up immediately afterward, and hunters and jumpers will begin workouts there by mid-week.

The show, for benefit of the Police Athletic League, is jointly sponsored by James D. Norris' Spring Hill Farm and the Hunters and Jumpers Association of Florida.

First performance on April 12 begins at 1 o'clock. The first three placers in each afternoon division will compete starting at 7 p.m. for the All-Florida titles. Fourth, fifth and sixth placers will have runoffs for Spring Hill championships.

Dixon May Chart Fistic Future Here

Beach Beckons 'Fighting Cop'

By MEL DERRICK
Herald Sports Writer

Eddie Dixon, Newark's "Fighting Cop" who got popped pretty well by both his police bosses and opponent Ace Armstrong his last time out, has applied for a year's leave of absence from his police job . . . to decide whether he wants to be a fighter or a cop.

"We want to find out how Eddie stands with these other middleweights," says his manager, Bobby Nelson, now on a Miami Beach vacation. "We would like to do it here if a suitable match can be arranged."

Dixon, beaten by Armstrong last winter, also was slapped with a 10-day suspension without pay by the Newark Police Dept. for defying a rule which vetoes policemen from holding outside jobs.

Dixon, 25, has had 21 fights, six under Nelson. He has won 14.

THIS 10-rounder with Dan Hodge, Willie Pastrano has scheduled April 9 in Wichita, Kan., may be the beginning of a new routine for the Miami Beach Willie O' the Wisp.

"I think the trouble with Willie (two straight losses in England) is inactivity," says Trainer Angelo Dundee. "Now he wants to fight every three-four weeks, and we'd like to have him do it."

* * *

MICKEY CRAWFORD, beaten by Gomeo Brennan at the Beach recently, has retired to become a fulltime commercial artist . . . Now that Light Heavyweight Champion Archie Moore has signed to meet Yvon Durelle in Montreal this summer, "Advisor" Doc Kearns is eyeballing a September date for a Moore-Ray Robinson match . . . The Beach Auditorium will be dark to boxing Tuesday, but Promoter Chris Dundee plans an April 7 bout.

JACK BEGUN, who failed to convince the Illinois Athletic Commission he deserved a manager's permit to handle his "famous anonymous unknowns" there (despite showing up for the noon hearing in tails, white tie and top hat) announces he will sue the commission for "one hundred million smackers."

Begun, who withdrew one of his anonymous unknowns, Rocky Mortell, from a Beach prelim because he didn't like the opponent, says he isn't suing because he needs the money.

"I got more things going than General Motors," he says, "including a book I wrote. A publisher says it is the greatest boxing book ever written and he will publish it for $3,000. We could sell at least half a million to the U.S. Army. You'd be surprised at the junk you can sell the Army."

Navy Fencers Win

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — (AP) — Navy fencers came through in the key matches Saturday and won the 15th annual National Collegiate Fencing Championship.

Navy had 56 points to NYU's 51, Columbia's 50, Illinois' 45, Penn's 41 and Notre Dame's and Wisconsin's 40 each.

Thrill-Time Again As Masters Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (UPI) — Some of the best golfers of the past quarter-century will be on hand Thursday to help open the Masters Tournament as it celebrates the silver anniversary of its thrill-packed history.

More than 100 are expected to tee off at the Augusta National Golf Club when the four-day classic begins. Only major tournament champions and last year's hottest players are invited to the Masters.

They range from such "old timers" as Horton Smith, Craig Wood and Gene Sarazen, to young Arnold Palmer, the defending champion, who wasn't even in grade school when Smith, Wood and Sarazen were dominating the tournament.

The Masters has established itself as one of the most unpredictable tournaments. The winner is seldom found until the last golfer comes in. And although several golfers have won the Masters more than once, none has ever won it twice running.

The 1959 Masters figures to be no exception.

Palmer, at 29, is the youngest defending champion since Byron Nelson defended at 26 back in 1938. He faces rough competition in a field that could run as high as 110.

Among that competition is Doug Ford, 1957 winner and 1958 runnerup; Sam Snead, three-time winner and a Masters threat for the past 20 years; and Ben Hogan, another 20-year threat, two-time winner, and holder of the lowest 72-hole score ever shot in the Masters—a 14-under-par 274.

Action Light In ABC Test

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — Action was light in the American Bowling Congress Tournament because of the Easter weekend and Jack Blavins of Macomb, Ill., was Saturday's leader in the minor events.

Blavins shot 1,796 in the all-events, 635 in the singles and 628 in the doubles, where he teamed with Russell Reed's 528 for a 1,156 total.

Ed Lubanski leads the singles and all-events standings with 764 and a record 2,116, respectively. Lubanski's Pfeiffers of Detroit are in front in the open team event with a record 3,243. Bob and Glenn Gersch of Chicago are tops in doubles with 1,316.

Pensacola Race Draws 75 Cars

PENSACOLA — (AP) — More than 75 entries have been received for the Fiesta of Five Flags national championship sports car races at Pensacola April 4-5.

A number of drivers and cars in the International Grand Prix of Endurance at Sebring last week will compete on the new three-mile asphalt course at the Navy field.

Franklin Roosevelt Jr. has entered a three-car team of Italian-made Fiat-Abarth sports cars in the race.

YOUR NEW TIRE BUYING GUIDE

Since most tire Companies are advertising their 2nd line and 3rd line tires which are their cheaper grade tires . . . Pan-American Tire Company is offering this comparison chart for your buying convenience.

NAME	1st LINE	2nd LINE	3rd LINE
GOODRICH	DELUXE SILVERTOWN	DELUXE AND LONG-MILER	SAFETY-S
GOODYEAR	CUSTOM SUPER CUSHION	SAFETY ALL-WEATHER AND DELUXE SUPER CUSHION	ALL-WEATHER AND SUPER CUSHION

WARNING!

UM's Carnival: Festival of Foes

By JOHN UNDERWOOD
Herald Sports Writer

A couple of enterprising athletes, age 6 or 7, hied off with the discus Saturday and momentarily short-circuited the track and field portion of the Sports Carnival at the University of Miami.

Officials met this crisis with unbridled amusement. The playmates were soon found, awkwardly enjoying their prize, and competition was resumed.

A festive, friendly atmosphere pervades this springtime get-together, which UM plans to book annually. Attendance has been only sporadic, but those who come are generally entertained, besides being afforded a splendid opportunity to bare some skin to the Florida sun.

"A week here has been wonderful for us," said Ethan Allen, the fountain of youth who coaches the Yale baseball team when he's not writing books or editing films on the sport. "New Haven's covered in snow."

Pausing to scratch away some scorched peelings high on his advancing forehead, Allen added: "Only thing I don't like is the way we've been piling up losses."

His hosts obligingly satisfied him on that count Saturday. Yale whipped Miami twice, 6-2 and 4-3, for its first baseball success in five days.

The very capable Yale track team, meanwhile, scored 92 points to again whomp Georgia Tech (48½) and Miami (20½); the UM tennis team beat Tech, 5-4, and Rollins won the UM-Coral Gables golf tournament.

Miami's Al Dangel homered to force Saturday's opening baseball game into extra innings, but Yale struck for four runs to win in the tenth. The Hurricanes were good for only three hits in the nightcap.

"Suddenly we've stopped hitting," said Jack Harding, Miami athletic director who in a pinch this year is doubling as baseball coach.

"Must be 25 years since I coached baseball," allowed Harding, who once played with Miami Marlin Manager Pepper Martin at Syracuse, then in the International League.

"But I love the game. It's one you never forget. Look up in the stands . . . there are a lot of coaches in the stands. It's not like football, where techniques change and even the rules change almost every year. Football passes you by."

The Miami and Tech track teams might be further disenchanted to know that Yale made the trip south without five of its best men, including Capt. John Slowik.

Jim Stack of the Eli ran 440 yards in 48 seconds Saturday to set a new track record and combined with three mates to crack the mile relay record the same foursome had set Wednesday.

But a "little old country boy" from Georgia Tech, as he is described by Coach Norris Dean, was the hot number. James Brantley, from Vidalia, Ga., won the high hurdles, high jump, broad jump and finished third in the low hurdles.

Victory for Jerry Moss and John Capell in the final doubles gave Miami its 41st consecutive tennis triumph. The undefeated Moss, playing better than ever, "is a good bet for the National Intercollegiates," according to Coach Dale Lewis.

George (Skip) Stigger, a University of Florida junior, had to go two extra holes in a sudden-death playoff at the Biltmore to beat Miami's Jim Peace for the UM-Gables golf title. In team play, Rollins swept to its second straight championship, beating Florida by 19 strokes.

Adie Rainbow Snares Pace

YONKERS — (AP) — Adie Rainbow, driven by Stanley Dancer, fought off a stretch duel by Adios Claire to win Saturday night's $5,500 Monitor Pace by a head at Yonkers Raceway. Time for the mile before 24,507 was 2:06 4-5.

Wolverines Set NCAA Swim Mark

By Herald Wire Services

Dave Gillanders, Michigan's 19-year-old sophomore ace, Saturday night chalked up his second record of the NCAA swimming and diving championships at Ithaca, N.Y. The crewcut blond was timed in 54.1 seconds for an American record in the 100-yard butterfly.

Michigan rolled up a record 137½ points. Michigan's total far surpassed the previous high of 96½ compiled by Bob Kiphuth's great Yale squad in 1953.

Gillanders captured the 200-yard butterfly in American record time Friday night. His time made it the sixth American and eighth NCAA record erased in the three-day meet.

Bill Mulliken, an unknown from Miami, Ohio, broke the American, NCAA and meet marks with a 2:21.3 in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Two Florida State divers survived preliminary round trials but bowed out in the semifinal round. Curt Genders and Robert Weber finished 10th and 11th in the preliminary round. Buck Hilles of Florida State won his heat of the 220-yard freestyle prelims but his time was not good enough to make the finals.

Robert Duganne and David Pollock, a pair of University of Florida sprinters, were eliminated in the 50-yard freestyle trials with clockings of 23.5 and 23.7, respectively.

OHIO STATE'S Glenn Davis wound up his collegiate career Saturday with two blazing quarter miles that helped his team to the championship of the rain-marred American Business Club Relays at Big Springs, Texas.

He sparked the sprint medley relay team (3.32.4) and the mile relay team (3:15.7) to records as the Buckeyes rolled up 48 1-3 points to 42 for East Texas State and 41½ for Southern Methodist.

★ ★ ★

OKLAHOMA STATE dominated the relays and Oklahoma won most of the individual events at a quintangular meet at Norman Saturday. The only meet record was Dan Erwin's shot put of 54 feet 10½ inches.

★ ★ ★

AL DAVELLE, a field entry who had won only one other race in his career, set track record in winning the $20,000 Arkansas Derby at Oaklawn Park. Al Davelle romped the mile and one eighth in 1:48 4-5 on a fast track. Sputnik was second and Am Away was third . . . Grand Chal, 1958 steeplechase champ, won the gruelling three-mile Carolina Cup by 10 lengths at Camden. Bin Junior was second . . . Neil McCarthy's Finnegan won the Buena Handicap at Tanforan . . . Oklahoma State won its 21st National Collegiate Wrestling championship Saturday . . . Jim Mangum increased his lead to seven strokes in the New Orleans Invitational Golf Tournament with a 74 and 54-hole total of 210 . . . Rollins handed Ohio State its first defeat in the Rollins Baseball Week tournament, 4-2. Wake Forest beat New York University, 10-1.

Toronto Edges Boston

TORONTO — (AP) — Righthander Jerry Ehman slammed home his second goal of the game in a sudden death overtime Saturday night to give the Toronto Maple Leafs an uphill 3-2 victory over the Boston Bruins.

The victory cut Boston's lead to 2-1 in the Stanley Cup hockey semifinal playoff series.

Ehman's first goal with less than three minutes left gave Toronto a 2-2 tie in regulation time.

Middleton, Healy Win 'Kid Gloves'

John Healy, a five-year-old slugger who had a cast removed from his broken leg only a few weeks ago, won his fight in the Police Athletic League's "Kid Gloves" championships Saturday morning at the North Miami Armory.

The results:

4-Year-Olds: — Louis Barbara, Miami Beach defeated Paul Moore, Hialeah.
5-Year-Olds: John Healy, North Miami d. Bill Pearson, West Hollywood.

Like Topsy, Miami Bowling Grows and Grows

By DICK EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

Miami's snowballing bowling population has city secretaries Alice Flynn and Gene Seidler pulling hair.

"I can't even keep enough sanction cards in stock to keep up with new WIBC members," said Alice Saturday.

The women's association has added 12 new leagues since Feb. 15 — 286 to 296. City membership has jumped from 7,119 to 7,448 in little over a month.

Gene, who hardly can find any hair to pull, reports there are 10,753 sanctioned men bowlers in Dade County. Counting bowlers who roll on more than one team, that brings the weekly mens total to 16,000.

When the WIBC visited Miami in 1956, there were just 1,312 local women bowlers, approximately 4,000 men, seven establishments and 70 alley beds. Today there are 18 plush establishments and 450 alley beds serving sanctioned and non-sanctioned bowlers.

THE MEN'S ASSOCIATION will hold a board meeting April 5 at the Everglades Hotel to nominate officers. Women will hold an open meeting April 12 at the Miami Country Club in Miami Springs.

PATRICIA TEMPLE bowled a superb 275 game at Bowlerama. She started with seven strikes, a spare and then three strikes before leaving four pins on her final ball.

The 146 averager in the CTA league didn't fare too well in her other games (121-275-137) and finished with a 533 set. Bowlerama presented her with a dollar for every pin in her 275 game.

Bowling Rules Changed

It was discovered that in a few cases the Lend-a-Hand tourney semifinals conflicted with the men's state tournament.

In order to avoid the difficulty of being in two places at once, the Lend-a-Hand tournament committee said it would allow state competitors to bowl a night early.

In these special cases, however, the league winners must contact their local lanes and clear the times.

COMPLICATIONS: Henry Consaverkis did a little head-scratching when he first decided to build a 36-foot boat in a 24-foot garage in Mantua, N. J. But it all came out in the end. Henry just let the doggoned thing stick out there. Doesn't bother him but you'd be surprised at the traffic it stops.

Big Sail Cracks Nine-Year Record

A 90½-lb. sailfish was boated last week in The Herald-sponsored Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament. Its captor —H. A. Mitzelfeld of Rochester, Mich. — thus became the man most likely to succeed in the race for the Florida Power and Light Sailfish Trophy.

It was the heaviest sail posted in the Met since 1950, when one of the same weight won the tourpey.

The Florida Keys produced another likely winner among the six new leaders on the scoreboard. It was a 240-lb Mako shark, fought off Molasses Reefand and subdued by Jack Jasinowski of Norwood Park, Ill. Guiding honors went to Capt. Eddie Linnett on the Sea Lion out of Tom Cadenhead's Mandalay Fishing Camp. The winning Mako in last year's tourney was a 197-pounder.

Peter Dingler of Miami was the only plug caster to register a new lead. His 13-lb., 7-oz. jack was decked on Venetian Causeway on 10-lb. line and artificial casting lure.

Marco Canal continues to produce heavy cruisers for fly fishermen, and Roy Naugle of Maybee, Mich., is the new leader with a snook weighing 21 lbs., 14 oz.

Capt. Stu Apte, guiding out of Little Torch Key, poled his skiff within casting distance of the leading bonefish and his customer, D. Dallas Ditty of Summerville, Pa., scored with an 11-pounder on 8-lb. spin casting gear.

Top ladyfish in the thread-line department fell to Leo Guay of Miami. Casting from the Venetian Causeway he hooked a jumper that weighed 4 lbs., 3½ oz.

The Met, open to all without charge, continues to pile up entry gains over last year. Greatest progress is in the release program, where entries now show a gain of 43 per cent.

Three weeks remain in the contest, which closes April 19.

In Good Neighbor Tourney

Women Net Stars to Play Here

Three of the nation's top women tennis players will compete in the Good Neighbor Tournament opening April 6 at Flamingo Park.

Already lined up for the week-long tournament are 7th-ranked Janet Hopps, 9th-rated Gwynneth Thomas and Mimi Arnold, No. 10. Top foreign stars include Australia's Marie Martin and Belgian's Christiane Mercelis.

Clearwater's Laura Lou Kunnen, who created a furor when she sewed a Confederate flag on her tennis panties, also will be on hand.

Top male players Luis Ayala, Don Kierbow and Jack Douglas head the field.

Entries close Saturday.

Don't Be 'Caught' With Lobsters

Conservation Agents to Leave Crawfish Traps High and Dry

Conservation agents have started an intense drive toward removal of crawfish traps from the water before the crawfish season closes at midnight Tuesday.

DUNAWAY

Traps may be stockpiled on shore during closed season, but all must be high and dry before the deadline.

Sports fishing for the Florida lobsters is likewise prohibited during the closed period, which runs until July 31.

Shipments and sales of stored crawfish may be made provided proper records are kept, but out-of-state crawfish may enter Florida only for immediate shipment to points outside the state. This also goes for any crawfish a sportsmen might personally catch in the Bahamas.

Big Ones At Boynton

The close of the Boynton Beach Chamber of Commerce Fishing Tournament is less than a month away, but it's still "anybody's tournament." Fishing continues good.

Helen Stanton of Lake Worth went fishing in the surf and came up with a bluefish that hit 12 pounds and was 34½ inches long, by far the heaviest in the tourney.

Longest sailfish in the tournament has fallen to John F. Corran of Pompano Beach. The 7' 10" fish was taken aboard the Shamrock, Capt. Irv Pleasanton.

Closing date is April 15. Prizes will be awarded in more than 30 classifications.

Lefties, Take Heart

—One of the best Dade County billfish catches was recorded by Lee Shepard of Ontario. Fishing out of Pier 5 on Capt. Harold Shappell's Shark, Shepard took two white marlin and a sailfish. And Mate Bill Ridgeway reports that several marlin strikes a day are common at present off Miami Beach.

—Every week for the past five weeks, someone has caught a snook topping 30 pounds from the Roosevelt Bridge, which is right in town at Stuart. This week's top was a 34-pounder. Besides the big ones, there are plenty of smaller specimens to be found at Roosevelt and Palm City Bridges, and the St. Lucie Locks. Ed Glucker says Stuart angling is good all over, except on tarpon, trout and mackerel.

—The first hunting rifle ever made in quantity for left-handed shooters is now on the market, in both varmint and big-game calibers. It is estimated there are a million southpaw shooters, who previously have had to either ignore bolt actions, or learn to shoot from the right shoulder—unless they could afford a custom-built conversion.

—An advisory from the Grand Bahama Club, West End, says both trolling and reef fishing is currently productive despite frequent bumpy seas.

DEAR VIC,

There is a movement afoot around Marathon to outlaw fishing from the bridges, forcing all fishermen to fish from catwalks only. I don't believe a law of this kind would solve any traffic problems. You still must walk out on the bridge to get to the catwalks.

I believe that if catwalks on the bridges were extended all the way to the ends, it would take people off the bridges much more effectively than any law. As traffic increases, some action will have to be taken.

It is my understanding that the bridges are under control of the State Highway Department and money for catwalk construction would come from the gas tax fund.

I circulated a petition regarding this matter and obtained 200 signatures from people fishing on the bridges. This sampling shows that fishermen want the catwalks extended. I also found that most people who fish the retaining walls do so because they are afraid to walk on the bridge to the catwalks.

This matter should be brought before all bridge fishermen and the proper authorities so that action can be taken before traffic becomes a serious problem on the bridges.

Outdoor Tips

WHEN two or more split shot are used as a sinker, they should be spaced a couple of inches apart, rather than jammed. This prevents fouling the hook on the cast.

* * *

SPOONS and other metallic lures lose appeal as they lose luster. Keep 'em shiny by liberal application of metal polish and elbow grease. The effort will pay off in more strikes.

* * *

IF EVER in doubt as to the proper hook size, remember: a hook too small will usually cause less concern than one too large. A large, heavy hook is especially tough to use with monofilament lines.

World Meet

Japanese Lead Ping Pong

By afternoon of the second day in this huge tournament, the Japanese had not lost a single game in either the men's Swaythling Cup or the women's Corbillon Cup team contests.

The nearest thing to a Japanese setback came in the fourth Swaythling Cup match when Seiji Narita dropped a set to Holland's Frans Schoofs before winning, 21-17, 21-23, 21-16. Japan won the match, 5-0, for its fourth straight shutout victory.

Try Sombrero Beach and See

Ol' Man Winter Isn't Quite Dead

By LUTHER EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

Races in three inboard and five outboard classes make up Sombrero Beach's "Winter" Regatta today at Marathon. The regatta is co-sponsored by the Marathon Yacht Club and Key West Outboard Club.

Three weeks from today (April 19), the two clubs will get around to recognizing the change of seasons and present the Sombrero Beach "Spring" Regatta.

"We're having the regattas practically back-to-back," said Entry Chairman L. T. Bragassa, "because of a mix-up in application for dates with the American Power Boat Association."

Chairman Ralph Cunningham has scheduled 48, 135 and 266 cubic inch hydroplane divisions for inboard pilots. Outboard classes are BU Runabout and A, B, C, and D stock hydros.

Competition starts at noon.

A COMPREHENSIVE one-lesson seminar in safe boat handling will be presented April 23 at Bayfront Park Auditorium.

The informative session will cover the basic fundamentals of safe boat handling and rules of the road through movies, slides with commentary, brief lectures and a question-answer period.

Registration fee is $1 for adults and 75 cents for students.

Advance registration may be made at Phillips Hardware, 490 NW 9th Ave; Marine Sales, 15985 West Dixie Highway; Merrill Balfe, 2550 S. Bayshore Drive, and Branam's U-Drive, 861 W. Flagler St.

MIAMI'S DICK Spelman, who just added another victory to his impressive list, will compete in a 730-mile marathon in August.

It is the first annual Seattle to Ketchikan, Alaska, race to be held during the "Seafair Regatta" week.

"I think this will draw the biggest fleet of marathon race drivers in history," said Spelman, holder of countless world outboard speed records in long distance races.

Spelman's latest triumph in his record-breaking hydro came last Sunday when he covered 60 miles in an hour and eight minutes to win the Rosalind Grooms Memorial Marathon at Key West.

Miamians were also second and third in the 42-boat fleet. Bob Waldo finished second and emerged as unlimited runabout class winner, and Chink Anatonogolou was third and D2 runabout victor.

AN interesting election April 8 is assured for the Miami Yacht Club. An opposition slate has been announced to battle for votes with the nominating committee's group headed by Dr. W. T. Mooney.

Ed Bond, current house chairman, will head the opposing candidates and run for commodore to succeed Jack Griffin.

Others on Bond's "ticket" are Ken Lacey, for vice commodore; Judge Arthur Hawksworth, rear commodore; George Clark, treasurer; Norma Smith, secretary, and O. C. (Mutt) Willis, Victor Cribb and Tom Higgs, board of governors.

EIGHTEEN classes were announced Saturday for the Biscayne Bay Yacht Club's annual Sunburn Sailing Regatta scheduled next Sunday in south Biscayne Bay. They are:

LARRY MULLIN of West Palm Beach, 1959 International Pram Class champion, will sail in the Miami Yacht Club's East Coast Pram championships on April 19 for benefit of Variety Children's Hospital.

The 13-year-old skipper, son of Moon Mullin, onetime University of Florida halfback, earned the International title with finishes of 1-1-2 last weekend at Clearwater. He was runnerup in 1958.

Entries also have been received by Pram Chairman Bill Brothers from the Miami Yacht Club's new International championship team.

THREE MIAMI sailors will be among the record 26 skippers competing in the International Star Class Spring Championships and Myers Cup series starting today at Nassau. Representing the local Star fleet are James (Ding) Schoonmaker, Tony O'Donnell and Read Ruggles.

SEMI-MONTHLY race program will be staged today at the Miami Yacht Club. Ten classes are scheduled with three heats in each. Competition begins at 12:30 p.m.

HOW TO KILL ANTS

Every gardener knows how difficult it is to control ants either inside the house or in the garden. But now you can use top-quality "Eveready" 6% Chlordane Ant Killer not only to kill ants, but also other hard-to-kill household insects such as silverfish, roaches, spiders. Use it outdoors for ants, larva, grubs in the soil as well as grasshoppers, army worms and dozens of other pests. Start using now for best control. It's easy. Just squeeze package to dust! A scientific advance . . . backed by Union Carbide.

North Whips South Again

RALEIGH, N.C. — (UP) — Xavier's Hank Stein tallied seven points in an overtime period Saturday to carry the North All-Star team to a 114-109 comeback victory over the South in the second annual North-South All-Star basketball game.

Richter's twisting hook shot in the final minute tied the contest at 101-101 and forced the overtime. He had 33 points and 19 rebounds to lead in those departments.

Big Ten Basketball Schedule OK'd for 1959-60

CHICAGO — (AP) — Big Ten basketball coaches Saturday approved another 14-game conference schedule for the 1959-60 season. The overall campaign will be increased from 22 to 24 games.

Conference schools played a 14-game league schedule this year with eight outside games. Last December, it was voted to increase non-conference competition to 10 games.

Chevy's the car

Brookwood 4-Door, one of 5 Chevy Wagons

that's wanted

Bel Air 4-Door Sport Sedan

for all its worth

It's easy to see why the '59 Chevrolet is going over so big with car buyers. Chevy's so easy to go for! It's priced right down where the lowest car prices begin. Yet it's got all the important advances and advantages the top-priced cars are proud of.

Things like roominess which includes more luggage space as well as wider, more comfortable seating. More visibility area—all Safety Plate Glass, too—with the windshield alone up to 61% bigger. A gleaming new finish that keeps its gleam for years without wax or elbow grease. The luxury look of Chevy's interior, the fine fabrics, the detail and finished workmanship of its beautiful Body by Fisher.

Full Coil suspension and new Tyrex cord tires contribute to Chevrolet's remarkably smooth and steady ride. Bigger, better cooled brakes add an extra measure of safety. And in the power department Chevrolet offers V8's, known for spirit and responsiveness, that range all the way up to 335 h.p.—plus a new 6 that saves as much as 10% on gas costs.

No wonder, is it, Chevy's the most wanted one of all? Here's everything you're most likely to want in an automobile—including traditional Chevrolet economy and dependability—done up in fine, fresh Slimline style. Your Chevrolet dealer will be happy to arrange a ride. See him one of these days soon for that pleasure test.

ROMAN COLONEL, quick to settle in stride, showed the way while racing slightly wide and was fully extended to turn back BEECHMONT. A stewards inquiry into the running revealed no interference through the stretch run. BEECHMONT was forced to come wide to obtain racing room to make his bid in stretch and finished full of run. PRYSON held on fairly well after racing with leaders from outset. JAVELIN rared in air at start and lost all chances.

SCRATCHES: None.

ONE-EYED KING under snug restraint through first mile, moved along outside willingly thereafter to run down EKABA midway of final turn, drew clear suddenly in midstretch and won with something left. EKABA forced early pace while in hand, assumed command between calls after going a mile, responded to pressure when challenged by winner to stay with that one to midstretch where he gave way suddenly. GENERAL ARTHUR brought to outside early to maintain a striking position, was brought to inside after going a mile, was checked momentarily when blocked soon afterwards, came out once again to move boldly on leaders on final bend but could not sustain his bid when again brought to inside.

Celtics Top Nats, Take Playoff Lead

BOSTON—(AP)—Bob Cousy guided the Boston Celtics to a 129-108 National Basketball Association playoff victory over the Syracuse Nationals Saturday.

A Boston Garden gathering of 8,071 watched the backcourt magician give the Celts a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven Eastern Division final series.

Cosy collected 10 of his 27 points just before half-time when the game of raw nerves and bone-jarring defensive play was a give-and-take affair. His scoring put the Celtics ahead to stay, 63-59, by intermission and his clever play-making in the final 12 minutes broke it wide open.

Cousy's veteran backcourt mate, Billy Sharman, garnered 26 — 17 of them in the last quarter — mainly on assists from Cooz.

For the Nationals, George Yardley topped the scoring with 23 points, while Johnny Kerr had 21 and Dolph Schayes 17.

Broken Finger Benches Fischer

ORLANDO —(AP)— Washington Saturday lost Right-handed Pitcher Bill Fischer, who suffered a broken little finger on his left hand, for a month.

In Saturday's batting practice, Fischer was smashed on the gloved hand by a liner off the bat of Bobby Malkmus.

Fischer was under consideration for a starting pitcher's job before the injury.

FSU Hires McGowan For Frosh

By BILL McGROTHA
Herald Correspondent

TALLAHASSEE — Bubba McGowan, a backfield coach at Gainesville High the last four years, has been named an assistant coach on Perry Moss' Florida State football staff.

McGowan is the second Gainesville High coach to join Moss. Earlier Dick Flowers, the school's head coach, was hired.

He served as Florida's freshman backfield coach in '52—the same role he's scheduled for at Florida State. He coached Service teams at Fort Jackson in '53 and '54.

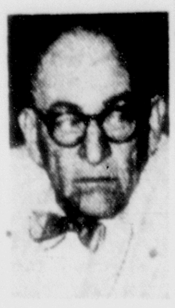
It's Time for an Armistice In the Chesneau-Golden Fuss



GOLDEN

BURRELL

When and where will the out-of-proportion Barbara Chesneau-Lafayette Golden swimming controversy end?

The furor started almost two summers ago when Barbara, then a junior at Coral Gables High, competed in the Israel Olympics without receiving Florida High School Activities Association approval.

So last season Barbara was ineligible through a FSHAA ruling until a court injunction permitted her to compete in the regional and state meets. Now, many tears and $3,200 later, Golden is considering reopening a dead issue.

This time the FHSAA's executive secretary apparently has caught Barbara on a legal technicality in the association constitution: that if an ineligible athlete competes in a game (or meet) during that year, he also shall be ineligible the following year. According to the FHSAA, Barbara was ineligible last year since the suit against Golden was dropped and not completed.

Friday, however, Golden said from Gainesville "I have made no decision," on the next move. "Whatever is done," he added "The school (Gables) will be the first notified."

Local principals think the Chesneau case already has attracted too much bad publicity. But Golden may be about to steal some of Gables Coach Bill Burrell's thunder and "make a test case of the issue."

That was Burrell's cry two summers ago. Golden could be thinking of taking up the cue.

A few principals think the FHSAA wants to discover if anybody can go to a judge, get an injunction and compete despite being ruled ineligible by the FHSAA.

Why not drop the entire matter? Each interest has won one round . . . and an extravagant $3,200 already has been spent by the FSHAA. It's time for an armistice.

Herb Dudley to Instruct

Teen Softball League on Tap For Summer

Local softball officials, alarmed by the lack of future players coming off the playgrounds, have taken definite steps along the road back.

In a move toward restocking the supply bin, the city this year will initiate a night league for teenagers. The chief instructor for these kids will be one of the game's all-time great pitchers — Herb Dudley.

Dudley, the former Clearwater blazer, has been brought in to twirl for State Farm Insurance . . . and help coach local teenagers as part of his public relations job with that firm.

J. Todd Crawford, who acquired Dudley, also has underwritten the Southern Regional Championships for $1,400, assuring them for Miami, Sept. 3-5, at Moore Park.

"If we come out all right (financially) on the regionals, next year we'll go after the world," flourished Crawford.

But the immediate concern is over the youngsters.

"That teenage league should be our salvation," said City Recreation Director Ernie Doering Saturday. "It's an attempt to 'come back' . . . build up our fast-pitch leagues.

"We haven't had a real good softball prospect come off the playgrounds in several years . . . not since Will Brady and Gabe Medina and Bobby Saunders, and guys like that.

"Most of the boys now are playing Little League and Pony League baseball. They aren't going in for softball like they used to. Our supply line is being cut off."

The 39-year-old Dudley fits neatly into the picture. "He'll be cut loose to visit the parks and work with the kids," added Crawford, a softball addict. "That'll be his main job for us."

State Farm also has agreements for exhibitions here with World Champion Stratford, Conn., and Washington, D.C. The Stratford attraction will set up a mound match between Dudley and John Spring, whose respective teams won the world the past eight years.

In another local move, the Pan American Slow-Pitch League has become defunct.

Softball practice week is set for April 27 with league plays starting May 4. The Metro tourney is set Aug. 15, with the Gold Ball starting the first week of August.

Denver, Nats Get Together

ORLANDO — (AP) — The Washington Senators reached an informal working agreement Saturday with the Denver club of the American Association. This is the Senators' first triple A affiliate since 1956 when they worked with Louisville in the same league.

As the first step in the arrangement, the Senators optioned Second Baseman John Schaive and Pitchers Pete Mesa and Angel Oliva to Denver. As part of the verbal arrangement, the Senators will continue to send their triple a players to Denver, while Denver will farm some of its players to Senators' lower classification clubs.

Worried Art Wall Moves Up

WILMINGTON, N.C. —(AP)— Family man Art Wall, worried over his young son's measles attack, broke out in a rash of his own Saturday — eight birdies — to charge into a four-stroke lead after 36 holes in the Azalea Open golf tournament.

The 35-year-old Pocono Manor, Pa., pro scored a six-under-par 35-31 — 66 for a halfway total of 138 in the $15,000 tournament which ends Monday.

First-round leader Bob Goalby of Belleville, Ill., dropped to a second-place tie at 142 after a second round 72. Don Whitt of Borrego Spring, Calif., scored a second 71 to tie Goalby.

Four players shared fourth place at 144, six shots off the lead. They were Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y.; Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N.C.; Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and Bert Weaver of Beaumont, Tex.

Claude King of Virginia Beach, Va., led the amateurs with 148 after 77 today. Jack Nicklaus, young Walker cupper from Columbus, Ohio, tied him with a second 74 but withdrew in favor of some on-the-scene Masters practice at Augusta.

Football Challenges Baseball's Popularity

NEW YORK — (AP) — In the opinion of American sports editors, baseball is no longer the dominant national sport.

It is still No. 1, but by the narrowest of margins over college football. And professional football is a challenging third.

In an effort to arrive at an evaluation of sports interest, the Associated Press Managing Editors' Committee on Sports sent out a detailed questionnaire to sports editors. They were asked to evaluate on a percentage basis the extent to which they believed their readers followed each sport.

Major league baseball led with 80.9 per cent, followed by college football 80.5, professional football 77.3, college basketball 61.0, boxing 56.1, golf 55.5, fishing 48.9, hunting 43.7, and bowling 39.8.

Most significant aspect of the poll was the strong showing made by the participant sports of golf, fishing, hunting, and bowling.

Following these in the tabulation came professional basketball 37.9, track and field 37.4, horse racing 34.5, tennis 30.9, automobile racing 25.9,

For and about WOMEN

Best Dressed In Miami

After Five attire favored by three of the Herald's Best Dressed women: Mrs. Jose Ferre's draped chiffon, Mrs. Albert Penn's brocade sheath and Mrs. D. Ralph Millard Jr.'s blue print cocktail dress.

Top Ten Winners

The names, selected for the Herald by a secret committee of judges, are listed in alphabetical order:

Mrs. Leslie Buswell
Mrs. Gardner Cowles
Mrs. Walter W. Davy
Mrs. Jose Ferre
Mrs. Paul Hexter
Mrs. James Llewellyn
Mrs. Gene Markey
Mrs. D. Ralph Millard, Jr.
Mrs. Albert Penn
Mrs. Juan Salleras

Three of the names on this year's Best-Dressed List are new ones, those of Mrs. Walter W. Davy, Mrs. Paul Hexter and Mrs. Gene Markey. Others are holdovers from lists the Miami Herald has published annually for the previous five Easter Sundays.

However, the secret committee of judges who select this list for the Herald has ruled that a name can appear no more than three years on the list. Thus, many of the area's most beautifully dressed women are ineligible for this year's list.

These "three-time winners" include Mrs. Floyd D. Akers, Mrs. Charles D. Leffler, Mrs. Stephen A. Lynch, Jr., Mrs. Leon Mandel, Mrs. C. Deering McCormick, Mrs. Stuart W. Patton, Mrs. Roy R. Schechter and Mrs. E. E. Dale Shaffer.

What Secret Makes Them Stand Out?

Text by Beverley Wilson

What makes a Best-Dressed Woman? If you sat down to make up a list of hard and fast rules you might wind up just as confused as when you started.

Certainly it's not the mere possession of a Dior hat or an heirloom emerald necklace. And it's not merely the amount of time a woman lavishes on her clothes and grooming.

Take the Herald's new list of Ten-Best Dressed Women, announced today. One winner buys completely on impulse. Another plans her whole wardrobe a season ahead, down to the last evening bag.

One dotes on pastel linens and casual sweaters and almost never is seen in black. Another would as soon set fire to her wardrobe as be without a good basic black, day or evening, summer or winter.

Some stick to simple, tailored silhouettes, almost no jewelry, few hats. Other love to be the first to try a new fashion, dress dramatically.

What do they have in common?

It is a sense of what is really right for their particular type and their way of life. Perfect grooming. The taste to coordinate their clothes and accessories so that the whole effect is harmonious.

Or, as famed designer Mainbocher puts it, "The woman who is truly well-dressed wears her clothes, her furs and her jewels. She does not permit them to wear her."

Like most of her Coconut Grove friends, Barbara (Mrs. Walter W.) Davy takes this advise seriously. She prizes simplicity in her clothes, wears very little jewelry except for a small but very good gold pin, or pearls, and her favorite gold charm bracelet. Indispensible to her wardrobe are her utterly understated linen sheaths in pastels or her favorite shade of yellow, and casual sweaters. Wife of a realtor and mother of a young son, Walter Jr. and a daughter also named Barbara, she's tall, vital, and has the trim figure earned through years of swimming and riding to hounds.

Mrs. Hexter

ANOTHE NEWCOMER to the list, Helen (Mrs. Paul Hexter), also describes herself as a very outdoorsy type. "I'm either in shorts and shirt headed for the golf course, or I'm in evening clothes," she says.

She leans to the sophisticated in her wardrobe. A black chiffon dinner dress and matching jacket is one of her indispensibles.

"I'm a once a year shopper — I just go into my favorite store and tell them what I want. For instance, I might choose one cocktail dress, one short evening dress, one long evening dress, and knits for traveling, to get ready for a season. Then, one suit every other year."

Mrs. Hexter is really fussy about how her suits fit. She has them made to order: "They're the only things worth standing up to be fitted for," she maintains.

Mrs. Hexter was a sculptor in New York before her marriage. The Hexters' spanish-style Pine Tree Dr. home is filled with sculpted heads — of people and dachshunds.

* * *

Mrs. Penn

IN COMMON with the other winners, Mrs. Albert Penn is not at all afraid to wear the same dress more than one season if she's fond of it.

She admits to being completely an "impulse" buyer but rarely finds she doesn't like the garment later. Stately Mrs. Penn prefers long evening dresses to short. Her favorite colors include red for evening, white for daytime.

One of her faults, Mrs. Penn protests, is "starting to dress for a party 15 minutes before we're due there, and then just throwing everything on."

This is a statement that party-goers at the Surf or Indian Creek Country Club, where Mrs. Penn is known for her exquisite grooming as well as the elegance of her gown, will find hard to believe.

* * *

Mrs. Millard

"I COULDN'T GET ALONG without a good black dress," says pretty blonde Barbara (Mrs. D. Ralph) Millard Jr., wife of a doctor. "Maybe a plain black cotton for daytime, a black knit for traveling, a black cocktail dress in a material like peau de soie."

Otherwise, she gravitates to neutrals like beige, white or shades of gray. Her hobbies? Water-skiing's a favorite for this energetic Sunset Islander. She's the mother of a small son, D. Ralph, III.

* * *

Mrs. Markey

IT'S SIGNIFICANT that so many women who appear on the Herald's Best-Dressed list have fashion-conscious husbands who have an active appreciation of their wife's clothes.

Lucille (Mrs. Gene) Markey has that kind of help from her producer-writer husband.

Since aristocratic-looking Mrs. Markey takes a very close interest in her famed Calumet Farms stables, much of her wardrobe is tailored for chic race-going, as well as party-going. But she also needs to think in global terms.

* * *

Mrs. Salleras

ANOTHER GLOBE-HOPPER, Teri (Mrs. Juan) Salleras dresses to dramatize her striking dark-eyed Latin kind of beauty. The Venezuelan-born Sunset Islander loves high fashion effects and handsome jewels.

Anything but a scene-stealing entrance into a group would be next door to impossible to her, even though she consciously avoids such gestures.

* * *

Mrs. Llewellyn

A BUSY LIFE as a suburbanite — wife of a South Miami machinery executive, chauffeur for a school-age son, active club worker and party-goer — governs Gloria (Mrs. James) Llewellyn's wardrobe choices. Her clothes have to be versatile enough to go to a wide variety of places during the day and evening.

Like the other women on the Herald's Best-Dressed list, she has too many varied interests to spend her time being a "clothes horse." But she manages to attain that look of casual high fashion which designer Oleg Cassini calls the essence of the American Look.

One reason: she pays very close attention to accessorizing her ensembles exactly right. "If you wear a lovely dress and then add the wrong color accessories, or too many of them, the whole effect is lost," she says.

* * *

Mrs. Ferre

TRUE TO THE TRADITION of the chic Latin women, Florence (Mrs. Jose) Ferre's taste in clothes is sleek and sophisticated. Wife of a builder and industrialist with homes in Miami and Puerto Rico, Mrs. Ferre hates cluttered detailing and "busy" accessories, almost never wears costume jewelry. Her after-five gowns are dramatic in line and color, but never flamboyant.

Mrs. Ferre is a young grandmother. Her family includes a daughter, Mrs. Peter de Laet Coe (the former Mary Ann Ferre) and a son, Maurice A. Ferre.

* * *

EVEN IF Mary (Mrs. Leslie) Buswell turned up at a gathering in an old sack, her friends would probably vote her onto any best-dressed list. Warm and charming, Mrs. Buswell is that popular.

But she doesn't own a sack. Her taste leans rather to tailored clothes with classic lines and great elegance, and it doesn't bother her a bit to be seen in them more than one season.

The wife of a retired lieutenant colonel and the mother of Lt. Peter Buswell, she and her husband divide their time between their N. Bay Road home and their lovely Gloucester, Mass., estate, "Stillington Hall."

* * *

Mrs. Cowles

FAVORITE PARTY DRESS of blonde Jan (Mrs. Mike) Cowles this season is a short evening gown of cafe au lait lace with long sleeves, a basque neckline and a full skirt. It was created by Paris' Lanvin-Castillo, whose "conservative and wearable" designs Mrs. Cowles especially admires.

The daytime ensemble in her closet that sees most service is a melon-colored linen sheath with a panelled front, over which she usually tosses an embroidered white sweater.

Just back at their Indian Creek Island home after a visit to South America, she and her publisher husband will soon be off again. First, a stop at their New York home, and then in May they'll go to France, Germany and England.

HOME FOR EASTER

Home until April 1st from Ft. Riley, Kansas, is Lt. Michael Day, U.S. Army. He's visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Day, 4301 SW 15th St.

Nassau Dusting Off Diamonds For Prince Philip's Visit

by MARGOT SANBORN
Herald Columnist

Prince Philip

Dennis Day

Howard Cullman

NASSAU — All Nassau is revved up in anticipation of the arrival of His Royal Highness Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, who will be in our midst from April 24th to 28th.

Already the diamond and emerald set are dusting their tiaras and throwing out aristocratic feelers to grab off one of the coveted invitations to the Royal Rumpus!

The Out Island Regatta at Georgetown, Exuma, is expected to draw a larger crowd of yachtsmen, in fact anyone who has any kind of floating craft, than previous years. Word is getting around that H.R.H. will fly over on the 25th to watch this unique race with skilled native sailors from the many out islands, in their work boats in which they ply the islands with produce.

Power Race Is Ahead

AN INTERESTING EVENT on the agenda is the third annual Miami-Nassau Ocean Power Boat race . . . the starting line is Government Cut in Miami on April 15, the finish line is the swank Coral Harbour Yacht Club.

The club will hold a four-day fiesta for the rugged yachtsmen who brave the heavy seas in small but fast boats (16 ft. up to 49 ft.). The climax will be the colorful Ocean Ball at Coral Harbour on the 20th for the contestants and members of the club Trophies will be presented at the ball.

★ ★ ★

CAPT. "RED" CRISE, race chairman who was the guiding light behind the now world famous Nassau Speed Week, is also at the helm of the Nassau Ocean Power Race. Sam Griffith, who has won the two previous years (last year he won with Oklahoma City sportsman Jim Breuil's "Doodle III") will be trying for a third. Another team that will be in there pitching will be Gordon Hoover and Don Mucklow.

★ ★ ★

Americans At Large

Millionaire Howard S. Cullman and his charming wife Marguerite (he's honorary chairman of the Port of New York Authority and was U.S. Commissioner to the Brussels World's Fair) have taken a house here for the merry month of April. Society horse trainer Argentine born Horacio Luro and wife Frances are visiting Canadian developer Ed Taylor. Greek ship owner Peter Goulandris and his wife Katherine are guests of Doris and Stuart Webster on Winton Heights for a fortnight.

Nassau hasn't been lacking in marquee moguls either. The Brian Ahernes have left our sunny shores for Miami where he's playing at the Coconut Grove Playhouse in Dear Liar with Katharine Cornell. While in Nassau they were house guests of Charles Compton and his sister Susette at "Blue Vista."

Dennis Day also caused a bit of ogling . . . ditto the Hugh O'Brians (Wyatt Earp) and scintillating Florence Desmond.

Louise Taylor (E.P.'s daughter) who had the international press wires burning recently anent l'affaire Billy Wallace, is throwing all those rumors for a cocked hat! She's seen constantly with C. Robert Devine.

Visitor Enjoy Easter Holiday

Socially impeccable Ogden Phipps and Mrs. P. (she's the former Lillian Bostwick of the polo playing clan) of Roslyn, L.I., N.Y., are island cruising aboard their yacht Vergemere with young fry boat guests here for the Easter holidays.

Other socialites gracing the local scene are Gurnee Munn Jr. on his yacht Southern Waters, and Pierre du Pont III and his delightful frau of Rockland, Del., with their teenage offspring Jane and Michele, John and Margaret Smith (he's president of Peninsula State Bank in Tampa) brighten the local panorama. And J. Stuart Robertson flew in from Boca Raton for a week's sojourn at the Emerald Beach.

Jewish Women To Meet

Divisions of the Greater Miami Section, National Council of Jewish Women, will hold their last meetings of the year as individual divisions this week. In May, the section will hold a joint installation meeting for all divisions.

And most divisions are holding a second event this week to raise funds for the council's local service projects—helping the sight handicapped, braille instruction and transcription, service to the Jewish Home for the Aged and to new Americans.

Some of the members of these divisions holding luncheons and programs in their homes at 12:30 p.m. Friday are: Mrs. Meyer Baskin, 1819 Ferdinand St., Coral Gables, Rabbi Morris Skow reviewing "Exodus," by Leon Uris. Mrs. Herbert Linnick, 1050 Sunset Dr., Coral Gables, program of Rodgers and Hammerstein music by Robert Strassberg, composer and conductor. Mrs. Theodore Berman, 3310 Granada Blvd., Coral Gables, speakers, Owen Phillips, director of Coconut Grove Playhouse and Jack Amoroso, director of Playhouse Art Gallery. Mrs. Louis Auerbach, 649 Velarde Ave., card party.

Shores division is holding a Western style buffet supper, square dance and swim party at 7 p.m. Saturday in Westview Country Club. Caller will be Lester Lynn.

The four divisions on Miami Beach — Bay, Indian Creek, Islands and Lincoln — are substituting a joint auction of gifts for the traditional luncheon.

Meetings and programs of the eight divisions will be fully listed in The Herald's club calendar Wednesday.

Miamians To Judge Flowers

Several of Miami's nationally accredited flower show judges will help judge the seventh annual state flower show sponsored by the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs. The show is Wednesday through Friday in Pensacola, and is keyed to the quadricentennial celebration there.

"Florida—the Floral Way," is the show's theme.

Mrs. M. S. Farrar, Mrs. Goodyear Sicard, Mrs. James R. Wilber and Mrs. Frank W. Hewlett are among the judges from Miami.

DISTRICT MEETING

Florida Council of Flower Show Judges, district 11, meets at 10:30 a.m. Monday at 1900 Van Buren St., Hollywood. Mrs. Helen Cutten, Miami, is program chairman of a panel on "New Approach to Design." Mrs. Elsie Picot, also of Miami, will present the horticulture program with an exhibition of begonias.

BEAUX ARTS SALE

Paintings To Hang On Clothesline

Beaux Arts promises art bargains galore at its sixth annual Clothesline Sale set April 19th at the University of Miami's Joe and Emily Lowe Art Gallery.

"We'll supply everything but clothespins and paintings," says chairman Laura (Mrs. Duane) Anderson.

Any local artist may participate. Paintings will be priced up to a maximum of $150.

Special features will include box lunches, pony rides for the youngsters and ceramic demonstrations.

Proceeds from the cake sale sponsored by St. Thomas Episcopal Church will aid needy Haitians and help send local underprivileged youngsters to summer camp.

Curry Flavored Toast Sticks

Curry butter toast sticks go well with chicken soup. Blend 1/4 cup butter or margarine with 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon curry powder.

Trim crusts from bread slices, cut each into 3 strips and toast in broiler until slightly browned. Spread untoasted side with seasoned butter and toast until edges are crisp and browned.

HALLANDALE [illegible] AT THE INTRACOASTAL WATERWAY

By JEANNE VOLTZ
Herald Homemaking Editor

The Easter Bunny leaves his surprises and you have eggs—green eggs, pink eggs, lavender eggs, orange eggs, two-toned eggs and eggs with colored stripes.

After the egg hunt crowd eats its fill of eggs, you still have eggs. Put them in the refrigerator, for they're hard-cooked, ready to use for lunches, suppers or breakfasts.

Tomorrow's lunch can be egg salad sandwiches (chopped eggs with celery and mayonnaise to moisten). A deviled egg might be tucked into each lunchbox Monday.

Or slice an egg or two over asparagus or spinach before serving. Chop an egg into a peppy salad dressing for greens. Serve creamed eggs and ham over English muffins for breakfast. Sieve on eggs yolks for a goldenrod effect.

Curry is a tried and true pick-up for eggs. The version of curried eggs below has bacon curls and peas with it, a new idea for luncheon or supper.

Egg Rabbit with Asparagus is almost a meal in itself. Chopped eggs in cheese sauce are served over asparagus or brought to the table with asparagus arranged over the top, as pictured.

Deviled eggs are a natural follow-up to Easter. Serve them with Swiss cheese and olive sauce for a new twist.

Two after-Easter bonus foods go into Cornbread Supper Shortcake. There are ham bits in the cornbread, eggs in the mushroom sauce for the cornbread.

Egg Rabbit With Asparagus

2/3 cup diced celery
1/4 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can condensed tomato soup
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
Dash hot pepper sauce (if desired)
1 cup shredded process American cheese (sharp or mild, as desired)
6 hard-cooked eggs, coarsely chopped
2 packages frozen asparagus, cooked, or 2 1-pound cans

Cook celery and onion in butter over low heat until tender but not browned. Stir in soup, milk, mustard and hot pepper sauce. Heat. Fold in cheese and eggs and cook over moderate heat, stirring often until cheese melts. Pour over hot cooked and drained asparagus spears. Serve plain or on toast points. Makes 6 servings.

Cornbread Supper Shortcake

1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups finely diced cooked lean ham
2 eggs
1/3 cup milk
1 12-ounce package corn muffin mix
1/3 cup butter or margarine
1/3 cup flour
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 cups milk
1 6-ounce can sliced mushrooms
1/4 teaspoon salt
6 hard-cooked eggs, cut in quarters

Cook onion and celery in 2 tablespoons butter over moderate heat until tender but not browned. Add ham, increase heat and cook until just lightly browned. Combine eggs and 1-3 cup milk and add to corn muffin mix, stirring to blend. Stir ham mixture into muffin mix. Turn into a lightly oiled 8 1/2-inch ring mold or 2 8-inch cake pans. Bake in a preheated hot oven (425 degrees) about 20 to 25 minutes.

In saucepan over low heat blend together 1-3 cup butter, flour and mustard. Add 2 cups milk combined with mushroom broth and salt. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and boils. Add drained mushrooms and eggs. Remove from heat and keep warm.

When bread is done cut into portions. Place filling in dish in center of serving plate and surround with bread. Split bread and fill with sauce, putting more sauce over top. Makes 6 servings.

. . . serve with toast, head lettuce salad for a simple supper

Curried Eggs With Bacon Curls

6 hard-cooked eggs
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/3 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon curry powder (or more to taste)
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
3 cups milk
2 cups cooked, drained green peas
6 slices bacon

Shell and slice hard-cooked eggs. Cook onion in melted butter until tender but not browned. Remove from heat and blend in flour, curry powder, salt and pepper. Add milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Add sliced eggs and peas. Pour into serving casseroles and top with bacon which has been cooked and twirled with a fork into a curl just before getting crisp. Makes 6 servings.

Eggs with Swiss Olive Sauce

2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons snipped chives
2 tablespoons flour
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 cups milk
2 cups grated process Swiss cheese
1/3 cup chopped pimiento-stuffed olives
6 slices buttered toast

Remove yolks from eggs. Combine egg yolks and mayonnaise and blend well. Pile lightly into egg whites.

Melt butter. Add chives and saute 5 minutes. Blend in flour and pepper. Gradually add milk and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Add cheese and olives. Cook, stirring now and then, until cheese is melted.

Climaxing the evening will be a midnight supper.

Tickets are available at the school or at leading local art stores.

Has Kate Won Heart Of Kent?

LONDON — (WNS) — A beautiful blonde in Essex; a brewer's daughter in Hampstead; a fashion model in Mayfair — each has been linked during the past few years with the man who is indisputably Britain's most eligible bachelor: the lanky, pleasure-loving 23-year-old Duke of Kent.

But in the past few months there has been one girl: slim, beautiful Katherine Worsley.

Mayfair gossip now asserts that the Duke, who is the Queen's cousin, has decided to marry Katherine despite strong opposition from his class-conscious mother.

The Duchess of Kent is not certain that a daughter of a mere baronet is of a high enough social position for a Royal Duke of Britain. Katherine is the daughter of Sir William Worsley, Lord Lieutenant of the north riding of Yorkshire and squire of the Yorkshire village of Hovingham.

If the engagement is not announced within the next few weeks, it will mean that the Duchess has won her point and persuaded the Duke to wait for at least a year.

* * *

He was then seeing tall, beautiful Janet Bryce. But girls who talk too much always irritate the Duke, and Janet's star set when mama told a newspaper she thought the marriage fine.

Speculation about the new romance heightened to near certainty when the Duke slipped away from the Queen's family party at Sandringham recently to spend the last part of his leave with Katherine before flying back to Germany to rejoin his regiment.

Both have denied engagement plans, but their friends and the villagers in Hovingham are all saying it is only a matter of time.

A Bill of Rights for Babies

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

First thing, they'd howl to lawmakers about something this country really needs: a bill of rights to protect infants from well-meaning but sometimes painful attentions from doting relatives and family friends.

Protection, from the newborn's point of view, is needed when meeting up with grown-ups who have the notion that babies are a combination of county fair exhibit, fresh fruit and new toy.

For with such adults, the rules seem to okay pinching, poking, shaking and prolonged "ah-ing" at close range — even after munching onion or garlic seasoned delicacies.

The newborns could also use a restraining order to keep parents from running to the baby books everytime they spit up, burp off-key or sleep too long — or too little.

They are, after all, custom-made and not mass-produced. As such, they're individuals. Let nature take its course, each according to his own blueprint. That's their motto.

They demand, too, the right to cry a little or a lot — even in the middle of the night — without upsetting the whole house. Upsetting one parent is enough.

They seek, too, the right to toss a bottle on the floor now and then and the right to go off-schedule and suck a thumb without being thought of as behavior problems.

Babies also want the right to pull a grown-up's hair every so often and the right to sink their gums into a cheek without being accused of harboring a hate complex.

They want the right to kick off blankets and booties, to pull buttons from sweaters and eye glasses from faces, to unravel their shawls — when they feel like it.

Simply said, they want the right to be treated like babies and the right to act like babies: sturdy but fragile sweet innocents who are, most of all, precious and unpredictable.

Modeling Fee? $1.000

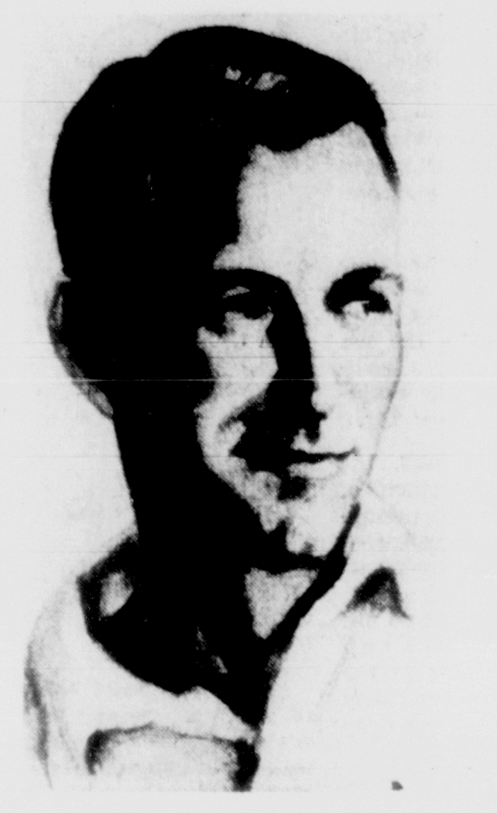
But just as Mrs. Schmidt clicked her camera, Mimi reached for the woman's handbag and swallowed the entire thing including a passport, a watch, several jewels, a pair of eyeglasses and $375 in cash.

The only object that Mimi coughed up was the eyeglasses. Mrs. Schmidt figures that her snapshot of Mimi cost her $1,000.

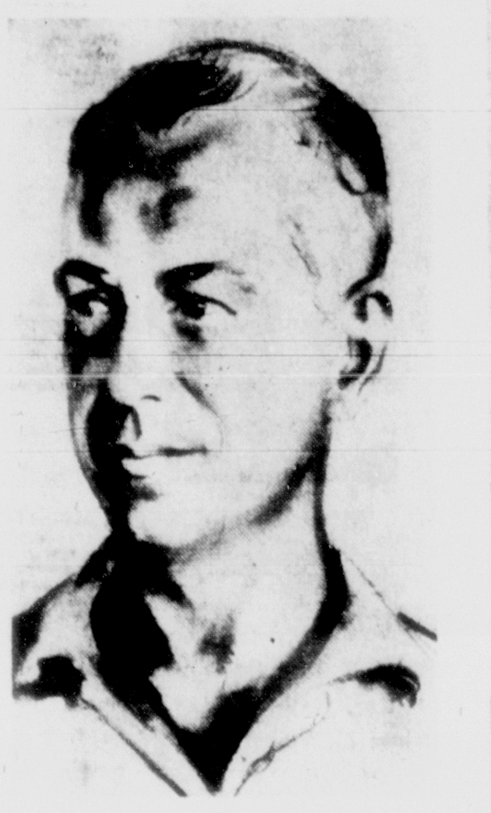
Do You Know Top Poloists?

Text by HELEN VAN HOY SMITH

Sketches by JEAN APPLETON



Stewart Iglehart



Phillip Iglehart

Gulfstream Polo Club in Gulfstream just north of Delray Beach, is the home of winter polo. There, each Sunday afternoon, polo fans from nearby gather to watch some of the country's most famous polo players in a fast action game—a game in which players match horsemanship, agile handling of the mallet and the power to anticipate as they ride hard down a 300-yard field.

Mention of polo brings to mind immediately the name Iglehart—specifically, the Iglehart brothers, Stewart and Phillip.

STEWART IGLEHART is sponsor of the Gulfstream Polo Club. Though inactive in the game now, Stu has been a 10-goal player (top rating for a polo player).

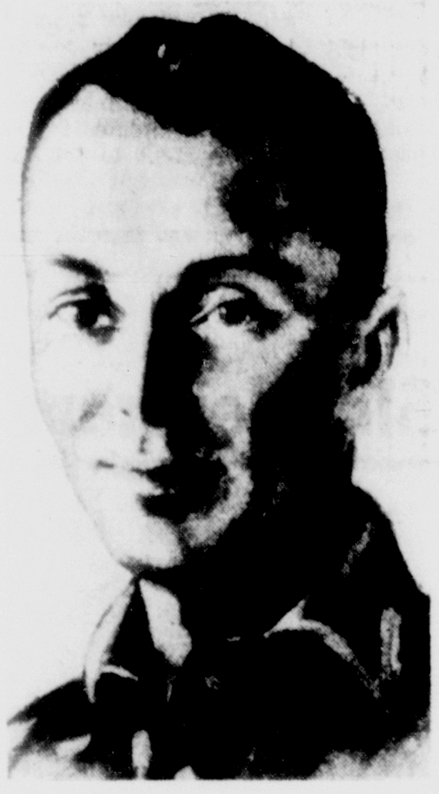
A dark, slim 170-pounder, Stu can address the polo ball in fluent Spanish as well as English, for his various business interests include many in Latin America. At present, he is concentrating on cattle ranching in Okeechobee County.

He and his wife Linda, live in an oceanfront home near the golf course in Gulfstream. Their 18-year-old son is in the Marines.

PHILLIP IGLEHART, taller but no heavier than his brother, is a 7-goaler and considered an excellent mallet man. Like his brother, he is a Yale man.

He and his wife live in Ocean Ridge, a fashionable oceanfront community near Boynton Beach.

"There is nothing in polo that discriminates between a professional and an amateur poloist," say the Iglehorts. "We treat them all alike."



Robert Wickser

ROBERT WICKSER, Yale '48, has a 2-goal ranking. He plays with the Aurora Polo Team in Buffalo, N. Y., in the summer. In addition to polo, he plays a proficient game of golf and tennis.

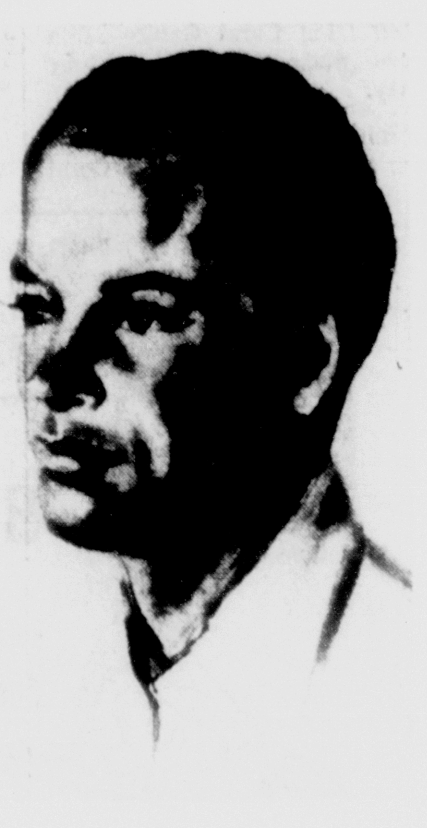
He and Mrs. Wickser and their 4-year-old daughter and 2½-year-old son, live in Palm Beach.

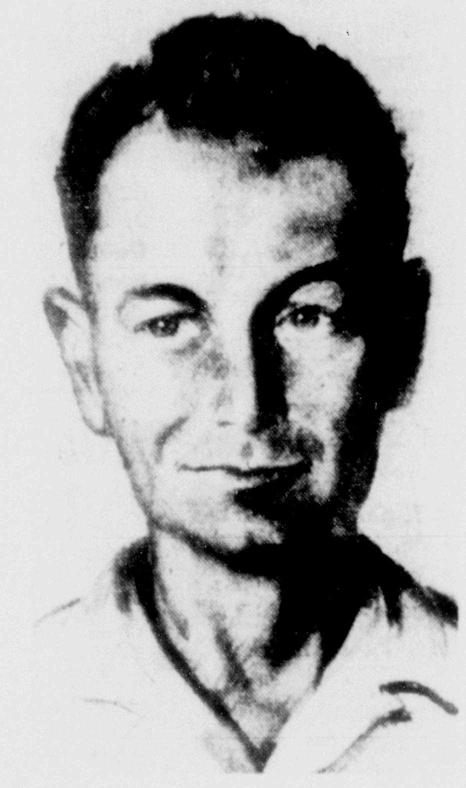


Russell Firestone

RUSSELL FIRESTONE JR. is captain and sponsor of Circle F Polo Team of Dallas which he brings to Florida each winter. The 2-goaler plays here in the winter; at Oakbrook, Hinsdale, Ill., in the summer.

Grandson of Harvey Firestone, and son of Mrs. John Galbreath, Columbus, O., and Miami Beach, Russell is an alumnus of Princeton and Southern Methodist U. He flies his own plane, plays golf and tennis and is interested in yachting.

He and his wife and small daughter have a home in Palm Beach.



Jules Romfh

JULES ROMFH, known as Tiger, is Miami's contribution to polo. Also a Yale man, Jules is the son of the late E. C. Romfh and Mrs. Romfh, pioneer Miamians.

He and his wife and their two children, Jules Jr. and Marie Emily, live at 3149 Brickell Ave. He's in the real estate business.

Mrs. Romfh saw her first polo game here in the Orange Bowl the winter before she and Jules were married.

Urban Renewal Is Topic

Urban renewal and slum clearance in Coral Gables and South Miami will be the topic of a panel discussion Wednesday, sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Coral Gables.

Panel will follow a noon luncheon in the Antilla Hotel, 1111 Ponce de Leon Blvd., Coral Gables. Those who will discuss "Can We Stop Our Slums from Spreading?" are: Charles H. Finkelstein, chairman of Coral Gables Urban Renewal Citizens Committee; George Gibbons, chairman of slum clearance in South Miami; Mrs. Elizabeth Virrick, member of the Citizens Housing and Planning Council of Dade County.

Mrs. Francis Peuser is taking reservations.

Luncheon To Honor 'Godmothers'

Godmothers of the new Mount Sinai Hospital's maternity wing will be honored by the hospital's development fund at a tribute luncheon April 10 in the Fontainebleau Hotel.

Godmothers are women who have donated $1,000 or more toward the $250,000 maternity wing in the $1,200,000 addition to the hospital. Currently there are 75 godmothers.

Mrs. Manson

Mrs. Nathan

The luncheon will feature a fashion show of Parisian designs arranged by Burdine's and a collection of precious gems from Koslow's.

Mrs. Alex Manson, chairman of the luncheon committee, and Mrs. David Nathan, co-chairman, are working with Mrs. Leonard A. Wien, chairman of the women's division of the development fund.

The maternity wing now under construction features a room for expectant fathers and a nursery with three sides of picture windows in addition to the newest facilities for expectant mothers.

Russia's 'Mostest' Hostess

BONN — (WNS) — A lively, party-giving brunette is being acclaimed here as the best Soviet diplomat since Russia's ambassador to the U.S. — "Smiling Mike" Menshikov — introduced a new style in Iron Curtain ambassadorial behavior.

Ekaterina Smirnov is the brunette's name, and teamed up with her husband, Andrei, Russia's ambassador to Bonn, the two are known as the "brains-and-bounce" tandem. Mrs. Smirnov, in other words, provides the live-it-up settings at which her shrewd husband operates most effectively.

The Russian ambassador has a big, Rhine-bank villa in suburban Rolandseck, and Ekaterina keeps it merry with parties. Pretty and smartly groomed, Mrs. Smirnov celebrates every Russian and Communist holiday in the book.

Mrs. Smirnov's recipe for a party is simple. "I just serve lots of liquor, lots of food and lots of entertainment," she explains. This is true — as far as it goes. Ekaterina, in fact, serves the most lavish champagne and caviar spreads in the capital.

And her entertainment is on a comparably grandiose scale — Soviet film queens, ballet dancers, violinists and chess players. The Moscow state circus has been playing in Germany, and Ekaterina, of course, threw a party for its artists.

Crittenton Homes President To Speak To Miami Group

Mrs. Hunter

Mrs. Boyce W. Hunter, president of the national board of directors, Florence Crittenton Homes Association, is coming to Miami from Charlotte, N.C., to speak at a Tuesday luncheon. The luncheon is sponsored by the local committee of the proposed Florence Crittenton Home.

It will be held at noon in the Pub Restaurant, 3500 Coral Way, and is an invitational event for community leaders.

The local committee, headed by Michael Shores, plans to establish a maternity home in Dade County which will then apply to the Florence about 50 member agencies throughout the country.

Mrs. Hunter, president of the association, is a past president of the Charlotte, N.C. Florence Crittenton Board, and has worked on the state level in North Carolina's Parent Teacher Association, Mental Hygiene Society and the Crittenton Homes Association for membership. The national association is made up of United Church Women. She is a former teacher and the mother of three daughters.

They Prefer Gibson Girls For Pin-Ups

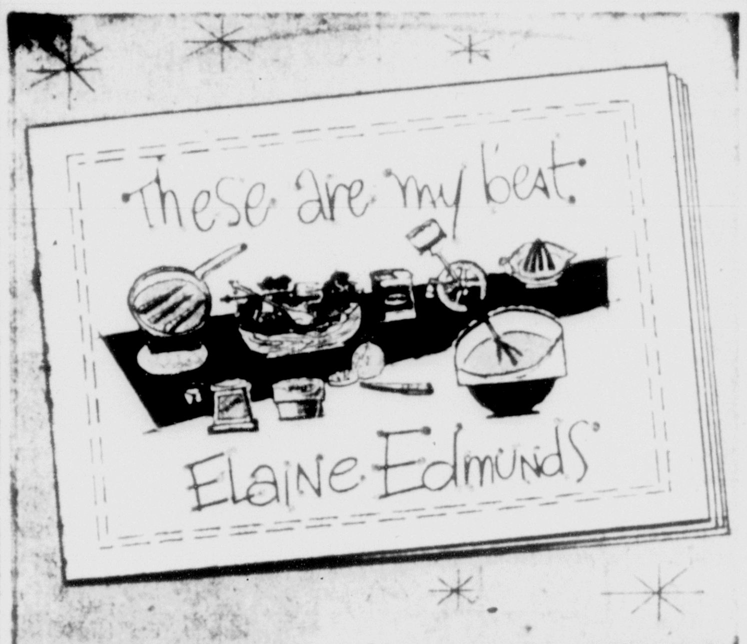
The oldest man is 94, and the rawest recruit is pushing 56.

Each soldier has a small bunkroom with bed, closet, desk, chair and radio earphones. They have decided that for wall decorations they prefer pictures of Nell Gyynne and of Gibson-girl lovelies of their younger days.

Nell Gwynne, favorite lady friend of King Charles II, encouraged the king to build the home for old veterans who until then had had to beg on street corners.

Dramatics —At Drake

Ken Kauffman, son of Mrs. Mae L. Baturin, 626 W. 51st St., Miami Beach, will play "Nachmon" in the Drake University production of "The Dybbuk." He is a junior drama and speech major in the college of fine arts.



TESTED RECIPES

Mrs. Elaine Edmunds is a Caracas, Venezuela, housewife who delights in preparing delectable dishes. Her favorite recipes, when they first appeared in The Herald, made a decided hit with readers. In answer to many requests, some of the best have been compiled into a 2-color pamphlet, including recipes for:

Steak Sauce ● Salmon Puffs ● Blitz Torte
Frozen Fruit Salad ● Spicy Cheese Filling
Date Loaf ● Chow Mein ● Scalloped Corn and others.

Read Our Rules For Bridal Stories

Monday noon is the deadline for engagement and wedding stories to be used in the Sunday paper. Information must be in The Herald women's department by MONDAY NOON.

Engagement announcements are printed in SUNDAY papers only. Stories of Weddings that take place on Saturday are printed in the Sunday paper.

For weddings that take place during the week, the stories will be printed the day after the wedding, whenever possible. Deadline for these stories is noon of the day preceding the wedding.

We publish only those weddings for which we receive information and picture before the wedding.

We ask prospective brides to decide whether they wish their engagement or wedding picture published. We print only one picture — whichever you prefer — but will use both engagement and wedding stories.

How To Cut Food Costs

Food Shopper Has Wide Choice, Thousands of Items

. . . for good eating, and thrifty, if she likes

By JEANNE VOLTZ
Herald Homemaking Editor

A wise shopper can outwit higher food costs, says the Consumer Advisory Committee of the National Association of Food Chains.

NAFC has campaigned several months on the theme that food bills don't have to be higher, in spite of a higher U.S. Consumer Price Index for foods. The food index is based on 80 items.

A food shopper may select from among 4,000 to 6,000 items.

NAFC has made a list of tips to help food buyers push carts through supermarkets at no more cost than last week or several months ago. These are some of their tips:

1. Buy foods when in season and abundant, thus lower in price. Example: Celery is abundant now due to a heavy Florida harvest. It is much less expensive now than other vegetables in off season.

2. Know foods with equal nutritive values so you can substitute for less money. Example: Non-fat dry milk provides the same amount of calcium as fresh milk — at substantial savings.

3. Read newspaper food ads to keep up with supply, qual- foods and their uses. Example: Chickens were advertised at 29 cents a pound several times in recent weeks.

4. Plan meals before shopping, figuring costs, but keep them flexible. Example: Your meal plan lists frozen broccoli, but you find fresh cabbage or frozen spinach a better buy.

5. Know grades, brands and other quality marks of foods and their uses. Examples: Round steak to broil is wasteful (too tough) and top grade sirloin to braise is extravagant (a less expensive cut is just as good.) Canned, broken tomatoes or puree are thriftier for a sauce than whole pack tomatoes. Brown or white shell eggs are equal in food value.

6. Get any explanatory booklets from food companies, the government and the like and don't be afraid to ask questions. Example: A leaflet on cooking mullet can help you get the most from this low cost fish.

7. Buy in large quantities when prices are low and take advantage of introductory offers—but only IF you can use them. Example: Frozen peas are six for 99 cents, but a dozen are no bargain if you have freezer space for only three packages.

8. Store foods properly and buy only what you can use. Examples: If you let half your onions spoil, you double the price. If you let salad greens wilt, you waste vitamins.

9. Cook foods by package instructions, or you may waste or spoil them. Example: An extra egg in a cake mix can ruin the cake.

10. Use tested recipes to avoid costly failures and cooking skill to make thriftier foods appetizing. Example: Beef stew can be as appealing as broiled sirloin. There's no such thing as "tough" meat. Tenderness depends on the cook's know-how.

11. Cook to keep the food values you bought in the food. Example: Cabbage cooked quickly keeps much more of its vitamin C than cabbage steamed for a long time.

Follow these tips, says NAFC, to hold the line on food costs. Not only that, your food costs actually may go down!

U.S. Men Are Better Mothers

By IRIS HARTMAN
Women's News Service

GENEVA — "The American woman is a better businessman than her husband," said Baron Adolphe Dieterie on his return from the United States.

The dapper, 81-year-old financier predicted that business, government and the arts will soon be woman's work. Men will resort to housekeeping and caring for the family.

"The trend is definitely in that direction in America, and the United States now leads the way for all mankind," he declared.

"It is no secret that the American woman dislikes housework and is doing everything she can to avoid it," he reported. "It is also no secret that most of the money is already in her hands and that she desires a career outside the home."

Men, on the other hand, are eager to retreat from the tensions, fears and battles of business. They would welcome the opportunity to stay at home and have nothing more important to do than make the beds and cook the meals.

He believes that men are better housekeepers than women.

"They have stronger backs for heavy cleaning, and they are more methodical and meticulous," he declared. "They will not require so many mechanical gadgets to aid them, and they can endure the monotony of the same daily routine better."

Dieterle remarked that throughout history men have been better cooks than women.

"Men like to eat well and don't mind working hard to produce a good dish," he said. "American families will once again have healthy, seven-course meals instead of snack suppers prepared in 15 minutes by disinterested wives."

But will father be able to take care of the children?

"One hundred per cent better than mother," insisted the 81-year-old great-grandfather. "Children will be happier with a full-time father at home than they have been with a part-time mother."

Wed 40 Years

Celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary today with a party at the Deauville will be the David Frankels, 8948 Abbott Ave., Surfside.

Among the 50 guests will be members of the family from New York and Miami.

Wonderful Women

"It seems as though I don't have time enough to get everything done anyway. There are always things to be done around the house, places to go, people to go see," said perky "Edie" Middlecoff.

"So many of my friends at home (Memphis, Tenn.) complain about being golf widows . . . I'm afraid I can't give them any advice . . . I just don't have time to be bored."

Her husband is golf pro during the winter season at The Diplomat Country Club, and she often goes out to the course with him "whenever the notion strikes me," which is about two times a week.

"Sometimes I follow him around the course. We ride the cart here, but of course in tournament play we can't ride. We walk. Excellent exercise," added pretty and slim Edie who looks like a Smith College girl (she actually graduated from Stephens) and was an airlines stewardess before she and Dr. Middlecoff were married.

Edie talks softly with a Southern accent. She's well tanned and wears tailored clothes ("They pack so much better than fancy ones.")

No, she doesn't play golf. "I tried it a couple of times, but I'm just not a golfer. I enjoy thoroughly watching someone play, though. Cary has made a good sports fan out of me. I'm just a good galleryite, I guess."

* * *

SHE MET Dr. Middlecoff in a dentist's office. He was the dentist. His father had been her dentist for a long time. But that day it was Dr. Cary Middlecoff who filled her tooth.

They were married in 1947 and her husband turned professional golfer shortly afterward. Then began several years of traveling from city to city for tournament play (there's only one week in the year when there's not a golf tournament going on somewhere in the U.S., she said).

Edie enjoys her life as a perpetual golf widow even though "you do get awfully tired of living in hotels and driving from town to town." They usually fly now, and while here for the winter rent a home in Hollywood.

"I'm happiest when he's happy," she said, "and he's happiest when he's playing golf . . . As long as he continues to win, he'll continue to play." And she figures it will be a long time before they can spend more than their present two-months-at-a-stretch in their Memphis home.

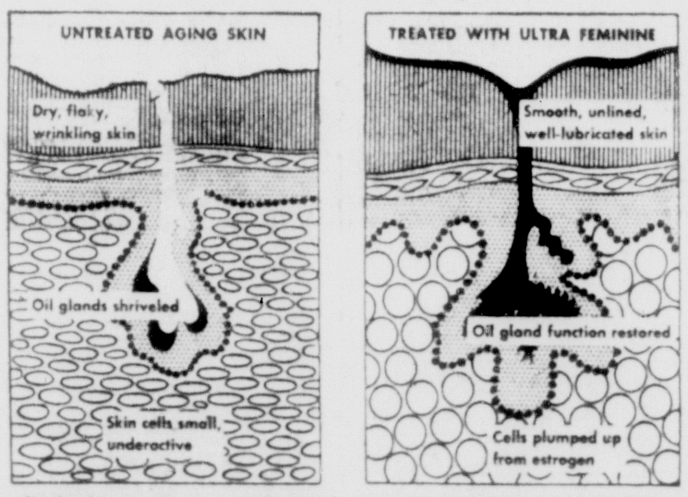
How New Wonder Drug Cosmetic Restores Young Look To Skin

Medical tests prove Helena Rubinstein's ULTRA FEMININE FACE CREAM reduces wrinkles due to dryness, reverses two aging skin processes and restores young skin tone.

Helena Rubinstein, first lady of beauty science, announces her discovery, ULTRA FEMININE FACE CREAM. It is the only formula containing both vital female hormones, natural to you as a woman. They are estrogen and progesterone.

Like a prescription, ULTRA FEMININE acts not merely on the surface but on specific skin cells. They are the same living cell layers that made your skin soft, firm, fresh when you were very young. Clinical tests show that ULTRA FEMININE reactivates these sleeping cells!



UNTREATED AGING SKIN
Dry, flaky, wrinkling skin
Oil glands shriveled
Skin cells small, underactive
TREATED WITH ULTRA FEMININE
Smooth, unlined, well-lubricated skin
Oil gland function restored
Cells plumped up from estrogen

Single skin section shows before and after application of ULTRA FEMININE

Diagram shows how ULTRA FEMININE helps skin become soft, young looking. Moisture-filled skin cells smooth out age lines; oil glands produce again; wrinkles due to dryness are reduced.

DOCTORS REPORT UNPRECEDENTED RESULTS

1. Tissue cells can hold moisture again after use of ULTRA FEMININE. These cells, plumped out once again, support the surface firmly. Lines smooth out. Wrinkles due to dryness are reduced.

WORKS LIKE A PRESCRIPTION

Unlike thin, watery, vanishing creams, ULTRA FEMININE's special rich formula works through the night to release a continuous supply of hormones, just as your own glands would naturally...for full benefits to the skin cells and oil glands. By morning, ULTRA FEMININE has been completely absorbed deep within the skin. Use ULTRA FEMININE faithfully for thirty days. You will discover that you can look younger.

Clinical Research Division, Helena Rubinstein, Inc.,
East Hills, Long Island, New York.

Guaranteed...you can look younger in 30 days

Helena Rubinstein says, "Medical findings reinforce my own belief that ULTRA FEMININE is the most important help you can give your skin. It must give you a younger, smoother look in one month, if used as directed, or you may obtain a full refund."

Seminoles Campaign For Student Offices

By BUCKY CANON
Herald Correspondent

TALLAHASSEE — FSUers forgot their mid-term exams, forgot the fraternity activities, their student politicking, their play tryouts and circus practice this week and took off to the four winds for Easter vacation.

The biggest exodus was headed toward Fort Lauderdale — the mecca of collegiate America every spring.

It's a short vacation however. It began Thursday noon and ends when classes begin Tuesday morning.

* * *

ABOUT TWO DOZEN candidates are vying for 11 offices in the April 7 general election.

Campaigning is allowed one week prior to election day and each year the campus and nearby eating places are inundated with handbills, posters, and wall size signs urging them to "Vote for Joe Blow, the most qualified, capable . . ."

April 7 will be a big day for another reason. That evening, the Kingston Trio, will make an appearance on campus.

The trio will perform before a standing room only audience. Tickets, which went on sale Tuesday, were sold out in less than four hours. Profits will be turned over to campus chest.

* * *

SEVERAL CAMPUS HONORARIES tapped new members last week. Among the highest honors a woman can obtain at FSU is an invitation into Mortar Board, national leadership honorary.

Four South Floridians were among the 13 tapped. They are Nancy Fraser of Delray Beach, Moll Flesher of West Palm Beach, Jackie Boyd of Fort Lauderdale and Joyce Combs of Miami.

Mortar Board's rival, Mortified, tapped 12 members. A spirited competition exists between the two groups with Mortified always tapping one less member so it can claim to be the more exclusive group. Members of Mortified are campus leaders who lack the scholastic average to attain membership in Mortar Board.

No Saturday Classes, Please

By BOB McKENZIE
Herald Correspondent

LAKELAND — Results of the opinion poll on campus issues, taken by the Student Government, are ready to be presented to the FSC administration.

FSC

Bob McKenzie

First question was:

Would you be willing to attend more weekday afternoon classes if Saturday classes were eliminated?

The result was 465 for; 110 against.

Among suggestions were to make the Tuesday and Thursday classes 1½ hours long; thereby, cutting out Saturday classes. Some students felt that it should be left up to the discretion of the student, as to whether or not he will take classes on Saturday. As it is now Saturday classes are required.

Other questions were: Do you think the students should be allowed to smoke in the cafeteria?

Would you be willing to begin school earlier in the fall if a Spring vacation could be provided?

Do you feel that the working student on campus should be paid $1.00 per hour (the national minimum wage scale) instead of the present $ .75 per hour?

Majority reply was yes to each of these questions.

Approximately one-third of the student body was questioned in the poll.

* * *

FSC NOTES . . . Monte Parola, Hialeah, was initiated into membership of the Civitan Club on Campus . . . Petitions go out April 9 for the Spring campus-wide election . . .

Chuck Hunter, Coral Gables, will attend the SUSCA convention held at Auburn, April 24. . . . Radioactive waste was the subject of a lecture to science students given by Oak Ridge scientist, Dr. S. I. Aurbach . . . Girls now have bermuda shorts privileges in the cafeteria on Saturday evenings.

Who'll Be Named Miss Vanderbilt?

By BARBARA JONES
Herald Correspondent

NASHVILLE — Campus-wide elections will take place on April 8. Eighteen student government posts will be filled along with Miss Vanderbilt and Bachelor of Ugliness.

Vandy

Barbara Jones

The elections will be handled under the same no - coalition rule which last fall produced $50 fines for five fraternities and a flurry of criticism against a Senate ruling against bloc voting between fraternities.

* * *

ARTS & SCIENCE DEAN Ewing Shahan introduced to the Student Senate his plans for a group to act as a liaison between students and administrators on academic problems of the A&S school.

He declared that an administration operating without an accurate knowledge of student opinion was "operating in a vacuum." Eight students from each class will be chosen for this committee. The committee is not to become a lobbying body on behalf of the students but rather is to constructively analyze what the students think is wrong, and then to discuss and take action upon their findings.

* * *

WOODROW WILSON Fellowship Foundation has announced seven Vanderbilt A&S students as Fellows for 1959-60. These students will do graduate work at the university of their choice in preparation for careers as teachers.

Several other students were honored by the National Science Foundation. They will do graduate work in the natural science and allied fields.

Miamian Is Queen At UF

Dot Larson

By FRED FROHOCK
Herald Correspondent

GAINESVILLE — They say service men are the best judges of a pretty girl.

To Dot Larson, Miami sophomore at U. of F., those words are icing on the best cake of all — her first big win in a beauty contest.

U of F

Fred Frohock

Miss Larson was chosen UF Military Ball Queen last week over thirty coeds.

Sponsored by Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, the comely education major was one of five finalists selected a week before the Ball.

Crowning of the queen (she was not announced until the dance) highlighted the annual UF Military Weekend sponsored by the combined Army and Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps on campus.

* * *

EASTER VACATION this weekend finds the majority of UF Miamians seeking the sun and sand of Ft. Lauderdale.

Sun, sand and suds. Only one drawback: brevity. UF classes start again Tuesday.

FSU Coeds Interning

Two Florida State University coeds from Miami are doing intern teaching in public schools this semester.

Miss Delane Vincent, daughter of Mrs. M. H. Vincent, 4259 Lennox Dr., is in Daytona Beach. She's an English major.

Elementary education major Miss Bobbie Anne Stang is interning in Ormond Beach. She is the daughter of Mrs. Omar E. Stang, 5116 Red Rd.

COLLEGE OFFICE

Diane Cornelius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Cornelius, 650 NE 122nd St., Miami, has been elected House Council Secretary at Rockford College, Rockford, Ill. Miss Cornelius won her office without opposition.

He's Seeing Government In Action

He's one of 93 honor students from some 32 states spending a semester in the nation's capital under a cooperative arrangement between American University and accredited colleges throughout the U.S.

The project includes a seminar on government in action, an individual research project and regular night classes at the University. Classes are held all over Washington and the professors include senators, ambassadors, congressmen, Supreme Court justices, lobbyists and newsmen.

Sylvia Pledges Alpha Phi

Miss Sylva Reagan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Reagan, 1090 NW 91st St., has pledged Gamma Phi colony of Alpha Phi International sorority at Florida State University.

She'll be a charter member of the group when it's installed later this year as the sorority's 69th chapter.

Hula Hoops— For Heels Yet

ROME —(WNS)— Italian women can now buy elegant shoes with hula-hoop heels. They are circular heels of metal and plastic that are guaranteed not to sink into soft tar or fall into gratings as the spike heels have done.

Schoolgirls in Milan have carried the hula-hoop shoes to an extreme: the circular heeled shoe becomes a roller skate in the back. The girls can walk flat on their feet or skate precariously by lifting their toes off the ground and resting on their heels.

Paulette Fredrick

South Dade High junior

She's taken her school's assembly programs out of the ordinary by planning unusual ones on atomic energy, guided missiles and auto safety. She's planned as many as 3 a week at times. She's student council vice president.

Teenagers and Their Fads

Do teenagers try to keep up with the Joneses—the junior Joneses, that is? The Herald Teen Panel, which alternates at Dade County schools, took that question under consideration. And this is what the panelists had to say.

By JEAN WARDLOW
Herald Staff Writer

Do teenagers try to keep-up-with-the-teenage-Joneses? That's what we asked The Herald Teen Panel. Their answer?

"Yes . . . girls and clothes, boys and cars." "And boys and clothes, too," added a Miami High boy.

"I think very few people try to be independent—different," began one pretty Tech High girl. "I think that if everybody wore pink shoelaces with polka dots, everybody else would wear them."

"Like those new tights everybody's wearing," said a Miami High girl and laughed. She referred to the hip-high knit stockings popular now on high school and college campuses. Black seems to be THE color for those.

A Miami High boy said thoughtfully, "I think that in school there are groups, and everyone in that particular group tries to do the same thing.

"As far as every teenager trying to keep up with a leader, though, I don't go along with it."

★ ★ ★

"WHAT ABOUT clothes?" asked another Miami High boy. "Everybody wears Ivy Leagues. You wear them."

"That's because you can't buy anything else. They don't make anything but Ivy Leagues any more," his friend replied.

The panelists pointed out that not everything set up to take the teens' fashion world by storm goes over. The sack dress, for example. Boys shook their heads at mere mention.

"I think girls respect what other people like and what looks good on them," said a Miami High girl.

Headache bands ("Aw, they were terrible") and brighter-than-bright colored trousers fell flat, too.

★ ★ ★

BUT THINGS which did catch on — teen by teen — according to the panelists include:

Black loafers and heavy wool socks—"I guess people just picked it up from the athletes. They were the first to wear them."

Crew neck sweaters for both boys and girls —"Couples who go steady have identical sweaters."

★ ★ ★

PAISLEY SHIRTS, or as one panelist's date described them: "the kind with worms all over them."

Sweat shirts for girls, for beach wear particularly—the kind with the school name on them. "One girl that I know wears a boy's football jersey," said a boy panelist.

Pins for clubs and as signs of going steady — "Nobody wears rings around the neck anymore."

And the outfit of dungarees, sweat shirt and loafers for boys. "We don't wear them on dates, but to informal parties where we'll just see the kids there — barbecues, going to someone's house to listen to records, that sort of thing.

BUT WHETHER they dress to keep up with the Joneses, just because they like the style or because the store doesn't have anything else, all the teenagers agreed that "teenagers dress better today than they used to."

Regarding jewelry, panelists said that the disc is the thing. Girls have round or heart-shaped discs which the giver has engraved with his name for the girls' charm bracelets.

And, Brothah Teen, those discs add up. One girl's bracelet is valued at $300 and a few teens even have their bracelets insured.

Tech High students said anklets have gone over big there. But not at Miami High.

What about keeping up with the Joneses when it comes to cars? "That's not a case of wanting one, it's a case of can you afford one?"

Why, that's not keeping up with the Joneses. That's being practical.

Woman With a Job Can Face Anything

Mollie Parnis

For 25 years Mollie and her husband, Leon J. Livingston, carried on a highly successful dress manufacturing business in New York. Mollie did the designing and Leon handled the business end.

Then, not quite a year ago, Mollie walked into her husband's office and found him dead of a heart attack. For Mollie, it seemed the end of the world. This was a closer association than most marriages: not only husband and wife, but also business partners.

So Mollie closed up the business and stayed home with her grief and her memories.

"I was completely lost," says the designer. "I felt I couldn't go on without Leon, and yet I couldn't find anything to fill up the days when I didn't have work to do. There is nothing worse than waking up in the morning with nobody to talk to and nothing to do."

Mollie Parnis missed only one collection — this spring's. Now she is back doing business at the old stand, looking her old vital self. She has a new business partner, Adolph Klein, who guided the destinies of the late Claire McCardell, and who is continuing his own manufactuing business while also managing business details for Mollie.

"I never realized how lucky I was to have a job until I gave it up. Now that I'm back in business I never want to quit again until they carry me out.

"It doesn't do anybody any good just to sit and grieve, and live with memories. The only cure for grief is to keep busy.

"I've learned my lesson now, and I'm more thankful than I can say that I've been given a second chance."

Fiesta of Stars Has French Theme

A French theme will be carried out at the Dade County Federation of Women's Clubs 21st annual Fiesta of Stars.

Party is at noon April 6 in La Bastille Club, Surfside, with French food and a show of French and Italian inspired clothes.

There'll be hostesses dressed as can-can girls, and two women dressed as left bank artists, "Les Beatniks Bourbon," will sing a parody of "I Love Paris in the Springtime."

But the purpose of the party is strictly local: to raise money for the federation's extensive scholarship program at the University.

Currently there are 27 young men and women on federation loan scholarships at the UM. And since the Fiesta of Stars' beginning 21 years ago, 150 scholarships have been provided.

Fashions to be shown by Burdines, coordinated by Betty Sherwin, will include Suzy Perette copies of French and Italian Designers. The can-can girl ushers will be members of junior federated clubs.

Ticket reservations may be made with Mrs. Frank Randolph Jr., 17940 NE 6th Ct., or Mrs. William Gray, 1572 NE 149th St.

"Les Beatniks Bourbon" are Mrs. Albert E. Bachmann, member of the Miami Junior Woman's Club and the University of Miami Woman's Club, and Mrs. Duane Heath, UM Woman's Club, who will sing the welcoming song.

Mrs. Sydney Weintraub, secretary of the federation's trustees, is general chairman of the fiesta for the 21st year.

Helping her are Mrs. William P. Grey, Mrs. Fred Ravlin, Mrs. Robert Payton, Mrs. Harvey Gardner, Mrs. William Barney, Mrs. William O. Mehrtens, Mrs. Edward Boardman, Mrs. William Dellahunt, Mrs. Bert Reilly, Mrs. Samuel Bobbitt and Mrs. James A. Morgan, president of the Dade County Federation of Women's Clubs.

One-Sided Divorce Banned In Algeria

PARIS — (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle, who already had given Algeria's four million Moslem women the vote, has issued an ordinance protecting them against one-sided divorce.

The new ordinance abolishes the age-old custom whereby a Moslem husband could end his marriage simply by saying "I divorce thee" three times to his wife.

From now on a divorce must be consented to by both parties, publicly and in person, and in the presence of two adult witnesses, either before a civil judge or a "cadi" (religious judge).

The new ordinance also forbids future marriages to be contrated for Moslem infants by their parents.

From now on marriage will require the consent of both bride and groom, who must be respectively 15 and 18 years old.

The ordinance does not specifically forbid polygamy. But its provisions for regulating marriage procedures will tend to discourage polygamy.

which high school seniors will win this "OSCAR"?

All types of students make up a high school. They come from homes of differing backgrounds. Some show unusual brilliance; others display qualities of character and leadership as dependable as a lighthouse beacon to a storm-tossed mariner.

The Herald seeks to find and bestow recognition on the ten outstanding high school seniors in Dade County. Each will receive the SILVER KNIGHT AWARD trophy and $200 to further his or her education.

The prized "Oscar" will be awarded in each of 10 categories. Basic to selection in each category will be the qualities of Achievement, Leadership and Character — the deeper evidence of personality — as expressed through that activity of interest.

Candidates will be nominated by their respective schools and the final judging will be by outstanding authorities selected by The Herald.

SILVER KNIGHT AWARD presentations will be made at a public ceremony April 30th in Dade County Auditorium. Three runners-up in each category will receive $50 in cash and a plaque.

These are the 10 SILVER KNIGHT AWARD categories:

1. General Scholarship
2. Science
3. Mathematics
4. Social Science
5. Music
6. Literature and Journalism
7. Speech and Drama
8. Art
9. Sportsmanship
10. Citizenship

The Herald's interest in education is further manifested by its thorough coverage of school events . . . by selecting All-City teams in all major athletic competition in Dade County . . . sponsoring the South Florida Science Fair . . . conducting the South Florida District Spelling Bee . . . and furnishing officially-accepted text booklets on how to get the most out of newspaper reading.

IRISH RECEPTION called for green, thought Mme. You Chan Yang, wife of the Korean Ambassador. So she wore a Korean Native dress—of green—to the reception Ireland's president, Sean O'Kelly and his wife gave. Koreans are called 'the Irish of the Pacific,' but Mme. Yang didn't know that the O'Kellys, being the Irish of Ireland, don't like green, so says Ireland's President O'Kelly.

Ouch and Begorrah, Truth About the Irish Is Told

WASHINGTON, D.C.

DEAR HERALD READERS:

And here the poor man had seen nothing but green all the time he was in Washington from the cravat President Eisenhower wore at the airport and the green carpet up to the plane instead of the usual red one—to 1,500 green carnations on the White House table the night the O'Kellys dined there.

At the dinner Dick Nixon gave for them, the flowers were green, the lightbulbs green, the screen in the ballroom green, even the harp was green. And of course, nearly a third of the women wore green gowns.

It was then that President O'Kelly told Nixon the truth about the unpopularity of green in Ireland.

It seems that the flag of Ireland before the war of independence was a green flag with the harp in the center. The flag is changed now (it's green, white and orange), but the President's flag is now a blue flag with a harp in the center — it's not green, because it reminds every Irish citizen of the days when Ireland was not free or independent.

What is the color the Irish like? The royal blue of St. Patrick, explained an Irish diplomat, that's the blue in the President's standard.

Then he added, "I could always tell who the Irish were at the parties. They were the ones who didn't wear green."

Ouch and begorrah! What a faux pas! But do you think from now on Americans will trot out in royal blue next St. Patrick's Day?

I doubt it.

WASHINGTON SURVIVED its first jazz festival, and as one observer put it, "This was the first sermon to the natives. It will take a few more to make them members of the faith."

The first hot licks concert, that was so social you could cut it with a knife, netted Friendship Settlement House here $10,000, with more to come when the recording of the whole to-do is pared down to the evening's best and put on sale.

Energetic chairman of the benefit and a real jazz buff, Mrs. Dick Bolling, wife of the Congressman from Missouri, signed a contract with Mercury records that very night.

* * *

AROUND THE TOWN: King Hussein sleeping in a king-size bed at the Embassy of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan . . . When the Jordanians bought the house from Martha Rountree several months ago, they asked to buy the oversize beds too. But this week was the first time one of the king-size beds had a real king in it.

Philippine Ambassador Carlos Romulo gleefully exclaiming as he greeted Irish President O'Kelly, "I am so glad to meet a man who is one-half inch shorter than I am!" . . . But the man that pleased President O'Kelly was Vietnam Ambassador Tran Van Chuong, the smallest of them all. Sean took one look at him and said joyfully from his superior 5 foot 4 inch height, "Now here's a darling of a man!"

By the way, as poor as Ireland is, a sign was put up at the hotel check room where they gave their big Washington reception saying "No Tipping Please. Your Host Has Taken Care of It."

And to think at some ambassadorial parties given right inside their own residence, servants put out a tray with coins in it to attract more! Perhaps the hosts are not aware of this silent form of begging in their own homes.

New Tint Washes Out of Your Hair

By ELEANOR HART
Herald Glamor Clinic

Today your Easter bonnet may rival the rainbow. Tomorrow your hair can do likewise . . . providing you're a blonde, bleacher or natural.

Glamor Clinic

A nationally known hair products house has the answer for fair-haired ladies with a penchant for color — rainbow hued rinses that will match your hair to the color of your gown.

Take your pick of Tickled Pink, Green Envy, Merry Apricot, Red Riot, Blue Mood, Mauve Decade or Mad Gold. Or combine two or several colors of the spectrum for dramatic effect.

No, you're not stuck with it until the color grows out—shampoo your hair back to natural the next day or next hour, as you desire.

Miami hairdressers got a look-see at this latest in colorful hair innovations at a workshop held last Sunday at the Dupont Plaza, where fellow artists combed, laced and teased shining heads of bright spring green, soothing lavender and rosy pink.

It's easy if your crowning glory is blonde or silvery gray — after shampooing, the hairdresser mixes the colored creme rinse of your choice in a plastic applicator bottle and applies to the hair. A wait of three minutes, a clear water rinse and your new colo. is here to stay until the next shampoo.

Brunettes, of course, can go in for highlights. For example, Blue Mood adds rich highlights to the raven-haired Miss.

The rainbow rinses were a highlight of the recent International Beauty Show in New York, where the fanciful head colors were featured, not only for Mom, but for Dad as well . . . Tagged his and her rinses.

For example, if the Head of the House is tickled to death over a stock market killing, he can throw caution to the winds and douse his head in Tickled Pink rinse, knowing all the time he can be shampooed back to his natural faded blonde when the dawn comes up like thunder.

The haircoloring company stresses the need for professional technique in applying this colorful transformation. Check with your favorite beauty salon for information. If you want to know the trade name of the product, write to the Glamor Clinic, enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope.

Fashions in Line With Jet Age

By MARY GOODFELLOW
Herald Columnist

NEW YORK — In spring, a young man's fancy may turn to love, but our feminine thoughts turn to — an Easter suit, a fresh print frock and flowered hat. Since Eve wore a G-string of leaves, woman has firmly believed in helping nature along, and the creative minds and nimble fingers of America's great couture help us weave our web of enchantment.

James Galanos

Sleek limousines were lined up two deep at Sheraton-East, waiting for their precious perfumed passengers. The caviar-bracket gals were viewing the spring collection of "that little Greek boy" from California, James Galanos. Hoping to resist the temptation ($250-$1,000 for a whisp of intricately cut silk), we later met the Coty and Neiman Marcus award winner in his suite.

Galanos strode across the room with the lithe grace of a Degas dancer. His slim legs encased in navy serge, beneath lively brown eyes his flaring nostrils seemed to breathe fashion as he showed us his latest silhouette, semi-fitted with inverted front pleats and rigid puffed sleeves.

"It's a flat sheath over the body, functional and free, mobile and in gear with our jet age," said Jimmy.

The designer went on to say that he had liked the "sac," but that today women were timid and wouldn't go along with a radical change.

When he designs, Galanos looks for unity in feeling, and says fabrics have their own language and speak to him, in a line or a curve.

This boy-wonder runs an exclusive $2,000,000 business from his Beverly Hills home and sells his dresses to some 55 stores across the country. His only private customer is Roz Russell, whom he loves—and calls a clotheshorse.

* * *

Another youthful hope is the 32 year-old Roman designer, Tomaso Baccigalupo. Here for less than eight months, Tomaso has already become the pet custom-draper of several socialite beauties. Seated in a Victorian chair in his apartment, we had to admit that this tall dark and handsome lad had a way about him.

In broken English, Baccigalupo told us his workroom was in New Jersey where the rent was cheaper, "but," he said, "I always get nervous taking the train there, in case I make mistake."

Having braved the Paris Metro and the London Tube as a foreigner we sympathized, and Tomaso gained our heartfelt warmth by agreeing that American women are the best dressed.

* * *

BUZZING-THE-TOWN . . . Socialites and celebrities gathered the other afternoon at the Sagittarious Gallery to see Art of the Old World spiked with a royal flavor . . . Austrian aristocrat, Prince Francis J. N. Windisch-Graetz, who took up painting at his half-century mark, showed a most interesting group of smallish oils depicting the horsemen of the Spanish Riding School (Vienna's Lippizaners). The Prince, whose ancestors go back to Charlemagne, specializes in family trees which he does most attractively — and the price depends on the amount of research . . . At Mourna (Lympany) and Bennett Korn's cocktail party we weren't surprised to meet attractive Frederick Steinway — for our hostess uses nothing else but a Steinway piano on her concert tours . . . Another interesting guest was the London Mirror columnist Don Iddom, back from the MacMillan - Khrushchev conference in Moscow . . . Don looked hale and hearty after a diet of vodka and caviar . . . but said there wasn't even a wee drop of Scotch in all of Russia, and that his laundry was done beautifully in ten hours . . .

We're a bit dizzy with Hotel invitations for Easter Brunch . . . Whether the Plaza has a bigger egg than the Waldorf, or who has the Easter bunny is anyone's guess . . . but we'll wear a checked Dior (not Ohrbach's) and a Dache bonnet . . . and wherever we'll be, we wish you Happy Easter . . .

What's Under His Scalp?

NEW YORK — (WNS) — Do women particularly notice baldness in men?

Says Actress Hedy Lamarr:

"Bald or not bald isn't the question — it's what the beast is made of inside.

"The internal ingredients, not the superficial, external things are what matter. A man for me must have intelligence, stature, grace and charm — if he happens to be bald, what does it matter?"

And Gloria Swanson is even more outspoken:

"I think it's time we realized we should be more concerned about what's under the scalp than what's on it.

"No man was more attractive than Cecil B. de Mille. You never noticed his baldness because he was fascinating.

"That was true of Irvin S. Cobb, too. He was an unattractive man to look at, perhaps, but five minutes in his company and he was the most exciting person you'd ever want to meet."

Dull, fading hair? Going gray?

This picture was taken just one week after the girl used an ordinary color rinse.
After just one shampoo, the color is gone—her hair looks grayed, streaked, faded again.

See how COLOR LIFT transforms dull hair, or hair that's going gray, to radiant new beauty! Choose from 12 exciting COLOR LIFT shades. Blonde hair sizzles with excitement. Red hair lights up and glows. Dark hair glistens with highlights. And COLOR LIFT can help blend in gray hair . . . or shimmer it with silver!

COLOR LIFT is a breeze to use. No mixing. No capsules. No messy applicator. Just lather it in—right from the bottle!

Give your hair this fabulous new color lift next time you shampoo. Two-month supply, 1.50 plus tax. At department and drug stores. Helena Rubinstein, 655 Fifth Ave., New York 22.

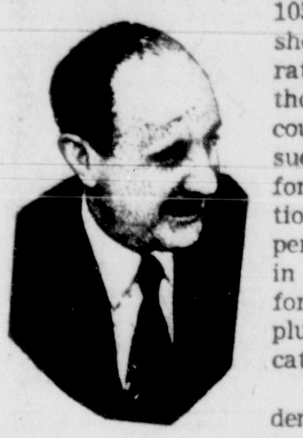
'Gigi,' Niven and Shirley MacLaine Rate Oscars



ONE WEEK from Monday night the 2,200 actor and technician members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences will make known to the public, via its 105-minute TV Oscar Award show, how the industry itself rates its top talents. The Poll is a thoroughly honest one. An accounting firm of high repute issues the ballots and counts them for both the preliminary nominations (in which each category of performance votes its preference in its specific category only) and for the final in which all 2,200-plus members have a voice in all categories.

Oh, it is not too vigorously denied that there is politicking and bartering of support on an unofficial level — but seldom has there been so much of it that it represented a flagrant assault on justice. justice.

* * *

Bourke's Personal Choices

IN PAST YEARS we've listed in advance of the results the slate which we expected would be the winning one. We've never hit all major categories on the nose, but we've had many near misses—with only one wrong. This year we are going to play the rebel by listing those which we would like to see win on the basis of our personal appreciation, instead of trying to anticipate the Academy choice.

These would be:

BEST PICTURE — "Gigi."

BEST ACTOR — David Niven, for "Separate Tables."

BEST ACTRESS — Shirley MacLaine, for "Some Came Running."

BEST SUPPORTING ACTOR — Split between Lee Cobb, "Brothers Karamazov" and Gig Young, "Teacher's Pet."

BEST SUPPORTING ACTRESS — Wendy Hiller, "Separate Tables."

BEST SONG — "A Very Precious Love."

BEST FOREIGN LANGUAGE PICTURE — "My Uncle."

Frankly, we don't think more than half will come out on top on the Oscar poll. But in Bourke's Picture Peerage they get the "Best of 58" rating.

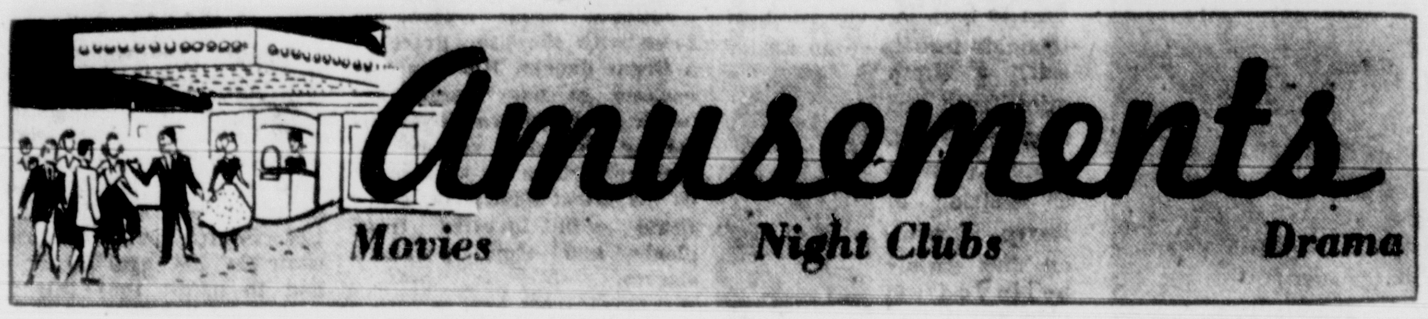
Beards Rented to Beatniks

FUNNY OF THE WEEK is concerned with the For Sale sign now on Ellis Island, the former immigration gateway to America headquarters in New York Harbor. Gag is that Beach hotelier Morris Lansburgh will add it to his string of hotel operations if associate Sam Cohen will take a mortgage on it. That's not as funny as it sounds. Ellis Island is where "the American Plan" started for millions of immigrants.

Ernie Kovacs will be in the cast of "Our Man in Havana" which Carol Reed will start shooting in Havana on April 20, with Alec Guinness and Burl Ives also in the cast . . . Ruth Regina, the beach hairdresser and beauty expert, says that several of her colleagues in Los Angeles and San Francisco are renting beards to members of the beatnik crowd who are ordinary conservative Joes by daylight . . .

And then there's Bob Feinstein, of Mammy's, who tells the one about the nudist camp theater group which plans to do Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing" in modern undress.



Confidentially . . .

They're Saying:

THAT a group of old timers in the Virgin Islands is ready to fight a rumored move to couple the islands with Puerto Rico in a 51st State campaign . . . THAT the New York probe of falsified export shipping declarations (commercial equipment labeled as personal effects) which enabled South American and Caribbean customers to evade their country's exchange and import restrictions may have local repercussions . . . THAT "loyal opposition" to Fidel Castro in Cuba is planning a campaign to kid him out of his program of governing by "rule of thumb" — the Roman mob "thumbs down," that is, by flooding the country with cariactures of him as "El Pulgar" — The Thumb. Hold Castro illustration adjoining to your thumb and you'll get the idea.

That Femmecee Is Radio Vet

VISITORS back from New York are wishing that Erika, who has a tiny boite on Second Ave. which is frequented by the foreign beauties, would establish one here. It's an informal smart spot with Rocky Graziano, Denise Darcel and Zsa Zsa Gabor a sampling of one evening's clientele . . . Jack Silverman's International in New York gets a bill this week that many local spots would like to have on tap—Myron Cohen and the Barry Sisters, Claire and Merna.

The "fighting" is apt to break out in Cuba any day now—in the pubs that is: John Ireland is to house-guest with Errol Flynn in Havana! . . . Josh Logan is trying to whip up a fresh version of "Fanny" to fit Maurice Chevalier who just closed at the Eden Roc. . .

Sid Rosenthal, associate of Don Rickles in his engagements here, is now managing the Skyview Lounge on Biscayne Boulevard near Broad Causeway . . . Comedian Corbett Monica and dancers Norton and Patricia will be in support of singer Johnny Mathis at the Fontainebleau, starting Thursday.

If Ronnie Roberts, femmecee of the Club 23's Silk Stocking Revue, sounds familiar to your ear—your ear might be recalling her Dreamy Gal voice of radioland . . . Dick Clark, of TV's American Bandstand, will have a nice supporting cast for his April 18 date at the Miami Beach Exhibition Hall. The 28-year-old sensation will top a bill including The Diamonds, Connie Francis, Duane Eddy, Neil Sedaka, Dale Hawkins, Travis and Bob, Fabian and The Fleetwoods.

Smoke Forced Prima Surgery

LOUIS PRIMA will probably never get a cigaret sponsor. The nasal surgery he underwent last week is because of an allergy to smoke-filled rooms. Which reminds that cigaret-sponsored Frank Sinatra had to change the name of one of his corporations from Kent to Hobart because there is a Kent cigaret too . . . A Baltimore man has invented a musical toothbrush. Does it play "Wonder Where the Yellow Went?" . . . Ray Redman, the publicist-consultant, became a grandpa last week with the birth of a seven-and-a-half pound son to daughter Jean, who is wife of Miami Beach Detective Albert Biblio.

Sonja Henie Plans Castle On an Island

Memo from a Girl Friday . . .

DEAR MR. W: Louise Topping (of the Topping clan) and Anthony Maimone of Italy were married sotto voce a few matinees ago. His father is the Marquis De Maimone . . . Mamie Van Doren and husband Ray Anthony almost made up. They flew to Palm Springs, where they had their best fight yet, so now it's off, again . . . Do the girls-about-town know the unimportant looking man at El Morocco nightly is England's wealthiest citizen? He's Charles Clore and he resembles Ernest Bevan. Mr. Clore is a bachelor . . . Movie-Life mag has put the whammy on the impending Liz Taylor-Eddie Fisher marriage. Its astrologer predicts "ultimate tragedy" for both, etc . . . Esther Williams expects her final decree very soon.

Sonja Henie

HUGH O'BRIAN sure gets around. One of the belles he long-kisstances (to Paris) is Adriana Eller, granddaughter of Mexico's one-time President Calles. They met in Egypt . . Rita Hayworth will demand that Prince Aly sign a waiver regarding his claim of diplomatic immunity (which he used in Reno) to keep from paying monies she alleges he owes for support of their tot. If he doesn't, she will never allow Princess Yasmin to visit him abroad . . . Rex Harrison has earned about half-a-million in the 4 years of starring in "Fair Lady" . . . That new big tipper (gave $100 bills to each man in Turk Murphy's Dixieland band) at the Round-table is H. L. Connelly of Miss.

* * *

THE DUKE of Bedford's boy (Robin Tavistock) told friends of mine that the items in the papers about him marrying a London deb (Henrietta Tiarks) are not true. He's doing the late spots with Olga Picot, dghtr of the French Ambassador to the U.N. . . . Thanks for the tip on Imperiale, a delightful restaurant, real cozy . . . The beatniks will invade Madison Avenue next. A string of espresso spots are being planned. The first will open at Madison and 69th. Poetry, beards and all That Jazz . . . Sonja Henie and husband Nils Onstad bought an island in Norway on which they'll build a miniature castle . . . Hooray for Hedy Lamarr and I quote: "Some women have affairs; unfortunately, I marry my men. It's funny that a woman can have 25 lovers and nobody says anything. But if she has four husbands, she's terrible!"

* * *

HEARD you enjoyed every moment of the new "Victor Herbert" show at the Cotillion. The Earl Wrightson, Bill Tabbert, Dolores Perry vocallure is truly a bargain floor show . . . Rosie Dolly of the famous sisters is mending after a bout with double pneu. Even had her medics worried . . . Anita Ekberg's comment in refusing to be photographed with a chap: "My husband allows me to have the lobster but forbids the butter sauce!" . . . Washemeen?

INTERESTING book just out, "What Does A Policeman Do?" By Johanna Johnston and Martin Harris. Dodd, Mead publish. The cop on the jacket is Timothy Brady of the 15th Pct . . . Have you heard "Love Me Forever?" It doesn't even try to disguise the fact that it's "The Sextette From Lucia" . . . New feud along Broadway, Myron Cohen and Emil Cohen. Same last name and same type of act . . . "First Impressions" is playing to standees, albeit it lost the critics 4 to 3 . . . Hermione Gingold was scolded for playing her role "too hokey." So wot? It stops the show and she is funny . . . I have a solution for the midtown parking problem. Use all that space of those stores along 42nd Street which are always Going Out of Business . . . Desk wanted to know what you know, if anything, about Miss Turner and Fred May merging. He was reported her big date on the coast. His divorce becomes final next January.

Week Brings a Colorful Holiday—on Ice

By GEORGE BOURKE
Herald Amusement Editor

Flashy Holiday on Ice Skate Stars
. . . Erika Kraft and Frankie Sawyers

The more adult activities of the Miami night life scene will have to take a back seat for the next week as main interest, including that of a lot of adults, shifts to the for-all-the-family Holiday on Ice skating spectacular which opens on Monday night at the Miami Beach Exhibition Hall for a run through April 5.

This is the 14th annual ice revue which the Tysons — George and Ruth of South Miami — have produced and almost all of them have made a Miami stop. This year the theme — and feature number — is "The Wizard of Oz," with an accent that will appeal particularly to children.

But there is plenty for adults too, such as the attractive and skilled blade stars making up the Glamour-icers, the brilliant soloing of Erika Kraft, an international champion; Jimmy Lawrence, one of America's foremost skating stylists, Tony Lemac and Tommy Collins, and the comedy of Paul Andre, the pair skating of Jinx Clark and Collins, Lawrence and Margaret Field and Miss Kraft and Frankie Sawyers, and the delightful finesse of tiny Debbie Williams.

Up in Palm Beach — but due for a later Miami showing — the new version of "Babes in Arms," a Broadway musical hit of 1937, will open at the Royal Poinciana Playhouse Monday night for a run through April 4.

Headlining the Rodgers and Hart musical, on which Richard Rodgers himself has worked in the updating, will be Brian Davies, well-known for his frequent television work, and Julie Wilson, a night club singer who has also been featured in such stage musicals as "Kismet," "Pajama Game" and the London company of "South Pacific."

Also in the cast will be Barbara Sharma, a Miami girl, who has been the hit of the national company of "The Boy Friend"; Joan Hovis, Sherry Kaye, Harvey Hornecker, Milo Boulton, Mary Cooper and William Lanteau.

"Babe in Arms" will follow the current "Dear Liar," starring Katharine Cornell and Brian Aherne, whch is in its final week at the Coconut Grove Playhouse.

"Dear Liar," which is based on letters passed between George Bernard Shaw and Mrs. Patrick Campbell, is a new play by Jerome Kilty and will go to Broadway sometime this spring.

On the night club scene the week's highlight will be the opening of singer Johnny Mathis at the Fontainebleau Hotel La Ronde Room on Thursday night, and the continued run of the current Joe E. Lewis and Eartha Kitt at Eden Roc; Jack Carter and Dorothy Sarnoff at Americana; Buddy Hackett and Lilo at the Deauville, and the opening of Jaye P. Morgan at the Diplomat on Friday.

Brian Aherne, Katherine Cornell
. . . continue at Playhouse in 'Dear Liar'

Events coming up in the future will include the appearance of Mme. Averil Tong in the closing offering of Barry College's 1958-59 Culture Series program, on Sunday, April 5; the Coral Gables Country Club Theater Group presentation of "Holiday for Lovers" for three nights starting April 7; the Norton Gallery Players production of Arnold Schulman's "A Hole in the Head," April 7-11 and the presentation of "Her Majesty Regrets," a new play by Stephen Sanford, at the Little Theatre of Clearwater during the week of April 13.

Swiss Irate: Want to See Satch, Natch

Armstrong and his orchestra slipped out a back door of the stadium under police protection while the audience rioted in protest against the early end of the concert.

A Swiss police riot squad went into action with rubber truncheons and finally turned the stadium fire hoses on the youths to quell the disturbance.

Say, Guess Who's Smoochin' Rock?

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Yep, there was Julia Meade looking as chic as ever, but she wasn't selling brownies or automobiles.

Hudson

As a matter of fact, she was engaged in a passionate love scene with Rock Hudson. Heavens to Ed Sullivan!

Television's ace salesgirl is in the Hollywoods to make her first movie, "Anyway the Wind Blows," starring Hudson, Doris Day and Tony Randall. Although she seems a little lost without a product to pitch, she's doing a fine job.

Between Rock's kisses, she told how the deal came about:

"I had known the producer, Ross Hunter, for some time, and he has been looking for a part for me. He thought of me for the role of a Southern belle who is one of Rock's girl friends. It happened that the director, Michael Gordon, had directed me in a similar part in a play, 'The Tender Trap.' So they sent for me."

It took a bit of doing, because Julia has to appear weekly on the Sullivan show from New York. But she managed to work it out by commuting to the East on weekends. She's delighted with the work, as what red-blooded American girl wouldn't be?

Her work on commercials is less romantic, but also satisfying, she indicated.

"I'm glad I took the job. The money is good (reportedly $100,000 a year), and I have been helped as an actress. When I went out to do summer stock, my name meant something, and I could get better salaries.

"The work has taken me to Europe and other parts of the world that I might never have seen. And I find doing the commercials is a challenge. I prepare for them just as I would for an acting role."

But isn't she worried about getting typed as a salesgirl?

"No, because I've limited myself," she said. "I do commercials only within the body of the two shows — Ed's and Playhouse 90."

Unlike Mary Costa, Betty Furness and other pitchwomen, Julia has never had any serious boo-boos on TV. That's due to her excellent memory and foresight.

"When the stage is cleared 30 seconds before I go on, I always check everything — that the car doors aren't locked and the gadgets are working," she explained.

Beach in Spring Is Far Cry from 1929

THIRTY YEARS AGO at this time of the year Miami Beach took on the characteristics of a cow town after the roundups were over. Hotels were closing; night clubs shuttering. Even the bookies took a holiday.

Joe E. Lewis . . . playing

Alan Dean . . . singing

Buddy Hackett, who isn't continental, and Lilo, the French singer, who is, are at the Deauville . . . the incomparable Charlie Farrell at Gray's Inn . . . Arthur Lee Simpkins in Lou Walter's "French Dressing" at the Carillon . . . Jean-Carroll and Alan Dean at the Diplomat . . . Diosa Costello, and her long run "Havana Mardi Gras" at the Lucerne.

And, to think that in 1929 even Fink's Mules would have had a tough time getting a booking in Miami Beach on March 29!

Skeltons Get a Recipe

THEY HAVE thrice weekly "slimnastic" classes at the Biltmore Terrace, but people can't get thin if they chomp on three big meals a day . . . Red and Georgia Skelton talked Angelo Liberto into giving them the recipe for his special mixed grill . . . "Legs" Diamond was given her nickname by Harold Minsky when she doffed at the Dunes in Las Vegas . . . Add Quaint Names Department: Illinois Jacquet, sax star at the Rocking MB.

Si Byer is bringing the Novel-Aires into the Seminole in Hialeah April 4. This musical-singing combo is finishing a successful run at Jimmy Fazio's in Fort Lauderdale.

Mike Gordon played host to Hugh ("Wyatt Earp") O'Brien. Mike's restaurant has been selected as a background for a series of cigaret commercials, so he'll be a TV star, too. Within the space of a week the Dupont Plaza will have three United States senators as guests, George Smathers, of Florida, Karl Mundt, (R., S.D.) and Hubert Humphrey, (D., Minn.).

Another suggested dinner: Scampi (Out of This World Inn) roast beef (King Arthur's Court) salad, with John Itts's dressing (Gray's Inn), apple pie (Joe's Stone Crabs).

Yankees Again?

FROM OFFERS pouring in on maestro George Hines, who closes soon at the Golden Gate, he must be the best-liked musicmaker in Our Town.

The other night at Nick and Arthur's, Del Webb, co-owner of the Yankees, insisted his team would win the American League championship again and I think he's right . . . Bob Bedwell, Club House restaurant pianist, has seven new-born German Shepherd puppies, and is desperately trying to find a way out . . . Frankie Hyers, who used to be a standout with Jack White at Club 18 in New York years ago, is part of the raucous proceedings at Marie (Butch) Austin's Cub Room in the Sovereign Hotel.

Is there a better emcee anywhere than Jackie Heller, of the Eden Roc? . . . Give Eddie Cohen four stars and a magnum of champagne for the way he's handled La-Bastille this year . . . Don Julio has had his biggest season at his wonderful little Mexican hideaway.

Maestro Harry Harden, of the Versailles' Can Can Room, getting raves about his stereo recording of "Valentine Tangos" . . . Val Turner, maitre d' in the Ivory Tower of the Saxony, held a similar job at Sam Barken's Five O'Clock Club, when I first met him 20 years ago. Even with the turban he wears now, Val still looks like a Russian grand duke . . . The DiLido, Delano, Nautilus, Shelborne, Sea Gull and Shoreham Hotels plan a new package deal which should hike summer business in the Lincoln Road area.

Bardot Statue Has Police Excited

PRESTON, England —(AP)— This town's police decided Brigitte Bardot in the almost-nude is too hot to handle, even when she's only plaster.

They ruled that exhibiting a statue of the French movie charmer in front of a local theater would "offend against good taste or decency, and be offensive to public feeling."

Movie Owner Lionel Lewis bowed to the police edict, but declared: "It is a beautiful little statue and can be put into terms of badness only by narrow-minded people."

JEWEL named Julie Wilson will have the lead role in "Babes In Arms," opening Monday night at Royal Poinciana Playhouse in Palm Beach and due one week later at the Coconut Grove Playhouse in Miami.

BROUGHT BACK "by popular demand" this week are two former Academy Award-winning feature films of the past — "A Place in the Sun," based on Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy," and "Stalag 17." Featured in the first, above, are Elizabeth Taylor and Montgomery Clift. They open Wednesday at Paramount, Coral and Colony Theaters.

Concert Set For April 3

Billie O'Day will conduct the Miami Symphonic Society Orchestra in a concert scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday (April 3) at Rader Methodist church, 8755 NE 2nd Ave. Soloist will be soprano Virginia Englebright, a member of Rader's Choir.

Miss Englebright was recently a state winner in the National Federation of Music Clubs auditions, and placed second in the district competition at Spartanburg, S.C.

She will sing "Pace, Pace, Mio Eio" from Verdi's "La Forza del Destino", and Cyril Scott's "Lullaby." The orchestra will perform works by Haydn, Mozart, Wagner, Griffes and Sibelius.

He'd Go Over Niagara Again

By JOE FINNIGAN
UPI Staff Writer

"I went over Horseshoe Falls," the balding Lussier said. "But, next time I want to take on the other one, American Falls, and I know I can do it.

"Only six people have gone over Horseshoe. Just three survived and I'm the only one now living.

"My life won't be complete until I go over American."

And, that could complete it! The outspoken retired machinist said his 1928 rubber ball cost $7,000. But, today they're a drug on the market at $25,000.

After his feat in 1928, Lussier toured with films of his "ride" on a lecture schedule of the United States and foreign countries.

Lussier told stories — some unprintable—about other daredevils who attempted the treacherous feat. Sitting over a lunch of steak and beer, the intrepid ex-machinist said:

"I want to do it again, but it would have to be in a rubber ball.

"I wouldn't dare it in a wood or metal barrel for $50,000. That's a good way to get killed.

"Wood will hit the rocks below and shred, and if it's a steel barrel, a man would be crushed to death."

Lussier was in town to appear on TV's "You Asked for It" picture animation of the falls' history.

Unfortunately, Lussier's films won't be available for the viewers. The show's creative producer, Cran Chamberlin, said the daredevil's old nitrate-type films cannot be used as they are "the equivalent of a bomb."

"If you thread them up in a projector, the friction would cause them to blow up," Chamberlin said. "I'm afraid his film is lost to posterity."

However, "posterity" can get another chance to record Lussier's bit of daring-do if somebody comes up with the cash to "lure" Lussier out of a retirement where he's now "content to sit in my rocking chair and drink my beer and whiskey.

"Give me the dough, though, and I'll go," he said as he polished off his steak—and the interview.

Formal Dinner Table at Mrs. Robert Z. Greene's Home

Pretty Tables

Above — luxurious lustre of gold combines with antique silver to give this formal place setting its look of elegance.

Active Miami hostess Mrs. Robert Z. Greene inherited this gold table service from her grandmother who had acquired it in England. Each place setting includes service plate, butter place, salt and pepper shaker, ash tray, cigaret holder and matchbox cover.

The antique silver flatware, a wedding present, is the traditional English Thistle design. Mrs. Greene had the Baccarat crystal glasses made in Paris and the hand-applique linen tablecloth and napkins in Madeira. The crystal and washed gold centerpiece was a wedding present from Sailing Baruch — it was a Baruch family heirloom.

Depending on the effect she wants to create, Mrs. Greene varies her china. For ultra-formal dinners she adds gold dinner plates, slightly smaller than the service plate shown. Sometimes she uses white plates rimmed in gold.

Those of you who are homesick for this flowering symbol of Spring now can have your hyacinths all year 'round. They bloom on a new set of plastic dinnerware.

You must be partial to pink, though, for that's the color they flower in. Pink is a "gregarious" color that likes the company of almost any other color. This makes table setting easy for the hostess who lacks imagination.

There'll be no dinner in the round when you use your "pink hyacinth" service. Plates, cups and saucers are square, with edges beveled slightly.

The service is designed to survive many a meal. It's break-resistant. If you would like to know where it can be purchased, write The Herald Shopping Service, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Private Clubs Operating In the Red?

By HELEN WELLS
Herald Society Editor

THE BIG SEASON is withering on the vine, but party dates for the Little Season are blooming apace. And how did the Big Season go? How did the private clubs fare this winter?

The Big Season was tres gai, although complaints about the number of benefits balls were a constant undercurrent. There were not nearly so many lavish private parties as heretofore; many hosts, this year, confined themselves to a series of small dinner parties and entertaining at the benefits.

Helen Wells

As to the clubs, hearsay has it that they have had a thin time of it. Naturally, club managers aren't going to reveal their statistics but rumor has it that Indian Creek, the Bath and the Surf operated in the red with La Gorce and Riviera on the border line.

Definitely in the black is year-around Coral Gables Country Club. And no wonder. There are 2,370 members and a waiting list a mile . . . well, almost that . . . long; initiation fees and dues are extremely moderate and the club and its enlarged and roofed patio are air conditioned. Byron Sperow is president of this club where upwards of six and seven hundred turn out for the club dinner dances.

Another year-around club, La Gorce, has had the best year in its history. The lively dance music is a big attraction, the food is good and the atmosphere, friendly. Van Kussrow is president of La Gorce.

Indian Creek Club pepped up its program with a "give-away" night, but attendance at most of its dinner dances has been pretty slim. Bath Club also added extra special attractions at its Saturday evening dinner dances, but its largest gathering was counted at a fashion show luncheon. John Pritchard is president of Indian Creek and George Gilleland of the Bath.

"They" say that the Surf Club is contemplating installing air conditioning during the coming summer. Attendance at the galas and fashion shows is not what it once was, but the morning book reviews drew good crowds.

Food at the Surf can't compare with that of Indian Creek, the Bath Club, or La Gorce, yet the Surf has had better crowds than the Bath or Indian Creek, and many of the same set belong to all three. George Ritter is president of the Surf.

How to account for the foibles of club goers?

Among the three seasonal clubs, it has been said — with a chuckle — that the Bath Club looks down its nose at the Surf and tolerates Indian Creek; Indian Creek gazes down its aristocratic nose at the Surf and tolerates the Bath while the Surf Club kicks up its heels and turns a cold shoulder on both its competitors!

Zip Went Raincoat

Prelude to her appearance at the club was husband Bob's indignation when he saw her. "You're not going like THAT?" he exclaimed.

About that time, Joe Timilty who had gotten the costume for Zoe at the Latin Quarter, arrived at their La Gorce Island home and saved the day. He swathed Zoe in an all concealing raincoat for the trip, which appeased Bob.

The coat came off in a hurry at the club and as you can imagine our Zoe was the sensation of the evening. However, she said that Bob plays golf on Sundays and she plans to hide this paper from him!

Goats Galore

A GOAT SAFARI? Yes, that's what Jack Jones, Graham Miller and Dr. Joe Groom girded themselves for last week. They took off in Graham's and Dr. Joe's private plane for Jack's 5,000 acre ranch, Valley View, north of Cloudland, Ga., on Lookout Mountain to bag this elusive game.

Furthermore, they brought down one wild goat and carted it home. "These hunters are going to eat their game," said Jack.

So he and his mate prepared goat barbecue in their patio on Thursday and there's been no report of indigestion so far.

Five years ago Jack Jones turned 18 domestic goats loose on his ranch. They have multiplied like mad and are completely wild, thus the "wild goats." The men only saw four on the 20 miles they hiked in the mountains and were lucky to bag one

Teach Your Children True Spirit of Easter

By MARY ENGLISH
Written for The Herald

In the temperate area of the United States, Easter symbolizes the shedding of drab winter. Flowers begin to bloom. Trees, long bare, take on new life. Birds return from tropical climes to their native habitats.

Your South
Florida
Child

In these areas, Easter Sunday dramatically symbolizes the re-awakening of new hope.

In South Florida, there are no such dramatic weather changes. Here, we have sunshine, blue cloudless skies, tropical flowers, and a galaxy of birds all the year.

Perhaps many of us here do not place enough emphasis on the idea of the spiritual rebirth (identified with the advent of Spring) because we have been over endowed with nature's bounty.

Instead we tend to over emphasize Easter outfits for our children, Easter egg hunts, and material things generally.

Buying expensive Easter baskets for children, filled with all kinds of inedible candy, is an accepted Easter custom. Some parents even purchase toys and gifts for their offspring, including dyed Easter chicks.

Personally, I think the idea of dying Easter chicks and selling them should be opposed by the SPCA! The chicks can not be cared for properly in most urban areas and their life expectancy is nil.

This practice teaches children to be careless and indifferent to suffering.

IN MIAMI TODAY, all twins in the city are invited to march in the annual Twin Easter Parade. It is a fascinating and wonderful sight.

Having twins of my own, the miracle of multiple birth still amazes me.

The true spirit of Easter manifests itself in spiritual rebirth. Through our children only, are we assured of immortality.

Do we value them for themselves — not as show pieces, but as real individuals?

Are we encouraging them to develop early a true sense of spiritual values?

Or are we victims of commercialism with its emphasis only upon the material aspects of the Easter season?

Let's help them to keep all those qualities typified by Spring — freshness, cleanliness, and beauty.

I hope many families will take their children to church with them today and give thanks anew to God for this most wonderful of all countries — and for the beauty of nature always at our finger tips here in South Florida.

I hope that you will take them to the beach and let them smell the salt air, or splash in the waves. Let them listen to the birds sing and pick flowers from your yard.

Let this be an Easter dedicated to re-discovery of the true meaning of this important time.

Mrs. English invites your questions. If you have a problem concerning your child, which can be discussed in this column, write her at The Miami Herald, Miami, Fla.

Moms Can Learn Their Jobs

LONDON —(WNS)— English mothers who are not adapted to rearing families can now enter an "enchanted cottage" in Yorkshire where they will receive re-education in the subject.

The government will pay half the expenses of the course. Such housewives leave their husbands and children for three months to study under specialists in such subjects as child care, cooking, housekeeping, and family psychology.

The women must then pass three-week examinations with their families before returning to their own homes.

25 Sisterhoods To Attend Florida Training Conference

Representatives of the 25 conservative Sisterhoods in Florida will attend the 13th annual Spring Conference of the Florida Branch-in-Training of the Southeast Branch of National Women's League of United Synagogue of America.

This conference runs April 5 through 7 at the Attache Motel, Hollywood. About 100 delegates are expected.

Mrs. Harold Rifkind, St. Petersburg, is president of the Southeast Branch and chairman of the Florida Branch-in-Training. Mrs. Jack Sherman is convention chairman.

Representing the national organization will be Mrs. Henry Gichner, Washington, D.C., national parliamentarian. She will be guest speaker and consultant. In Washington, Mrs. Gichner is active in the Women's Division, National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Conference opens Sunday morning with brunch, followed by business sessions and workshops on sisterhood projects, such as youth work. Torah fund luncheon is Monday, as is the induction of six new sisterhoods.

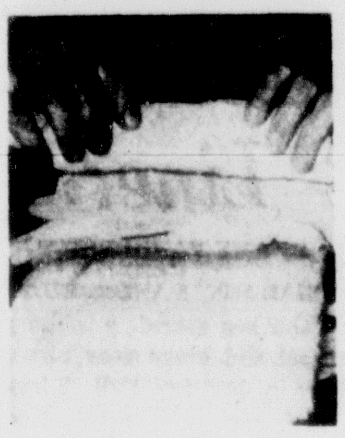
Right Way To Wash Gloves

Put Gloves on
. . . for sudsing



Roll in Towel
. . . don't wring

Use Stretchers
. . . for drying

By JEAN WARDLOW
Herald Staff Writer

When it came to clean-up detail on doeskin and nylon gloves, we went to professionals for help.

Way back yonder, Mrs. W.B.D. and Miss E.L.F. of Miami both wondered why their doeskin gloves had turned yellow. And they wanted to know what would re-whiten them.

No one replied, and there they were with yellow gloves on their hands. So we asked a glove buyer at a downtown department store about their problem.

Reader's Exchange

Nothing will re-whiten them, but she said that washing them in too hot water probably was the cause of their changing color.

"Skin and nylon gloves—as well as nylon lingerie — will turn either pink or yellow if washed in too hot water," she said.

★ ★ ★

HERE'S the recommended way for washing gloves:

Wash while on the hands. It's easier to wash out soiled spots on fingertips this way. Use lukewarm, never hot, water and a mild detergent suds.

Rinse well while still on hands. Remove and roll up in towel to remove excess moisture. Don't wring.

Slip glove stretchers inside and hang up to dry.

The glove buyer said that there's a product out which helps remove ink and grease spots from gloves.

If you'd like the name of the product, it's price and where it's available, send in a self-addressed envelope with your request and we'll be glad to tell you.

A Little Dash Of This and That

MRS. H. M. of Bay Harbor Islands is the imaginative type. Has lots of suggestions about taking your dinners out of a so-so class. Mrs. M. takes a personal interest in things like lima beans. She says,

"LIMA BEANS need some encouragement to appear at their best . . . season the little fellers with minced parsley and minced chives. And use regular seasonings, too.

"MINCED CLAMS in corn chowder not only add a lot to the chowder, but the two together turn out a one-dish luncheon.

"A DASH of lemon juice in clear veal or chicken broth is like the unexpected crocus . . .

"IF YOU are doing chicken curry, follow your favorite recipe, but add a few chunks of banana . . . Exciting . . .

There now. Those were "pet food suggestions" from a consistent winner of recipe contests.

Coconut Boats And Tortes

E. S. of Miami Beach has a lovely bunch of coconuts. Coconut boats, that is. You know — those long things from palms that look like miniature dugout canoes.

Wants to make fruit dishes out of them. Can anyone tell her how?

She tosses in a recipe in advance for your help. Not a fruit recipe, but a fine torte — Forgotten Torte, she calls it.

FORGOTTEN TORTE

5	egg whites
¼	teaspoon salt
½	teaspoon cream of tartar
1	teaspoon vanilla
1½	cups sugar

Beat egg whites until frothy. Sprinkle salt and cream of tartar over tops and beat until stiff. Gradually beat in sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time. Add flavoring and continue beating until stiff and peaked.

Pour into well-buttered 9-inch spring form pan, bringing up the meringue to the side of the pan to make a slight raised rim around torte.

Place torte in oven preheated to 450 degrees. Turn off heat at once. Bake torte overnight in stored up heat. Remove the following morning. Or leave in over a similar length of time if preparing early in day.

Fill center of torte with strawberry or other ice cream. Serve with crushed strawberries spooned over the ice cream. Makes 8 servings.

Oil Stains In Carport

Oil is the difficulty here. Mrs. P.N. of Miami writes, "What is best to remove car oil from a carport cement floor? I have tried all sorts of things."

Can someone suggest a few more?

From Skiing To Sunning

Henry B. Lange and Robert M. Schwarcz, students at New Hampton School, New Hampton, N.H., are at home for the spring vacation. Lange is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lange of 1400 NE 104th St., Miami Shores, and Schwarcz is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin E. Schwarcz of 1510 Baracoa Ave., Coral Gables.

At the annual Winter Sports Banquet at the school, Lange was awarded a ski letter. He has been co-manager of the team.

'Our Budget's in a Mess'

If you want help with a family money problem write for a MONEY CLINIC Questionnaire, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to the Miami Herald Home Management Service, Unit 4, P.O. Box 630, Miami.

By MARY MILLER

of Miami Beach

Money Clinic

The Sweeneys have really got their family finances tangled up. They should have enough money to live on but find that in practice "there is not enough to go around."

They state in their questionnaire that they are saving $50 a month. Actually they are not saving a cent. They are paying installment loans on a piano and a water softener, plus paying back an insurance loan. They buy their clothes and home furnishings out of three revolving credit accounts.

Their previous savings have disappeared to take care of emergency hospital bills and work done on the house.

Their budget figure for clothing is "have no idea;" for personal miscellaneous expenses it's "don't know;" for recreation, entertainment, and gifts, it's also "don't know."

The amounts they allow themselves for various categories are not realistic. Therefore they are always having to cash extra checks, and always pressed by the feeling that expenses are controlling their lives, rather than that they are controlling their expenses.

They are expecting a baby soon, and would like to hire a little extra cleaning help and diaper service at that time. If someone can help them figure how to get it out of their budget.

* * *

THESE FACTS AND FIGURES, pulled out of their questionnaire, make them sound like a horrible example. But most of us have the same troubles as the Sweeneys in varying degrees. So it's worthwhile to examine the real problem.

They put a certain amount in the checking account every pay day, but they don't put enough in. Mrs. Sweeney is given $50 every two weeks to pay for food, but it isn't enough, so she has to write extra checks — chiefly, I should judge, because they have budgeted nothing for her personal miscellaneous expenses.

Mr. Sweeney has about $25 a month for his personal expenses, but that isn't enough either, so he also has to write checks.

Since he carries his lunch, and doesn't have to pay for his gasoline out of this, the trouble probably is that he pays small home maintenance and car repair bills out of it.

When they need clothes or home furnishings they charge them to their revolving credit accounts, evidently without worrying about how much they can afford, as long as they can pay for it by the month.

* * *

IF THE SWEENEYS would decide how much they could afford to spend in various categories, and keep track of how much they actually do spend, they could keep on top of their budget.

Their installment payments now are high, but because of low shelter costs, they could hold the line. The advance payments they are now making on the doctor's bill for the new baby could be continued to pay off the balance of the hospital bill.

At that point they should have about $25 a month to put into savings.

As the water softener and piano are paid for, and the insurance loan paid off, they could increase the savings budget.

The reserves they should set up for home and car maintenance would build up something for emergencies along those lines, and leave their savings relatively untouched.

What About Receiving Line?

By AMY VANDERBILT

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT:

"Our son attends a military school and every year they have a Military Ball. This ball is the social highlight of the year.

"Last year was the first one we attended and we noticed there was no receiving line. This seemed strange, but perhaps it isn't necessary.

"What is your opinion on this? If it is proper to have a receiving line, what is the correct procedure?

— M.L.,
Chicago."

I agree with you that it would seem remiss not to have a receiving line at a Military Ball. Usually the commandant and his wife and perhaps various instructors and their wives make up a receiving line.

At West Point the Hop Manager acts as the announcer and precedes the line which consists of an officer's wife and her husband who act as host and hostess for the evening.

The Hop Manager is given the name of those approaching the line and he, in turn, introduces each Cadet and his guest to the hostess who, in turn, presents them to the host.

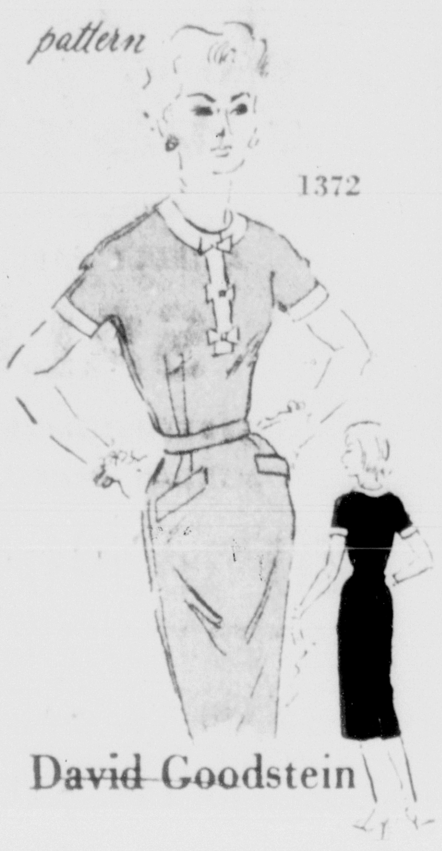
Goodstein Frock Has Contrasting Trim



A WINNER in casual sportswear, this frock by David Goodstein is simple enough for a novice to run up in no time. Contrast of texture or color is used for the curved neckline yoke and placket opening, bows and sleeve ends. Pocket welts and belt should be in same fabric as dress, but back buckle could be repeated in the trim color.

CHOOSE COTTON, linen, pique, shantung, rayon or even very sheer wool. Size 12 requires 2 7-8 yards of 36-inch material for dress and ½ yard of 36-inch material for contrast.

TO ORDER Pattern No. 1372, state size, send $1. For David Goodstein label, send 25 cents. For new 96-page pattern Book No. 16, send $1. Address Spadea, Box 535, G.P.O., Dept. M-6, New York, 1, N.Y. If paid by check, bank requires 4 cents handling charge.

Who'll Teach Handicapped?

VANCOUVER — (AP) — The Vancouver Community Chest, and council, have urged the provincial government to take over the education of all handicapped children in British Columbia.

Red Hair's Not For These Gals

MARSEILLES — (WNS) — Redheaded mothers in Marseilles have been complaining about history courses being taught their children in local schools.

Youngsters supposedly learn that women in the Middle Ages did not wear red hair because that was the color of Judas's hair.

"Many of my carrot-topped customers are suddenly switching to brown and black," reported hairdresser Pierre Martin. "It is good for business but not for beauty."

The Archbishop And the Baby

PARIS — (WNS) — Gabrielle Dorziat, the French actress, celebrated her 83rd birthday in Paris by recalling her stage debut.

"I was almost nude with only a veil to cover my thighs," she reported. "The Archbishop of Rheims applauded me enthusiastically."

The actress then explained that she was only three years old at the time and was playing the role of Moses in the bulrushes.

Diane's Pet Got Good Care

KITCHENER, Ont. — (AP) — Nine-year-old Diane Schlote, walking in the countryside with her parents, found a caterpillar crawling along the crusted snow.

Patterned Straw Hats Have Matching Ties

By BERT BACHARACH

FASHION: Dick Pope Jr. of Cypress Gardens, the ex-world's water ski champion, shows a new style note from the Southland. Colorful, patterned straw hats have been growing in popularity for the last few seasons and now they're being shown with matching or blending ties.

Colorful Straw
. . . Dick Pope's hat

HELPFUL HINTS: Avoid placing your watch on a very cold surface for any length of time. It can have an injurious effect on certain timepieces . . . You can make stainless steel pots and pans that are stained or scorched shine like new—by gently polishing them with dry baking powder applied with a damp sponge, following the lines of the finish . . . When touring, try to let your tires cool down a bit before inflating them. Hot rubber tends to expand and let too much air in. Pressure will be too high when tire cools.

STYLE TRENDS: Former favorites on the verge of a fashion comeback include covert cloth topcoats, foulard pocket handkerchiefs (especially with sports clothes) and the black-and-white or brown-and-white shoes . . . Dacron and worsted suits, in a six-ounce weight, are now available in a wide variety of patterns and colorings . . . White sport jackets were very big in southern resorts and will undoubtedly be popular everywhere this summer.

KEEPING FIT: A fine trunk exercise—sitting position with legs extended forward (stride position); clasp hands behind head, twist trunk and bend forward at same time, touching left elbow to outside of right knee. Repeat, touching right elbow to outside of left knee . . . For arms, chest and spine—with elbows bent, place right fist in palm of left hand, chest-high. Push left hand and arm to left while resisting the push with left hand and arm; and hold position. Reverse to left fist against right palm.

NON-SKID IDEAS: Everything is being improved these days—but ties still keep sliding off racks and onto the floor. Here are three methods to keep them where they belong:—Wind a strip of adhesive tape in a continuous spiral around the bar of the rack; Roll a piece of cardboard around the bar and fasten edges with cellophane tape; Or loosely loop each tie.

'People Treat My Home Like a Public Museum'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

Two years ago I bought a perfectly sensible two-bedroom home. I live alone, so I decorated with my antiques and treasures picked up over years of world traveling.

Column with a Heart

Both Emily Post and Amy Vanderbilt say it is bad manners to take notice of your surroundings, and I always follow this, exercising great restraint even as a guest in European palaces.

However, no one who comes to my house is well mannered.

Everyone, from salesmen, dates, repairmen, casual acquaintances, neighbors, who has any cause at all to be invited in, wander about my home as if it were a public museum. They take books from shelves, play at the piano, open file cabinet drawers, look inside chests, pick up figurines, lift china from kitchen shelves.

Since the whole house (except the bathroom) displays art prints, statuettes, souvenirs, conversation becomes a running commentary on where did this come from, how did I get that, until I feel like a museum guide.

I have tried:

1. ENTERTAINING VISITORS on the front porch (orchid collection and Indian brass) but they always find an excuse to get a drink of water.

2. REMAINING SEATED in the living room as visitors snoop, but when they disappear for 10 or 15 minutes, I'm obliged to follow.

3. BRUSHING OFF inquisitiveness.

4. BEING CROSS and irritable at such prying.

5. BECOMING ANGRY when casual strangers make suggestions for re-arranging.

This is my residence, I must ask people in. Since I enjoy my home as it is, I have no intention of re-decorating, so must arrive at some defense which allows me to remain a gracious hostess.

Surely some of your readers face a similar problem. I will welcome any suggestions on how to cope with this situation.

QUIN HALL

This is not a "common" problem, nor is yours a "common" house — hence people are interested.

If you truly resent people taking note of your treasures, I suggest that you stick to Attempt No. 1, with this slight revision:

Keep the visitors on the porch (with the orchids and the brass) but insist that you get the drink of water while they remain seated.

If they still insist on "seeing" the house, be firm. Say you are not showing the house today.

And if the request to "see" are overwhelming, set aside one day for open house . . . you might even charge admission.

Eleanor Hart.

Column With a Heart welcomes discussion of your problems, and your replies to the problems of others. Write to Eleanor Hart, The Miami Herald, Miami, Fla.

Horse Nipped Her Finger

By GWEN HARRISON
Herald Columnist

Since French gowns and perfumes apparently come under the heading of "arts and culture" Elizabeth Arden is to receive an award, a golden cup, for her part in advancement of French arts and culture in the United States . . . but the date for the awarding had to be postponed . . . it will take place the last week in April . . . reason for the delay is that one of Miss Arden's horses nipped the end of her finger . . . the bandage would stick out like a sore thumb in any publicity photographs . . .

TAYLOR CALDWELL

She Writes To State Department, Too

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

PALM BEACH — Have luncheon and cocktails with Taylor Caldwell, her husband, Marcus Reback, and their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Goodman.

A—You'd like to know what the distinguished writer of best sellers thinks about a number of things both great and small.

B—You'd like to get a glimpse of the mental processes behind that placid brow, that direct gaze, and that slow and lovely smile.

But you are in the patio at the Sun and Surf Club. The umbrella topped table is near the orchestra where Ruby Newman's red-shirted orchestra is dispensing tantalizing, foot-tapping tunes. The young people, Judith Ann and Theodore Goodman, join the dancers. They are here for a spring vacation. Judy is anxious for a tan. A luscious looking girl with a perfect complexion. But she wants a tan.

Taylor Caldwell
. . . she gets mad

So you wonder if you're really getting an interview, and surprisingly enough, you are.

Any comments on writers who turn out sexy novels?

"No, writing is hard, dismal work. Every writer is entitled to his own manner of interpreting life."

Western on TV?

Miss Caldwell quoted scripture to answer that one. "When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child. But when I became a man, I put away childish things."

The Rebacks would both like to see in America a resurgence of good old fashioned flag-waving patriotism. Our "apathy to our own internal Communists and fellow travelers" causes her great concern. And our generosity to foreign countries who support Communism make her downright mad.

"Seems that today we love every other country under the sun but our own." And here she quoted Sir Walter Scott: "Lives there a man with soul so dead that never to himself has said, 'This is my own, my native land.'" (That's from The Lay of the Last Minstrel, in case you've forgotten.)

Miss Caldwell writes to the State Department about any problems that trouble her. She always receives a prompt, courteous, and carefully worded reply.

Taylor Caldwell — her first name is Janet — would like to see our schools return to the fundamentals of learning and the proper value of work. She hasn't any use for drones in any walk of life "and they are everywhere." Prolonged adolescence is also all wrong, she says. Young people should get down to the business of real living while they are in their teens. "Our forefathers did."

The Rebacks are at Whitehall for a vacation following the publication of Miss Caldwell's most recent novel based on the life of Luke, the beloved physician. She didn't want to talk about any future books, but admitted there was one "in abeyance."

I Think Hubby's Lying

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS

I'm the wife of a public relations man. My husband is 34, handsome, has a fabulous personality and a gift of gab second to none.

Ann

Maybe that's the problem. He's such a smooth talker I don't know if I'm on foot or horseback.

Four or five nights a week he's out until 3:30 in the morning "entertaining customers." Frequently he phones at ungodly hours to say he's had too much to drink and is afraid to drive home. So he spends the night in a hotel.

I've suggested he bring his customers home for dinner but he says they don't want "that kind of good time." They insist on night clubs and girls to dance and joke with. He swears he never has a date himself — just goes along to pick up the checks.

I'm beginning to think he is lying to me.

We have an 8-year-old son who never sees his father. I was brought up in a strict home and it doesn't seem right for a husband to be out so late so often.

He says if I like the money and a comfortable home I have to put up with it because it's part of his job.

What does this sound like to you?

—ALONE TOO MUCH

It sounds as if your husband's terrific selling ability isn't restricted to customers. Tell him it's a great line, but you aren't buying.

A married man who whoops it four and five nights a week under the guise of "entertaining customers" and gets too stoned to drive home, is also entertaining himself.

A salesman with his ability shouldn't have to be on 24-hour call like a physician. Tell him to let some single man play Grover Whalen for the visiting firemen or he can spend EVERY night in hotel rooms — and mail the support checks.

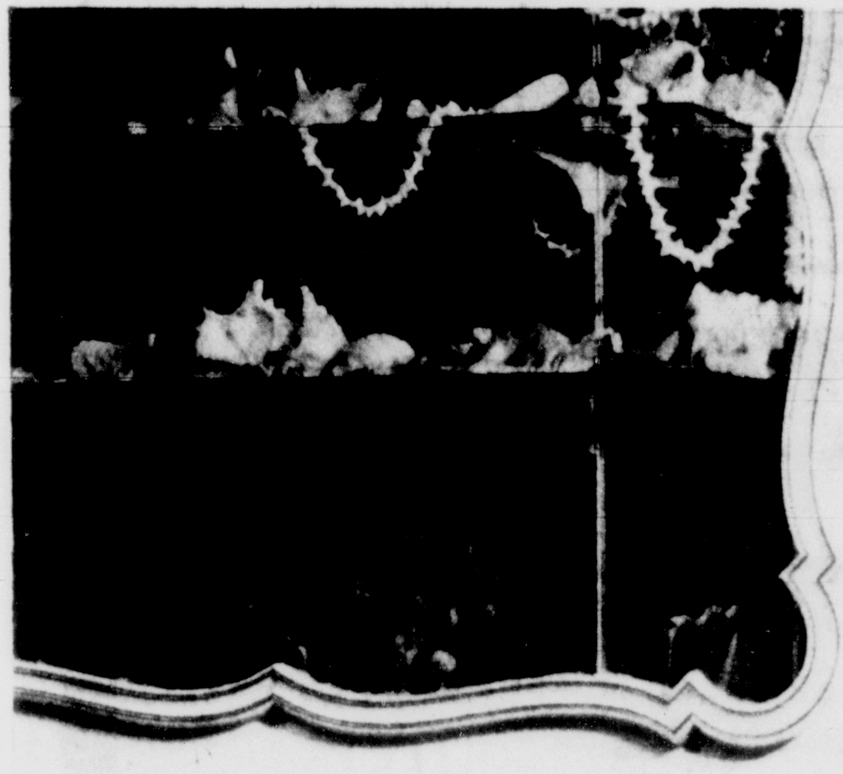
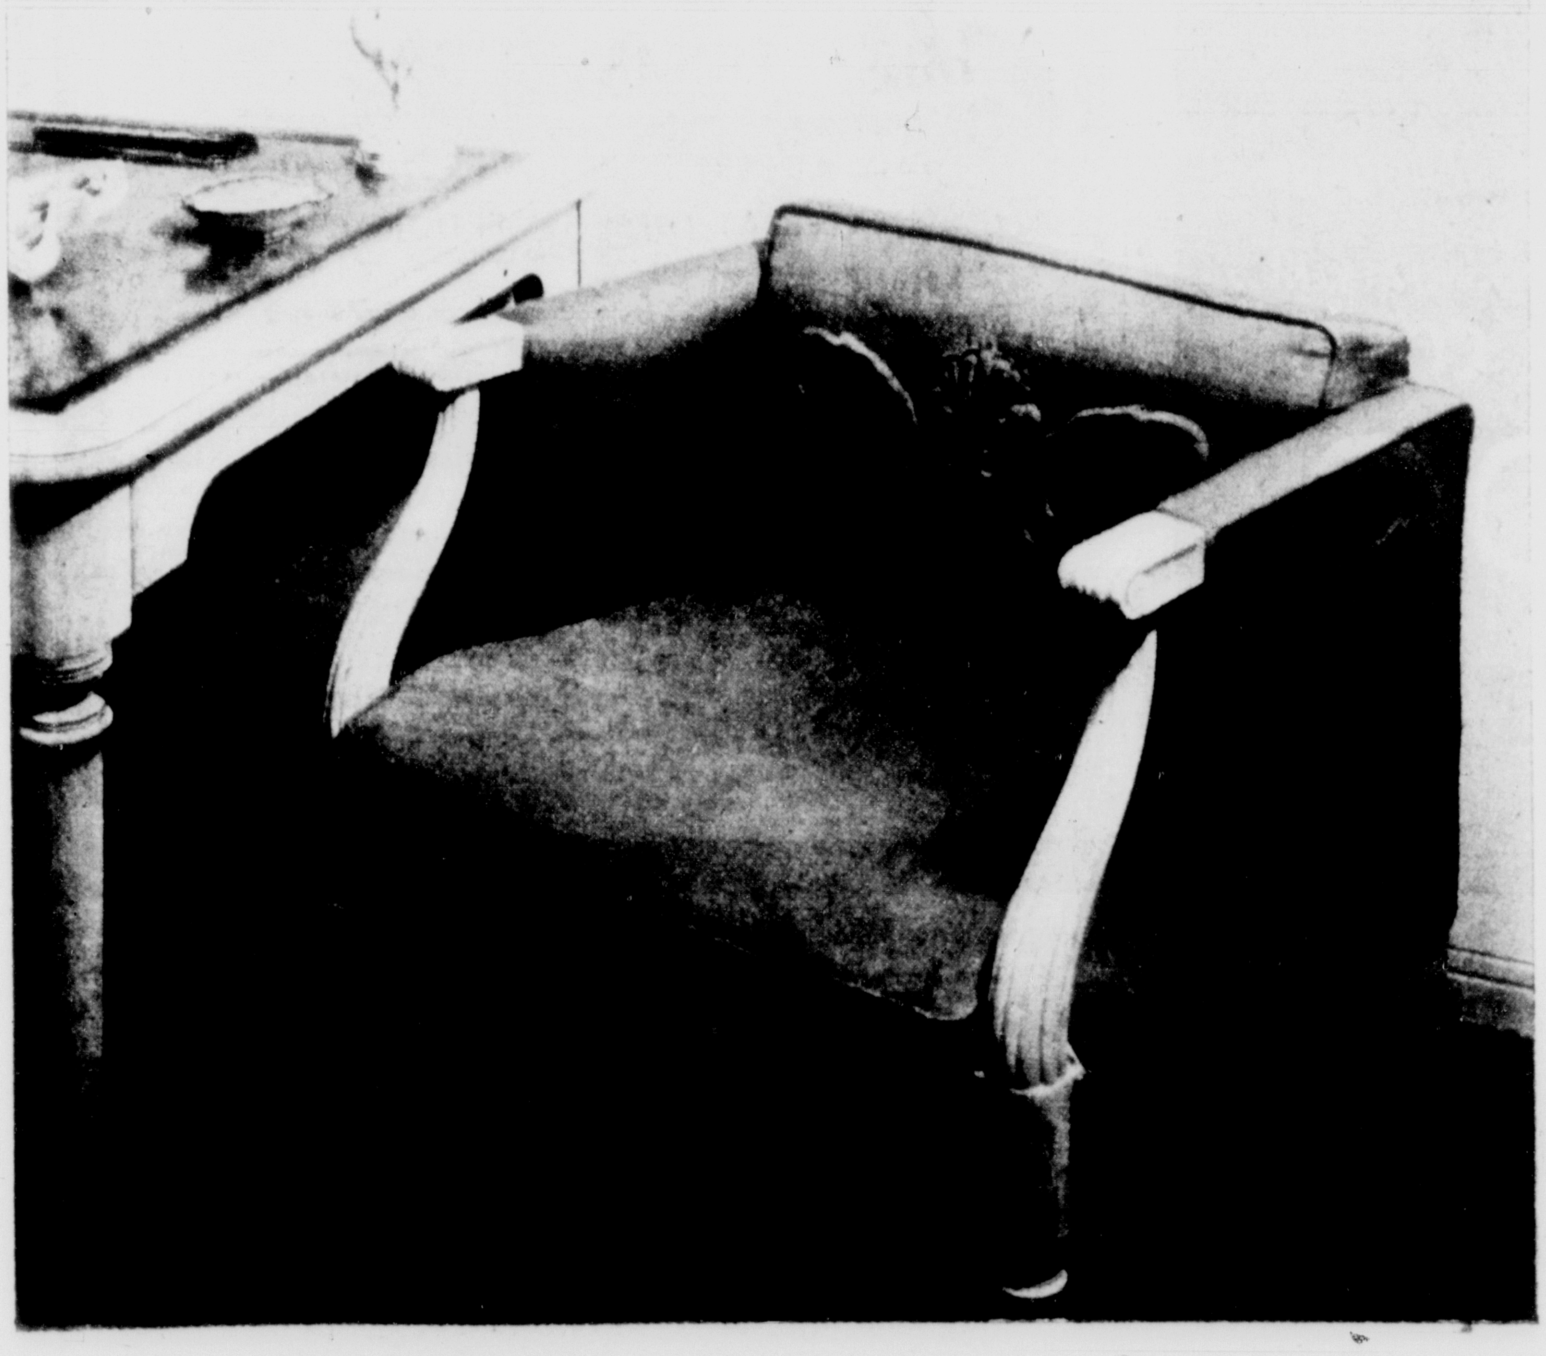
Living Room in the Markeys' Bal Harbour Home



They Live With Trophies From the Track and Sea



Chair Back Motif Copied from Shell Collection

By Kay Murphy

Herald Decorating Editor

KAY MURPHY

MOST PEOPLE KNOW Mrs. Gene Markey as a collector of Kentucky Derby trophies. She added the seventh to her collection last year when Tim Tam won the annual racing classic. That victory established Calumet Farms as a record-breaking stable where the Derby is concerned.

Besides seven Derby trophies, 353 others—this was the total last time Mrs. Markey added them up—line the walls of the trophy room in the Markeys' three-story home at Calumet, near Lexington, Ky.

Florida friends of Mrs. Markey know that she also collects shells. And these trophies from the sea determined, in part, the decorating scheme for the Markeys' Florida home, a Bal Harbour apartment where they spend from two to three months each year.

Mrs. Markey and her husband, who's authored a number of books, is a former movie producer, director and script writer as well, spend six months of the year abroad. Usually with Paris as their forwarding address.

* * *

MRS. MARKEY'S sea trophies supplied the motif for the quilted designs on chair backs and for the mirror frames in the living room of their Bal Harbour home. The shells, themselves, are displayed on glass shelves attached to the mirrors. A few are used for accessory items such as ashtrays.

LaVerne Dreher of Sara Winsborough's studio decorated the Markey apartment. She chose furniture copied from early 18th Century French pieces. They provide all the comfort demanded by contemporary-minded Americans, however.

Early 18th Century France, incidentally, was an era when the shell was featured in carved detail on furniture frames. Who knows, perhaps, Louis XV, might have been a shell collector, too?

French furniture, original French paintings, fabrics with luxurious textures and colors that are on the fragile side — the palest pastels — create a formal background for Florida living in the Markeys' apartment.

* * *

THIS FORMAL BACKGROUND is particularly suited to Mrs. Markey. For while she is an outspoken woman with a dry wit, she has an air of reserve about her.

The pale, pale colors are flattering to Mrs. Markey's silver gray hair. She is among those picked as the best dressed in the Greater Miami area this year. For details on this, see Beverley Wilson's story in The Herald Women's Section today.

In the Markeys' apartment color scheme, Mrs. Dreher used gray, ranging from delicate pearl to a deeper shade called gunmetal. And there are pinks in subtle shades that include shell and opaline.

The basic color is bone white. Even the

The Chips Are Down On Safety

By Frederic Sherman
Herald Real Estate Editor

AFTER MANY MONTHS of haggling with the aluminum window and door manufacturers, the Dade County building department is ready for a showdown to force compliance with a code designed to provide protection against winds of hurricane force.

SHERMAN

It was on Aug. 5, 1958, that the South Florida Building Code section on windows and sliding glass doors was revised. It calls for wind load strength of 40 pounds per square inch. That is the pressure exerted by a 120-mile-an-hour wind.

It was supposed to be effective Jan. 1. But in December the industry pleaded for more time. A new deadline was set for April 1. Now that has been extended another 30 days. But it appears now the county is ready to keep that date with public safety.

Some manufacturers are resisting the new provisions of the code because they fear it could lead to a hodge-podge of local rulings that could make it impossible to do business nationally.

* * *

One Nationwide Standard

RUDY FASCELL, assistant general manager of Miami Window Co., is chairman of a committee that is trying to get Dade County to hold off on its code until the national association of aluminum window manufacturers can come up with a nationwide standard for areas endangered by hurricanes.

"We agree the public must get protection," says Fascell. "But if we start meeting the Dade tests, there is nothing to prevent every county in the nation from adopting its own set of regulations.

"There must be a national code and we have asked our association to set up a test standard that would be acceptable to Dade County. But the April 30 deadline obviously doesn't give us enough time."

Here's the answer from Merrill Crissey, construction engineering supervisor for Dade's building department. He is also deputy director of the Board of Rules and Appeals that is charged with making sure our building code keeps pace with technological progress. It was this board that revised the section on windows and glass doors.

Says Crissey, "If there were national standards that could meet our code, we would certainly accept them. But that could mean another two years. We can not sit back and await their pleasure any longer.

"We do not think we are being unreasonable. The test procedures were sent to every manufacturer last Aug. 12. And we have met with the industry each time it was requested. But we have granted this extra 30-day delay with the greatest reluctance."

* * *

One Who Went Along

SOME OF THE MAJOR manufacturers took immediate steps to comply with the new code. They underwent tests given at the University of Miami engineering lab. They redesigned their products when it was necessary. Now they feel a little silly because the county hasn't stood firm.

Says Charles Silvers of Adams Engineering, "I welcomed the new code and think it's a wonderful thing. It's about time we stopped the competitive contest to reduce the price and quality of jalousie windows and sliding glass doors.

"I hate to think about getting another hurricane down here because it will reveal how cheap some of these products have become."

Silvers agrees with the county building department that if we require home builders to put up walls to withstand hurricane winds, then it is stupid and dangerous not to make the windows and doors as strong.

Silvers says a national standard would be fine, but he isn't worried about a multitude of codes. "If a product can pass the Dade County code, it would pass anywhere."

* * *

Not a Strong Argument

SOME OF THE South Florida window makers argue that they are meeting standards set by the Aluminum Window Manufacturers Association in cooperation with the Federal Housing Administration. But that's a sorry argument because those standards take care of rain and air infiltration, but fall far short of hurricane conditions. Only five or six Dade County firms are members of the trade group.

Here's what the county wants a manufacturer to do: Have the largest window of each type tested in an accredited laboratory and then identify the products as to name, size and strength. Says Crissey, "This will benefit the legitimate manufacturer of quality products and help to eliminate cheap and shoddy competition. The public will be guaranteed a safe product by the building inspector who will only allow labeled windows and doors to be installed."

* * *

Can't Tell by Looking

CRISSEY ACKNOWLEDGES that self-policing by the industry will be vitally necessary. You can't tell the strength of an aluminum window or a sliding glass door by looking at it.

In some cases aluminum has almost reached the foil stage, but you can't tell when the window is in place.

Many sliding glass doors being used in homes are made of glass only three-sixteenths of an inch thick. The new code will require a step up to seven thirty-seconds and a quarter-inch in anything wider than four feet.

It's all been pretty harmonious so far. Joe Creel, the attorney retained by about 20 manufacturers to represent them in the dispute, is sure something will be worked out. "My clients are not objecting to rigid tests of quality. But they do not want to go through with expensive tests for each county separately. It could run as high as $400 for each type of window or door," said Creel. "For a company manufacturing a wide assortment of products, it could mean thousands of dollars for tests simply to satisfy Dade County."

SOLD FOR $12,000, this three-bedroom, one and a half bath house at 3630 NW 6th St. is now owned by Edward Mastay. Florence A. Hickman sold it unfurnished for all cash. The lot is 50 by 105 feet. The sale was negotiated by Gene Fuggett of the Coral Gables branch office of the Keyes Co.

Mrs. Markey is the widow of Warren Wright, the baking powder tycoon who turned to racing thoroughbreds back in 1932 with a stable of three. Earnings that year ran a little over $1,000. Since then, Citation, Armed and Whirlaway — to mention a few — have pushed the earnings past the million-dollar mark several times.

Racing is not "just business" to Mrs. Markey. She takes a more personal interest than most successful stable owners. When it comes to buying, selling or breeding, she makes the decisions. She keeps in touch with the farm at all times — even if it involves transatlantic phone calls.

In Florida the Markeys lead a slower-paced life. She calls the apartment their broom closet — eying it with pride when she does. "Compared to the boarding house we run back home, it is," she adds. "There's no room here for guests, thank heaven, though I guess I shouldn't sound so thankful."

When the Markeys entertain it's for cocktails — with dinner out. They prefer small groups. The races are a must on their winter calendar when the Calumet horses run at Hialeah.

Markey devotes a great deal of his time to writing when he and his wife are in residence here. One of the two bedrooms in the apartment was converted into a study for him. It has a tailored masculinity in its decor and the walls are lined with old boxing prints.

Markey has just finished an historical novel, with Kentucky and Virginia as its background. It involved a great deal of research and Mrs. Markey confides, "We combed the countryside to get it."

Markey wrote "Glory," which also had a Kentucky background and was made into a movie starring Margaret O'Brien in 1956. Part of it was filmed at Calumet and it was premiered in Lexington.

The former Mrs. Wright and Markey were married in 1952. He previously had been married to Joan Bennett, Hedy Lamar and Myrna Loy.

A Place To Get Away

By HENRY J. BECHTOLD
United Press International

NEW YORK — Keeping up with the Joneses is an expentive pasttime. And if leisure-loving Americans have their way this bill is going to rise even further.

It all started out innocently enough with home owners trying to keep their houses as nice looking as the next door neighbor. In recent years this competition has stretched to the two-car family idea.

Now we have a new trend—the two-house family — which is rapidly gaining momentum.

House & Home magazine estimates that a record 75,000 vacation houses will be built this year, compared with an average of about 50,000 units built each year in the period 1950-56. And this market is expected to keep on growing.

The reasons behind this new trend are many. With rising incomes, longer vacations and more holiday weekends, more people are looking for a vacation house "to get away to," the magazine says.

And many people are thinking of vacation houses located in hills or on lakes and beaches close to home, not only in resort areas. The prospect of a vacation house to "finish off" later for year-round use after retirement also is a factor in this trend.

Today's vacation house must provide comfortable, casual living without costing a lot of money, and must give the effect of space without using a lot of it.

To do this, House & Home points out, vacation houses should be economical to build with a compact plan and simple construction. They should open to the outdoors because that will make the indoors seem bigger. And the use of decks and terraces will give more actual living space.

At the same time, they should be protected from the outdoors because vacation house sites are often vulnerable to floods or hurricanes.

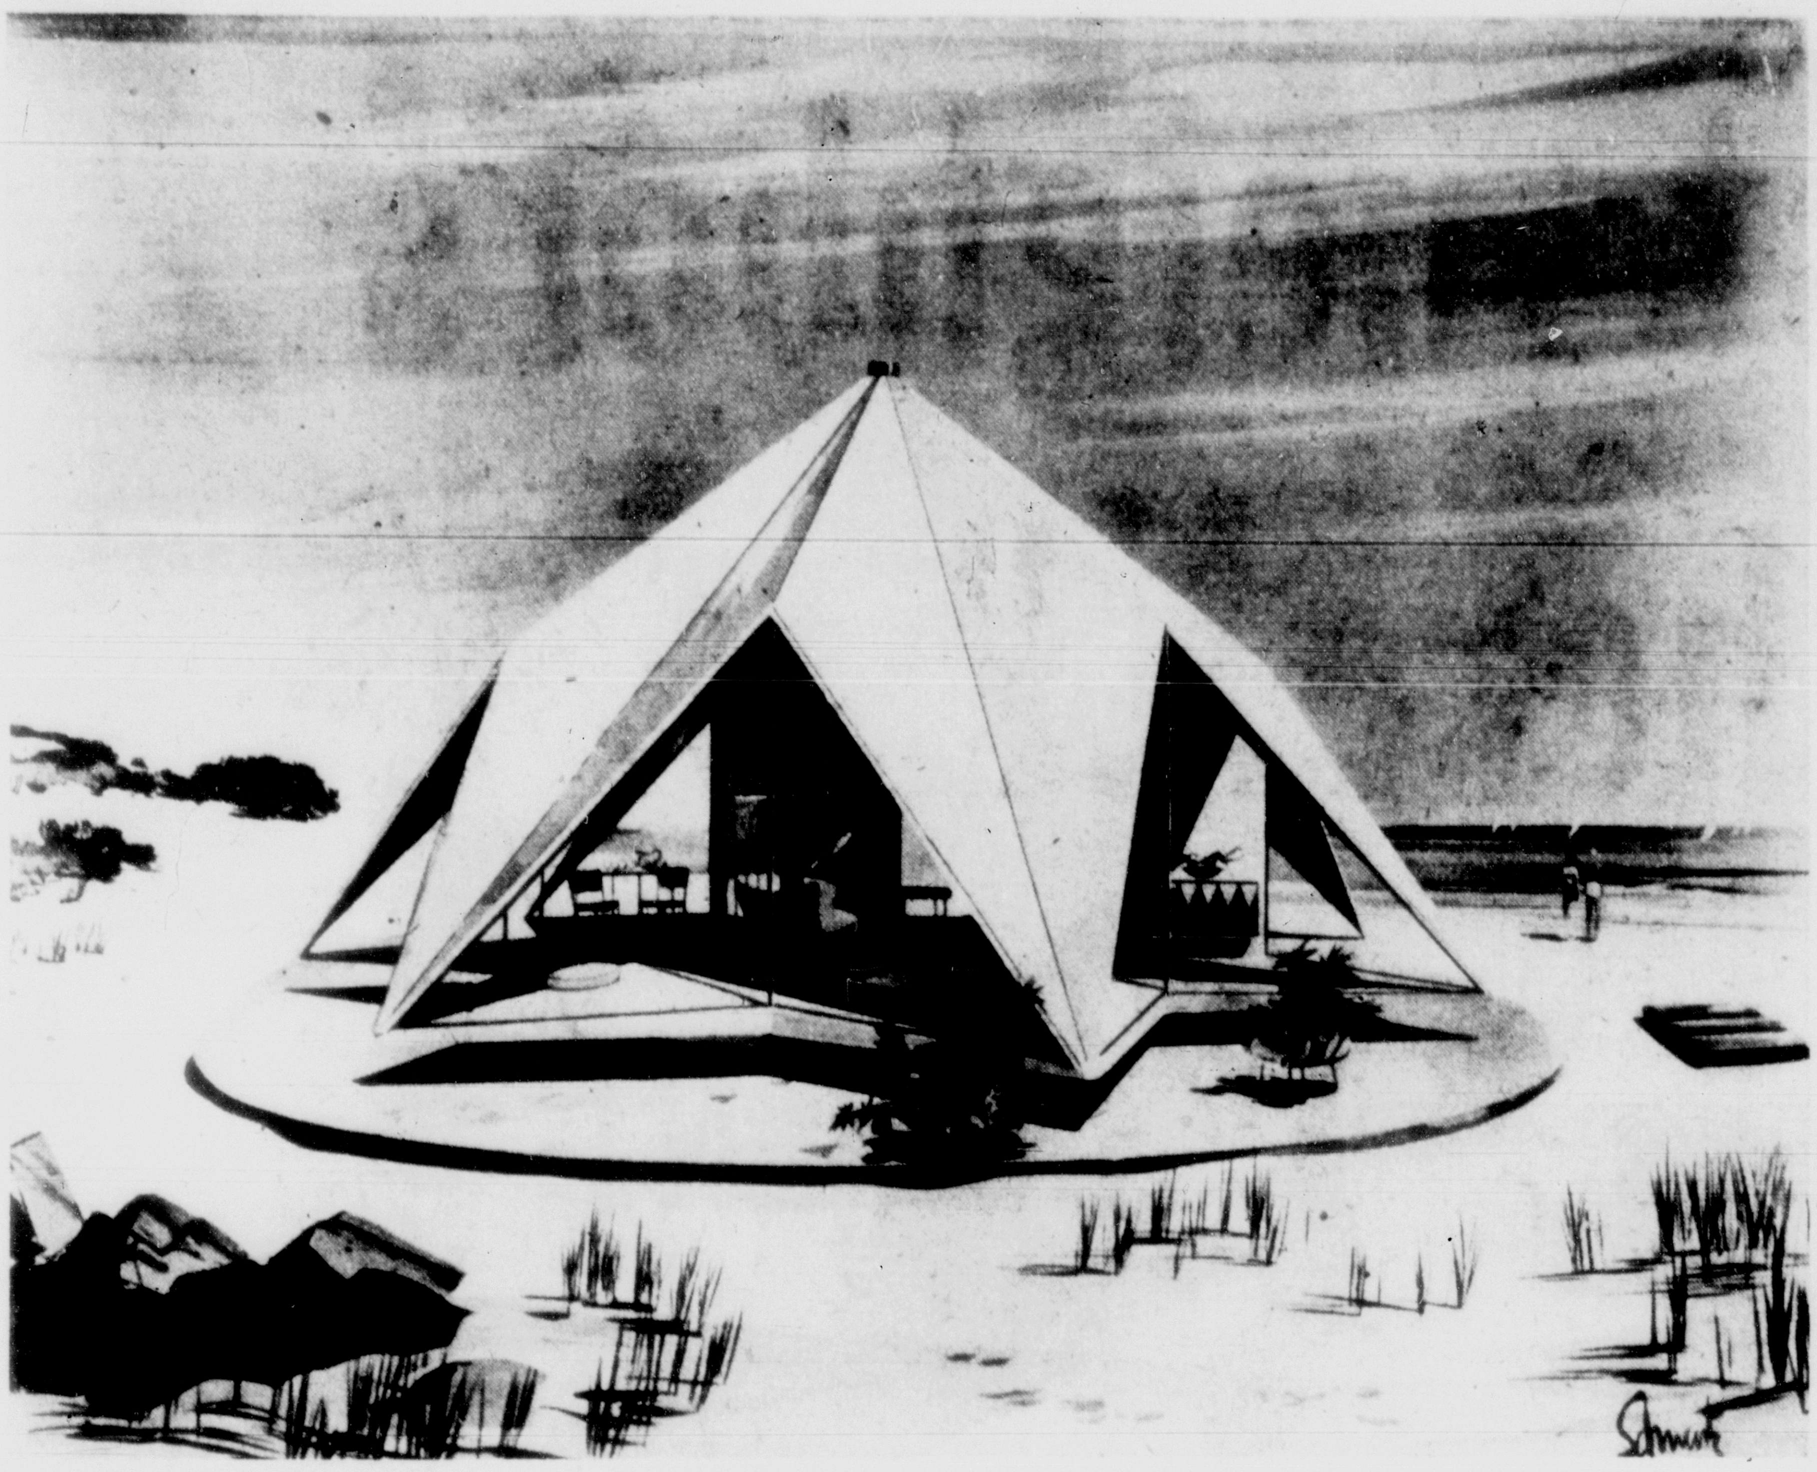
"People at play will accept a house that is little more playful—so vacation houses can have unusual forms and exposed structure." Often, an unconventional design is the only way to take advantage of an interesting site or solve the problems of a difficult one.



EIGHT MATCHING triangular sections of aluminum and glass make up the exterior of this beach house of tomorrow. It was designed for Alcoa by Robert Fitzpatrick of Harrison and Abramovitz. There are three bedrooms, a dressing area, kitchen and living room in the star shaped floor plan. The house is engineered around an aluminum column. Walls fit snugly into inverted V-shaped grooves formed by the roof. Floor plan, about 1,330 square feet, is based on a 37-foot diameter circle. Central column would be mounted on a turntable so the house could move with the sun.

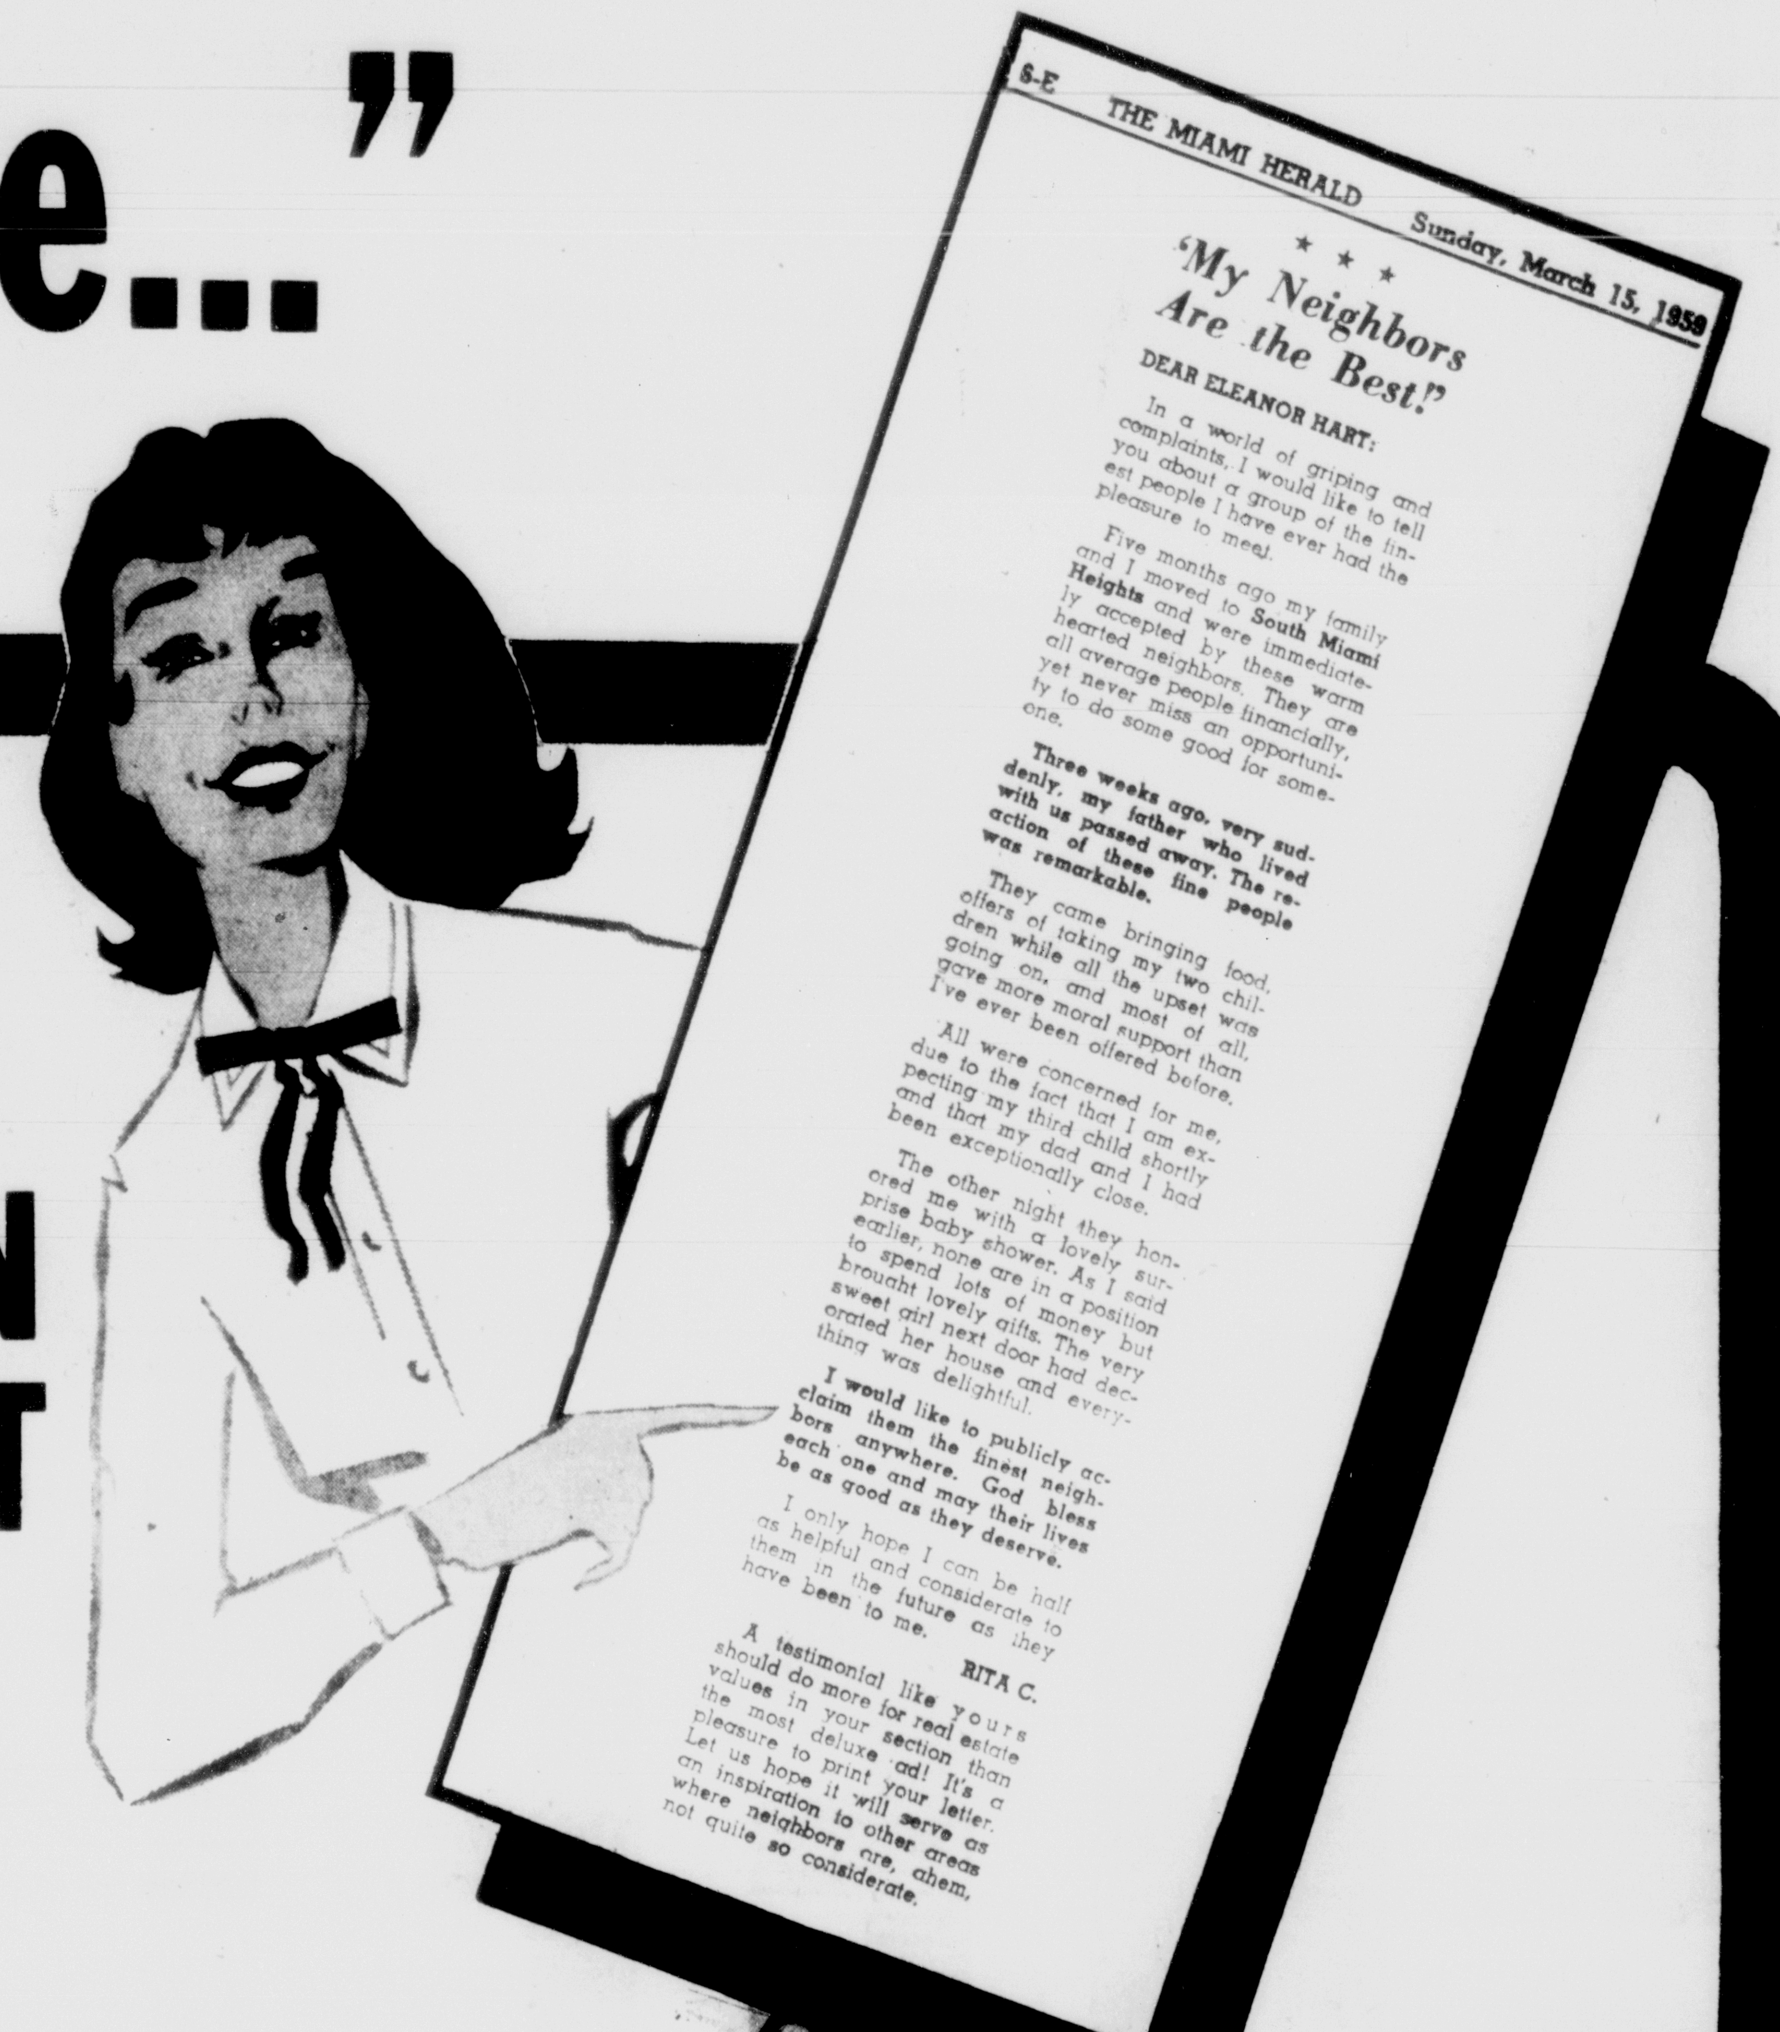
"Finest neighbors anywhere..."



8-E THE MIAMI HERALD Sunday, March 15, 1959

* * *

‘My Neighbors Are the Best!”

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

In a world of griping and complaints, I would like to tell you about a group of the finest people I have ever had the pleasure to meet.

Five months ago my family and I moved to South Miami Heights and were immediately accepted by these warm hearted neighbors. They are all average people financially, yet never miss an opportunity to do some good for someone.

Three weeks ago, very suddenly, my father who lived with us passed away. The reaction of these fine people was remarkable.

They came bringing food, offers of taking my two children while all the upset was going on, and most of all, gave more moral support than I've ever been offered before.

All were concerned for me, due to the fact that I am expecting my third child shortly and that my dad and I had been exceptionally close.

The other night they honored me with a lovely surprise baby shower. As I said earlier, none are in a position to spend lots of money but brought lovely gifts. The very sweet girl next door had decorated her house and everything was delightful.

I would like to publicly acclaim them the finest neighbors anywhere. God bless each one and may their lives be as good as they deserve.

I only hope I can be half as helpful and considerate to them in the future as they have been to me.

RITA C.

A testimonial like yours should do more for real estate values in your section than the most deluxe ad! It's a pleasure to print your letter. Let us hope it will serve as an inspiration to other areas where neighbors are, ahem, not quite so considerate.

TOWN & COUNTRY
MAGAZINE

"A new private city is in the making . . . Indian Lake Estates in the beautiful lake and ridge section of South Central Florida. From the palm-lined avenues to the beach on the 15-square mile spring-fed lake, everything is planned to make this one of the outstanding country club residential communities in the country."

Orlando Sentinel
Orlando, Florida

"A visionary new experiment in comfortable Florida living is steadily rising at Indian Lake Estates, 18 miles southeast of Lake Wales. Leon Ackerman, developer, has spent millions in grading and paving roads, landscaping, beach improvement, building a 1,100-ft. pier, digging lagoons and shaping the community's two 18-hole golf courses and club house."

The Financial Post
Canada's National Weekly of Business, Investment and Public Affairs

"Indian Lake Estates, the multi-million dollar luxury residential development, is well under-way. Comprising about 7,000 acres this development will have about 6,500 half-acre residential sites—the rest being devoted to palm-lined avenues and beaches, a modern club house, golf course and other recreational facilities."

NEW YORK Herald Tribune

"A country club type of community is rising at Indian Lake Estates in the lake and ridge section of Florida. The plan for the development was originated by Leon Ackerman, who surveyed the state for three years, along both coasts as well as inland areas, before deciding on the location for his 7,000-acre development."

THE MIAMI NEWS

"It is no wonder that Indian Lake Estates, the multi-million dollar development 18 miles southeast of Lake Wales, counts among its property owners people from 46 states and Canada. Wherever you look, plans are rapidly becoming reality in what promises to be an outstanding example of the best in country club living — not only in Florida, but in the entire country."

Indian Lake Estates' wide, white sand beach slopes gently into beautiful Lake We-oh-ya-Kapka. Delightful recreational pleasures afforded for exclusive use of Indian Lake Club.

PRIVATE COUNTRY CLUB COMMUNITY IN FLORIDA

Indian Lake Estates is a growing, private Country Club Community, where the setting is artistic and beautiful, and the climate is ideally suited for year-round outdoor play . . . 7,000 acres being converted into a wonderland of beauty and varied means of enjoyment of your leisure hours. Already installed on the dual-laned boulevards are modern, mercury vapor lights throughout the development; center parkways present a beautiful picture with their majestic palms interspersed with pineapple palms and tropical flowers. White and pastel-tinted houses with their lovely tile roofs decorate the picturesque landscape. Waterfront homes provide a charming outlook over the broad expanse of 15-square mile Lake We-oh-ya-Kapka. Others enjoy proximity to the magnificent club house and golf course. Any homesite has the advantage of location to some interesting feature of this incomparably varied Country Club Community.

Full privileges for golf and boat enthusiasts are being made available at Indian Lake Estates. A wide variety of recreational facilities are included in the unfolding plans. As the Tampa Tribune's on-the-scene report pointed out, "This project has some large scale features seldom seen in a development of this type:" a magnificent 440-foot club house and golf course; marina to accommodate 2,000 boats; 1,100-foot pier — longest private pier in Florida; wide, white sand beach bordering 15-square mile Lake We-oh-ya-Kapka. Complete privacy for residents and their guests is maintained by gate houses with round-the-clock personnel on duty, and use of all facilities restricted to Indian Lake Club members.

Indian Lake Estates provides not only a homesite for you but a way of life. Far-reaching recreational activities are under the direction of Indian Lake Club chairmen, who are expert in their fields and widely known for their accomplishments. An interesting community life is coming into being. Counted among its property owners are enthusiastic people from all over the nation who find no difficulty in finding a place in a new community.

Indian Lake Estates is ideally located in the beautiful lake and ridge section of South Central Florida, 18 miles southeast of Lake Wales, and within short motoring distance of world-famous Cypress Gardens. The favorable, mild climate at Indian Lake Estates, away from enervating humidity, derives from its high elevation . . . a gradually rising elevation from 64 to 115 feet above sea level . . . and its location midway between the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean. The abundance of lakes in the area and our own 15-square mile lake act as temperature stabilizers. The moderating effect both for summer and winter assures the delightful year-round climate with which we are blessed.

So great has been the interest in this private Country Club Community that it has attracted newspaper reporters from many states, who have brought to their readers unbiased on-the-scene reports, and there is wide agreement that it is truly outstanding. Indian Lake Estates has become a must on the list of any person interested in buying Florida property. We are delighted when people come to us and tell us that they have compared our development with others in this fast-growing State. The unstinting outlay of money for improvements and beautification is a feature which has evoked so much enthusiasm about this multi-million dollar community. Our nearby neighbor, Dick Pope, owner of beautiful Cypress Gardens, sums it up: "Indian Lake Estates is an asset to Florida."

Shopping Center Convention Opens in Chicago Saturday

The International Council of Shopping Centers will hold a four-day convention in Chicago April 4-9. More than 4,000 shopping center owners and developers will gather at the Palmer House to discuss new trends in shopping center developments. Authorities in all phases of shopping center management will participate in panel and clinic sessions.

The convention will cover the major problems involved in shifting retail merchandising from Main Street to the open highway — selection of proper sites, lease negotiations and lease terms, mortgage financing, and tax assessments.

News Along Realty Row

BRUSHING UP on conference notes are South Florida Realtors who'll attend the West Palm Beach meeting of the Florida Association of Realtors next weekend.

Enrique Valledor, president of the Miami Board, will participate in the board presidents roundtable discussion. William M. Thomson Jr., vice president of the Florida Association, will moderate the discussion.

Lewis Harder, executive vice president of the Miami Board, will sit in on Secretaries Council session. Fred Stanton Smith will be featured speaker at the Women's Council breakfast.

Others who'll take part in the three-day program include Mary Carr, multiple listing chairman; Arthur Boazman, membership chairman; O. J. Powell, professional standards chairman; Leta Dawson Young, who heads the Traders Club and Carl McClure, who heads the credentials committee.

Sylvan Maxwell, finance chairman, Eugene J. Davidson, who edits the Florida Realtor Magazine, and Richard Bryce, associates chairman, are others who'll be going to West Palm Beach.

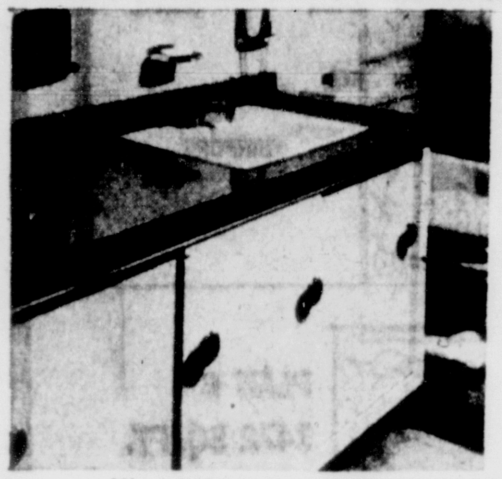
354 ROOMY STORAGE CABINETS FOR YOUR BATHROOM

★ For real convenience, these three pair of cabinets will provide storage space for towels, soap, and tissue in your bathroom, where you want them. Shelf heights may be adjusted to suit your needs. You may use as many as three shelves in the top cabinet for storage of cosmetics and drugs and reserve the lowest cabinet for large items such as a vaporizer, hair dryer, and cleaning supplies. The doors can be cut from one 4'x8' panel. Craft Pattern 354 shows cutting, assembling, and finishing.



For Your Bathroom

271 A MODERN LAVATORY COUNTER-TOP AND ENCLOSURE

★ It isn't as big a job to build this modern lavatory counter-top and enclosure as you might imagine, and if you do the work, the cost will be no more than that of the materials required, a surprisingly small amount. A functional feature of this attractive built-in that appeals to the space-wise are the base cabinets. These make excellent use of otherwise wasted space, for towels, toiletries and cleansers, and they conceal the lavatory plumbing. Craft Pattern 271 shows the complete construction, how to frame cabinets, how to build the counter of plywood with an opening for a built-in type of lavatory or, possibly, openings for two, and how to cover the top with a surfacing plastic. The pattern shows how to hang the cabinet by-passing sliding doors.

★ Send 35 cents each for Craft Pattern 271 and 354; $1.50 each for Home Cabinet Packet (22 patterns), Bird House Packet (17 patterns), Junior Jig-saw Packet (19 patterns), Senior Jig-saw Packet (21 patterns), Windmill Packet (12 patterns); 25 cents for an illustrated catalog of more than 850 different Craft Patterns. Art Goes to Seed

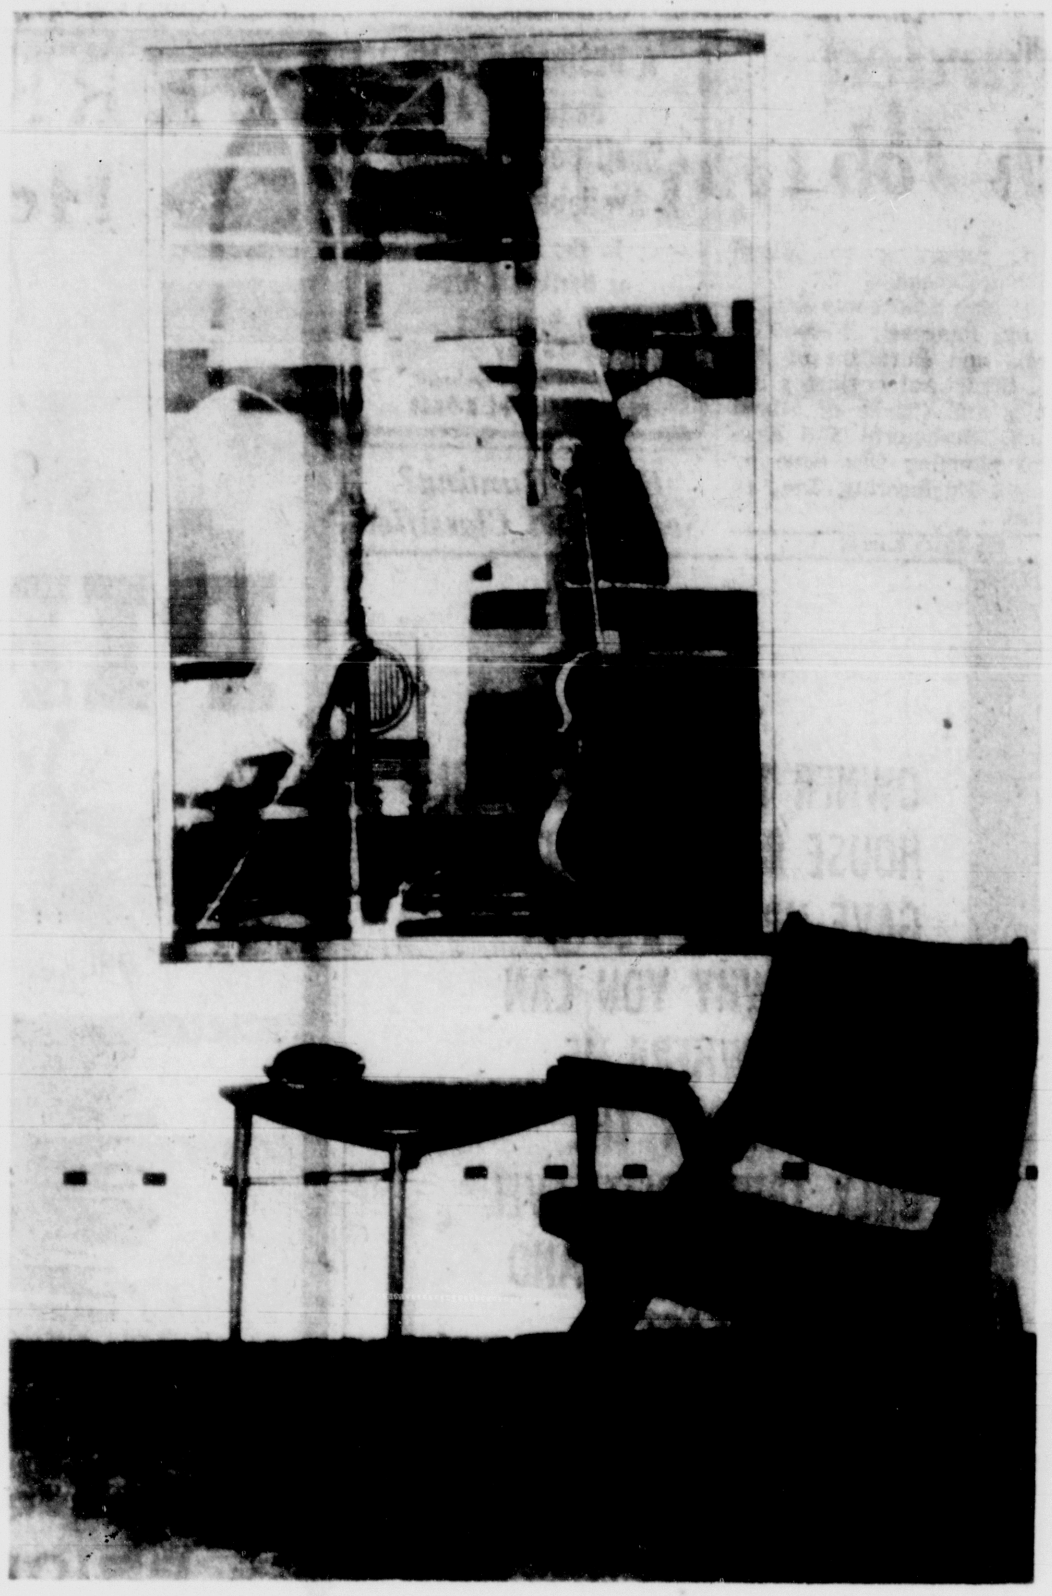
THE ART OF SOWING is reaping dividends for the makers of seed mosaics. And it is an art to sow the seeds in such interesting patterns as the abstract picture of musical instruments at left and the still life of fruit at right. Lentil, barley, rape and poppy seeds fashion both the pictures. Rape seed comes from a cabbage-type turnip, in case you're not familiar with the ancestry of seeds. Seed mosaics are framed in redwood.



FABRIC PANELS with the look of fine tapestries are new and novel wall ornaments. Designs like this one called Concerto are hand-screened on linen. Both the seed mosaics and fabric panels can be purchased locally. To find out where, write The Herald Shopping Service, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope.

a unique and limited opportunity to try cooperative apartment-home living on a rental basis . . .

To those who live at cooperative apartment-homes like the Mediterranean in Bay Harbor . . . the advantages of such a way of life are a daily source of pleasure. The ability to dwell in such a gracious setting . . . on the waterfront, with private swimming pool, in large, centrally air conditioned and heated spacious apartments with Riviera balconies overlooking charming Indian Creek . . . all these are the things that make the Mediterranean one of the most sought after cooperative apartment-home buildings of Florida's Gold Coast. But, coupled with this, are the real and substantial economic savings which place this way of life at your disposal at far less cost than a comparable standard could be obtained any other way. The freedom of responsibilities of home ownership too, play an important role in making the Mediterranean way . . . a better way.

To those who already live at the Mediterranean, these are facts that are appreciated. To those of you who may have contemplated the advantages of such a cooperative buy but are not yet completely convinced . . . the Mediterranean is now offering, on a limited basis, the opportunity to rent an apartment-home with an advantageous purchase option . . . literally to "try before you buy" . . . so that you may appreciate, at first hand, the many good reasons you'll enjoy owning a Mediterranean cooperative apartment-home.

It must be emphasized that the number of apartments that are available on a rental basis is limited and can only be offered to those who have a real interest in the purchase of the apartment-home. We would be pleased to show you the model apartment-homes at your convenience.

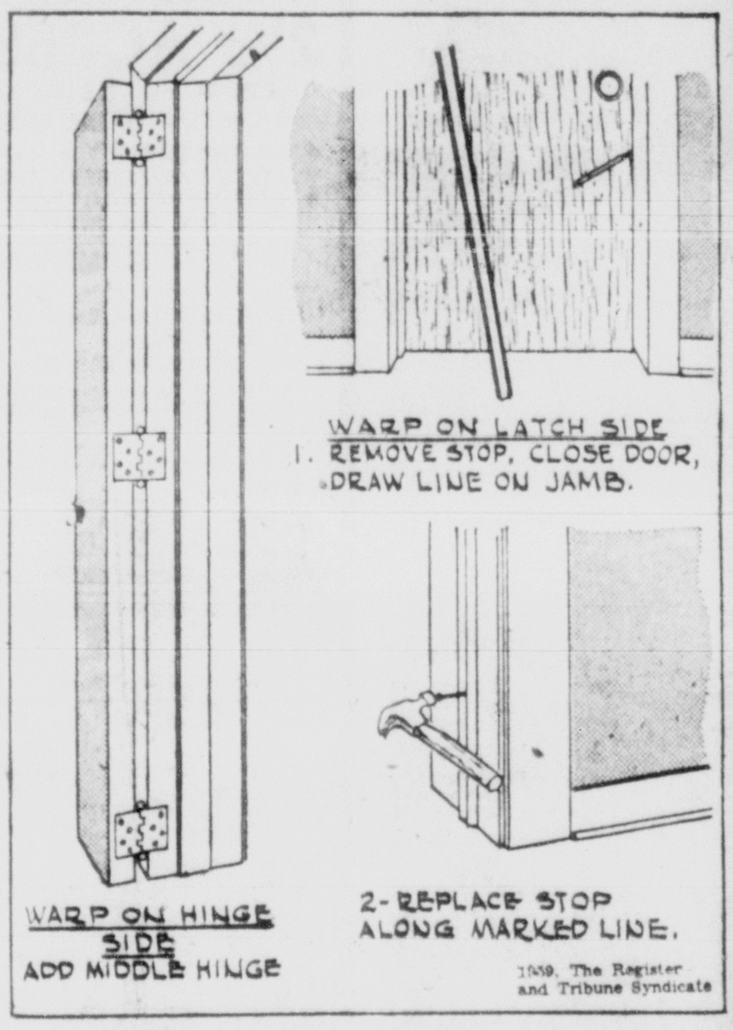
The House Doctor

How to Unwarp The Front Door

By HERMAN BAUM

(Readers with questions on the maintenance and repair of the home may receive answers by addressing The House Doctor, care of The Miami Herald. Please limit letters to one question and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.)



WARP ON LATCH SIDE
1. REMOVE STOP, CLOSE DOOR, DRAW LINE ON JAMB.
WARP ON HINGE SIDE
ADD MIDDLE HINGE
2- REPLACE STOP ALONG MARKED LINE.

1959, The Register and Tribune Syndicate

DEAR MR. BAUM:

I have a heavy front door to my home and it has warped so that we have to push against it to make the latch engage. Some time ago, you told how to straighten warped doors after removing them from the hinges, but obviously I cannot do this with my front door and still retain possession of the furnishing in the house. Do you have a more practical solution?

O.C.S.

ANSWER — That method for straightening a door has been plagiarized by writers for generations. Obviously, the inventor was a hermit who lived far back in the hills because the only warped doors in urgent need of repair are outside doors and bathroom doors. In our modern, thickly populated society, the removal of these for a few days can be costly or embarrassing.

There is another method that usually gives satisfactory results. It doesn't straighten the door but it does permit the door to be operated with ease and that is the primary objective.

Warps may occur on either the hinge side or the latch side of a door. Let us consider the hinge side first.

All that you must do is to obtain a hinge that is a duplicate of the two already on the door and install it halfway between the two hinges. Cut the gains so that the hinge edges set in exactly the same distance from the face of the door and the edge of the jamb as the original hinges.

To offset the effect of a warp on the latch side, pry off the stop that is nailed to this face of the jamb. With the stop out of the way, the door will close and latch easily. Make a pencil mark on the jamb opposite the edge of the door and replace the stop with the striking edge coinciding with this line.

When you pry off the stop, the nails may stay in the molding. If you attempt to drive these nails out by hitting the point with a hammer, you will splinter the wood. It is better to pull the nail heads through the stop or else cut off the protruding nails and use new ones for replacement.

It's Plain Old Dirt

DEAR MR. BAUM:

My 2-year-old house is heated by an oil-fired hot water system. The walls above all the convectors are badly smoked up. I cannot understand how all this smoke is getting there. What can I do about it?

Mrs. J.C.

ANSWER — That isn't smoke — that is dirt. The moving current of heated air carries dust along with it and this dust settles on the walls. This is no reflection on your housekeeping because it happens to some degree in every home. The only cure is to keep the house as dust free as possible and use the vacuum cleaner to remove the dust from the convector fins at frequent intervals.

Quick Service For Readers

MRS. R.C.D. — The new acrylic resin floor paint is wonderful for concrete floors exposed to the weather.

MRS. L.B. — I am strictly a hammer and saw guy and do not know the first principle about color schemes. Sorry I can't help you.

J.S.S. — The poison for termite-proofing goes in the soil under the house — not on the house timbers.

Common Type Works Better

DEAR MR. BAUM:

I am a bricklayer and I believe I can do plastering in my home although I have never attempted the job. What do you think of the use of lightweight aggregates in the plaster in place of sand?

ANSWER — Plaster made with a lightweight aggregate is much more difficult to use than the common type. The aggregate absorbs more water than sand and consequently, the plaster is slower drying and more difficult to finish.

Stove Hoods Nab Grease

DEAR MR. BAUM:

We are remodeling our kitchen and want to eliminate some of the grease that gets on the walls. Will a stove having an exhaust fan catch enough of this grease to warrant its installation? Can I connect this hood to an unused flue in the rear of the stove? C. B.

ANSWER — A stove hood is certainly a worthwhile addition to your kitchen. With a properly functioning exhaust fan, it will catch most of the grease that now gets on your walls. If the flue will not be used for other equipment, you may use it but install a deflector inside to direct the air blast upward. Be certain that you select a fan with a motor sufficiently large to do the job. Some of the less expensive units have toy fans that are strictly for decoration.

* * *

Make Sure Floor's Dry

DEAR MR. BAUM:

I want to lay asphalt tile on a concrete floor. What preparation of the floor is necessary for this job?

Mrs. J.F.C.

ANSWER — Before placing the tile, apply concrete floor primer to a few small scattered areas on the floor. Allow this to dry for 24 hours and then try to scrape it off with a putty knife. If it can be removed, the concrete is too damp and the job will not be satisfactory. Wait for a drier season. If the primer holds to the floor, complete the application of the primer. You can then proceed to place the tile after the primer is dry.

You Can Start Electric Firm

DEAR MR. BAUM:

Last spring we bought an expensive wool rug and now we are almost electrocuted when we walk across the rug and then touch metal. We are getting combat fatigue from so many shocks. Can anything be done about this?

H.L.M.

ANSWER — With a roll of wire and a franchise, you can start an electric company. Get a piece of aluminum foil a foot square or larger. Fold one edge into several thicknesses for strength and attach a bare copper wire to this edge with a paper stapler. Place the aluminum between the rug and the rug cushion and attach the other end of the wire to a water pipe. Static charges occur when the air in a house is very dry. The installation of a humidifier will help.

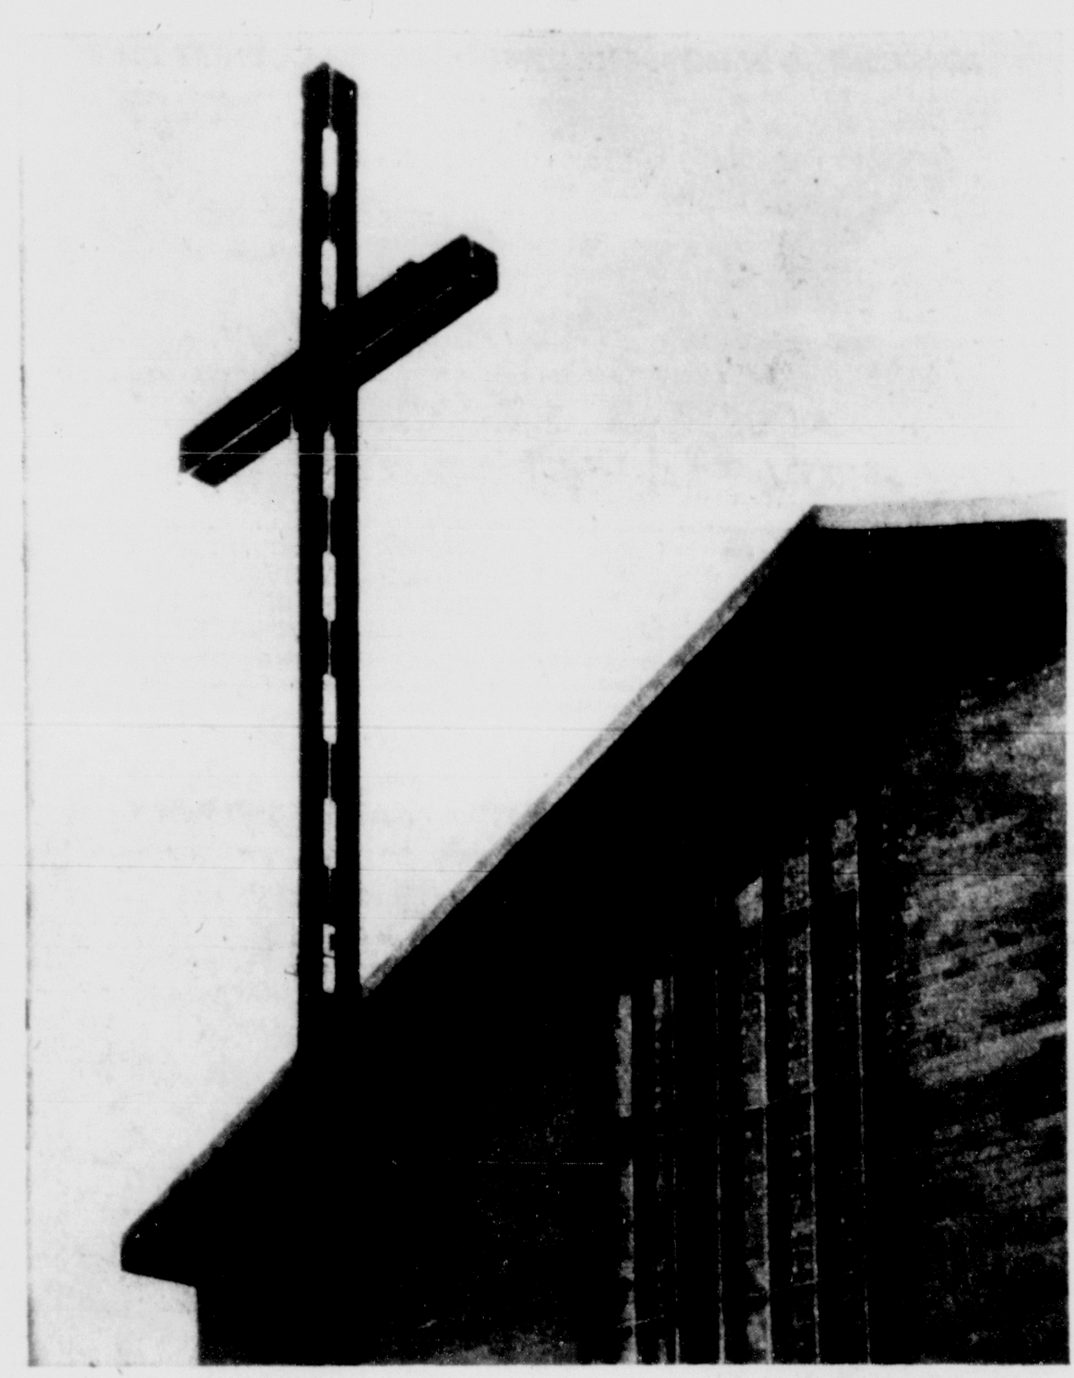
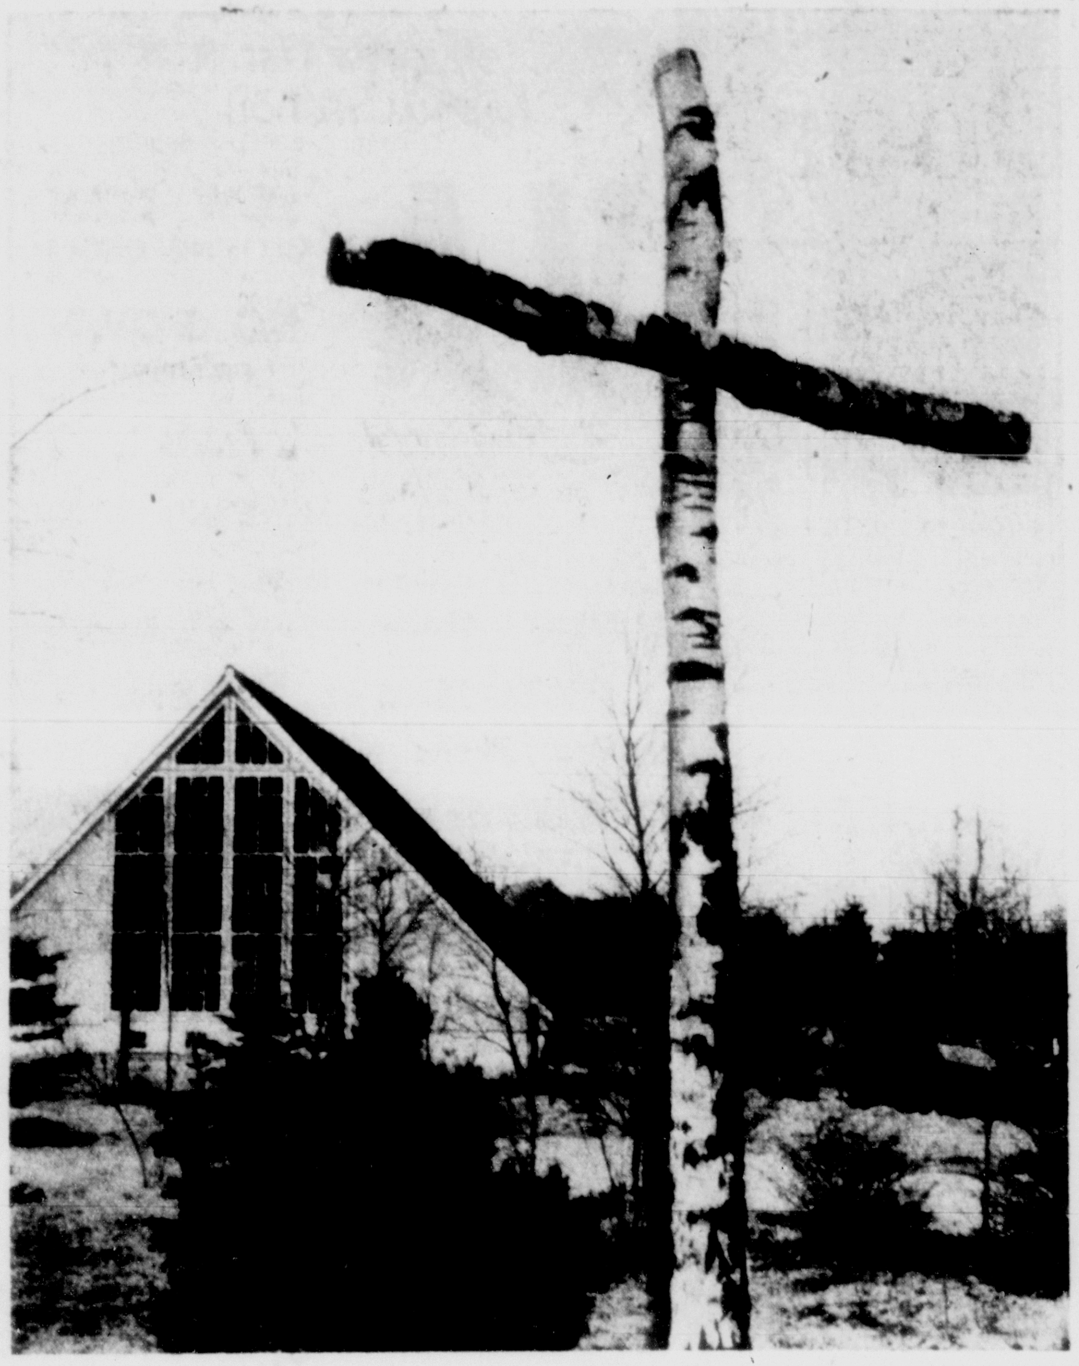
Majesty of the Simple Symbol



—United Press International Photos

STEEL SYMBOL of faith is this cross that tops Plymouth Congregational Church in Eau Claire, Wis. Its silhouette is sharp and clear against the sky. No specially-processed metal was required for the job—just simple, structural steel.



IN SHARP CONTRAST are the crude wooden cross and this modern Lutheran Church near Rendsburg in Western Germany. The first erected by the Evangelical Lutheran Church Building Society, it required a cash outlay of only $5,500.

Suburban Growth Comes to Nazareth

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

NAZARETH, Israel — If Christ returned to his old home town today He would find it sprouting suburbs.

STONEMAN

Ancient Nazareth where Mary and Joseph lived after their departure from Egypt and where Christ grew up is much the same as it has been for many, many years. Its population of 24,000 is largely composed of Arabs, 60 per cent of whom are Christians and the rest Moslems.

Jews have traditionally composed only 10 per cent of this area's population.

Foreign tourists who come here to visit the Church of the Annunciation, where Mary lived as a girl, and the Church of St. Joseph, with its cellar in which Joseph and Mary dwelt with the child Christ, find the place unchanged.

* * *

BUT NOW suddenly a new town has sprouted out of the hilltop east of the city.

The Israelis to whom Nazareth and its Christian traditions and Moslem population have presented serious problems have decided to counter those problems in a positive way.

The new city they are constructing on the heights overlooking the ancient town is the finest, most expensive new community built in Israel since the country gained its independence.

A thousand dwellings have been completed in the last two years—generally apartments in two-story buildings of stone or concrete with all the modern conveniences except central heat.

* * *

BECAUSE it was recognized that a new town built next to Nazareth and dominating it must not give offense to the world community by any suggestion of shabbiness, these dwellings cost one-third more than dwellings elsewhere in Israel.

An apartment with two small bedrooms, small living room, kitchen and toilet costs the equivalent of $4,400 compared to the $3,300 it costs in most parts of Israel.

The new community is being built with the avowed purpose of giving Western Galilee a larger population of Jews to form a bulwark against any possible Arab claims to the area on the ground that it is predominantly inhabited by Moslems.

They hope to construct another thousand homes during the next year and to have a city of 6,000 people by the end of 1959.

Ultimately it is hoped to have a city of 36,000 people on the hilltop to outmatch the 24,000 people, largely Moslems, living down below.

* * *

FIVE YEARS AGO, a shack camp of 25,000 people existed on the heights overlooking Lake Tiberias — for Christians and Jews alike the most sacred body of water in the world.

Today there is a modern spic and span new settlement on the ridge above Tiberias with room for 10,000 or the shack town's former population.

High Spot For Paris

By PAUL GHALI

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

It will be named the Antigone and will rise 52 stories to tower over the entire French capital. The tallest building in Paris now has only 17 floors.

Montparnasse, Left Bank hangout of artists and intellectuals in prewar days — they have long since transferred their affections to St.-Germain-des-Pres — will be the site of the great building.

Construction will begin in June and, according to present estimates, will be completed in six or seven years.

The Antigone will be mainly an office building, but will also house the biggest hotel in Paris, a movie theater, a nightclub and restaurant on the top floor and parking space underground.

Nobody seems to know why Paris' first skyscraper is being named for that unlucky figure of Greek mythology, Antigone. In Greek Legend, Antigone was buried alive by Creon, regent of Thebes.

Trade News in Brief

CONSTRUCTION starts in April on a 24-unit cooperative in Coral Gables, according to Bernard M. Creamer, president of Emerald Cove Realty, owner of the building. Called the Emerald Cove, the apartment house will be built on Edgewater Drive, just off Douglas Road in Emil Gould's Sunrise Harbour. Cost is estimated at $400,000.

Student 'Flings' Mixed Blessing For Lauderdale

By HENRY KINNEY
Herald Staff Writer

The Story:
. . . a boy, a girl, and a beer

FORT LAUDERDALE — In more than a decade of having hordes of students from scores of colleges descend on it each spring for mid-term and Easter vacations, Fort Lauderdale still has not entirely made up its mind as to whether it likes the idea.

The current swarming, which began during the second week in March and promises to continue until about the middle of April, finds the situation still precariously balanced between two factions: Those who are not at all backward about wishing the students would take their spring beer-drinking flings somewhere else, and those who point out that these heedless youths have a way of growing up to be not only well-behaved and well-heeled adult visitors but permanent residents.

Public officials have for four or five years been walking a tightrope, trying to keep the all-night noise and the occasional rowdyism suppressed to reasonable levels while assuring the students they're welcome as long as they behave.

Letters were sent recently by the city to 108 colleges and universities, tactfully suggesting that the students have fun, but watch their step.

As of midweek, with some 10,000 students in town, there had been approximately 75 arrests, most of them for traffic violations and public intoxication. Nearly all of the violators got off with a fine.

* * *

RESTAURANT OWNER Gene Leonard, whose El Bo Room has been the students' headquarters for a decade, says, "This is the best bunch we've ever had. They've been very, very good."

With Easter falling early this year, mid-term vacations at some colleges have overlapped into the Easter holidays at others, creating a record influx.

This will add up today to about 15,000, according to police, or to 27,000, according to Lifeguard Capt. Frank Dane, the students' patron, guardian and official chronicler.

In other years they have tossed dead alligators, ink, and assorted fish into hotel pools, thrown coconuts through windows, painted fraternity symbols on the beach water tower. One stole a city transit bus in midtown in daylight. There have been three automobile fatalities among them.

A few unsuccessful efforts have been made by the city to provide them with organized recreation in the hope of keeping them off the streets, so to speak, but these efforts were widely ignored and finally abandoned. For the most part all the students demand is a three-by-six-foot plot of beach and a continuing supply of beer. They drink more than 20,000 beers a day.

* * *

SOME TAKE no concern even for a place to sleep. Scattered ones bunk in cars or squeeze into cottages or motel rooms with friends. It's not unusual to see them shaving in automobiles.

Most stay in the less expensive Federal Hwy. motels. Some have it plush, stopping in oceanfront apartments with parents who chance to be wintering here. Fort Lauderdale boys and girls bring many home for the holidays. The majority of the beach hotels won't take them, but this year the Marlin Beach put out the welcome mat and took in about 250 — all girls, no boys allowed.

Motels and cottage-apartments which accept them occasionally have trouble keeping the males and females separated. Some take only one sex; others which take both segregate them to whatever degree is possible.

It's legendary that the students began coming to Fort Lauderdale after becoming acquainted with it during the annual Christmas-time College Coaches Swim Forum. The first trickles began about 1948, and by 1951 the invasion was a full-fledged institution.

Michigan and Ohio traditionally send the largest delegations. Californians have shown up from time to time. This year there are Texans and some from Colorado in the throng, along with the customary Big Ten, Ivy League and Southeastern contingents, groups from girls' schools and prep institutions.

BEWARE!
CONFUSION AHEAD

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

The Port Authority's million dollar traffic maze at Miami's International Airport is leaving motorists slightly dizzy and hollering for help.

Despite several thousands of dollars spent on large, easily readable guideposts, simple clear-cut directions are tough to find.

For instance:

AS YOU ENTER, be prepared to translate a bit of gobbledegook that reads "Flights In Out."

TO GO from the Terminal to Red Road, take a turn marked "Employes Only."

AND TO GO from the lower to the upper level, take a turn marked "Parking."

If you don't, you'll have to drive all the way back to LeJeune Rd. and cross six lanes of heavy traffic to start all over again.

* * *

If you know the right curves you can avoid the parking lot where they want money and leave your car for as long as you want right at the Terminal's front door — for free.

Those who pay may have to walk a block or two and through an area given over to the rental car trade.

Port Authority officials say the snafu will be straightened out, but they don't say when.

The main two-lane drive to the Terminal comes to a separation point just before the main building. There, too late, motorists are faced with a sign which reads "Flights" on one line, and "In—Out" on the next, with appropriate arrows.

Repeated brake squeals punctuate the drivers' indecision as they switch lanes at the last second, trying to catch the exact meaning. One motorist, at a dead stop for study, suggested, "Why don't they say, 'Arrivals' and 'Departures,' or is that too simple?"

* * *

LEAVING the Terminal building, the sign "Employes Only," points out the employes' parking lot. The same street is your only outlet to Red Road and the Perimeter Road taking you to the south and west sides of the airport.

At about the same point, another sign says "Parking" and "Exit," again with correctly pointing arrows.

But there is no way of knowing that the road to the parking area also leads you back to either the upper or lower driveways to the Terminal building.

Without this knowledge, motorists go on east from the Terminal to the LeJeune overpass, unable to U-turn on the divided highway.

At LeJeune they can turn right (at a sign placed right at the mouth of the road) and cross LeJeune's six lanes; climb up the overpass again, and head back to the Terminal for another try.

Or, they can remain on the Terminal highway, cross the overpass, and try LeJeune's six lanes of traffic from another sharp angle before re-climbing the overpass for another try.

* * *

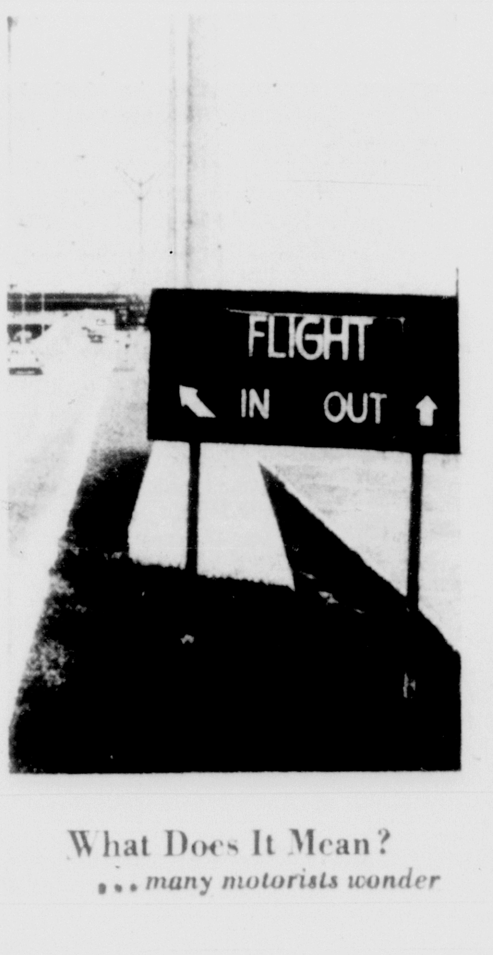
MOTORISTS complain rental car agencies take up space adjacent to the terminal which could be used for short-time parking for those meeting or seeing-off passengers.

Port Authority officials say some type of short-time parking will be inaugurated when the hotel atop the Terminal is completed — maybe in November.

The rental cars, however, probably will stay where they are giving up only a portion of the close-in areas they hold.

Baggage problems are slowly being worked out. Special carts are on order to enable porters to carry luggage on the escalators.

The Port Authority, which posted a multitude of warning signs before one low overpass in front of the terminal, have added heavy tire chains on an overhead cable which clank against high truck bodies and warn drivers of the "low bridge ahead."



What Does It Mean?
. . . many motorists wonder

A Stand-Up Ike Should Get Tough About Steel Spiral

Views On The News:

AT LAST WEDNESDAY'S press conference, Don Oberdorfer of The Miami Herald Washington Bureau, asked President Eisenhower this question:

"Mr. President, the workers in the steel mills are already tightening their belts for what seems to them to be an inevitable steel strike this summer.

Knight

"Isn't there anything that the public or the government or you, yourself, can do to head off this new injection of price-wage inflation, and do you have any plans along this line?"

In his reply, President Eisenhower mentioned that "a very high-ranking" Cabinet committee has been appointed to study inflation and "they have been studying very earnestly."

The President also stated that it is the government's policy "to keep outside the business of collective bargaining, and not to inject itself into that process, so far as any specific recommendation is made."

He philosophized that if the United States is to go ahead economically, the threat of a steel strike "is a place where labor and management must show statesmanship on both sides."

* * *

On A Prophetic Note

UP TO THIS point, our bright young man, Mr. Oberdorfer, had learned nothing new.

Clouds Hanging Heavy
... steel mill in production

The President has frequently sermonized upon the perils of inflation and the need for statesmanship in labor-management relations without converting either Big Labor or Big Biz.

But this time, Mr. Eisenhower injected a different and possibly a prophetic note.

He would not — since the public is affected by the steel negotiation — "pretend to ignore it and wash my hands, like Pontius Pilate — I don't mean to do that."

And he would expect, said the President, "as a measure of their statesmanship . . . that there be no advancement in the price of the commodity the public has to pay."

I hope this means that the President is edging away from his non-intervention policy in labor-management disputes which disrupt the nation's economy.

Had the President taken a strong pro-public position prior to the last steel strike, the built-in inflationary provisions of that contract might have been avoided.

Instead, Mr. Eisenhower elected to "wash his hands" in 1956 and a new wage-price settlement in steel hit the consumers where it really hurt.

* * *

Pistol, Protest, Bingo!

THE PRESIDENT might have told Mr. Oberdorfer that the government, now running a sizable deficit, could set an example for the public by eliminating or reducing non-essential expenditures.

This -- If Talks Fail
... idle plant, prices up

That the public should protest to a Congress which talks economy and votes for inflation.

And that he, the President, would call the steelworkers and the steelmasters to Washington and demand in the public interest that a non-inflationary agreement be reached.

There was some small indication in the President's remarks last Wednesday that he intends to get tough if the unions and the companies fail to bargain "in such a way that the price is not compelled to go up."

And it is about time. At every contract expiration, the union puts the pistol to management's head. The steel barons always protest, but they ultimately give in.

Shortly thereafter, the price of steel goes up and takes with it the prices of hundreds of manufactured items the public wants to buy.

The union has to prove to its members the strength of its bargaining power.

The steel companies must maintain a high rate of earnings to satisfy their shareholders.

The public is caught in the squeeze.

So go to it, Ike. Crack a few heads together if necessary and show Mr. Oberdorfer there is something a stand-up President can do to head off another dizzy inflationary whirl.

On The Senate Floor

MY FRIEND, Sen. Albert Gore (D. Tenn.), was addressing the Senate recently on the serious economic challenge we face in this country.

The subject so intrigued Sen. Paul Douglas (D. Ill.), that he asked Sen. Gore to yield and this colloquy ensued:

MR. DOUGLAS: ". . . the quantitative theory of money is one of the basic truths in economics, and sometimes attempts are made to refute it by showing that the movement of the total quantity of money does not bear an exact proportion to the total price level or the quantity of goods. We need to remember that the velocity of money and the velocity of credit are also factors.

"If I may put it in an algebraic formula:

$$P = \frac{MV + M^1V^1}{T}$$

"This should be clear to everyone."

MR. GORE: "Mr. President, the formula is entirely unclear, but the facts which the able Senator has stated are clear . . . Do monetary controls affect the velocity of money?"

MR. DOUGLAS: "It might be argued that monetary controls, by affecting M prime, which is the symbol for credit, help to counteract an increase in V prime, which is the symbol for velocity or circulation of credit. In other words, monetary controls might not affect the velocity but might compensate for the velocity."

At this stage, nothing was too clear except Sen. Hubert Humphrey's ringing declaration that "it is about time we put the monkey of inflation smack bang on the back of the Eisenhower Republican administration."

Senator Gore, and the others who didn't know that P refers to the general price level, M to the quantity of cash, V to the velocity of cash, M^1 to the quantity of demand deposits, V^1 to the velocity of circulation of demand deposits and T to the physical volume of production, agreed that Sen. Humphrey had a splendid solution.

Random Notes

LYNDON JOHNSON, majority leader of the Senate, didn't appreciate being described by President Eisenhower as "one of my warm personal friends for many years, and like myself he belongs to the 'cardiac club.'"

The reference was to the Texan's heart attack in 1955, a fact which the Johnson for President boosters try to forget.

When Frank Lausche was governor of Ohio, he was often called "crying Frank" . . . he could jerk a tear or two when speaking of his detractors . . . Now it is "crying Mike," Ohio's new Governor Di Salle, who is weeping over capital punishment as "the tool of the dictators." . . . Fidel Castro and the Ohio Legislature are unimpressed.

The Inter-American Press Association, presently investigating government subsidies to Havana newspapers during the Batista regime, is finding that "the more things change, the more they remain the same."

Every Man Born A Missionary

"A good Christian," — Christians cannot be designated by comparative degrees as, good, better or best. Christians cannot choose degrees to suit peculiar whims. A Christian may fail, if so, "Whoever repents of evil thoughts, words and deeds, unto him shall be remitted the punishment, if afterward he does not again commit wickedness."

The "selfish, ruthless," — "who fulfill every outward obligation to their Church," — un-Christ-like, though he be, his assistance to maintain the Church, is a sound factor in establishing in the minds of the younger generation the importance of the Church.

Those charitable citizens, "not affiliated with any religious group" — strongly emphasize to the younger generation the unimportance of the Church. Were these a majority, there might soon be no Churches.

Our difficulty in past and the present generations arises from a lack of desire to establish and maintain the material and spiritual importance of the Church.

Every man at birth is endowed a missionary. By his works he guides to or away from the Church those missionaries who subscribe to his example.

Every man is a planter, planting seed to be harvested by those who follow. Every man is a harvester, harvesting crops planted by those before him.

Christian thoughts, words and deeds are the foundation stones upholding the Christian church. The house on a weak foundation cannot stand.

Though I am not of that religious group, established as Christian, I dread the dire day, should it come to pass, when too many non-affiliated stones begin to crumble in the walls, and the house, begins to totter on its weakened foundation.

Nasser Needs Israelis To Solidify Mideast

Editor The Herald: As we all know Nasser is seeking to join all Arab nations into one confederation. What is wrong about that? But in the center is little Israel, a nation that is Western in its outlook.

Nasser

What to do about it? Either destroy it or get its support as an ally.

To destroy it is impossible unless through a third world war. As an ally it would strengthen the Arab Confederation tremendously.

Only the Jew can hold the scales equal between the Crescent and the Cross.

With the vast populations of the Arab countries and the brains and Western modern methods of the Israeli nation Nasser would be able to dominate the Middle East.

Smiley Knows His Oats, --And Also Pigeon Peas

Editor The Herald: The article by Nixon Smiley on pigeon peas was read with much interest. The various legumes of which the pigeon pea is of considerable importance in the tropics are indeed high-nitrogen content plants.

Smiley

It should be pointed out, however, that most agriculturalists agree that about 25 per cent of the nitrogen content of these legumes does not come from the soil or air. This has come from soil organics, or from manure and fertilizers that may have been applied to the soil.

The fact that pigeon peas did not react to fertilizer additions in Puerto Rico does not invalidate the use of nitrogen carriers to provide needed nitrogen to the plant. Local conditions may result in high nitrogen content of the soil and thus additions of fertilizers would appear to be ineffective to increase yields.

Articles of the type referred to are of wide interest to the local communities and should appear as often as possible. Our thanks to Nixon Smiley for his good efforts.

Pay Honor To Pioneer

Editor The Herald: Many of us have adopted Miami as our home. We are grateful for the most perfect climate and conveniences that make it a health Mecca. However, we should give honor where honor is due. We must not forget the pioneers who endured real hardships and struggle in the preparation of Miami.

Mrs. Tuttle

We have our Rickenbacker Causeway, MacArthur Causeway, Flagler St. and Brickell Point, but we have neglected to honor the co-founder of this great city, Mrs. Julia Tuttle.

It was she who contacted Henry M. Flagler and it was she who donated much valuable land to induce Mr. Flagler to build that railroad that made this section of our state accessible.

Through her work, foresight and devotion, she sowed the seed that turned hammock into a most beautiful paradise, that millions may come to find health and happiness.

In this year ahead the Miami Woman's Club will celebrate it's 59th anniversary, a civic spirited organization in which this outstanding woman was interested during its earliest days. I believe it is most timely, fitting and proper for this community to take cognizance and name the new 36th St. Causeway for Julia Tuttle.

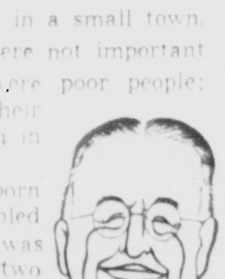
Confident Living

The Life That Did Not End On Cross

By Norman Vincent Peale

HE WAS a country preacher who grew up in a small town. His people were not important folk. They were poor people; actually their son was born in a stable.



Peale

He was born into troubled times. He was less than two weeks old when his parents had to flee the country. Quite a while passed before they could return.

He grew up just as other boys did. Or, at least, we can guess this. All we really know is that he was an unusually bright child and that, when he was 12, in accordance with the custom of his religion, he was confirmed.

He stayed on in his home town for the next 17 years or so, living just as his friends and neighbors did. Perhaps he, too, was a carpenter. In any case, whatever he did during those years wasn't remarkable enough for anyone to take special note.

* * *

THEN, when he was almost 30, a wandering preacher, a cousin of his mother's named John, came to town. Bearded and half-naked, living on what little he could find along the road, John was a strong preacher and his words brought out everyone to hear him. The young carpenter came with all the rest and was baptized in the river by his cousin.

Somehow, that baptism brought him to a decision. He disappeared for almost two months. When he came back, he began to preach. He spent his next three years as a wandering preacher in the small towns and in the country. He attracted to him other poor men like himself: fishermen, sailors, farmers.

He soon became famous in the country, but this did not change his simple way of life. And when finally he decided to carry his mission to the big city, he entered it as a poor man among poor men.

* * *

HIS MISSION seemed a failure. In the end, the authorities manufactured the charge that what he preached was treason, and condemned him to death. Offered an opportunity to save him, the very crowds to which he had preached turned against him.

He and two condemned thieves were nailed upon crosses to die. As his life ebbed away, soldiers threw dice to decide who would get the poor clothes he had been wearing.

Later, his friends claimed his body and laid it in a cave, with a huge stone rolled against the opening to seal it.

And, if this were the end of his story, we should not know what little we do know about him. In his time many men died for the same kind of treason. And he had been preaching for only three years.

* * *

FORTUNATELY, that is not the end of His story. For His faithful followers found that huge gravestone rolled away and knew that He had risen from the dead. He appeared to them and they talked with Him. And then they remembered that wonderful promise that He had made to them. They passed it from heart to heart and down to us over the 2,000 years which separate our time and His:

"I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

That glorious message of resurrection is basic to the life of Jesus Christ and to our life as well. This is the message of Easter. It is our hope for time and eternity. "Because He lives we shall live also."

Dixie To Object But—

'Moderate' Rights Bill Seems Certain

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — Congressmen close to the battle believe prospects are favorable for passage of a "moderate" civil rights bill in 1959.

Southern opponents of all such proposals disagree, but there is broad bipartisan feeling that the 1959 bill will include:

NEW penalties for bombing of schools and churches.

EXTENSION of the life of the Federal Civil Rights Commission.

AUTHORITY for the Justice Department to inspect state registration and voting records in its investigations of alleged deprivations of the right to vote.

SOME technical and perhaps financial assistance to communities facing integration problems.

Ike Lyndon

Hearings on civil rights will continue in both the House and Senate after the Easter recess, and the bills have a long way to go before final passage.

* * *

BUT BACKERS of civil rights legislation are optimistic about the final outcome, because there is unusual agreement on the issue between the Administration and the Democratic leadership of Congress.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.), last January introduced a four-point civil rights bill covering the first four points listed above. Two weeks later, President Eisenhower submitted a seven-point program.

The Administration bill went beyond Johnson's, but the first four points of both were substantially similar.

The President suggested that aid to areas with school desegregation problems include financial assistance and be handled by the Office of Education. Johnson proposed no financial aid and recommended creation of a new Community Relations Service to conciliate integration disputes.

But aside from these points, the Administration and the Senate Democratic leader were in harmony on the first four points.

Johnson made no recommendation for dealing with school integration mobs like the one in Little Rock, but there seems to be strong sentiment in Congress for making interference with Federal Court desegration orders a federal crime, as the President recommended.

The belief is that a civil rights bill limited to those five points would draw opposition only from "diehard" Southern opponents of anything that bears the civil rights label.

Northern liberals of both parties contend, however, that such a bill would be so weak as to be almost meaningless.

* * *

THEY WANT to give the attorney general authority to file school desegregation suits on his own initiative to speed up compliance with the 1954 Supreme Court school decision. At present, school desegregation suits can be filed only by parents of Negro children, and the government enters the case only if asked to by the courts.

In 1957, the Eisenhower Administration sought such authority from Congress. The House granted it, but the Senate killed this section of the bill.

Now the Administration has shifted sides and argues that the authority is not needed "at this time." Recent progress in such states as Virginia, Administration spokesmen contend, indicates that communities will better adjust to the Supreme Court decree if the federal government does not intervene directly in local situations.

Disciplinarian Hyman Forgets About Son

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The irrepressible Adm. Hyman Rickover, whose red-tape-cutting ability pioneered the first atomic submarine, was speaking before the Yale Club of New York and finished early so club members could hear the President's telecast on the Berlin crisis at 9:30.

Pearson

During the few minutes wait, chairman Joseph P. T. Sullivan, nephew of famed Big Tim Sullivan, one-time Tammany leader, commented favorably on Adm. Rickover's theme that the American high standard of living was not necessarily a sign of moral strength, but, if anything, showed our lack of self-discipline. If Americans don't use self-discipline to become a stronger nation, said Sullivan, we may some day be subjected to real discipline.

Suddenly Adm. Rickover astounded the Yale Club by shouting:

"How can you talk here of discipline? I just read in the papers that the Yale president suspended 4,000 Yale students because they rioted—an example of lack of proper training and discipline."

Sullivan smiled.

"Didn't you say, Admiral, that training began at home?" he asked. "The Admiral's son," he added, "is a Yale sophomore. He was among the 4,000 suspended."

Primary's Goose Is Just About Cooked

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Political Writer

Florida Politics

Attention Sens. Jack Kennedy, Stuart Symington, Hubert Humphrey, Vice President Richard Nixon and you other Presidential-hopefuls:

You can just about forget running in the Florida preferential primaries next year. Chances are there won't be any.

Sentiment is mounting among politicans around the state that Florida is losing an opportunity to barter at the National Democratic and Republican conventions by sending its delegates already committed to a candidate.

Minnesota's legislature voted earlier this month to abolish its presidential primary.

The outlook now is that the Florida Democratic Executive Committee, at its meeting in Orlando next Saturday, will vote to ask the Legislature to eliminate the preference primaries.

"When you go committed to a national candidate, you lost all your effectiveness as a convention delegate," declared Robert M. Morgan, State Democratic Committeeman from Dade County. "I might just as well have mailed in my vote as to have been there at Chicago during the last convention."

State Chairman James Milligan of Orlando also is on record supporting the "no commitment" plan for delegates. As a substitute, Milligan, Morgan and other party leaders favor uniting behind a "favorite son" candidate such as Sen. George Smathers or Gov. LeRoy Collins. The Republicans could line up behind Congressman William C. Cramer or State Chairman G. Harold Alexander.

The purpose would be entirely for political bargaining — and would ensure that Florida delegates were kept advised of intra-party maneuvers during the convention. They wouldn't be left out of the party council. The national leaders would be constantly angling for Florida's votes, especially in a close race for the nomination. Several states, particularly in the South, use the "favorite son" method of sending delegates to the national conventions.

If all states held the presidential primary, it would be a good thing. As it is, the primary does little than to give some indication as to which candidate is most acceptable to Florida. The failing is that not all candidates enter the preference primaries and even if they do, they may make no real effort to win. They realize, as professional politicians, that what really counts is the backing they have of the party chieftans at the convention, not the relatively small number of votes which they pick up on the limited campaign trails of a few states.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

Police Should Get Together

BELL

A TRUCK and a car crashed one night last week on Douglas Rd. The drivers waited in vain for Coral Gables or Miami police to make an official report — just as I reported. Lt. Harry Bell of Gables police chides me for "leaving the impression that no police cars were there." I didn't mean to leave such an impression. I just wanted to point out a silly bit of police work, leaving the two drivers without a report of the accident.

Lt. Bell says the Gables engineer puts the Gables boundary 35 feet east of the sidewalk. "We couldn't make a report because it wouldn't stand up in a Gables court," he argues.

As a matter of fact, both Gables and Miami traffic men were there. Both refused to write up the report. Now I find that virtually in the middle of Douglas Rd. there's a "no man's land" claimed by neither Gables or Miami. The accident seems to have started there, and wound up against a utility pole on the east side of Douglas Rd., which would be Miami jurisdiction.

The reaction of the two departments is interesting. Capt. Wm. Harries of Miami traffic division says bluntly, "Both of us were wrong. Either officer should have made up a report, and let it go to the proper authorities later. I chewed out my men and Gables should have done likewise. The drivers, who are taxpayers, deserve that consideration. And it's high time Miami and Coral Gables get together and end all this ridiculous fussing along Douglas Rd. Traffic officers don't know what to do."

Chief Bill Kimbrough of Gables police tells me that on LeJune Rd. is a long strip that's Metro on the east half and Gables on the west half. And Capt. Harries says there are similiar vague spots all over town, where Miami meets thisa or thata.

* * *

What's the Law?

PERHAPS you read of 57 motorists ticketed in 2½ hours, by radar at SE Brickell Ave. and 15th Rd. There were signs, "SLOW-20 M.P.H." Metro engineer George Knude said "The signs are cautionary and not the legal speed limit, which is 40 m.p.h."

Miami Traffic Inspector Paul Denham said, "The signs are legal. And the city's legal limit at blinkers is 15 m.p.h." Did you know that? I didn't, and doubt if five per cent of our drivers do. John Pennekamp recently saw a radar road block in Coral Gables, and wrote that the 20-mile speed maximum at that point is most unfair.

Y'see, what we need — please, Metro — is a county-wide system of uniform traffic laws, and plainly marked regulations. And any traffic officer should be empowered to check and report on a traffic violation, anywhere in the county.

Winifred Gans, arrested by Miami police for a violation, got a stop order from Circuit Judge George Holt, so she won't have to go before a municipal court judge. Holt told the city to leave the trial in Metro court, as the Supreme Court has ordered.

Actually, I doubt if any City Court judges are dragging their feet in this Metro changeover. One outspoken Metro critic was Judge Francis Sobieski. "But I'm over all that," he told me. "Now, let's get the matter settled one way or the other."

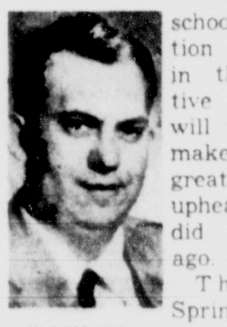
EASTER SEAL theme boy for 1959 is little Ricky Clark, who is 4½ years old. The son of Mrs. Loretta M. Clark of 415 NW 35th Ave., Ricky suffered some paralysis on the right side of his body as a result of cerebral accident at the age of 14 months. He has been receiving treatment at the Crippled Children's Society for two years and his speech is now entirely normal for a boy his age. His right arm and hand have improved considerably, but he still must wear a leg brace. A bright, responsive boy, he attends kindergarten and enjoys riding around in his toy car — the one he's pictured in above.

Quick Action Expected On Segregation Bill

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief



BOYLES

TALLAHASSEE — Rep. J. W. (Jody) McAlpin does not believe that his introduction of "the last resort" school segregation bill early in the legislative session will throw lawmakers into great emotional upheaval as it did two years ago.

The White Springs legislator thinks the measure will pass by a big majority but he is against the Legislature consuming itself in furor for two months over the bill and neglecting other vital state business.

A give-no-quarter segregationist, McAlpin told this writer, "I think it should be among the first matters considered. We ought to settle the issue and get it out of the way."

His version of "the last resort" bill would provide for a referendum to let the voters of the school district decide whether schools should be closed if integration appears inevitable. And it would further provide for a recall election for local school board members.

The prediction here is that the bill will pass and will have enough votes to override a possible gubernatorial veto.

But its validity will be questioned so long as Florida's constitution requires a "uniform" public school system.

* * *

Vetoed in 1957

TWO YEARS AGO the Legislature passed a "last resort" bill and Gov. LeRoy Collins vetoed it. Almost every day for the last month of the session there was a new attempt to muster the necessary votes to override the veto.

When that failed an effort was made to tack the school closing bill on other measures as an amendment. Even many strong supporters of the "last resort" bill opposed such subterfuge and that was blocked.

It made Sen. Harvie Belser lose his temper and walk out with a threat to resign. But he never gave up his seat.

If McAlpin is right and the "last resort" fight can be settled in the first 10 days of the session convening next month, there ought to be less tension over racial legislation in Tallahassee.

* * *

Broad Coverage

BASED on past figures, newsmen will give the 1959 Legislature the broadest coverage in history — something like two million words will be dispatched from the Capitol news rooms in the next two months.

Some 30 reporters will cover the news in the legislative halls. Shortly after World War II there was only a quartet of permanently assigned correspondents in the Capitol. Today the Capitol is the regular news beat for 17 reporters and their ranks are swelled during legislative session by another 20 special correspondents.

* * *

Steak 'n Chat

WHERE DO legislators go when daily sessions are adjourned?

At night, for dinner, most of them hit the Tallahassee steakhouse circuit. A lot of business is transacted over a piece of sirloin.

In some capitals the political-social activity during a legislative session is confined to a major hotel. But in Tallahassee Joe's Spaghetti House, the Silver Slipper and the Talquin Inn are the popular spots for nocturnal relaxation.

The fact that Leon County is dry has never slowed the pace of gay partying. Those who dine out in the Capitol have reconciled themselves to that standard part of most invitations — "Please bring your own bottle."

He'll Take Ax to Spending

REP. Emmett S. Roberts of Belle Glade will go to bat in the legislative session opening April 7 in an attempt to clamp down on loose spending by state agencies. His interim Legislative Council "Watchdog" Committee has come up with a series of recommendations to tighten loopholes.

"I have found that the legislative budgets submitted by the agencies and approved by the Legislature have little relationship to the operating budget and expenditures of the agencies," declares Roberts.

"A certain amount of flexibility is desirable, but the past practices are one reason for expenditures snowballing."

Another measure which will be jointly sponsored by the entire Palm Beach County delegation — Sen. Fred O. Dickinson and Reps. Ralph Blank and Roberts — will call for the state to adopt a uniform property assessment system at 60 per cent of full value. Palm Beach is the only county which went to 100 per cent of full cash value last year as technically required by law.

* * *

U.S. Costs Us More

THE COST of financing Federal government is a far greater drain on Florida taxpayers than the cost of state, county and municipal government combined, reports John L. Perry, administrative assistant to Gov. LeRoy Collins. His research shows the following:

During the 1957-58 fiscal year, the total taxes paid by Floridians came to $2 billion. The federal government got $1.3 billion with the state, county and municipal governments splitting the other $.7 billion.

* * *

Tribute Paid to Papy

MONROE COUNTY paid tribute to its veteran legislator, Rep. Bernie C. Papy, Saturday night with a send-off dinner. Papy, who has served 24 years in the House, will be dean of that body this session . . . Former newsman Jim Hardee, who now runs the Florida Legislative Reporters, Inc., in Tallahassee, has put together a "Who's Who" pamphlet on the 1959 Legislature. It's a handy reference booklet . . . The school interests have their crying towels out again, and for the first time probably won't find too much support for their pleas. Speaker Thomas D. Beasley and Appropriations Chairman Cliff Herrell in the House, and President Dewey Johnson and Appropriations Chairman Wilson Carraway in the Senate, are turning deaf ears to their cries for more money. It's something new and different for the school lobbyists.

* * *

Willard to Cut Staffs

A QUICK CHECK of the professions represented in the Senate and House shows the laymen tied with the lawyers in the upper chamber 19 to 19. In the House, the attorneys number 43 compared to the combined total of 52 legislators in other professions . . . Ira Willard, Miami's new city manager, struck a responsive public chord with his directive to eliminate some of the nonessential jobs in city departments. He ordered department heads not to fill vacancies when employes resign or leave city employ unless the department head can convince him personally that there is need to fill the job. With Metro gradually taking over more and more functions, it would seem only logical that the municipalities cut their staffs when possible.

Comments on the News

HERE'S WHAT other Miami Herald columnists have to say about current events and personalities:

ROSCOE DRUMMOND, on the Berlin crisis: "Week after week, for at least the next five months, the biggest headline-news will revolve around the Berlin crisis. It isn't going to disappear soon. It isn't going to be settled quickly."

* * *

DAVID LAWRENCE, on the summit conference: ". . . how many people who are so enthusiastically hailing the next 'summit' conference remember that the Soviet government made a solemn pledge three years ago at a 'summit' conference and then broke it four months later at a foreign ministers' conference?"

* * *

GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY, on foreign aid: "Why are we under a moral and ethical responsibility to pour our wealth into land and sea until we shall be as poor as Uzbekistan?"

* * *

BOB CONSIDINE, on choosing the first space pilot: "Think of the thoughts that must be flitting through the minds of remaining 12 men from whose number the choice will be made! . . . A comparatively minor miscalculation at the moment of ejecting the capsule might mean the difference between landing on the point of Mt. Everest or Brazil's Matto Grosso."

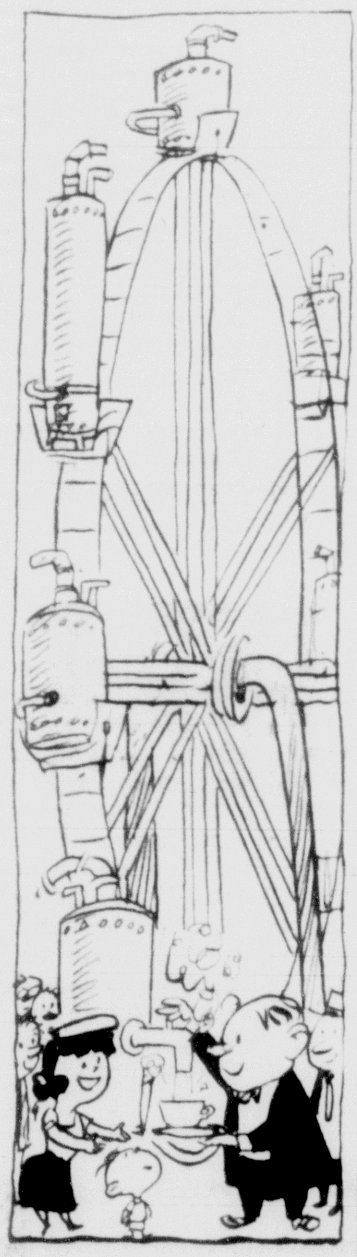
Home Show Opens Today

The doors of Dinner Key Auditorium swing open at 2 this afternoon for the 14th annual Miami Realtors' Home Show. The show will run for eight days through next Sunday. Hours are 2 to 10 p.m. And admission is free.



More than 150 exhibitors have taken space for this year's show. You'll find builders and barbecue makers, air conditioning and paints, patio furniture and every conceivable appliance.

The Florida Power and Light exhibit is a 25-foot ferris wheel spinning six electric water heaters. It's designed to demonstrate you can put them anywhere. One of the heaters will deliver piping hot water for instant coffee.

A Homemaker's Museum will display the appliances that were the last word a century ago. These include sewing machines, looms, stoves, cabinets and washing devices.

These will be contrasted with the modern appliances that make homemaking a push button affair today.

The Post Office Department exhibit will present the changing story on how our mail is handled. A film will tell of the many jobs available in the department.

The Sky's The Limit

By ROBERT G. SHORTAL

NEW YORK — Onward and upward! That's the motto of the men who build the nation's skyscrapers.

They've been busy since the end of World War II, putting up office buildings at the fastest clip in history.

And while the past 12 years have been fantastic, the next decade may be even greater, industry spokesmen say.

Some experts look for total new construction in the next decade approaching $700 billion, which would be 60 per cent greater than the more than $400 billion of new construction in the past 10 years.

That's good news for the economy. Construction has been a real economic mainstay in this country since the end of the war, consuming vast amounts of steel, cement, brick, lumber, glass and other materials.

Even in the recession year 1958, the construction industry managed to ring up a record volume of almost $50 billion. This feat was a major factor in cushioning the economic downturn and in helping to power the recovery movement.

All types of construction have participated in the boom. Construction of office buildings in New York City alone—the home of the skyscraper—has smashed all records in the postwar period.

"Since 1947," according to Robert Tishman, executive vice president of Tishman Realty & Construction Co., "work has been either started or completed on some 125 office buildings with more than 42 million square feet of rentable area."

The previous record for office building construction was set in the period 1925-33 when 138 buildings with 32 million square feet of rentable space were completed, he added.

Buildings completed in the 1925-33 period included the world's two tallest — the 102-story Empire State Building and the 77-story Chrysler Building.

Major buildings under construction in New York at the present time include the 60-story Chase Manhattan Bank Building and the 52-story Union Carbide Building.

Tishman explained that skyscrapers represent the combined efforts of scores of subcontractors, each a specialist in his own field.

"General contractors subcontract the various phases of the construction project because we have found that the men who concentrate on one trade are the most efficient at it," Tishman said.

"As a result, it is more efficient and economical to have the excavation work done by a specialist in that field, the framework put up by a steel firm, the brick work by a masonry firm, and so on."

Tishman said the general contractor acts as a "supervisory department," overseeing all phases of the operation from start to finish.

He explained that general contractors generally fall into two categories: Those who build for themselves, such as Tishman and Uris Brothers; and those who build for others, such as Turner Construction and George A. Fuller.

Tishman said that despite the office building boom of the postwar period, there has been no problem renting new buildings.

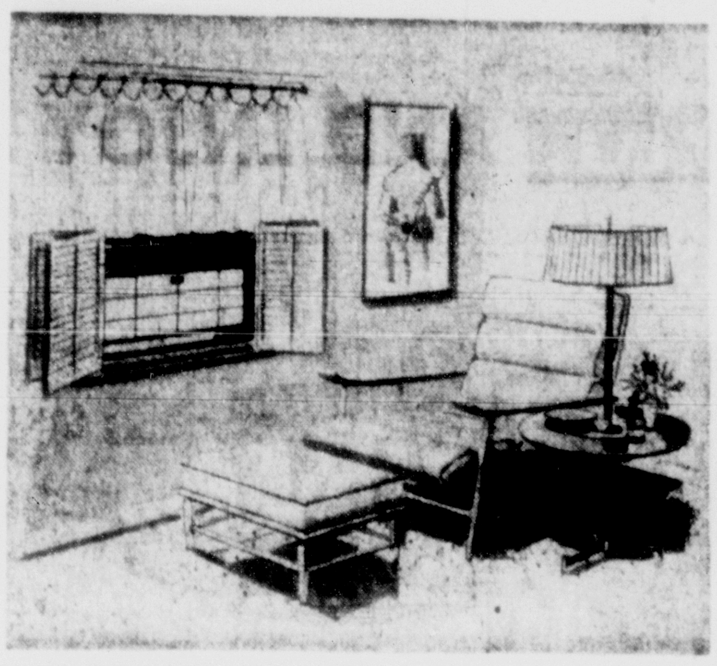
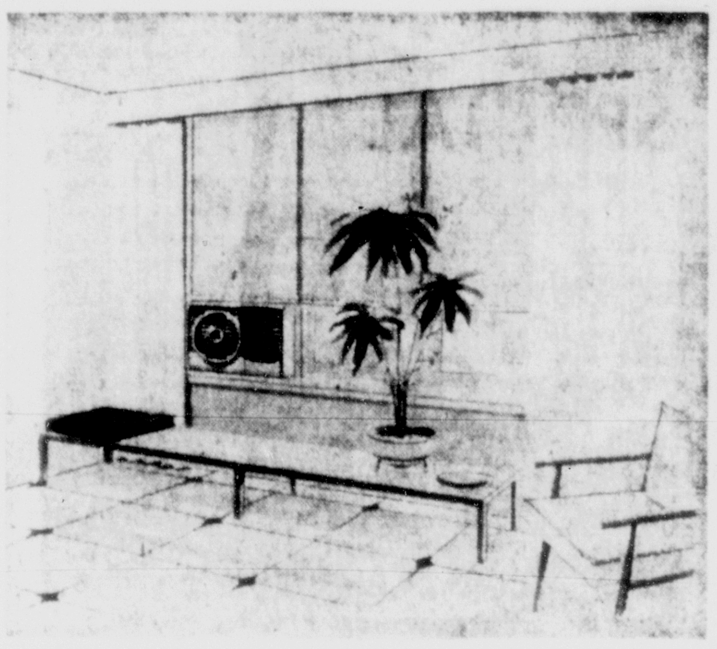
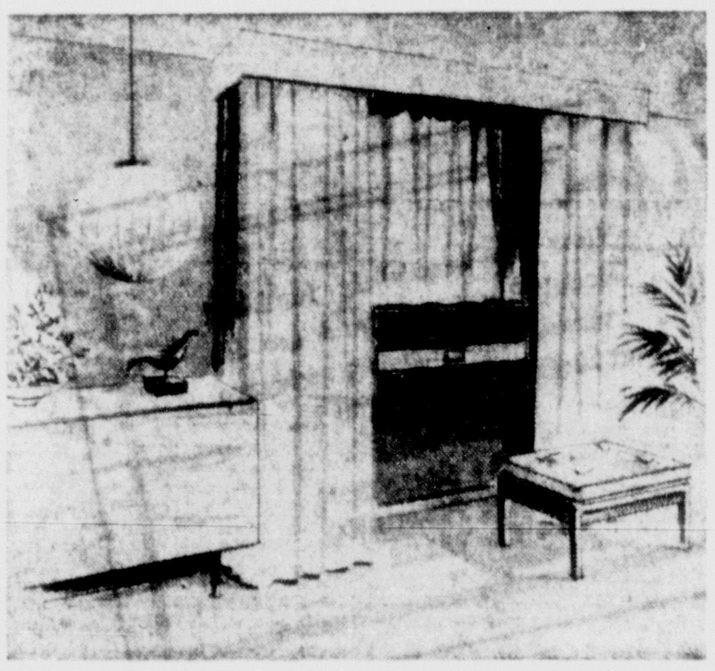
The Decor Goes Cool



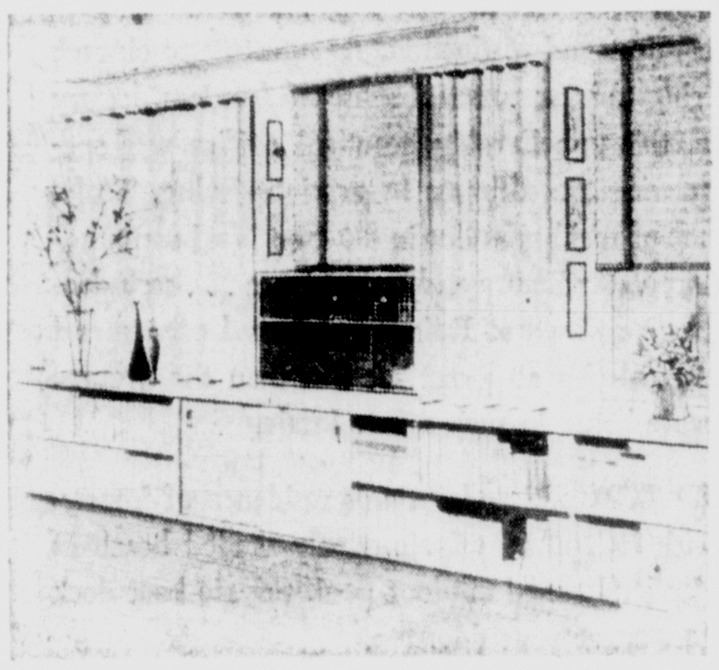
SHUTTERS HIDE this small-window conditioner when it's not in use; cafe curtains above regulate light and privacy when unit is on or off. You could reverse the treatment or use all shutters or all curtains. Note that furniture is kept to one side so air can flow freely in and out.



FABRIC OR WOOD-SLAT shades and draw draperies adjust to the season. Here, three separate shades regulate light, give warm-weather privacy. Use opaque shades on south or west windows to insulate. Draperies can draw across all three windows when air conditioner is turned off.



EXTRA LONG BRACKETS set rods out from wall so draw draperies can cover conditioner that projects into room. Cornice board adds neat appearance. Short draperies operate on separate rod to close above conditioner. Shallow table was selected to use next to extending window treatment.



VENETIAN BLINDS are good light regulators above air conditioners. They are next to glass on these inset windows. When conditioner is turned off, draperies draw over outer wall, completely covering windows and unit. Bookcases flush with window ledges give the wall a finished look.

But the Codes Must Be Changed

Plastics Men Gun for Housing Market

By ANTHONY R. SCALZA
United Press International

NEW YORK—The plastics industry is putting more steam behind its drive to grab off a larger share of the billion dollar home building materials market, and some companies have even fashioned an all-plastic house to dramatize this aim.

Spokesmen for both the housing and plastics industry indicate that radical new shapes — even bubbles — are entirely feasible for houses if the cost was right.

Builders have expressed more than a passing interest in plastics as a means of cutting their on-site labor costs and to counter a growing fear that the high cost of field labor could price their product right out of the market.

The plastics industry has been interested for some time in gaining a bigger foothold in housing where other materials such as metals and wood have enjoyed a long and virtually unchallenged reign.

"Plastics are no longer a substitute material," reports Dr. Charles West, president of Resin Research Laboratories Inc. "They have been proven and should be put on a par with wood and metal."

Dr. West said the industry's breakthrough in housing, especially the pre-fabricated home construction market, may come sooner than many think.

Spokesmen for the building industry have already discussed in general terms the possibility of someday using plastic plumbing, walls, roofs, and molded plastic bathrooms, and such startling ideas as bubble houses and soft walls.

"However, any new product entering the building field today has problems," Dr. West noted. "In the case of plastics, it would mean revising building codes and this can't be done overnight."

The industry is constantly improving the quality of its products and expanding the ability of plastic materials to be used in more and more places, he pointed out.

Dr. West doubts, however, that plastics — whatever penetration they are able to make in housing in days ahead — will ever replace conventional building materials as such.

"Let's just say that plastics have come into their own and should in all fairness be accepted on common ground with wood and metal and other materials now favored by builders."

Resin Research just five years old, is a basic research, development and engineering firm that specializes in the field of developing polymeric resins into useful products and applications.

Dr. West said his confidence in resin materials is backed solidly by their proven versatility in the laboratory.

"Plastics brought back the hula hoop with a vengeance last Spring and a boomlet for the toy industry along with it," he noted.

He said that hundreds of products today are made of plastics. "The material is big in toys and housewares and hopes someday to be even bigger in housing."

Hotel Roofbreaking Scheduled at Airport

Roofbreaking will replace the traditional groundbreaking when construction starts Friday on the Miami International Airport Hotel.

The five-story, 256-room hotel will be built on top of the terminal. Contractor for the job is Fred Howland. Cost is figured at $1,899,500. Saul S. Cohen and Henry Garfinkle are the principal stockholders in Airway Hotel Corp., the firm that's building the hotel.

Steward and Skinner are the architects on the job, with A. Herbert Mathes serving as consultant architect. Marilyn Motto is the interior designer.

Richard Edgerton, state hotel commissioner, will be on hand for the roofbreaking.

Permit Issued For Apartments

A state hotel permit has been issued to J. Batt, Inc., of Pompano Beach, for the construction of an 18-unit apartment building at 3205 SE 7th St., Pompano Beach. Cost of the two-story building is estimated at $70,000. George E. Waddey, of Fort Lauderdale, is the architect.

36th St., Opa-locka Fight Economic Blows

Businessmen of two Greater Miami areas—Opa-locka and Northwest 36th Street—were getting hit by some economic punches Saturday.

But don't count them out.

More recently along 36th Street passenger terminals of the major airlines, with the exception of Eastern, were switched to the 20th Street area, raising cain with the "walk in" trade.

Eastern, with about 7,000 passenger arrivals and departures daily, is scheduled to follow suit by April 30. Eastern has roughly about half of the airport's passenger business, and its shift to the new terminal seems certain to strike a new blow at the 36th economy.

Restaurants, car rental firms, gift and sundry shops along 36th Street have been the hardest hit. But in some cases Gold Coast ingenuity is being applied. Thirty-sixth Street businessmen say its far from becoming a blighted area.

* * *

Firm Contacts Old Customers

INGENUITY?

"Sure, we're hit by the move to the big new terminal," said Joe Elfant, assistant manager of a car rental service. "But we're contacting our old customers—we've 30,000 on record—and we're telling them we'll pay their cab fare to our place after they hop off the plane."

On 36th Street, pessimists are in the minority.

"The whole strip is hit and we'll never be able to regain that transient trade," one businessman declared.

Miles Whigam, a food concessionaire at a drug and sundry store on 36th St., predicted that "perhaps three or four restaurants will have to close within six months."

"But we're not going to be one of them because we're going to continue to give the best service and put out the best meals possible," he said.

"I felt pretty sad the first morning I walked out and saw the emptiness across the street," said Al Richman, managing director of a 36th Street motel. "But that night the house was full and it's helped my lounge business, since I have more parking.

"We're not in the flight pattern here," he added. "It's quiet and we have a lot of regulars sticking with us. Thirty-sixth Street is not going to be a dead street by any means."

It was further pointed out by an airline spokesman that about 15,000 people still work in maintenance bases along 36th Street despite the vanishing passenger picture. Construction of a new bank—Curtiss National—is under way on the street one block west of LeJeune Road.

Opa-locka Merchants Optimistic

WHAT'S the picture in Opa-locka?

Again the hue and cry of doom is in the minority. Some merchants who sounded off bitterly when the Marines began to pull out last year are now singing a different tune. There's optimism over Port Authority plans to convert the former Marine base into an aircraft auxiliary field and supply facility.

Opa-locka City Manager Walter Brown says "a concentrated shock was felt" when families in a 200-unit naval housing project pulled out. He estimated tenants of this project, near the Fisherman Street entrance to the base spent a quarter of a million dollars a year in Opa-locka "for groceries and the like."

"That didn't include the private homes bought or rented by the Marines when they were here. But the project is now slightly less than half filled with families of Air Force Reserve personnel."

"Last September and October before the last of the Marines left we were pumping 1,600,000 gallons a day in the city. Then we dropped to 750,000 gallons a day. Now we're back up to 1,200,000.

"That shows new people are moving in from other areas," Brown said.

* * *

Arabian Festival Planned

"WE ALL felt pretty bad when the air station began to close down," said John Penman, an Opa-locka restaurant man. "But my business has held up because we're drawing shoppers from a wider area. I know of no business that has failed because of the closing of the base."

Marty Klein, who started a firm to rebuild washing machines in Opa-locka seven years ago, has built a new and larger place of business since the Marine departure.

"If businessmen stick to their business, there's business in Opa-locka," Klein said.

"We revived our chamber of commerce out here a year ago," said John Bealle, five-and-ten-cent store proprietor, and the chamber's president. "Right now we're planning a group advertising program and merchants soon will stage a community-wide sale.

"Also to pep up local morale, we're planning a revival of the Arabian Nights festival June 29 to July 4, to end with a giant fireworks display," Bealle said. "It will be strictly a home talent affair with no outside promoters."

Some Opa-locka merchants are already starting to grow beards so they'll be "good looking" Arabs when the festival days arrive. Aviation Pioneer Glenn Curtiss, who founded Opa-locka, used an Arabian Nights theme — domed, mosquelike buildings — in the city's original architecture.

"Opa-locka isn't dead because the Marines moved out?" scoffed Jack Cohen, a shoe store proprietor. "Since then we've had a big buildup of population in Carol City, Myrtle Grove and surrounding areas. Those people are coming here to shop.

"Our rent is more economical than that of merchants in the big shopping centers and we're in a real position to compete."

Oddities, Horrors Fill Strange Shop

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

PUSH the bright, red nose of the little wooden clown at the front door of 1841 N.W. 20th St.

Presto: Wonderland!

Here, amid a strange potpourri of wares and services, James L. Logan wonders if he can do it. His customers wonder if he can do it. And when the job's done, both of them wonder how he did it.

Probably the nation's most unusual shopkeeper, Logan has an easy answer for his success: "No competition!"

No telephone, either.

Busier than the proverbial bee, happier than the proverbial lark, the retired Miami police officer has achieved every man's ambition — the opportunity to do what he wants to do, whenever he wants to do it.

* * *

He Has 2 Conditions

TECHNICALLY, the name of the paint-spattered business establishment is "Logan's Showcraft." But who wants to be technical? Certainly not Logan.

He studied art at Rhode Island School of Design. He's a musician, (piano, violin, drums) registered gunsmith, licensed radio operator, a taxidermist, sculptor, mechanic.

He constructed the first railroad at Crandon Park, the merry-go-round at Policeman's Park, holds a City of Miami certificate of achievement for chemical tests—he built three drunkometers for the city.

Jack of all trades and master of most, Logan accepts business on two conditions: "If I'll do it and when you get it."

He pointed to a mechanical canary in a cage.

"I've had that five years. I'll get around to figuring it out and fixing it one of these days."

Prior to his retirement a couple of years ago, after 31 years with the police department, Logan operated a backyard amusement business he began as a hobby in 1912. When he retired from the force, he was retired from the backyard, too.

Rooster Says 'Ah' for Logan
. . . who checks his 'tonsils'

"Evicted is more the word for it," laughed Logan whose words tumble over one another like friendly acrobats. "My wife gave the ultimatum."

Result: The little business has become a big business, thrice expanded.

* * *

Totem Poles, Too

LOGAN doesn't blink an eye at a customer who walks in and asks for a white whale 20 feet long. He builds it. Or at the Shriner who announces he wants to be the hind end of a horse. Logan accommodates.

Strangest request he ever got?

Well, there was this guy who brought in a picture of his mother-in-law and wanted a shrunken head fashioned to likeness.

And there was the fellow who ordered a totem pole for his front lawn, complete with carved likenesses of the entire family.

"He asked to be the low man because he said that's what he was and he wanted the neighbors to know it."

Logan does everything from designing menus and wallpaper to haunting houses.

Current project: Building an erupting volcano for a Polynesian restaurant in Atlanta, restoring a life-size horse for American Van Lines in Haskins, Neb. The mane and tail of the horse will be yak hair from Tibet, (which Logan uses by the bale), and rebuilding a 200-year-old marionette hurdy-gurdy (it features a tiny orchestra of animated monkeys) which once wheeled through the streets of Paris.

He's also rebuilding a German military steam organ — one of three built to a pattern on commission by Kaiser Wilhelm — recently found in a barn in Leavenworth, Kan.

* * *

Full of Odd Treasures

THE SHOPKEEPER'S prices vary as much as his services and wares. For restoring the steam organ, $2,500 — for the sad faced little girl who walked in with her broken dolly — nothing at all.

Hanging from Logan's ceilings and walls are a million treasures — a rusty bathtub from the Mayflower, a wagon tree from the great wreck of Sells Flato Circus in 1884 . . . the bell from Dumbo, Barnum and Bailey's lead elephant of 1914-15 . . . a pair of tiny, mummified figures found in a crude, tomb-like cave in Haiti in 1740.

"They're supposed to be remains of the lost tribe of weird Ju-Ju or devil-men," he explained.

Folklore among Logan's friends is the time his wife, Olga, went out to his backyard shop and fainted dead away. There in a coffin was a corpse . . . first of Logan's many wax figures.

Then there was the time the Logan's ate the delicious big fish they found on the porch steps — then discovered it was a tarpon left to be stuffed.

* * *

Lizzie Borden in Wax

NOW THAT he has a separate business establishment, Logan's pride is his chamber of horrors. It's in the hall right at the top of the stairs. You have to go through it to get to his office. There's Lizzie Borden, the Fall River ax-murderess of 1884, a grisly pirate dangling from the gallows, a modern gun moll perched on the bannister and leveling a dead bead on visitors.

"This is a very popular number," explained Logan, patting the pirate nonchalantly. "Can't keep him in stock."

Note to feminine customers: Watch out for that airshoot on the very top step.

Sometimes, when he was working alone, late at night . . .

"Well, I stopped that animated stuff," grinned the wonder man.

Foe Helped Make Integration Work

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

ARLINGTON, Va. — On Feb. 2, Stratford Junior High School was ringed with police wearing helmets and armed with pistols, nightclubs and tear gas.

The day symbolized the final crumbling of Virginia's massive resistance laws. Integration came for the first time in the state to Stratford Junior High here and six schools in Norfolk.

Six weeks later, the contrast is startling to a reporter who was here on that first day.

The beautiful yellow brick and fieldstone school building looks like any other school now, standing serene on its grounds in this Washington (D.C.) suburb.

There are no police.

A reporter can walk in the door and down the long corridors as in any other school. There are no plain clothesmen lurking inside. The atmosphere seems normal. Just another school, going about its business.

* * *

THE POLICE were out in force on that opening day to prevent anyone from making trouble. There was none then. (A couple of bomb scares proved to be hoaxes.) There has been none since.

The police were taken away campletely a couple of weeks ago. There are only a few routine precautions now.

A police patrol car circles the school area in the morning as the school opens and in the afternoon when it lets out. The school building is floodlit at night. Publicity is discouraged.

Only 10 students out of a student body of about 1,060 have left, in protest, since four seventh-graders were admitted to the school.

There were other, more important reasons, though, why integration has been accomplished here without any ugly incidents.

In the first place, as Stratford Principal Claude M. Richmond points out, there was close cooperation between the Arlington County manager, the police and the school officials, "all determined to make integration work."

This is not surprising in view of Virginia's long law-abiding tradition.

* * *

He is Ray E. Reid, superintendent of the Arlington County School Board.

He objects to integration on "scholastic grounds," he says. "I feel that if enough Negroes are admitted into an all-white school they will pull down the educational standards of all."

But he wants the Negro children to have a "fair chance" at Stratford Junior High. To this end, he says, he insisted that the original list of 30 presented for admission be weeded down to the four who finally were accepted.

These four had "high ability," he says, and this was necessary "if they were not to get lost in their new school."

Richmond says that the four are fitting in very well, and that while two are having difficulty with mathematics, they are generally keeping up with their classes.

Reid says that Richmond did a "superb job" of preparing both the students and teachers for the arrival of the Negro children.

"He told the teachers that whether we like it or not, we've got integration. So let's try to live with it. And he told the students that they had a good school. Let's keep it that way."

The parents themselves obviously have accepted integration, says Richmond, either because they believe in it or because they want the school to stay open. And the guide-lines of their thinking are reflected in the behavior of the children at school, he says.

Now, as a reporter watches school let out, he sees the Negro children walking home just like the other students. Their parents no longer feel compelled, for safety measures, to pick them up in a car.

U.S. Girds for Push to Space

One of the most authoritative trade magazines in the aviation and missile field is Aviation Week. Because of the wide interest in space exploration programs, The Herald is reprinting in part (by permission) from Aviation Week this article which summarizes what we can expect in the way of space programs in the near future.

By EVERT CLARK

WASHINGTON—Space exploration within the next year will involve launching of 30 or more U.S. satellites and space probes to as far away as the planet Venus, and the expenditure of almost a billion dollars.

Materiel that will make possible such ambitious missions as landing men on the moon and Mars and returning them to earth already is under development.

The reversal of attitude reflected in this great effort was forced by Soviet Russia's technological progress. It is being aided considerably by the emergence of missile boosters from the cocoons of research and development.

Although the prospect of surpassing the Russian competitor in the conquest of space still lies well in the future, the U.S. at last is on its way toward formation and execution of an integrated national space program.

The problems remaining are great—organization and administration, proper public support and funding, division of responsibility, and such formidable technical problems as reliability, development of long-life electronic components and life-support systems, and the vast amount of research involved in understanding navigational and communications techniques, orbital mechanics, and survival in a physical environment that already has proved to be unexpectedly hostile to man.

* * *

2 Agencies Created

GOVERNMENT has responded to this challenge with the creation of two agencies—which some critics say are one too many—and financial support that is quite generous by pre-Sputnik standards, but less generous than many of those in charge of its space programs would like.

Industry has responded by recognizing quickly the importance of this new field and the market involved. Companies have created new divisions or reorganized and reoriented old ones and have produced, often on extremely tight time schedules, the hardware necessary to take the first faltering steps into space.

A little more than a year ago the largest rocket engines in the U.S. were in the 150,000-pound thrust category. The largest one for which anything like real development was under way was a 300,000-pound thrust engine.

Now there are two development programs calling for boosters of 1.5 million pounds of thrust and one of these can be clustered to produce a booster with a thrust as high as 20 million pounds.

Neither is at hand and ready to use. But propulsion is the key to exploration of space, and these projects provide an excellent example of the shift in official thinking on the importance of exploration.

New Rockets in Works

BEST EVIDENCE that the U.S. is determined to make considerable progress in space technology in the future is the outline of proposed vehicles described to Congress recently by National Aeronautical and Space Agency officials. In roughly the order that they will become available, they are:

PROJECT SCOUT—A family of high performance, solid fuel rockets that can be clustered and grouped to send payloads of up to several hundred pounds into orbit or to altitudes up to 5,000 miles.

THOR-HUSTLER—This is the vehicle now being used in the Discoverer satellite series. It may eventually put up satellite loads as high as 10.000 pounds.

ATLAS-ABLE—Atlas rocket plus some or all of the upper stages now used with Thor-Able.

ATLAS-HUSTLER—Atlas plus Hustler. This vehicle could put at least 3,000 pounds into a 300-mile orbit.

VEGA—Atlas first stage, two other high-energy stages.

CENTAUR—Modified Atlas first stage, two other stages.

SATURN—1.5-million-pound cluster of eight 150,-000-pound (approximate) engines as first stage, modified Tian as second stage, two other stages.

CLUSTER of 1.5-million-pound thrust engines as first stage, single 1.5-million-pound thrust engine for second stage, three other stages.

Here's What's Ahead

ASIDE from the military Sentry reconnaissance satellite program, Dyna-Soar orbital bomber and X-15 rocket research aircraft, the major NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Agency) and ARPA (Advanced Research Projects Agency) space programs for the near future include:

PROJECT MERCURY: This will be the first U.S. attempt to put a man into an orbit around the earth and recover him. Selection of pilots is well along. Extensive tests will precede the first orbital flight, which will be boosted by an Atlas D. Missile booster. A number of firings of solid rocket test vechicles equipped with capsules will precede the first orbital flight. Also scheduled ahead of the first orbit are test firings of capsules containing animals and men over shorter ballistic trajectories from Cape Canaveral, using Redstone and Jupiter boosters.

EARTH SATELLITES to be launched by Air Force and Army. One shot, designated Thor-Able II, is expected to be launched next month (April) to send a satellite into an orbit with a 30,000-mile apogee.

LUNAR PROBES, to be launched by Air Force and Army.

DEEP SPACE PROBES. The Air Force has received $8.99 million for this, indicating it calls for more than the Thor-Able and Atlas-Able shots at Venus, which will be fired about June 3 and June 4 if development proceeds fast enough.

LAUNCHING of 40 sounding rockets.

NASA early this year had 12 complete satellite systems on order. Some were scheduled for 1959 firings.

DISCOVERER: A series of launchings, chiefly from the Pacific Missile Range, to develop new systems and techniques for producing and operating military space vehicles. Later launchings will carry biomedical experiments leading toward Project Mercury.

NAVIGATION SATELLITES. Several satellite tests are planned for the first six months of 1959. First satellite will be a 150-pound battery-powered package, expected to stay aloft about three months. Purpose is to institute a precise all-weather system for determining positions at sea or in the air at any point on the globe.

COMMUNICATIONS SATELLITES. Several experimental versions are to be launched this spring and summer. In 1960 and 1961, "fixed" satellites are to be established 22,000 miles out to relay radio, television and teletype messages.

Here's How PBA Hall on 2300 NW 14th St. Looks Now

. . . in days of old it was a center for name entertainers and gamblers

House With a Past

When Major McClure built his rambling coral-rock house on what is now NW 14th St. in 1914, he had no idea it would later become the stamping ground for some of the greatest names in show business.

For in the roaring twenties, after the McClures moved out, the 11-acre estate was host to such famous stars as Ben Bernie and All the Lads, Ruby Keeler, Roberta Sherwood and Al Jolson. Bootleg whisky flowed freely and roulette wheels spun giddily within its walls in the boomtime years before the crash.

Now owned by the Police Benevolent Association, the home at 2300 NW 14th St. was built in what was then wilderness. Mrs. Harry C. Harper of Riverside, Calif., daughter of Major McClure, recalls that she and her father used to row two miles down the Miami River to get groceries. They'd tie up at Flagler St.

"The McClures moved to California after several years," Caretaker Adrian Gentry said. "And in 1926 it became the Silver Slipper Night Club.

"A dance floor was built on the back. Ruby Keeler sang here and legend has it that the late Al Jolson 'discovered' her here. They later married, and the rest is show business history.

"The late Ben Bernie and his Orchestra (All the Lads) played here and many of the other early greats of show business.

"They charged $20 just to get in the place in those days and all the high-ups and low-downs of the prohibition era, danced, made whoopee and gambled at the wheels and tables here.

In 1932, Roberta Sherwood, the singer, moved into the home. She and her husband, Don Lanning, enlarged the house that year and ran the Silver Slipper club for three years.

"In 1935," said Gentry, "the old house became The Pirate's Den. That closed, too, and for years the property was idle.

"Then Pat Baldwin, a Miami policeman, bought the big house. Baldwin and his wife worked hard on the place, intending to turn it into a gun club."

When Baldwin was killed in an automobile accident, the Miami Police Benevolent Association took over the house and grounds, assuming the balance of the debt owed by Mrs. Baldwin.

The spacious grounds have been fenced in and turned into an amusement park for children, with a merry-go-round and other rides.

The old home is used chiefly for police social functions and PBA meetings. But the old dance hall is still there, decorated, with "night club" tables around the dance floor —looking for all the world like a ghost of the roaring twenties.

Stars and Lovers

What Every Woman Wants in a Man

By CULLEN MOORE

DEAR MRS. MOORE:

I am 30, have a good job and want to marry my Sagittarius girl. We had been going together three years. Suddenly she broke our engagement, and started dating a man who has been divorced and has a bad reputation. She is 24. A promotion in my work made it possible for us to be married within a few months. This man has debts and won't be able to support a wife. He is not even good looking while I am the atheletic type women are supposed to like. What does she see in him? You tell women how to win the men. What about some help for the male sex?

DISGUSTED MOON CHILD

DEAR MOON CHILD:

You lost your girl friend because you have a habit of taking things for granted. You are loyal, kind, affectionate. But it takes a major explosion to blast any drama into love making.

More than jewels or security, women long to feel desirable. The more feminine types dream of being pursued, of saying "no" to a man who won't be discouraged. Such a truly female ear listens delightedly for the sound of her man threatening to break down the door she has closed

Today's winning lover telephones just to hear the sound of her voice, writes the sentimental unexpected note, asks questions that reveal his intimate interest. He remembers and recalls verbally moments of shared happiness or tenderness. He dares to sound foolish, whimsical.

Mating Tip Of the Week

SCORPIO unmarried men and women will soon be hearing wedding bells. TAURUS is the bachelor with the most sex appeal this week. MOON CHILD is the wife who may be surprised soon by an heir apparent. CAPRICORN husbands must apply all that surplus charm to business contacts and practical ideas or risk losing an opportunity. This is a week when AQUARIUS could make the headlines with a public secret.

THE Stars WHISPER TO:

Virgo Male:

You had troubles in your business that are now affecting your relationships in love and home life. Your horoscope shows a cycle of sudden secret changes may soon enlighten you as to information long withheld. Watch how your family and emotional relationships improve as you gain inner satisfaction from work solutions.

* * *

Taurus Bachelor:

Astrologically, you are in a persuasive cycle for marriage. However, your own free will is of primary importance. A partnership cycle refers to business as well as matrimony. You are too young emotionally for the responsibility of a wife and child. Therefore, I urge you to think in terms of merging with a business partner.

* * *

Aries Wife:

You have a particularly successful cycle approaching one year from today. So why not use self-restraint and aim your most important goals for this period? An older person or an influence from an authoritative source seems to be your best assurance of luck. Do remember to be diplomatic and careful to soft pedal criticism.

Intimate Zodiac Guide

Week of March 29

This week ought to be spent in preparations for the many changes and sudden demands of the near future. Those who are ready for forthcoming events in love or career will be repaid by rewards and great gains. Don't let procrastination steal your chances.

* * *

AIRES (March 21-April 20) You will need to keep your head and not be discouraged by the slow pace of others around you

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) Be sure to use that smile this week. You may win over a person who has been cold.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) You must try to plan now for future freedom or privacy. There will be a wonderful opportunity, but presence of others could spoil it.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22-July 23) This week is made to order for approaching the younger generation with ideas. You can win over others through love and understanding rather than aggressive methods.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) Although you may feel that your own words were misunderstood, it could be you need to express yourself differently.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 22) Your nerves are still touchy from recent events. You could benefit by consultations with an older or calmer friend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do what you can to hammer home special points. Legal affairs are chaotic. Not so good for travel or long distance contacts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Offers and interesting overtures from others may stimulate your emotions. But you are wise to investigate more fully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The cycle of quarreling and annoyances is still with you. But pure luck could avert any involvement on your part.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Although others may try to hold up plans or delay action, push confidently.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) There is no chance of forcing associates or family to agree. Therefore, an attitude of compromise and quiet cooperation will save nerves.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you have the urge to tell off someone, don't. Hold your temper and be patient.

She Finds India Warm and Friendly

MOST OF US still see India through Kipling's eyes. We remember the White Man's Burden, the Sahib and the little blond children waited upon by amahs, the dark bungalows, the gay life at Simla while the husbands toiled down on the plains, the picturesque natives in the high Himalayas. Even Kim, in Kipling's masterpiece, was revealed to have an Irish father. One drop of native blood, according to the author, disqualified one from leadership.

How different are the reactions of Margaret Parton, correspondent for The New York Herald Tribune and wife of a British correspondent who spent five years in India. She has deep sympathy for the dying British life in India and in The Leaf and the Flame, (Knopf, $3.95) she, too recognizes the racial differences but with a different feeling.

* * *

Looking Down Is Out

Margaret Parton
. . . no bridge?

FROM AN APARTMENT in Delhi she writes:

"Oh for a dark skin . . . even by an effort of will one cannot throw off the years of western education, culture and philosophy . . . After one has been saturated with the outer glamor of India the old training remains . . . why do we Americans feel so guilty about these prejudices?

"I look at the British in wonder for they never seem to question their own separation from the real life of the country in which they make their home." She loves these dark-faced, courteous people and she, too, mourns that there seems to be no bridge between East and West.

Mrs. Parton and her husband travel throughout India so her book has all the glamor of a brilliant travelogue and the intimacy of a wife and mother. It is obvious that the new correspondent, unlike the old—and it must be remembered that Rudyard Kipling started his career as a newspaperman—do not look down upon the people they observe. Their yearning to understand them makes Mrs. Parton's prose as revealing and warm as a letter from home.

Her range is wide. She visits maharajahs and merchants, students and porters; and vegetable men, Moslem meat sellers and schoolmasters, coolies and visiting Congressmen, attends durbars and cocktail parties. Her first child is born in a Simla hospital with a Parsi doctor and an Indian nurse who murmurs the ancient Vedic prayer: "Become firm as a rock, sharp as an ax, pure as gold, thou art called a son." It is a rich and colorful book, one you will want to keep.

Spanish Books Needed

SPEAKING of hospitals here is one personal criticism of them that is not voiced in medical journals. Many of them have no books. Either you bring them with you or depend on literary friends . . . This is not true of Mt. Sinai Hospital which contains an honest-to-goodness library of more than 2,000 volumes and a couple of book wagons that trundle the corridors for patients who are well enough to read. Mrs. Joseph Duntov, the librarian, says she could use some Spanish books for patients who don't read English.

Let's Understand Them

ON A FAMILIAR theme is The Silent Language, by Edward T. Hall, (Doubleday, $3.95) which says, "Though we have spent millions overseas, in most countries Americans are heartily disliked, in others merely tolerated. It is time we stop alienating people with whom we are trying to work." Dr. Hall is a widely traveled anthropologist, director of the State Department's Point Four Program and president of Overseas Training and Research Inc.

He claims that our differences with foreign cultures are due not only to our ignorance of the spoken language but of the customs and habits of the people.

"We can't communicate," he says. "Foreign officials should be not only taught to read and write the language but trained in the customs of the country."

For instance, he points out, Americans are obsessed with time. We regard promptness as a cardinal virtue. "Time is handled by us like a material. We earn it, spend it, save it, waste it. To us it is immoral to have two things going at the same time. In Latin America one man may have a number of jobs simultaneously, having the opportunity to stop and chat, to visit, to get acquainted."

He speaks of an American professor who brought an interpreter to his English classes so that the Japanese students could be fully informed. In three days he had no students. The Japanese were highly insulted. In their country an educated man is presumed to know English. Bringing along an interpreter was a reflection on their intelligence.

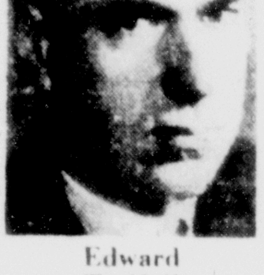
Actions Speak Louder



Edward T. Hall
. . . a task

IN IRAN men are supposed to show their emotions. They are sensitive, read poetry, have well-developed intuition. Hence, the tantrums of Mossadegh which baffled our State Department.

A million and a half Americans are living abroad and they soon discover that under the familiar exterior of hotels, subways, taxis, theaters and even buildings with elevators there are vast differences.

When someone says 'yes' it may not mean that at all; when people smile it doesn't always mean they are pleased.

People promise to do things and then don't do them. They are merely trying to be polite.

In short, says Dr. Hall, "actions speak louder than words" and while we need words to talk with we must learn the underlying motives that prompt them. Until we do American emissaries will go about the world bungling and bumping their heads in an attempt to interpret other peoples as though they were their own.

One in 12 Faces Hospital Care

Mental Health: a Challenge

THE PANE OF GLASS, by John Bartlow Martin, (Harper's, $6.00)

Reviewed by Lyal Shoemaker

One out of 12 people born today will spend some part of his life in a mental hospital. That leaves 11 who are not sufficiently disturbed enough for an institution but many of these may seek treatment or have a relative or friend who at some time will need medical attention for mental illness.

Who are the patients and what is done for them?

John Bartlow Martin's original articles, based on research done at Columbus State Hospital in Ohio, are a scholarly and sensitive attempt to make real for us the unreal world of the mental hospital.

"There is a pane of glass between me and mankind," a schizophrenic explains. Dr. Kovitz, chief of the psychiatric staff, said "the same tensions and inconsistencies and problems plague all of us. Sometimes I'll see in a patient's history problems so similar to my own it makes me jump."

The history of the care and treatment of the insane is as old as mankind. But only in the last 100 years has it been more than custodial. The researches of Freud and the use of analysis created tremendous public interest.

In this century the use of therapy such as shock and surgery was introduced. Discovery of effective drugs stimulated research in organic causes of mental illness.

But psychiatrists caution against enthusiastic acceptance of all these aids. They warn that "these drugs are not going to empty the hospital. But they sure do help us."

Psychiatrists report that with Thorazine they can care for some patients in the office instead of in hospitals. One doctor, said "there is a joke around here that we should give Thorazine to the family and let the patient go home."

The increase in mental illness is alarming, especially the number of sick children. Psychiatrists in private practice who treat children are probably more overworked than in any other medical field.

Martin has pictured the inadequacy of our facilities and knowledge, as well as the great strides made in research.

Down Mexico Way

When Is Workshop Fun?

PLEASE WRITE FOR DETAILS, by John D. MacDonald, (Simon and Schuster, $3.95)

Don't let this amusing skit on life below the Rio Grande dissuade you from art school in Mexico. It's all in the spirit of good clean fun. Well, fun, at least.

MacDonald, well known for his suspense novels, decided to write one about Cuernavaca, where he lived for six years. It's not suspense, just the goings-on of American students of all ages and classes who sign up for the Summer Workshop in Mexico City's loveliest suburb.

It's an idea of a gentle bachelor named Drummond backed up by a heavily made-up and thrice-married character named Gloria Garvey. Gloria supplies the money, Drummond the work. Involved is a brokendown country hotel, a few slatternly Mexican servants and such American guests as would fall for the idea.

They included two elderly females from Kansas, Agnes Partridge Kealey, a determined middle-aged woman who was also the art teacher, another fat, renegade teacher of modernism, two tough young girls from Texas, and young love in the form of a beautiful young widow and a young man whose wife had run out on him.

Into this mixture the author stirs up some diverting episodes, some of them on the bawdy side, some romance, a pretty realistic picture of Mexico.

Halfway through the book the characters take hold of him, are no longer caricatures and the story rolls on into a pretty good novel.

Reading for Young Folks

New Easter Books Have Old Appeal

By MAY H. EDMONDS
Children's Dept., Miami Public Library

Mrs. Edmonds

Easter means not only bunnies and Easter eggs for the small fry but some delightful religious books as well.

That First Easter, by Henry Denker, (Crowell, $3.00) is a fine Bible story retelling based on the Revised Standard Version for home and church libraries. Ages 10-14.

Donkey's Glory, by Nan Goodall, (McKay, $3.00) A view of Bible times through the eyes of a little grey donkey that had the boy Jesus for a play-fellow. Family reading, or for 10-to-12 year olds.

How St. Francis Tamed the Wolf, by Elizabeth and Gerald Rose, (Harcourt, $2.75) Vivid pictures and simple text retell the old legend for 5-to-8 year olds.

Something Special, by Beatrice Schenk DeRegniers, (Harcourt, $2.25), features some really special verses decorated with wonderful drawings by Irene Haas.

The Animals and the Ark, by Karla Kuskin, (Harper, $2.50) "The sun was bright, the earth was dry, Noah looked up and scanned the sky." Simple rhymed text with primitive type pictures to show the rain and rising water. Cross sections of the Ark with the animals inside provides fun for 3-to-5 year readers.

The Work of Saint Francis, by MacKinlay Kantor, (World, $2.75) a delightful story of a Spanish delinquent in a reformatory operated by Capuchin monks, his resolve to run away and how this turned out to be "The Work of Saint Francis." The size of The Voice of Bugle Ann and his other well known short novels, this appeals to mature young adults.

The Saints and Your Name, by Josef Quadflieg, (Pantheon, $3.00) is a catalog of Christian names with brief sketches of the 87 Saints who gave them. Translated from the German and illustrated in glowing color by Johannes Grueger, this is a beautiful book for the Catholic home.

Four beautiful books of Old Testament characters for 6-to-10 year olds are: David; Joseph and His Brothers; Moses; and Ruth by Maud and Miska Petersham, (Macmillan, $2.00) These picture books with simple Biblical texts are available again with the Petershams' matchless color illustrations after being out of print for 15 years.

A Portrait of Bach, by Jo Manton, (Abelard, $2.75) Of special interest to teen-aged music students is this straightforward biography covering Bach's work as well as his life.

Through an Opera Glass, by Irene Gass and Herbert Weinstock, (Abelard, $3.00) provides a readable, chatty history of opera for young people.

John Greenleaf Whittier: Fighting Quaker, by Ruth Langland Holberg, (Crowell, $2.75) A pleasing biography of a famous American poet against the background of simple New England Quaker life in the early 1800's. For ages 10-to-14.

Pebble in a Pool, by Elizabeth Yates, (Dutton, $3.50) is a "literature" find for senior high school subtitled, The Widening Circles of Dorothy Canfield Fisher's Life. For students interested in modern American authors.

The Little Red Hen, retold and illustrated by Tony Palazzo, (Garden City, $1.00) Nursery classic with large clear pictures. For 3-to-5 year olds.

Scientific Romance

Love Blossoms Over Blueprints

THE ANGERS OF SPRING, by Joseph Whitehill, (Atlantic Little Brown, $4.50)

You have to be pretty keen on machinery to appreciate this novel.

WHITEHILL

Paul Mockley is probably the young man of the future, the electronics engineer. Fresh out of college, he gets a job with the Ragle Measurement Co. as assistant bookkeeper, switches into the drafting department, designs plastic scales and new accounting cards and is on his way.

"He can see things in his head before they exist," says John Bolan, the machine designer dolefully, "the whole of a new thing at once while I'm just seeing the measurements."

Paul works while others sleep, engineering is his passion and its only real rival is Evelyn, a fellow draftsman. Like two dedicated artists they work with stethoscopes and crystal gasophones. Their romance blossoms over the drawing boards and the file cabinets.

Through his characters Whitehill — the same man who wrote Able Baker and others, has managed to convey the magic of the scientific world, a world as different from the everyday world as is the realm of art.

His people, his draftsmen and engineers, his foremen and electricians and designers, have lives as dedicated as are those of artists and musicians.

The author deals, as he claims, "not with the over-literary, bookish, cultured folk or the back alley bums who inhabit today's fiction, but the real live population of this U.S.A."

This book may be a forerunner of many more to come on the private lives of the men and women who construct skyscrapers, plan rockets and ultimately conquer space.

She Saves to Buy Books

More 'Nancy Drew,' Less Tripe, Says Reader, 11

Eleven-year-old Linda Seaman writes to The Herald from Fort Lauderdale:

"Ever since I have been able to read I have saved my money for Nancy Drew books. I have followed her in her adventures and am now waiting for our local book store to buy the newly published one, The Golden Pavilion.

"Libraries might replace these good books with tripe like Peyton Place and Marjorie Morningstar because a few people want to be brought up realistically.

"But, must children who enjoy good books have sex and overdone romance forced down their throats? It's not going to happen to me!"

How People Meet Crises

THE BLUSH and Other Stories, by Elizabeth Taylor, (Viking, $3.50). Don't confuse this Elizabeth Taylor with the other. If you are a reader of the New Yorker magazine there will be no danger as nearly all these stories have appeared there.

They represent the epitome of the mood style; have, as it were, no beginning and no end. Rather each represents how a person feels at a given moment of crisis.

Soul crises are not always dramatic. They occur often at the most commonplace moments. There is the girl who visits her dead fiance's mother; the contented housewife who suddenly learns her husband is going out with the charwoman; the girl who finds her best school chum is to be her stepmother; the little titled boy who wanders around the great gardens of his ancestral home wondering why his parents accept shillings from strangers who pay to see the family portraits.

Columnist Wins Award

A columnist for The Newport (Va.) Times Herald and editor of The Lyric, oldest independently published poetry magazine in America, has received the $1,000 award given by the Henry H. Bellamann Foundation of New Orleans.

Ruby Altizer Roberts, poet laureate of Virginia whose poetry has also appeared in England, Holland, India and South America, is the recipient.

Western Author Declines Bid

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—(UPI)— Frank Gruber, the country's most prolific writer of westerns — book, movie and TV — has declined with regrets an invitation to become an honorary member of the Texans of California.

"It would be a question of my getting sore at the saddle," he said.

We Boast Too Much

Why U.S. Is Losing Its Friends

WHAT'S WRONG WITH U.S. FOREIGN POLICY? by C. L. Sulsberger, (Harcourt Brace, $4.50).

It seems as though all thinking Americans are saying the same thing. This chief foreign correspondent for The New York Times asks the $64 Question: Fifteen years ago we were the world's paramount power. What has happened to us in that interval?

Today we are disliked throughout the world, he says. In other countries the intellectuals consider us uncouth, the poor resent our wealth. We need a new type of foreign policy. We must inspire others rather than proclaim satisfaction with our own comfortable civilization, capture mens' imagination if we are to combat the great spread of communism.

We talk too much about our prosperity, boast too much. Spiritually we are cut off from the rest of the world by our plumbing, our air conditioning and our ostentatious luxury.

We act as though Chiang Kai-shek speaks for all China instead of for just the island of Formosa. We deceive ourselves about our technical superiority over Russia, about reality in China. We preach democracy and simultaneously support dictators. We insist that communism is repugnant to religious persons, yet it has penetrated Islam.

Can we call ourselves a democracy? Had we postured less self-righteously abroad we need not have been so embarrassed by the shame of Little Rock.

Why have we permitted no newspapermen in Communist China though we had correspondents in Soviet Russia years before the recognition? Is it a State Department function, he asks, to censor the press?

We send diplomats abroad who go practically broke on their small salaries while those of smaller countries entertain lavishly. Let us send men who know the nation's language and are familiar with its culture instead of making foreign posts a reward for political support.

Our system of security clearance is absurd. It keeps able men out of the State Department and the result is that international organizations hire Russian employes instead of Americans. They cannot wait eight weeks for security clearance.

In 1956 our foreign service held only one man who spoke Turkish, three who spoke Arabic, three Chinese. Asian capitals are filled with Soviets who speak the languages fluently.

Sulzberger, who has spent 25 years in foreign correspondence, is neither a Democrat or a Republican.

"I have never voted," he says. "From the time I was eligible to vote I have resided either in disenfranchised Washington or overseas. As one who has lived abroad and traveled almost continuously I am sadly impressed by the rapid fall from our postwar position."

UM's Ryan Views Life In Ceylon

Dr. Bryce Ryan who spent four years in a little village in Ceylon, and is now chairman of the department of sociology and anthropology at the University of Miami, has brought out a little book called Sinhalese Village, with two collaborators, L. D. Jayasena and D. C. R. Wichremeskinge.

They are both graduates of the University of Ceylon where Dr. Ryan was the first professor of sociology.

The authors make some interesting observations about 400 families, good Buddhists all, who make up the little village of Pelpola, about two hours bus ride from Colombo.

Pelpola depends chiefly on the bullock cart for transportation though there are now four cars in the area. The drivers are very proud, as the Western vehicle can be used for weddings, funerals and pilgrimages.

There are no telephones in Pelpola, most of the heads of household have learned to read and this goes for women, too, provided they are the head of the house.

Girls are very carefully reared with marriage in view and it is desirable that they marry someone from an adjacent village, none of these outlandish foreigners from 30 miles away.

The wife must be younger than the husband and the father of the bride has nothing to worry about — all the wedding expenses are born by the bridegroom. The lucky man even receives a gift of money from his prospective father-in-law.

Never will he be pressed into service to wash dishes. This is woman's work. The social system in Pelpola is evidently even more snobbish than our own. To include a friend of lower caste would be to create an appalling scene at the wedding. Even the inclusion of certain relatives who are deemed to be of inferior status might lead to comment and ill feeling."

Dr. Ryan's researches have been supported by the Rockefeller Foundation. He is considered one of the foremost Western scholars of Ceylon society and he could, if he had let himself go, have written an interesting book for just plain people, not only anthropologists.

It is brought out by the University of Miami Press, at $3.00.

Browning To Play Standbys

Pianist John Browning, who will take over Van Cliburn's canceled date Monday evening in Dade County Auditorium, will play a traditional program for members of Miami Civic Music Association.

It includes the Bach-Liszt Organ Prelude and Fugue in A minor, the Schubert A-flat and B-flat Impromptus of Op. 142, Chopin's Sonata in B-flat minor, Op. 35, Ravel's Jeux d'eau, Liszt's Valse Oubliee and Mephisto Waltz, and two Rachmaninoff Preludes, the Op. 32, No. 5 in G major, and the Op. 23, No. 2 in B-flat major.

Though only 25, Browning has already won three major prizes, beginning with the Steinway Centennial Award under the sponsorship of National Federation of Music Clubs in 1954.

In 1955 he won the important Edgar M. Leventritt Award, and in 1956 the Gold Medal Award given by Queen Elisabeth of Belgium for the International Concours.

He made initial tours of both the United States and Europe in 1957, and has just interrupted his current second European tour to come to Miami to fulfill the Monday date.

He was originally scheduled for a concert here on next season's Civic series, but made the switch in dates to accommodate Cliburn.

Art Center Showing Some Fine Paintings

By DORIS RENO
Herald Music and Art Editor

Art Review

Two shows, one of oils and one of watercolors by painters whose work is handled by the Midtown Galleries in New York, are still available at Miami Beach Art Center through Wednesday. A one man by Saul Raskin of New York is also on view.

The exhibition of oils in the main gallery was assembled by Midtown specifically for this showing. The watercolor show is on a regular tour of the country.

Of the two shows the one of oils is superior, because more representative work by this group of realistic painters is included. The watercolor show, however, contains some handsome examples of work in this medium, including some pieces by artists represented in the other show.

The painters showing in the middle gallery, none of whom have succumbed to the present-day urge to paint abstractly, have been prominent for a long time. Their styles are fixed, and for the most part the items are strictly within the grooves these artists have chiseled out for themselves.

Doris Rosenthal, for instance, is represented by four paintings, two in each show. Of these the "Girl with Flowers" is most representative, since it has a Mexican subject, but all are marked with the Rosenthal palette and style.

* * *

THE SAUL RASKIN show, which is in celebration of the Jewish painter's 80th birthday, consists of works portraying Jewish life in many aspects. The pieces are in watercolor, pen-and-wash, and various mixed media.

There is a large group of works dealing with Israeli subjects, and these are among the most interesting. Also very sensitively handled are several items dealing with music-making.

* * *

THE NEW TWO - MAN showing at Coconut Grove's Mirell Gallery presents abstractions, or near-abstractions, by Ronald Mallory and Gigi Aramesco. It is Mallory's first good-sized showing in this area.

Miss Aramesco has changed her painting approach and style considerably since her last one-man at the Mirell Gallery. Her new work, mostly in oil—whereas she principally used watercolor in earlier work — is more finished, more consistent, and more decorative.

She uses very rich colors in "Woodland," a large abstracted canvas which is well focused and integrated. Lighter colors are used in "Bas-Relief" and in "Crocus." The study of "Flowers," on the entrance wall of the gallery, is also excellent.

Mallory uses paint to get an effect of mosaic, and makes his impression through this novelty and through his use of color. Of his works we like "Blue Mist" and "The City" best, as having for us most poetic impact.

* * *

JACQUES WOLFE's photographic study of North Carolina, "The Sapphire Country," is now available at the Meridian branch of Washington Federal Savings and Loan Association.

It includes many of the same expressive photographs that were in the show earlier this season at Lowe Gallery, as well as several landscapes and character studies that were not seen there.

The work is impressive, particularly for its revelations of character.

OTHER NEW ART EXHIBITS

Presser Paintings In Preview Today

New exhibitions will open this week at the Tucker and Huber galleries in Miami Beach, and Village Corner Gallery in Coral Gables.

Tucker will preview today a one-man show of paintings by Josef Presser of New York City. It will remain on view through April 11.

He is represented in the permanent collections of the Metropolitan Museum, Whitney Museum, Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Philadelphia and Newark museums, the Addison Gallery, and Fogg Museum of Harvard University.

* * *

THE NEW SHOW at the Huber Gallery, which will be previewed from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday, is a two-man presenting the work of Hilton Leech and Henry Lawrence Faulkner.

Leech, who is on the art staff of University of Florida, recently served on the Southeastern Regional Jury for the recent Metropolitan Museum exhibition.

The present show will continue through April 25.

* * *

THE VILLAGE CORNER Gallery will open with a 7 to 10 p.m. reception today a showing of oil paintings on velvet by Whitt Whitcomb of New York City. He has never shown previously in this area.

This show will also continue through April 25.

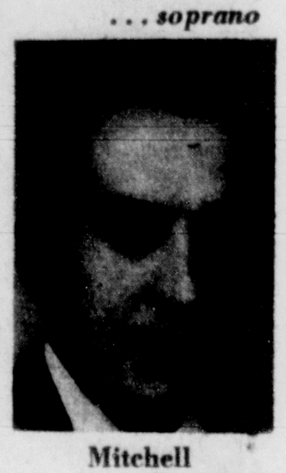
Civic Lists Concerts, Van Cliburn Expected

Ormandy
. . . maestro

Van Cliburn
. . . will he cancel out again?

Nilsson
. . . soprano

Morondo
. . . choir



Mitchell
. . . National

Miami Civic Music Association, which has been bringing great artists, orchestras, choirs and dance companies to Miami for 26 years, will present seven concerts during its 27th season in 1959-60.

Charles H. Crandon, Civic's president since 1937, says the distribution will be about the same as in recent seasons—that is, two orchestras, two singers, a pianist, a violinist, and a choir.

It is fervently expected — "though of course we've still got our fingers crossed," says Crandon—that the pianist will be Van Cliburn, the 24-year-old Moscow winner who canceled out on Civic twice during the current season, once because he was tired and once because of a finger operation.

After the second cancelation Crandon got Cliburn's manager to arrange an exchange of concerts between the pianist-that-everybody-wants-to-hear and young American pianist John Browning, who had been scheduled to come here next season. Browning will play the Civic recital Monday evening of this week.

London

"We have not yet settled on a next-season date for Cliburn," Crandon said, "but we want him in November, before anything else befalls him. We were the first organization to sign him up after the Moscow affair, and we're determined to get him here."

Except for a repeat on one symphony — the National Symphony Orchestra of Washington, D.C. — everything else on next season's Civic list will be new for that organization, though not all of it is new to Miami.

Artists or groups that Civic will be presenting in this area for the first time include, besides Cliburn, soprano Birgit Nilsson and the Pamplona Choir from Spain.

Artists and groups that will be new on the Civic program, but that have visited Miami previously, are the Philadelphia Orchestra and bass-baritone George London. The violinist has not yet been selected.

The Pamplona Choir will open the season on Nov. 27 unless an earlier November date is obtained for Van Cliburn. This choir was founded in 1946 in Pamplona, the famous Spanish bull-fight town which is the site of Ernest Hemingway's "The Sun Also Rises." Luis Morondo, its founder-conductor, had as his main objective the reviving of the long-forgotten Spanish choral music of the 15th, 16th and 17th centuries.

Now, of course, the repertoire has expanded to include the great choral music of all times and nations, but the Pamplonas still stress this unique music that other choirs do not possess.

Fame first came to the group of 16 singers in 1950, when they won the International Music Competition in Lille, France, over 185 contesting choruses. They have made two South American tours, and an earlier American tour during the 1957-58 season.

Officials of the Civic and Community concert series are again cooperating on orchestras, as they did during the present season. This means that both series will present the Philadelphia Orchestra and the National Symphony to their memberships, on consecutive dates.

The orchestras will play completely different programs on the two evenings, as there is some overlapping membership in the two series. Music lovers with tickets to both series this season found they greatly relished hearing a great orchestra play what amounted to a two-night festival.

The Philadelphia, which first appeared here on the Community series two seasons ago, will again be directed by its long-time conductor Eugene Ormandy. It will play for Civic members on Jan. 20.

The National Symphony, directed by Howard Mitchell, was first here under Civic's auspices in 1957. Its date for next season is Feb. 5.

The young Scandinavian singer, Birgit Nilsson, is new to American audiences, but her reputation in this country has been growing by leaps and bounds. At the La Scala and other European opera houses it is already secure.

About the "Turandot" opening at La Scala this season a reviewer reported that "hers must be the most powerful voice in the present operatic world. The astounding ease with which she took those piercing, glacial high notes, resounding throughout the immense house, left everybody breathless."

Miss Nilsson is scheduled to sing here on March 2.

It is not likely that Civic will have any memberships open, after its present members have renewed and some long-timers on the waiting-list have been accommodated. Each year some on the waiting-list receive memberships, but not a great number, since 98 per cent of the membership consistently renews.

The only way people not on the waiting-list can obtain memberships is to send the $10 for each membership to the treasurer, Charles H. Cushman, and then wait until their names move up to the top of the list. This may take two or more years. —D. R.

Chinese Dancer in Barry Event

Mme. Averil Tong, who presents the dances of the Chinese people in skillful Western adaptations, will give her "Chinese Fantasy" program at 8:15 p.m. next Sunday, April 5, in Barry College auditorium as the last event on the current Barry Culture Series.

A member of the Chinese aristocracy, Mme. Tong is dedicated to increasing Western appreciation of the art of Chinese dance. She has led two companies on successful cross-country tours of America, and this year is staging a one-woman show with appropriate costuming and equipment.

The program will feature Chinese dances, as well as primitive rhythms and interpretations of romantic legends.

Mme. Tong teaches dance at the China Institute and the Sino-American Amity in New York City.

AS GUEST OF HONOR

Shawn to Shine At Ballet Festival

Ted Shawn will be guest of honor at the Southeastern Ballet Festival Association program, scheduled for Saturday evening, April 25, in Dade County Auditorium.

Shawn, director of Jacob's Pillow, was adjudicator in the auditions which gave the Miami Ballet, host at the association's April 24-26 convention here, a place on the program with its ballet "Maritana."

Seven other civic ballets were also awarded places on the program.

The groups, with the ballets they will present, follow: Memphis Civic Ballet, "Pas de Six;" Nashville Ballet Intimes, "Spanish Suite;" Atlanta Concert Group, "Archy and Mehitabel;" Atlanta Civic Ballet, Nutcracker Pas de Deux; Jacksonville Ballet Guild, "Abstract;" Birmingham Civic Ballet, "Confetti;" and Jacksonville Civic Ballet, "Adieu Tristesse."

The convention will open Friday, April 24, with a 2 p.m. business meeting. On Sunday, April 26, master classes will be taught by Thomas Armour, director of the Miami Ballet, and Betty Ogilvie.

Key Wester Wins Honor

Lisa Parker of Key West recently won a $50 honorable mention award in a national painting contest for beauticians. Miss Parker's painting, "Sand Dunes," was one of 17 receiving awards, out of a total of 400 entries.

The jury consisted of Mrs. Grace Borgenicht of the Borgenicht Gallery, Albert Crist Janer, director of Pratt Institute, and Will Barnet of Art Students League.

A total of $2,500 in prizes was awarded and 72 paintings from the show will tour the United States during the coming year. Included will be pieces by Hoyal D. A. Conway, Miami; Leslie Lounsbury, Lake Worth; and Janet Patenaude, Pensacola.

Brahms Chorus To Sing of Love

The Brahms Chorus, made up of singers from the Miami Music Club, Coral Gables Madrigal Group, and Eight O'Clock Music Club, will sing a program of Brahms love-songs at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday, April 8, at the home of Mrs. M. S. Wales, 5712 Granada, Coral Gables. Mrs. J. Barbour Russell is the director.

Accompanists will be Eleanor Clark Linton and Junia Sells. Edward Clarke will narrate.

At 87, She Has Recital

Inga Hoegsbro Christensen, Danish composer-pianist, will celebrate her 87th birthday by playing a recital at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Musicians Club, Coral Gables.

The program will feature Scandinavian music, in which Mme. Christensen has always specialized.

A group of the artist's original songs will be presented by soprano Melanie Kulhanjian Makarian. Mme. Christensen, who came to this country as a young girl, is author of a recent biography, "Inga Plays."

Election Results

Planes to Wing Miamians to Bolshoi Ballet

Galina Ulanova
. . . last appearance

Two "dance-planes" have been chartered to transport Miamians to performances of the Bolshoi Ballet in New York on two weekends in late April and early May.

Persons making the tour will see three performances of the great ballet company from Moscow, considered by many dance authorities and critics as the greatest company in the world today.

The tour price will include good dress circle tickets to the three performances, plane-flights to New York and back, and hotel accommodations for the Friday night stay-over.

The tours have been arranged on a non-profit basis by the International Repertory Company, which presented the National Ballet of Canada, the Jose Greco Spanish troupe, and the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo in a total of seven performances here this season.

Arrangements have been made by International Repertory with S. Hurok, the impresario who is bringing the Bolshoi Ballet to the United States for the first time this spring.

Balletomanes who make the tour will probably have a last opportunity to see the superb Russian ballerina, Galina Ulanova. Though officially retired, Mme. Ulanova has consented to accompany her troupe during its American tour this year.

Many local dance-lovers have seen Ulanova in the Rank Organization film, "Bolshoi Ballet," which was shown by the International Repertory company here last season.

The Bolshoi Ballet is bringing to the United States its full company of 200 dancers, 190 technicians, its 90-member orchestra, and 40 tons of scenery. It will visit only three cities — New York, Los Angeles, and Washington.

For the opening night performance in Manhattan on April 16 tickets are selling for from $30 to $50 per seat. The entire New York engagement is already well on the way to being sold out.

The all-inclusive price per person for the tour will be a little less than $120. The first tour will leave at 10 a.m. Friday, April 24 from Miami International Airport, and return at 6 a.m. Sunday, April 26.

Tour members will see the complete four-act "Swan Lake" on Friday evening, and "highlights" of shorter ballets program Saturday evening. The April 25 highlights program will include "Les Sylphides" (Chopiniana), a "Nutcracker" Pas de Deux, Four Dances on a Contemporary Theme (music by Potapov, Soloviev-Sedoi, and Dunayevsky), Four Russian Dances (music by Stravinsky, Prokofieff, Tchaikovsky), and Dance of the Tartars from "The Fountain of Bakhchisarai."

The Saturday afternoon matinee, due to the system used at the Metropolitan throughout the Bolshoi engagement, will again be the "Swan Lake," with a different cast.

The second tour will leave according to the same schedule Friday morning, May 1, and return Sunday morning, May 3. The ballets will be the complete "Giselle" Friday night and Saturday afternoon (a different cast the second time), and a Highlights program Saturday night.

The smaller ballets this week-end will be "Forest Devil" (Yarullin music), Polonaise and Krakoviak from "Ivan Susanin," "Tryptich" (Debussy music), "Sleeping Beauty" Pas de Deux, "The Dying Swan," and "Walpurgis Night Dances" from Faust. "Dying Swan" is one of Ulanova's specialties.

An illustrated brochure is available by writing to "Miami-Bolshoi Tour," International Repertory Co., P.O. Box 3871, Miami 24. Reservations, which are limited in number, may be made only by mail to this address. Reservations must be made by April 6 for the first tour, and by April 13 for the second tour.

HAITI

VACATIONLANDS

Don't Stay Put If You Want to See the Land

By EVELYN DE TARDO
Herald Travel Writer

VISITORS TO HAITI often discover by the end of their stay they have been so drugged by the magic of Port-au-Prince they have missed even a quick look at the rest of the country.

The trip up to Cap Haitian and Henry Christophe's Citadel takes little more than five hours of liesurely driving through a panorama of sisal and sugar cane fields around and over its many mountains.

Here black boys will catch lobster for your lunch which you can enjoy under thatched sun shades with the sea on your left and mountains in the background.

Sharply dressed Army officers wave you on at police posts at Cabaret, the old banana port of St. Marc and Gonaives where there is said to be a government farm for "zombies" who have escaped from their masters.

* * *

TRAVELING PAST LUSH banana trees and other tropical growth you will pass a continuous parade of natives going to market on burros loaded with calabashes, animal fodder, or sugar cane.

Here and there a circus-like train with 12 or 20 cars piled high with sugar cane will go chugging past. There are many rivers to cross where native women wash themselves and their clothes.

Past Gonaives over the mountain ranges to Cap Haitian, youngsters and old men smoking pipes, will wave and call hello as the market travelers stop and try to pull their burros off the road.

Along the way you will pass many gaily colored buses with amusing slogans.

* * *

IT IS BEST TO START out for Cap Haitian in the early morning and begin the trip to the Citadel about 1 or 2 in the afternoon to escape some of the hot sun.

The ride up the trail to the Citadel, by donkey or horse, is as beautiful as the Citadel is impressive.

The trail begins in the little village of Milot where, at the foot of the mountain, is the palace of Sans Souci, which was an exact copy of Versailles in France — and where Christophe committed suicide with the gold bullet he kept.

The two-hour trip up to the Citadel winds past the native cailles. It was up this same route Christophe forced the native to bring heavy cannon, mortar and brick for building his fortress.

The beauty of this trail ride is almost unbelievable, and even the people of Milot, many of whom must make the trip twice a day are aware of this.

Often asked by saddle-sore tourists why they don't provide a car trail half way up the mountain to shorten the ride, they merely reply, "it wouldn't be as much fun."

Approaching the Citadel, which in the late afternoon is often shrouded in mist, the impressive grey walls of Haiti's "eighth wonder of the world" seem to climb a mile further into the sky.

Power of the Press Is Felt in Haiti
. . . when reporter DeTardo heads for the Citadel

Here you will see immense cannon in position at narrow openings in the walls; thousands of cannon balls stacked in place near cannon or in store rooms.

With little imagination, passing through the dim cavernous rooms of this structure, you can almost expect to see Christophe, proud and haughty, commanding his men past the next turn.

At the very top of the Citadel through the clouds there are the mountains below, and the view to Cap Haitian and the sea.

Rock-Bang-Pole Fastest Talking

Oh Haiti, Mon Chere, Oh Haiti, My Beloved Land,
Didn't Know I'd Have to Leave You to Understand

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Travel Writer

THOSE VOODOO DRUMS you hear in Port-au-Prince could be rocks pounding on metal utility poles. Messages follow the wires—and it's cheaper.

Haiti has a dial telephone system, but the rock-bang-pole method is more efficient.

Southworth

And when things go wrong, you hear that BOOM—boom—boom—BOOM—boom—boom.

But when things are right, this exciting island — an African touch to the Caribbean — will enchant the tourist who is looking for something different.

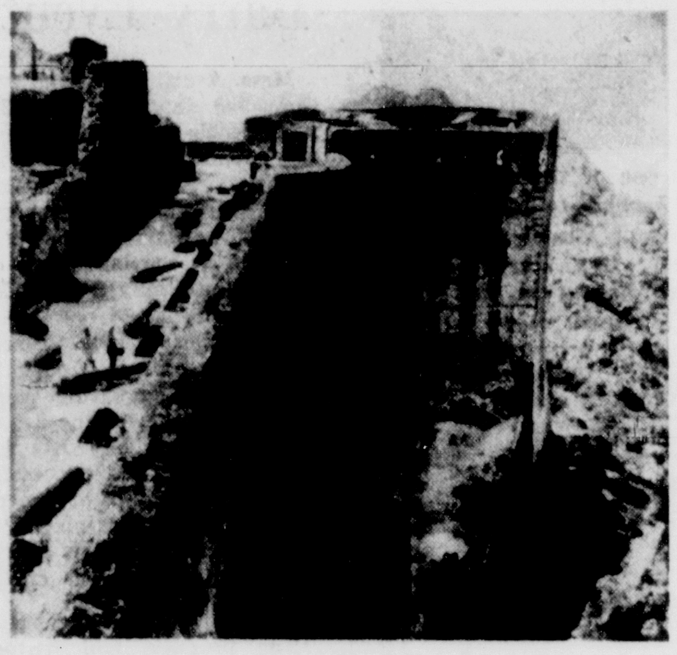
THIS NEGRO REPUBLIC is a mixture of elegance and crudeness, of sophistication and primitiveness. You will see ladies wearing the latest fashions from Paris. You will see peasant women in colorful clothing with huge baskets of vegetables on their heads.

You will see thatched-roof huts on stilts and homes that are castles. Traffic in the streets will include new automobiles and many burros.

Port-au-Prince has many fine shops which sell perfumes, Irish linens and English woolens. You may want to buy a voodoo souvenir or native sisal and straw products. You will find many beautiful mahogany items.



Famous Citadel Is an Outstanding Structure
. . . built by Negro Emperor Henry Christophe

A must for tourists is a Saturday visit to the capital's famous Iron Market where you can buy anything from a tin can to an expensive set of luggage.

Port-au-Prince is dominated by the twin towers of the ancient Cathedral St. Trinite where amazing experiments in native murals have been carried out by local artists with no outside restraint.

You will want to visit the national museum and the Presidential palace, a dazzling white building set against a backdrop of green mountains.

* * *

A FEW MILES from the capital of this "Black Republic" with the French flair is the little village of Kenscoff. Here you will see vast fields of multi-colored flowers that are grown for the American market.

High on the entertainment list in Haiti are the folklore dances which can be seen in some of the fancy hotels and nightclubs.

A few years ago, you would have to visit a small native village in the hills to see these voodoo ceremonial dances.

Sightseeing by jeep over Haiti's mountain trails leads to breathtaking discoveries of waterfalls, natural beaches, forests and mountain pools.

French is the official language, but most of the people speak Creole, a patois of French, African, Spanish and English origins. The English-speaking tourist will have little trouble, because the Haitians are friendly and helpful.

Holy Exhibit in Germany

The Holy Robe, reputed to be the one Christ wore to the Cross, will be on display at the Cathedral of Trier in Germany this summer. The robe on exhibit for the first time in 26 years is expected to draw record crowds from all over the world. The sacred relic was brought to Trier from the Holy Land by St. Helena, the mother of Constantine, first Christian emperor.

Trinidad Builds

Extension To Beaches

Trinidad, British meeting place of many races and nationalities, has an ambitious roadbuilding program under way. Included among the projects is the extension of its north coast road which will enable tourists to drive from Maracas Bay, now the principal bathing beach, eastwards to two other bays — Tyrico and Las Cuevas. Both these spots provide additional bathing facilities within 21 miles of Port of Spain, the capital.

Travel Agents Put OK on Cuba

By EVELYN De TARDO
Herald Travel Writer

Cuba was voted a bill of clean travel health recently when the American Society of Travel Agents signed an agreement to bring its annual convention to Havana next October.

Because of political upheaval last November ASTA had practically abandoned plans to convene in Havana. The convention agreement was signed shortly after an ASTA investigating committee visited Havana and found that no danger exists.

More thar 3,000 travel agents will participate in the 1959 conclave, which should prove a needed shot in the arm for Cuban tourism.

Bachelor Party Tours (for single people only) are inaugurating monthly cruises to Hawaii starting April 15. They offer package rates for 22 days aboard ship or 13 days by air from the west coast.

The schedule includes a round-trip Pacific cruise aboard the SS Matsonia or Lurline, accommodations at the Moana Hotel at Waikiki; sightseeing, a tour of the outer islands, and evening entertainment with cocktail parties and dinners at Honolulu's famous restaurants.

Mike Henry, of Miami Beach Tour Operators, represented that group at Capital Airlines summer kick-off of "Fun Vacations" to Miami Beach. Meetings were held recently in Buffalo, Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Henry presented the group's summer program and welcomed prospective tourists to MBTOs five local offices. MBTO, a package tour group, consists of Farr Tours, Midway Tours and International Tours.

Eastern Air Lines "Happy Holidays" package vacation tours for the summer months, will go into operation April 15.

Florida will receive top billing with a seven day, six night circle tour of the state which will originate in Jacksonville. The tour may be extended to 14 days with visits to Havana or Nassau.

In Miami Beach, 75 hotels and 31 motels are cooperating with tour operators, travel agencies and Eastern for the program by giving special rates.

Puerto Rico, may be visited on a five day, four night tour with a selection of seven other side trips to Haiti, the Dominican Republic or the Virgin Islands. Bermuda, Manhatten Island, with its annual summer festival and the Hudson, Champlain 350th anniversary celebrations, are also being included this summer.

Nassau, St. Petersburg and Clearwater, Jamaica, and the historically famous Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, and Boston are other popular vacation spots included in "Happy Holidays" package tours.

Eastern's campaign on its summer tours stresses the local travel agent as the expert to see for planning this summer's vacation.

THIS TRANQUIL RANGELAND LIES JUST 15 MILES FROM ATLANTIC SURF

First-time tourists who visit the area are surprised when they see ten-gallon hats mingling with yachting caps on Fort Pierce streets. These cowboys, from back country ranchland, are practically within a stone's throw of the Atlantic's surf, sailfish and orange groves.

The hardriding cowpunchers and ranchers can be seen pondering over carefully tooled boots and saddles at a big western goods store on busy U.S. Highway 1.

Visiting fishermen can be found at several good angling spots in the area. On almost any day fishermen may be found trying their luck off the pair of long jetties that protect Fort Pierce Inlet and separate the beaches.

Other favorite fishing spots include reef fishing off the beaches, trolling the reefs, surf casting, and fishing off the North or South bridges.

Fresh water fishing is available in the canals west of Fort Pierce and in the St. Lucie River. A fresh water chain of small lakes strung out from Fort Pierce to Jensen Beach are called Savannahs and offer black bass.

Fishing guides are available along the Indian River where the world's largest sea trout, weighing 15 pounds 3 ounces, was hooked from the North bridge.

Two wide gently sloping beaches, north and south, are divided by the inlet. Motels and apartment accommodations, numerous along the beaches, are of the family type and budget priced.

An unusual attraction for golfers visiting the Fort Pierce area is the 18-hole golf course. The course is slightly hilly in a flatland country. Summer greens fee is $2.50 and seasonal memberships are available.

In addition to beaches and fishing, other recreational facilities in Fort Pierce include shuffleboard, two beach parks, picnic facilities, tennis courts and an organized recreational program that includes tourists.

Volcano Village

The only level area on the isle of Saba, N.W.I., is "The Bottom," a colorful Dutch village nestling amid tropical gardens in the crater of an extinct volcano, at 800 ft. elevation.

Arizona Offering Double Attraction

Located 15 miles west of the Old Pueblo on 30,000 acres of Tucson Mountain Park, a museum was opened in 1952 under a grant of over $100,000 from the Charles Lathrop Pack Foundation, and the American Nature Association of Washington, D.C.

Its purpose is to study natural history, to cooperate with schools as an educational center, and to give visitors a first-hand knowledge of desert wild life.

Last spring a tunnel exhibit 160 feet long was opened 14 feet underground. Visitors can see nature living beneath the earth by following hand rails and pressing buttons which light up glass enclosed rattlesnakes, ox, racoons, prairie dogs.

Eighth Century Cave Frescoes

Tourists in Bombay can now charter launches for a trip across the harbor to the caves of Elephanta, famous for their 8th Century frescoes. Boats, decked with carpets and cushions, make the round-trip excursion in half a day. Anyone who wants to spend the night at the caves can rent a tent.

There's a Lot of Show in Bangkok

By HORACE SUTTON
Herald Travel Writer

SUTTON

BANGKOK, Thailand — There's no business like show business here in far-off Thailand, where the prime stops on the new tourist tours are the house where Anna made happy talk with the King of Siam, and the Royal Barge which was hired by Mike Todd for "Around the World in 80 Days."

Even the present king is an old Broadway hand, for he, too, was hired by Mike Todd to write music for "Peep Show," an extravaganza that played the Stem back in 1950.

The costume designer for that opus dressed the cast in gorgeous Thai silks, the first time the fabrics had been on public display since the ancient craft withered and almost disappeared.

Later came "The King and I" with all the court bedecked in blinding pinks and peacock blues. Thai silk sells for $30 a yard in the States, but it is about $3 a yard here, where it is woven on backwoods looms and sold by the Original Thai Silk Co., Ltd., run by an ex-U.S. Army major named Jim Thompson.

Thai silk has become such a coveted cloth that today's Thai tourist is likely to see Thompson first, then spend the rest of the day visiting Bangkok's classic sights.

In the language of the Thais a temple is a wat, and there are over a dozen recommended wats where visitors can gape at Buddhas reclining, Buddhas standing, Great Buddhas and Emerald Buddhas.

However, for a woman to touch a Buddhist priest is a mortal sin for both, a religious rule that makes for a strange ballet on crowded Bangkok busses.

The Emerald Buddha reposes in a corner of the palace grounds and to see him you have to appear on a Tuesday, Thursday or Saturday morning, leave your camera at the door, put on a coat and tie, and take off your shoes.

The Buddha, three feet high and carved of jasper, came from India 2,000 years ago as a present to a monarch in Southeast Asia. Siam has had it since the 1700s.

The Buddha is lighted by a pair of flourescent tubes and its clothes are changed three times a year according to whether the season is warm, cold or rainy. The temperature was hovering around 85 when we looked in, but it must be the cold season, for Buddha was all bundled up.

The Emerald Budda's house is caked with gold and it fits nicely into a dazzling corner of the palace grounds that is a jam of golden spires, giant Siamese warrior figures in grinning masks, covered from turned-up toe to spiked helmet with millions of bright-hued chips.

There are gilded statues of Siamese dancers in strange postures, trained cedar trees, temple bells and golden monuments at every turn, until at last the eye is drunk and the camera empty.

Sailing the klongs is another story, for the klongs are the main waterways and are lined with simple huts and houses.

Ladies paddle up the klongs in giant lampshade hats to keep off the sun. And the coffee man comes by canoe, too, blowing his horn to announce his arrival.

Then there is the noodle boat and the floating hardware store and the coconut and beetlenut man, all of them navigating between the ducks and the mothers in sarongs bathing their children.

Kids dabbed with white powder sit along the klongs and so do old ladies with crew-cut grey hair, teeth red from beetlenut and faces whitened with chalk powder to help them keep cool.

Tourists live far from the klongs in such rakish hotels as the Erawan and the Oriental which charge a whopping 300 ticals a day. In Thailand it's a nickel a tical, which brings the rate of a double room to a minimum of $15 a day.

The rooms are air-conditioned in an anemic sort of way, but in the Erawan lobby the mosquitoes dine happily on Western tourists.

You Shop by Canoe on a Klong (waterway) in Bangkok

Chile Playing Host To Big Travel Group

By NED AITCHISON
Herald Travel Writer

Santiago, Chile, is a beautiful modern capital — the fourth largest city in South America with a population approaching 2,000,000 — is all set to play host late this week to the first international cooperative group ever formed to promote tourism in South America and its neighboring resort areas.

From every point of the compass — yes, west, too, because all of the United States lies west of the westernmost part of South America — delegates, representing the travel and transportation fields — will arrive later this week to attend the second annual convention of COTAL.

This is the Confederacion de Organizaciones Turisticas de America Latina, which is the first such group ever created to promote tourism in the whole, vast area that embraces everything south of Florida, Mexico and all Central America, and the Caribbean islands.

Santiago is a fine, modern city in every respect, reminiscent of bustling northern cities in the United States. Strangely, the streets have in many cases Irish, English or German names, and many of the people are Spanish-speaking blonds.

Rising high in the background, as you peer out to the east from atop the 17-story Hotel Carrera — convention headquarters — are snow-capped peaks of the majestic Andes, including the Cerro San Cristobal whose slopes rise high above the busy metropolis and provide one of the most popular ski regions of this long country which stretches 2,600 miles along the Pacific coast of South America.

Chile's currency is the peso, written with a $ sign, and the varying rate of exchange ranges up to and above 750 pesos to the U.S dollar.

Mission Visitors Take Long 'Trips'

By ADON TAFT
Herald Religion Editor

TAFT

Winter visitors to the Boca Raton Bible Conference Grounds are getting an unusual preview of the annual tours to mission fields sponsored by the conference grounds.

A "mission village" has been constructed near the main auditorium on the grounds. It contains "a miniature reproduction of the living quarters and vegetation of the areas to be visited on the tours.

Included are a Swiss chalet, a thatched-roof hut of Hawaii, a South American bungalow, and an Alaskan-style dwelling. Each is manned by an information girl in native costume who gives out facts about the country and missionary efforts there along with details about the tours.

The first of this year's tours will be March 31 to April 13 when chartered planes will fly interested lay people to Jamaica, Barranquilla, Bogota, Quito, San Jose and Mexico City.

At each stop, on the combined pleasure and Christian service tour, the travelers will conduct evangelistic rallies for crowds of natives invited by the local missionaries. Then the visitors will tour each mission field with the missionaries as guides.

One of the highlights of this trip will be a flight over Auca Indian territory in Ecuador with the widows of the five missionaries slain by the Indians there three years ago as the guides.

Other tours will go to Hawaii Aug. 3-11 and to Alaska Aug. 15-30. Dates for the trip to an international Bible conference grounds in Switzerland are not yet definite.

This will be the fourth year for the tours instigated by Ira Lee Eshleman, president of the Boca Raton Bible Conference Grounds.

'Samoan Caviar' Like Spinach

A highly popular food in Pago Pago is palolo, often referred to as "Samoan caviar." Palolo grows in the coral reefs, and in October or November the bodies part from the heads and drift to the surface. Island fishermen scoop them up, rush them to shore, and fry them in banana leaves. What's it taste like? Spinach.

VACATIONLANDS

Few Americans Leave Home

By PETER LISAGOR
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

LISAGOR

WASHINGTON — Comparatively few Americans pull up stakes to find a new life abroad as Stanley Yankus, the disillusioned Dowagiac, Mich., farmer, plans to do.

Yankus has announced his intention to go to Australia, which encourages immigration and even helps newcomers with a modest bounty.

But even the land down under lures only a scant number of Americans.

"Of the 100,000 immigrants we seek a year," an Australian embassy spokesman said, "the number of Americans we get is just a drop in the bucket."

He disclosed that during 1958 the Australian consulate in New York received between 6,000 and 7,000 inquiries about a possible permanent move to that country.

A total of 495 visas were finally requested. Since a family can go out on one visa, the spokesman said, that figure probably represents about 500 to 600 persons.

The San Francisco consulate had about 1,000 inquiries and issued 246 visas, he said.

Roughly half of the Australian immigrants come from the British Isles, the spokesman said. Most of the others migrate from other European countries.

The spokesman said that while Australia welcomes Americans of sound health and good character, it recognizes that they do not find the attractions as great as people of other lands.

Americans miss certain creature comforts, he noted. The housing situation in Australia remains a bit tight. But the employment situation for skillful workers is "fairly buoyant."

To encourage immigration, the Australian government will pay $160 to each adult migrant and a graduated rate for each child based upon the amount of the travel fare to Australia. The breadwinner must sign a pledge to stay on at least two years or repay the gratuity.

Gardening Isn't Easy

By NIXON SMILEY
Herald Farm and Garden Editor

"CONTRARY TO GENERAL belief, gardening in Queensland is not easy."

This is the opening statement in a new book, "Gardening in Queensland," by H. Oakman (Jacaranda Press, Brisbane).

It was enlightening to read Oakman's statement. We figured that a fellow who had the guts to begin a book like that would write a good one. And he did.

But there was a selfish reason for liking this statement—"gardening in Queensland is not easy." We've been saying that about Florida gardening for many years.

But let's get back to Queensland. It's in Australia, in case you're rusty on geography. It's south of the equator, or "down under," as some blokes say. Brisbane is about as far south of the equator as Miami is north of the equator.

* * *

Just 'Rough Guide'

IN MANY INSTANCES the conditions for gardening are much the same in the two areas, but there is always enough difference is soils, climate and rainfall that one should use Oakman's book as a "rough guide" to tropical gardening.

The plants that grow in much of the land of Queensland are much the same plants that thrive in South Florida. At least the common ornamentals are the same.

But to Oakman—and to every experienced horticulturist—an ornamental plant is a plant out of place. And, as such, it must be babied and grown with a great deal of care.

Look around your own garden. What plants are you growing that could be left to themselves, without fertilizer, water or spray?

What would happen to them if you ceased to pay any attention to them?

Non-ornamentals would spring up and take over after a few years, and the appearance of your place would be totally unlike it is at the present time.

To be a good gardener one must know plants and soils, and gardening skill can be gained only through experience. Books help.

But books are only a guide. And there has never been a guide written that covers every situation. It is amazing how many exceptions one finds among gardening problems.

Those green-thumbed gardeners who always seem to have such good luck are the ones who know what to do with exceptional problems—these problems which one cannot find answers to in books.

It has been our experience that most gardeners won't go to the trouble necessary to become a seasoned member of the green-thumbed tribe.

There seems to be a feeling that gardening can be done through some kind of magic; and that if one could learn the right hocus-pocus one could have beautiful gardens without dirtying their fingers or having to smell fertilizer.

* * *

Remember Seasons

WE CONSIDER Oakman's book to be one of the outstanding works on tropical and subtropical gardening that has come out for some time.

It is not for the totally inexperienced Florida gardener, though. The book is elementary enough, yes, but one must be careful to use its planting recommendations.

Another thing the gardener must be wary of: When Oakman refers to the sultry months of November, December and January, he is referring to summer.

Remember, he's on the south side of the equator, where the seasons are the reverse of our own.

How to get Oakman's book might be a problem. Perhaps your own bookstore might order it for you. It sells for 39s. 6d., which is Australian currency.

Ed Menninger, "the flowering tree man" of Stuart, Fla., sent us a copy of the book. But it also can be seen in the Fairchild Tropical Garden's collection of books for Florida gardeners.

Hialeah Plans Youth Forest

Beautification of parkways in Hialeah will soon become a joint effort with teenagers from various organizations teaming with the city to plant and care for trees.

City officials, led by Councilman F. A. Benedetto, have gained the support of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Optimist Club, Kiwanis Club and other groups in the program which will see the city planting small trees and turning them over to a youth for maintenance.

Benedetto, who has been planning such a project for some time, said the trees will be judged periodically to determine which caretaker is doing the best work.

Several prizes, with one a scholarship to an agriculture school, are planned.

"We have enough money to buy a tree for every boy or girl who would be interested in joining the project," Benedetto said. He has invited all groups to participate in the tree caretaking program.

"Everybody I've mentioned the idea to, thinks it's good," Benedetto said. "It will give each boy or girl a sense of responsibility and something of their own to care for."

Each caretaker will be given a small tree to maintain after it has been planted by the city on street rights of way.

The trees will be watered, fertilized and policed by the youths. From time to time, a prize will be awarded to each section in the city.

The trees themselves will be marked with the name of their caretakers by a plate or capsule on the trunk.

"Not only will this spruce up the city's streets," Benedetto said, "but it will provide shade in due time. Perhaps other Florida communities should think about a similar program."

Biscayne Boulevard 'Planted'

The first step in the beautification of Miami's main entrance, Biscayne Blvd., has been completed with the planting of a parkway strip between NE 44th St. and 50th St.

P. Raymond Plumer, Miami park department superintendent, had rushed the planting to have it completed by today—Easter.

Plumber said the planting gives Miamians a sample of what is possible in future developments along the boulevard, which he calls "Miami's main entrance."

Further development of the boulevard planting is being spearheaded by Commissioner Otis Shiver, who has asked fellow commissioners to back the plan and to provide funds for it.

The present development is along the parkway facing exclusive Bay Point. This area was selected because of the wide center parkway along this part of the boulevard.

Plans call for the planting of royal palms along the boulevard from NE 17th St. to Bay Point. Large royal palms now line the boulevard from NE 13th St. to 17th St.

Beautification plans include planting of colorful shrubs, ground covers and annuals in conjunction with the palms.

Louis Caruso, Biscayne Blvd. business man who has been active in warming up support for the beautification program, is a staunch backer of the plan.

Pachira Blossoms Amazing To Only Newcomers Here

The "shaving brush" tree, Pachira fastuosa, is blooming in South Florida now, and as always when this happens, we get calls about it.

Newcomers are always amazed to see this tree come into bloom. Sometimes the surprise comes to a family which has purchased a home in Florida where someone previously had planted a Pachira.

The tree is from Mexico and Central America. It is an open tree, bearing large leaves on soft-wooded branches.

The leaves are shed in the winter, and the flowers open near the ends of the branches.

Flowers commonly are pink, but there also is a white variety which is popular for the night garden. For flowers open after sundown and are at their best at night and early morning.

The flowers close by noon and drop in the afternoon. But by next morning the branches are loaded with new flowers.

Flowering lasts for about three weeks. After flowering is over the trees put on new foliage.

Growth is rapid. But the tree is considered messy by most gardeners and should not be planted if one is averse to raking large leaves and disposing of them.

Nor should it be planted close to a house, since it is subject to breaking up in high wind.

There is a flowering Pachira at the Fairchild Tropical Garden.

Ficus Species

More than 50 species of rubber trees (Ficus) have been introduced and propagated in South Florida.

Gables Set To Lay Out New Park

Coral Gables is getting ready to build its first park in 10 years.

The park will be called Sunrise Harbour park, and will be located on the Coral Gables waterway near Biscayne Bay.

Land for the park was presented to the city by Emil Gould, developer of Sunrise Harbour.

Harley Pittman, Coral Gables public service director, said it would be a "small residential park," and is expected to be used for daytime recreation by youngsters in the area.

Landscape Architect Starts Here

Landscape architecture has attracted another practitioner in Dade County.

He is James E. Voss, of 8575 SW 127th St., a graduate of Michigan State University's school of landscape architecture.

He was manager of the Vosters' Nursery at Cutler before going into the practice landscape architecture here for himself.

He is a member of the American Society of Landscape Architects.

Here's Tree That Offers Quite a Bit

The tamarind is an especially good tree for Florida. It thrives in all kinds of soil, and is bothered by few insects or diseases.

A tough-branched tree, the tamarind is highly resistant to storm winds.

Its tiny foliage permits enough light to filter through so that grass grows well beneath its branches. And when the foliage falls it disappears in the grass.

The Inquiring Gardener

Readers with queries should include a self-addressed stamped envelope. Limit queries to two or three. Complete specimens are required for identification, including a twig with foliage and flowers or fruit.

QUESTION—I have what is supposed to be an exceptionally good variety of Barbados cherry. However, it produces an abundance of flowers but seldom has much fruit. Only one time last year did it set a good crop. On the other occasions when it bloomed it failed to set fruit.

I sprayed it with malathion, copper and nicotine sulphate, but apparently it did no good. Could you suggest another kind of spray that might be helpful?—Mr. L.P.D., Miami.

ANSWER—Put away the insecticides and the fungicides until you are certain of their need. Frankly, I can't figure out what you were aiming to do by applying these sprays, and apparently you were just as much in the dark.

The lack of fruitfulness of your tree probably has been the result of poor nutrition. The Barbados cherry should be fertilized well about three times a year in order for it to produce sizable crops. And if you hope to produce several crops a year it is necessary to fertilize after each crop is harvested.

You also must apply a mineral spray containing zinc and manganese at least once a year, and more often if you push the production of the tree.

QUESTION—Is there any chemical which will remove croton stains from fabric?—Mrs. John Palmer, Miami.

ANSWER—This is a tough one. Jeanne Voltz, Herald homemaking editor, suggests the following formula, with a word of caution, plus sympathy and concern for your problem:

Chlorine bleach	3 tablespoonsful
Borax	3 tablespoonsful
Water	3 tablespoonsful

Each stained spot is carefully dipped in this solution, then carefully washed in clear water. This is done over and over until the stain disappears—or the fabric does.

About the best advice we can give is to don work-a-day clothes before working in the garden. Many plants yield sap that will stain. The hibiscus flower, for instance, is used for making a dye in the Far East.

QUESTION — The wind has broken the top out of my adonidia palm and the bud is gone. Will this palm sprout from the base and make another tree? — Mr. A. P. Huggins, Miami.

ANSWER — No. When the bud is gone from an adonidia it's through. It's a single-trunk palm.

Your Garden Guide

Now's the Time To...

ALL-FLORIDA
On The Farm— In The Garden
Registered in U.S. Patent Office

March 29, 1959

REPLANTING — Root prune shrubs, palms and trees which you must transplant. The idea is to develop a ball of roots to move along with your plant at the time of transplanting. Most trees can be transplanted safely about two months after root-pruning.

WEEDY LAWNS — Regular mowing is one of the best ways to keep weeds under control.

BULBS — This is a good time to plant a few gladiolus, but one must be prepared to spray weekly with a combination of insecticide-fungicide in order to produce topnotch plants as warm weather arrives.

ANNUALS — This is a good time to plant both marigolds and zinnias. A great many varieties of these plants are now on the market. In fact there are so many varieties of these from one another that when they are planted side by side an experienced gardener would think they are different species.

CALADIUMS — Now is a good time to plant beds of this colorful foliage plant. Although these plants can be grown in ful' sun, where ample moisture is provided, they do best in partial shade.

YOUNG TREES—Now is the time to begin pushing shrubs and trees you wish to increase in size during the months ahead. Fertilizing can be done monthly. But rotate with sheep manure one month and with regular garden fertilizer the next month. This will provide your plants with the nutrients they require and at the same time help to build up the organic matter in the soil.

PRUNING—Spring is the time to begin training shrubs or trees in the form desired. Greedy new growth on vigorous shrubs should be headed back, and heavy branching should be encouraged. To produce good shrubs the gardener must not be reluctant to cut back branches that are too long. Trees on the other hand must be trained to take the form of a tree. A single vigorous lead growth is desirable. If it is weak, tie it to a stake in order to get the desired form and branching.

BANANAS—Begin feeding these plants heavily each month if you hope to harvest large bunches of fruit next year.

Planting Calendar

VEGETABLES — Collards, cucumbers, mustard, squash, turnips.

ANNUALS — Alyssum, balsam, celosia (cockscomb), cosmos, globe aramanth, marigold, morning glory, petunia, salvia, zinnia.

BULBS — Amaryllis, caladium, eucharis, gladiolus, gloriosa lily.

Good News for All But the Producers

If you like poultry, you'll be able to eat chicken during the months ahead at almost record low prices.

But the steal the public enjoys may well put a lot of broiler people out of business.

This is the feeling of experts in the American Feed Manufacturers Association.

W. E. Glennon, president of the association, wants it known, though, that the oversupply of poultry did not come about from a lack of warning.

Despite warnings, Glennon said, poultry people have continued to produce broiler chicks at a rate "which can result only in continued disastrously low broiler prices."

He predicted severe losses for broiler producers during the first half of 1959, but feared that losses would continue "if the excessive rate of broiler placements continues."

Lower prices also were forecast for eggs, but apparently no disastrous situation was foreseen for smart producers who have managed to keep costs of production at a minimum.

In the meantime, a new record production of 40 million tons of manufactured feed for 1959 was announced.

This represents an increase of 11 per cent over the preceding year and a gain of 58 per cent in the last 10 years, according to the American Feed Manufacturers Association.

Thus it appears that the public will eat better and cheaper, while the poultryman may face "starvation" in the midst of over-abundance.

Classes Opening

Three classes in flower arranging and two classes in landscape gardening will begin this week at the Lindsey Hopkins Education Center, 1410 NE Second Ave.

The courses, to be taught by Judy Koutnik, will run for 12 weeks. Each class will be held weekly for two hours. A fee for registration and for materials will be charged.

Information about the courses can be obtained by calling Miss Koutnik at the school.

Classes in flower arranging will be as follows:

Advanced class from 9 a.m. until noon Wednesday.

Elementary classes from 12:45 p.m. to 3:45 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Wednesday.

Classes in landscape gardening will be held from 12:45 p.m. to 3:45 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Thursday.

Register in Room 1209.

DDT Helpful

A five per cent DDT dust will control leaf rollers and other small caterpillars that eat vegetable and annual plants. Do not apply insecticides within a week of harvest time.

Seed Kit Is Easily Operated

About the newest thing in the gardening line is the planted seed kit — a container in which seeds of annuals or vegetables have been planted and fertilized.

All you have to do is add water and put the container in a location where the young plants can get enough light to grow after they spring.

The seed kits come in many forms. We even received a "seed blanket" the other day.

You just plant the blanket of seed and sprinkle it a little with water — and you jump back so that the plants don't jump right into your face.

Well, hardly. But you have to hand it to the garden supply people. They're knocking themselves out to find easy ways to do things. They're going to push-button gardening as fast as invention will permit and nature will tolerate.

There are problems. We gave the seed blanket we received to Lil MacCullough, the boss' secretary and who also is an ardent gardener. She read the instructions and followed them implicitly.

But Lil discovered that the seed blanket was for the birds—and literally so. The mocking birds discovered the blanket and proceeded to tear it apart to build a nest.

She retrieved part of the blanket the birds had not used and replanted it, covering it well enough so that the birds wouldn't find it.

Undoubtedly the birds were spying on her, because when Lil looked again the rest of the blanket was gone.

Evidently the birds thought it was such excellent nest material and they were determined to test it.

These planter kits are being vigorously promoted by several garden supply firms. They may be good, and are worth giving a trial.

But it is good to remember the limitations that are put on gardening during the warm months in South Florida.

We note that one firm offers a long list of varieties of vegetables and annual flowers in starter kit form.

Right Varieties

Don't go in for the so-called everbearing varieties of strawberries for Florida. Plant the varieties that have proven themselves here, like Florida Ninety and Missionary.

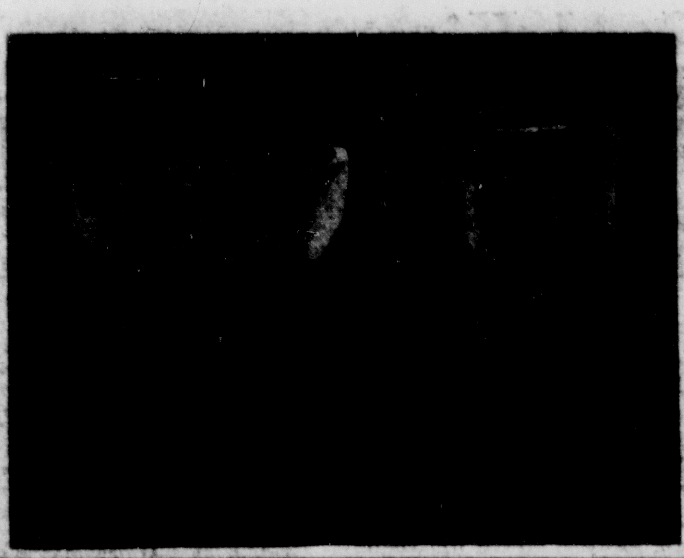
New Type Container Displayed at Show

One of the items displayed at a recent garden supply show here that impressed us most was a new type of indoor plant container which was developed in Switzerland.

The walls are of thick, porous material which absorbs moisture and permits the flow of air. Thus when the soil in these containers is watered according to directions, no saucer is needed below to collect seepage of excess water.

These containers come in many sizes and shapes, and fit well in modern homes.

Ask your garden supply dealer about these containers. Don't call us.



Gladiolus Booklet Offered

Every gardener who grows gladiolus will want to own a copy of a new circular just released by the Agricultural Extension Service.

It is "Gladiolus for the Home Gardener," by S. S. Woltz and R. O. Magie of the Gulf Coast Experiment Station at Bradenton.

Although the circular is only seven pages, it covers about everything the gardener needs to know about planting and cultivating gladiolus.

The writing is concise and informative. No wasted words are used, and the gardener will do well to hang onto every word and phrase in the circular in order to get the full benefit offered.

Gladiolus can be grown at any time of the year in South Florida, but diseases and insects make the growing of the plants difficult during the warm months.

Single copies may be obtained free from the Agricultural Extension Service, University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla. But do print your name and address plainly.

THE GHOSTS of Lancelot and Galahad would find a home-like atmosphere at a Miami museum where suits of armor both for knights and horses, together with all sorts of medieval weapons, line the walls.

Shades of knights aren't the only ones who could find happy haunting there. Symbols of violence through the ages up to modern times are exhibited with relics of the Spanish Inquisition rubbing elbows with those of Nazi Germany. The story about this fascinating place is on page 26.

* * *

IN THE MIDST of all the discussion about two-legged delinquents, somebody should give a thought to the four-legged variety, says a pup guidance expert on page 8. Fido has turned the tables on his master in most homes. He has established himself as the boss—and he knows it—and it's high time to do something about it, cautions Expert Arthur Woods, before we all go completely to the dogs. Woods' chief assistant in teaching erring dogs to behave themselves is his beagle, Junior, who while he haughtily refuses to be quoted on how he feels about all this, still manages to steal the show in the photographs that illustrate the story.

* * *

STEVE TRUMBULL has some down-to-earth instructions for boatmen on how to read the road maps of the sea, nautical charts (Page 25). Novice boatmen frequently shy away from trying to cope with charts because they think they are horribly complicated and require advanced knowledge of navigation, mathematics and voodoo. Not so, says Steve. If you can read a road map, you can read a chart. Give it a try and save the Coast Guard a lot of trouble trying to find you.

* * *

THERE WAS this wild duck, see, that decided to come to Florida for the winter. He liked the looks of the accommodations at Miami Springs Villas and moved in. One thing led to another and he got so he liked martinis. And with those, too, one led to another. But that's not the worst of it, says the alcoholic mallard's reluctant host, Art Bruns. Now he arrogantly insists that the martinis be served very cold and ver-r-r-y dry. And him without a sou to pay his bill when he checks out. John Vosburgh's story about the playboy duck is on page 27.

On the Cover

ON SKATES for only two years and in the world only five, little Debbie Williams is a featured skater in the Holiday on Ice show opening tomorrow at Exhibition Hall, Miami Beach.

Debbie is not only a fine skater, she has a highly developed sense of showmanship that leaves both audiences and her fellow skaters vastly impressed.

George Bourke's story (page 3) tells how the skating Williams family manages to give Debbie and her little brother, Robbie, 3, making his debut on ice this year, a normal home life in spite of being constantly on the move.

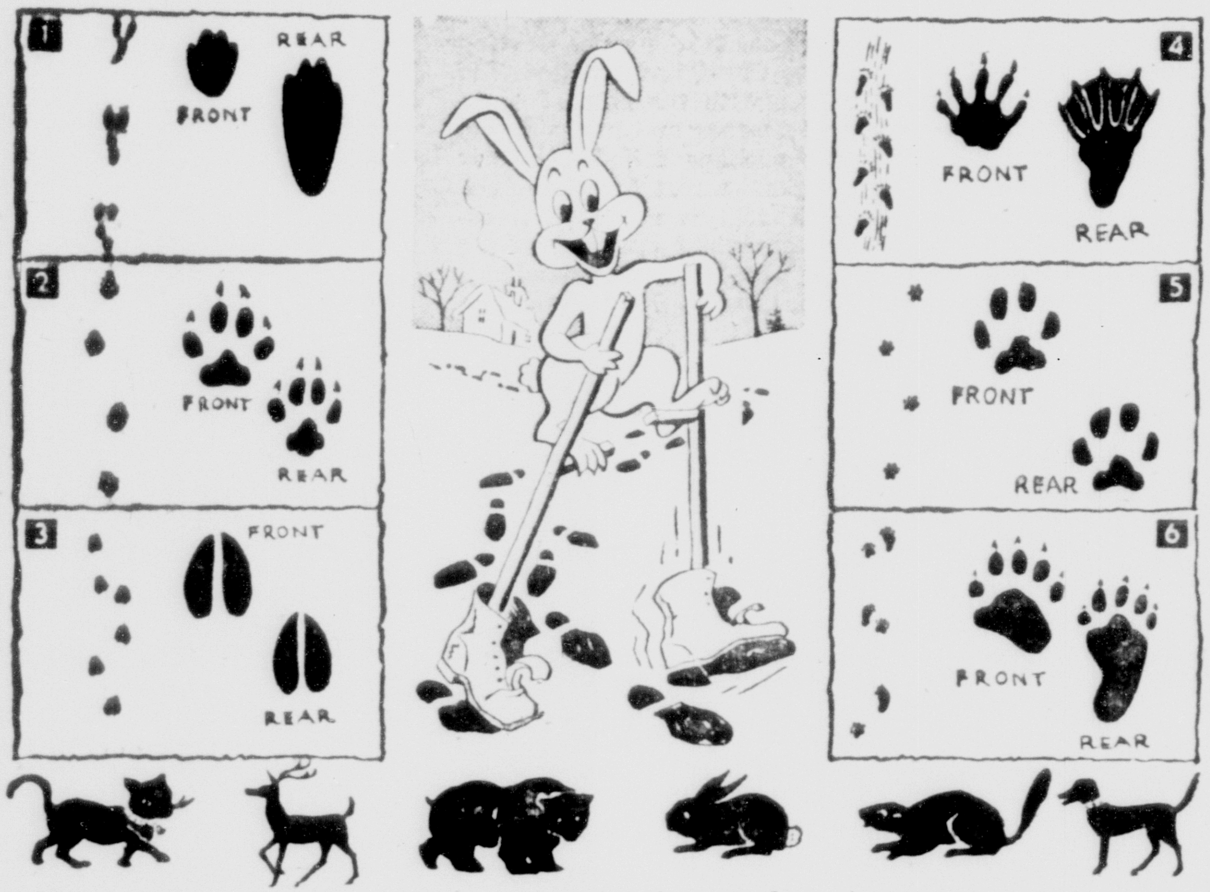
PUZZLES and PASTIMES

SUREFOOTED IN TRACKS? LET'S SEE



A centipede with a wooden leg, or a bunny bent on the harebrained antic pictured above, could succeed in confusing things, but most animal tracks are readily identifiable. Nearly everyone has seen one or more of the tracks above in snow, sand or mud. From certain characteristics that in most cases are fairly obvious nearly all of the others can be puzzled out. How quickly can you succeed in doing this?

Silhouettes of the animals involved are provided at bottom of drawing. Pictured are a cat, dog, deer, beaver, bear and rabbit.

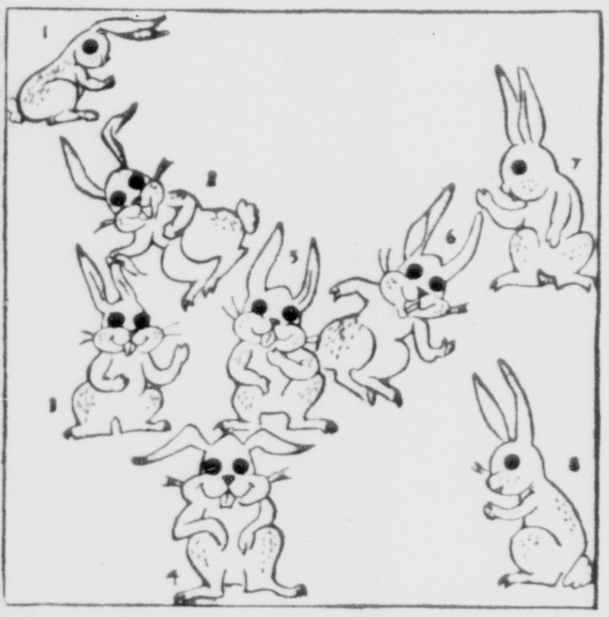
Panels include an indication of individual trotting or walking postures. In actual field studies, these and other considerations make for intriguing, detective-like adventures.

Answers: 1 Rabbit. 2 Dog. 3 Deer. 4 Beaver. 5 Cat. 6 Bear.

BUNNY'S EYE-CUE DRILL

HOW quickly can you cross cross out all of the bunnies' eyes in this diagram by drawing four straight lines from border to border? Use of a ruler or straight edge is helpful.

Remember, the object of this test is to cross out all of the bunnies' eyes with four straight lines. One of these lines will cross four eyes; the others, three.



Solution: Draw a line through eye of 1, left eye of 2, left eye of 4. Draw a line through right eye of 2, left eye of 5; eye of 8. Draw a line through right eye of 4, right eye of 6, eye of 7. Draw line through both eyes of 3, right eye of 5, left eye of 6.

Murder Vs. Suicide

"CAN a person who commits suicide shoot himself twice through the heart?" That was the question Elmer asked me and I had to think twice about it before I replied, "Impossible!"

"That's just what the police said in an actual case some time ago in Cleveland," Elmer explained. "A woman was found with two bullets in her heart. The husband was accused of murder. But, the investigation of a clever detective exonerated him." How?

Answer: The detective observed that there was only a single wound. Examination of the gun and the bullets showed that the first one had been fired and was stuck in the barrel. Then the second bullet when fired struck the first and both left the gun as one.

Trying Your Wits

TRY these wits testers on yourself, then on your friends:

(1) If your observation is good, you should be able to spot the similarity or other affinity between each of the groups of figures or letters below.

VPFJB	UOEIA
42644	46882
DBTGE	CVDPT
78615	82453

(2) Strike out a certain combination of two letters and read a well known proverb.

Wutasuttute nutotut wutanutt nutotut.

(3) What three figures multiplied by 4 give 5?

Answers: (1) Second group in first line are preceding letters in alphabetical order to first group. In second line, both groups are composed of even numbers. In third line, all letters are rhymed. In fourth line, both groups total 22. (2) Waste not, want not. (3) 1.25.

This Will Give You the Shakes

TEN friends met and each shook hands with every other. (Mr. A shook hands with 9 others, etc.) How many handshakes were there in all?

Answer: Mr. A shakes hands with nine others. Mr. B shakes hands with eight others (Mr. A already counted). Mr. C shakes hands with seven others (A and B already counted). The answer is therefore 45, the sum of the numbers from nine to one.

Cryptogram Poser

WE'LL give you a starting clue in this substitution crypt—N is substituted for Y.

BKMYTJTH RMN
SMPTE SMF M
EWMJT, YMPTE
KMWG KLE BVHYK
MBMN.

Remember, each letter is a substitute for some other letter—the same letter throughout.

Solution: "Whatever day makes man a slave, takes half his worth away," a quotation from Alexander Pope.

GALILEO'S MYSTERY MESSAGE

WHILE Galileo was using his telescope with its concave eyepiece for the epochal first time, he is said to have detected a peculiarity about the planet Saturn. Since his telescope had not sufficient refractive power to show a separation of the rings, Saturn looked to Galileo like three bodies arranged in one direct line, the middle body being the largest of the three.

The immortal astronomer announced his discovery to his illustrious contemporary, Johannes Kepler, in the form of a logograph penned in Latin in which many of the letters were transposed. To wit:

Smasmrm[illegible]mepoetalevmibvnienvgttaviras.

Restoring the letters to their proper places the sentence reads:

"Altissimum planetam tergeminum observavi."

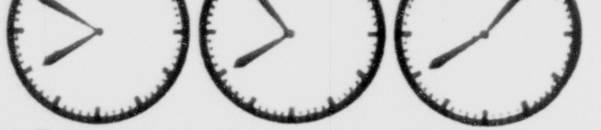
In case that may still be somewhat obscure, here it is once more, in English without any transpositions of letters—and with the vowels a, e, i and u represented by the letter o:

OHOVOOBSORVODTHOMOSTDOSTONTPLONOTTOBOTHROOFOLD

Can you make it out?

Answer: "I have observed the most distant planet to be threefold."

Just for the Time Being



AT the moment, as you can see above, one clock says 10 minutes to 8; another 7 minutes to 8 and a third 6 minutes past 8.

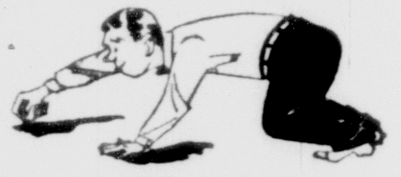
One is four minutes out, another 7 minutes out, and the third is 9 minutes out.

Which is which is not revealed.

What is the correct time?

Answer: Three minutes to eight is the time.

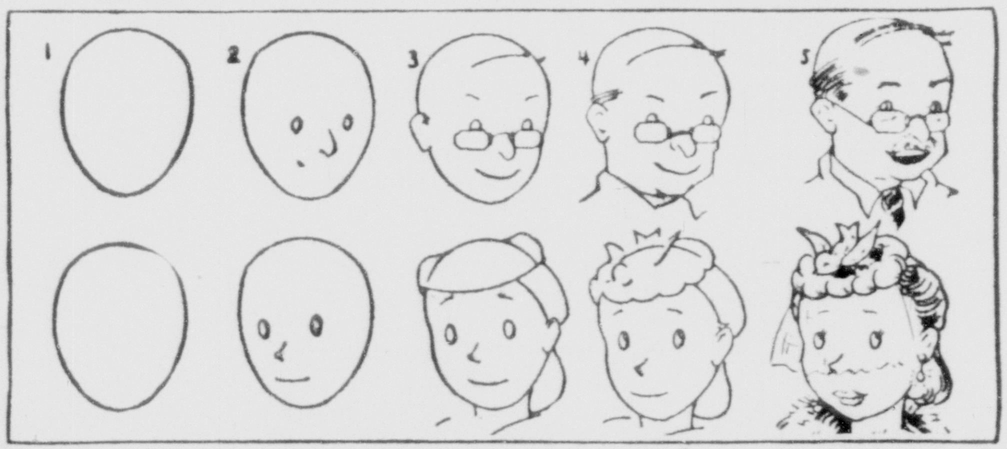
STRETCHING A DOLLAR



SOME folks seem able to make money go farther than others. Are you such a person? Here's an exercise in which to find out. From a given point in the room, balance yourself on one hand and see how far distant you can place a bill or coin. Then let someone else try. That person who places it at the farthest point wins, of course.

A yardstick or piece of string stretched out on the floor makes a good starting point. Balance should be kept on one hand, knees above floor.

UNMASK YOUR HIDDEN TALENT



IT'S easy to learn to draw characters by the oval system, illustrated here. Start with an oval, then add features progressively. With practice, characters will improve until you may find yourself drawing some good likenesses of people you know. Most anyone can acquire a mechanical facility for drawing by this method. Persistent practice is a requisite for beginners, of course.

Solve an Anagram

A TRAVELER who was leaving New York for the Mediterranean wrote a friend that he was going to "plant onions, etc."

Can you figure out his destination?

Answer: Constantinople.

. . . to their parents' horror, they vow Bre'r Rabbit must travel with them

She doesn't have to look far back, however, since Debbie is just five and has been skating — on ice skates — for only two full years.

Debbie is as cute as a button and just a little bigger but she isn't on the ice for eye-appeal alone. She's a journeyman skater, just like her father, Johnny Williams, who, in addition to partnering with Debbie in a "That's My Girl" acrobatic skating number, takes his turn in several specialty numbers, most notably as The Wizard in "The Wizard of Oz" spectacular which opens the second half of the bill.

Debbie has had her part padded since last year — she performs in a second number "The Ice Prom," which is an ice carnival within an ice carnival and sees her cavorting with her playmates, huge snowmen!

Debbie, incidentally, is not the baby skater of her family — her brother, Robbie, who also travels with the show, spent all last year peering out at her performances and has been begging to get into the act. It is possible that he will be allowed to join Debbie in her "Ice Prom" number, as a Snow Flake. Robbie is already three!

Veterans with the Holiday on Ice revue are astounded with Debbie's progress as a skater. This year her jumps are bigger and her spins stronger than in her initial year as a trouping ice skater.

It is too early to make solid ground predictions on Debbie's future — buy there are many in the company who recall that Sonja Henie went on to Olympic and world championship honors while still in her teens after taking to the blades almost as soon as she could walk.

Aside from the brief moments in the spotlight and the twice nightly applause — and the changing scene as the show travels from city to city — Debbie's home life is a normal one.

Pat, her mother, is always with them, and so Debbie, Robbie and Papa Johnny have the philosophy that home is where you hang your skates.

Danish Musicians Put New Zest in Baroque

By Doris Reno

VANGUARD has a big issue of baroque music on three 12-inch boxed discs, which altogether contain all the Concerti Grossi, Op. 6, of Corelli. There are 12 in all.

These works are performed by Jorgen Ernst Hansen and the Chamber Orchestra of the Societas Musica of Copenhagen, Denmark, which was specifically organized to present music of this period.

Corelli's Op. 6 was a major historical accomplishment, since he was one of the first, if not absolutely the first, to transfer the principles of using contrasting masses of sound in choral writing to the purely instrumental field. He wrote with style, dignity, proportion and solid workmanship, but was no experimentalist. He kept his soundblocks in indivisible units, using no soloists.

The Danes have a good baroque group here, and are contributing much through its efforts to the revival of baroque music throughout Europe.

GREGOR PIATRIGORSKY combines with Charles Munch and the Boston Symphony to present William Walton's Concerto for Cello and Orchestra on a Victor 12-inch LP, which is backed by the Bloch Schelomo.

The solo artist uses all the cantabile power of his instrument in his reading of the Walton work, which is very accessible, fresh and sincere. This conductor and soloist premiered the intense, but very listenable, composition in 1957.

Pat Suzuki's Complaint: Audience Just Too Nice

By Hugh Mulligan

PAT SUZUKI, the almond-eyed dazzler who lights up Rodgers' and Hammerstein's "Flower Drum Song" like a fire cracker on Chinese New Year's, has only one major regret about her first Broadway show.

"The audience is awfully nice," she says. "They pay to listen, so they come in and listen and nothing will distract them from listening. It's all very wonderful, but it's all too easy. I'm not used to that kind of a reception."

Pat came to Broadway by way of the night club circuit. Her idea of fun and work is to make people listen who don't want to listen.

"I'd be up there at the microphone and suddenly spot a guy with a highball glass in his hand. He'd be my target. I'd sing my heart out until he put down the glass, leaned forward in his chair and started to listen. It was a challenge, sometimes it failed, but I loved it."

* * *

ONLY AN occasional Saturday night audience provides the same kind of challenge at the St. James Theater, where the R & H musical has settled down for a long run. "They pay the most," Pat explained, "and they're a bit more sophisticated than the crowd on other nights. In the theater, they call it 'too well dressed to clap.' You have to make them sit up and like you."

Which audience is the most appreciative?

"The Wednesday matinees," says Pat. "It's mostly a ladies' house. They don't make much noise with their little hands, but they laugh louder, sigh more and just seem to enjoy themselves more than any others. Some actors hate the matinee crowds because they're apt to be fidgety and giggly, but unlike the man with the highball glass, they are willing to like you from the start."

Born on a 100-acre California farm to Japanese-American parents, Pat sang her first solo at the age of four in Sunday School, sang to keep her spirits up when the family was moved to a Nisei relocation camp during World War II, and sang her way through college by working in small clubs.

Bing Crosby heard her in a Seattle club and became a fan and booster. Then Richard Rodgers heard her on a television show and knew he had found his Linda Low, the hip swinging, hep singing strip teaser who ignites San Francisco's Chinatown like a tong war in his "Flower Drum Song."

'Jazz Story' a Triple Treat

By Fred Sherman

A YEAR AGO, this column was full of praise about a Decca set of four long-play albums which presented a history of jazz. Each LP offered a decade of music, starting with the '20s. Now, Coral has reached into those same rich files with the help of Steve Allen and Leonard Feather and has come up with a triple-treat package called The Jazz Story (CJE-100). Allen, a real friend of jazz, plays a sympathetic role as narrator, introducing the 41 numbers which start with King Oliver and Kid Ory (1926) and end with a cool piece of modern jazz by John Graas and Jimmy Giuffre.

STEVE ALLEN

. . . sympathetic narrator

Space doesn't permit a complete rundown on the program, but you'll find most of the great bands and combos represented. Decca and Coral may not be leading the jazz pack now, but you can't surpass them for library material.

This package will solve a lot of problems if you are one of those who has been cherishing a lot of scratchy old 78 rpms. Included is the 1928 Red Nichols' orchestra when Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller, Gene Krupa and Jack Teagarden were sidemen. Also, there are John Kirby and the Onyx Club Boys (1938). Ella Fitzgerald with Chuck Webb (1939), Mildred Baily with the Delta Rhythm Boys (1941) and the Fletcher Henderson orchestra of 1934.

* * *

FOR THE RECORD, a run down on the choice albums which are current or almost at the store counters: Don't laugh off the suggestion that you test spin an album called Hip Harp (Prestige 7140). I don't like gimmicks either, but this one is for real. Dorothy Ashby really swings the strings in duets with Basie's Frank Wess on the flute. They have Herman Wright on bass and Arthur Taylor on drums.

I'm not partial to Dixieland, either, because most of it is pretty awful. You know, full of pumping reeds which never grew in Storyville. But Roulette put a recording crew to work one night in New York and came up with a lively session called Dixieland at Carnegia Hall (R-25038).

Jimmy McPartland doubles with the cornet and the moderator role. There is a genuine feeling to the music which puts it above the usual hamming with Royal Garden Blues, High Society, Saints Go Marching and Rosetta. Hear the gutty trombone of Vic Dickinson on Basin Street Blues and the clarinet dueling by Pee Wee Russell and Tony Parenti on Tin Roof Blues. Another highlight of the 10-tracker is the rolling drums of Zutty Singleton vs. the vibes of Tyree Glenn. At least three dozen top-notch men made this music.

For piano fans, there is file copy in Columbia's Erroll Garner Encores (CL-1141), three different sets of bass and drum men. Five of the numbers were released earlier in Europe. I'm not sure about the other four, but all are fine Garner.

All new is the work on a World Pacific album titled simply Freddie Gambrell with Ben Tucker, Bass (WP-1256). This is the young pianist who created a sensation in 1958 in his first record with Chico Hamilton. A 12-tracker with Gambrell demonstrating composition talent on three of them.

* * *

A COLLECTION of hit singles is Capitol's volume two of Freshmen Favorites (T-1103). Included are Baltimore Oriole, Tuxedo Junction and How Can I Begin to Tell. The selections extend into the past since the bass role is divided by Ken Albers, Hal Kratzsch and Ken Errair. The steadies are Don and Ross Barbour, plus Bob Flanigan.

If you're not constitutionally opposed to multiple taping, you can hear a tenor sax quartet by Jimmy Giuffre in an album titled The Four Brothers Sound (Atlantic 1295). Backing up the electronic wizardry are Bob Brookmeyer on piano and Jim Hall on guitar. First side offers four Giuffre compositions in a far out modern vein. There are five standards on the flip.

Davis Sings Into Heart of a Song

By Evelyn DeTardo

"TO ME," Jack Benny announced at New York Town Hall May 4, 1958, "Sammy Davis Jr. is probably the greatest entertainer in the whole world."

DAVIS

Following this sentence, Sammy Davis Jr. stepped before the mike — and entertain he did. Proof is the Decca album (DL 8841) recorded during actual performance that night at Town Hall.

Included in the album are his old recordings, Something's Gotta Give, This is My Beloved and that wonderful ballad, My Funny Valentine.

* * *

SAMMY DAVIS JR. has a number of advantages on his side of the microphone, among which is the ability to sing into the heart of a song, be it novelty or ballad, and a fine range which he uses to its fullest extent.

A couple of other bands on the album are Chicago, and the well worn Ol' Man River which seems to gain new strength in this recording.

Whether clowning, as in impersonations of Nat King Cole, Tony Martin or George "Kingfish" Stevens, or just singing, Sammy Davis Jr. at Town Hall is fine entertainment.

* * *

This group has come up with another fine album of quartet singing which includes My Blue Heaven, That's My Desire, Lazy River, Pretend, Deep Purple and more of your favorites.

This album, with the never tiresome Crew Cuts, is good listening.

THIS IS GIRL AND UMBRELLA
. . . if you follow rotation

By Cappy Dick

MAKE A PICTURE by connecting the numbers!

If you succeed, you may be one of 10 boys and girls who will win a prize in this contest. Each will receive a "Pack o' Coins" containing 18 pieces of metal play money of various sizes. The coins are fun to carry as unusual pocket pieces and also to use in playing games.

To produce a picture from the array of numbers in the adjoining puzzle you must connect the proper numbers. Do this with a pencil line, running it from dot to dot. It is a picture of a girl carrying an umbrella.

The numbers to connect are these, given in the correct rotation: 8-2-3-4-13-28-35-42-48-41-40-56-61-83-82-81-75-60-73-80-79-78-72-59-58-50-38-37-31-25-24-17-16-9-8.

Don't miss any of the numbers, or you will spoil the finished picture.

When you have outlined the girl and her umbrella, clip the picture out. If you wish, you may color it with your paints or crayons. Paste it on a sheet of paper. Beneath it print your name, age and address.

Finally address your contest entry to Cappy Dick at The Miami Herald, Box 630, and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Judges will examine all entries to find the 10 correct ones most neatly prepared. Their names and addresses will be published here and their "Packs o'Coins" will be sent to their homes by mail.

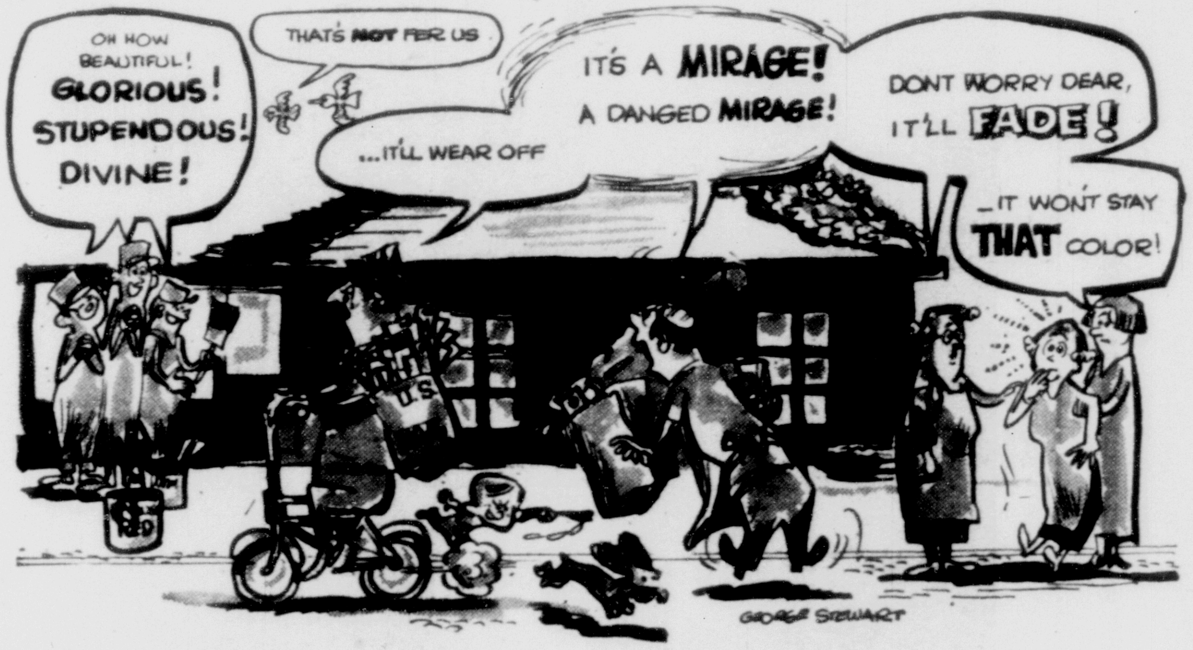
Paint the House Pink



OH HOW BEAUTIFUL! GLORIOUS! STUPENDOUS! DIVINE!

...IT'LL WEAR OFF
IT'S A MIRAGE! A DANGED MIRAGE!
DONT WORRY DEAR, IT'LL FADE!
_IT WON'T STAY THAT COLOR!

RED
GEORGE STEWART

By Beatrice Washburn

WE DECIDED to paint our house pink. The neighbors thought it was a grand idea and well they might. For years they have been staring at an old beat-up concrete house with old-fashioned casement windows and a carport fit to house a Cadillac but which actually contains only a small English Ford.

The house began weeping at the eaves, as Florida houses do when they have had enough of rain. Big mildew spots and dark, gloomy walls began to look almost like a prison.

"It will be a soft Mediterranean pink," we informed them "like those houses on the Riviera or the places in Nassau that look like flowers when you view them from the air. A faint blush rose, or a delicate coral."

It sounded glorious and when the painters appeared and spread sample colors on the wall outside we settled for one that was just a tiny bit warmer than what we had in mind. After all, the Florida sun — houses fade.

So it was a shock, coming home from work to turn the corner and drive smack into what looked like a giant strawberry short cake. The house was pink, all right. Pink like a watermelon's insides, like a tropical sunset, almost like the poincianas when they are in bloom.

* * *

THE PAINTERS were much pleased. They thought it pretty. So did the grocery man who could hardly believe his eyes. He has been delivering to our tired old house for many years. The news boys were entranced. In fact a group of small boys were already gathered about the paint cans dipping in sticks, anxious to take a swipe at the cocker across the street and make him a pink dog.

It's a big house and it was practically finished so there was nothing to be done. "It'll wear off," said the postman disapprovingly, the first words he has been known to speak in several months.

Too late I looked at the paint we had purchased at vast expense and noted that it was marked flamingo, and not rose. One part flamingo and three parts white and what have you? A pink house. A landmark.

At least we won't have to draw maps on the stationery or give careful directions over the telephone. "You come out to the 55 block on Le Jeune and turn left. Go two blocks and it's that old house on the corner." Now we'll simply say it's the pink house and let it go at that.

It wouldn't have been so bad except that we live in a pastel neighborhood. The house across the street is pale lime, the one next door to them a gentle pearl, next door to us a soft cream. Coconut Grove is conservative and so are it's houses. Other people have thought up that Mediterranean idea and then toned it down for Florida. The painter began telling me about a blue house he knew in Nassau. Bright blue with deep green trims like a peacock. "They called it the peacock house," he said reassuringly.

My son reminded me of the plaid house we knew in Mexico. Even the glass in the windows was stained plaid. But then . . . that's Mexico. You can't have a plaid house in Coconut Grove, or a striped one or-let's face it — a bright pink one.

The neighbors are kind and loyal. They assure me that the sun will bleach it out in no time and what the sun doesn't effect the rain will. "It won't stay that color." Listening to them we wonder vaguely why people paint their houses at all. Why not leave them, like that Alfred Parker house on Main Highway, a natural color, the color of wood.

* * *

OF COURSE, once you've painted your house you've only just begun. There are the "trims," the frameworks of windows and doors. They were originally a stolid dignified green but that only throws our ruby colored walls into high relief. What to do about the front walk? Paint it garnet? What to do about the screens which encased in glowing rose, look more dilapidated than ever.

Shall we paint the mail box, constructed to hold at least 20 books at a time, vermillion or let it pass? What's for the glorious bougainvillea, hanging purple tassels against pink walls, and the flame vine that runs riot on the roof? What to do about the cat who escaped in all the confusion and got her soft Persian paws almost the color of blood? Apparently she thinks it IS blood and has been franticaly licking them. The pebbles in the driveway have turned cerise, cardinal, solferino and flame colored — all the synonyms there are for pink.

So far the birds have avoided us. Maybe they, too, disapprove. Only at night, and we have had some wonderful full moon nights since our house went crazy, does the garden look as it used to look. Moonlight softens everything. The mocking bird likes it. We have heard him several times turning out crystal coloratura arias from the top of the mango tree.

WILD DUCKS, as well as people, are responding to the attractions of one of Miami's better-known lodging places. Twenty lesser scaup flew in to the Miami Springs Villas about a month ago and proceeded to take up choice waterfront quarters.

It looks as though they've settled down for the season, if not longer, and owner Art Bruns is drawing up an appropriate lodging bill to submit before they check out of his pleasant little duck pond.

The lesser scaup is a jaunty fellow with yellow eyes who swims vigorously about looking for handouts so he won't have to dive in the pond for his food. Black from head to chest, he looks as though he had just put on a dark, turtleneck sweather and had then suddenly been called out for a swim before being able to don any other apparel, the rest of him being white.

Some sportsmen know this small duck as the blackhead and others as the bluebill since his bill looks as if he had just finished a meal of fresh blueberries. The brownish female also sports a blue bill but otherwise is less colorfully adorned.

When the ducks first arrived, the kitchen help fed them lavishly and now the ducks expect such hospitality all the time. A diving duck, he has just about forgotten how to dive so reliant is he on kitchen handouts.

Thus far, however, the scaup haven't become as spoiled by the plush luxury of their surroundings as Mickey, the martini-drinking Mallard, a suave-duck-about-town who refuses to have anything to do with the hoi polloi fowls of the duck pond. Mickey, a sort of Swifty Morgan of the duck world, will swim only in the Villas' elaborate swimming pool.

Confident of his aquatic talents, he sometimes paddles madly toward an attractive girl possibly to show off his handsome green face and neck. He takes a nip too — not only from martinis but occasionally from the unsuspecting young lady.

Reprimands roll off Mickey like water off his back. He just sidles to the patio and sips a martini while eyeing devilishly the watery site of his drake's progress.

Except for one pair which arrived a few weeks ago, mallards have been part of the Villas pool colony for some 10 years, Bruns says. They've become just about domesticated and will eat bread out of your hand. In fact, a drinking duck like Mickey has his jug of wine, a crust of bread and other privileges even without a wilderness.

Harness, Quarter -- and Quiniela

Horse Track Has Two-Way Stretch

By W. W. Wilson

ONE OF ONLY two tracks in the nation to provide both harness and quarter-horse racing on the same program is the Ponce de Leon Raceway, located midway between St. Augustine and Jacksonville.

It's the only such combination pari-mutuel track east of New Mexico. The racetrack, which opened this year, also is Florida's only pari-mutuel harness track.

The track further boasts of being one of the few in the country with quiniela betting.

* * *

IT NOW has 20 large stable barns — 12 recently completed — which can house some 900 horses. Among the additions is a straightaway track for quarter-horse racing which joins the track.

Seating and club facilities have been enlarged to handle large crowds, which however have not as yet been forthcoming. The track's 44-night program began in late February.

Ponce de Leon Raceway first opened in 1953, but was closed after a short season due to lack of financial backing. It has now been taken over by a group of New Yorkers long associated with the sport and is headed by Leo Blank as president. The track operates under the supervision of Ponce de Leon Trotting Association, Inc. Charles Russo is general manager.

The track operates nightly except Sundays — a move which the managers hope will make many new fans for this type of racing.

The raceway can be reached by traveling 18 miles north of St. Augustine on U.S. 1 or going about the same distance south from Jacksonville.

DONNIN HOLDS EXECUTIONER'S AX

. . . museum knights unawed by grim relic

BACK IN 1917 when he was a Chief Petty Officer in the U.S. Navy based at Santo Domingo in the Dominican Republic Irving N. Donnin was the only man in his outfit who spoke Spanish.

"So I helped in purchasing supplies," the 63-year-old North Miamian said.

One day when Donnin was visiting at the home of a provision merchant he admired an old Spanish pistol mounted on a wall.

"Take it, it's only junk to me," said the merchant.

Forty two years and thousands of pistols later, Donnin is one of the outstanding collectors of "historical junk" in the world.

That's an irreverent label, however, to the hundreds of other collectors and sightseers who annually visit Donnin's Historical Arms Museum at 12953 Biscayne Blvd.

* * *

THE RELICS range from suits of armor worn by knights 500 to 600 years ago to a Papal Bull, or proclamation, on parchment, issued by Pope Clement XI, who reigned from 1700 until his death in 1721.

Much of the armor, mounted on mannequins, indicates that "in days of old when knights were bold" men generally were of much smaller stature than today's masculine crop. Gargantuan in contrast, is a suit of armor for a horse that carried its master to battle in the long ago.

There's a two-man cross bow — a counterpart of the modern bazooka — used in the days of the Crusades.

* * *

"The Moors dominated Spain for 800 years and their craftsmanship accounts for the elaborate design and architecture of Spain," Donnin said.

There are relics from our Civil War, including a crude dental instrument to pull aching Yankee teeth There are Union and Confederate uniforms and battle pieces.

* * *

AND THERE'S a Nazi section. In addition to German World War Two weapons, it includes Christmas cards sent by Henrich Himmler, Nazi Gestapo chief, in the years 1939 through 1943.

"After that he didn't send anymore," said Donnin as he passed on to instruments of torture used in the Spanish Inquisition — spiked masks to mutilate the face, screw devices for crushing fingers and a whale oil lamp to torture by burning.

"Under Isabella and Ferdinand — the same Isabella who history tells us sold her jewels so that Columbus could buy ships to discover America in 1492 — Spain persecuted heretics who harbored the slightest variations in Christian beliefs.

"Some of that torturing was done on that pretext for personal vengeance. This Spanish Inquisition went on for a total of 210 years. dungeons, including unpopular members of the Catholic Thousands were thrown into clergy.

Donnin, who hails from Allentown, Pa., lived in Cuba for years where he was a junior partner in Havan's El Encanto Department Store. He and his wife, of Spanish descent, came to Florida in 1939 where he set up his first museum on Miami Beach. They've roamed the world's far places in quest of historical antiques, following through on a sailor boy hobby that led to a livelihood.

At Orange Bowl Pageant

The Easter Story Is Twice-Told

By Adon Taft

Photos by John Walther

ELABORATELY PRODUCED PAGEANT IS LARGEST IN EAST
...two performances presented by Miami Ministerial Association

A FEW modern twists were added to the old story of Easter today in the traditional sunrise pageant in the Orange Bowl.

And for the first time in the nearly 30-year-history of the event, the drama will be repeated at night to take advantage of new-fangled lighting effects. The performance will be at 9:25 tonight.

If the weather is favorable, the crowd tonight is expected to put the day's attendance well over the 50,000 mark to keep the pageant sponsored by the Greater Miami Ministerial Association the largest Easter event in the East.

The pageant got off to a precedent-breaking start this morning when action began at 5:25, well before the dawn which usually is the signal for the opening curtain.

The Rev. Neil Wyrick, pastor of the Palmetto Presbyterian Church who is directing the pageant, timed the scenes so that the actual sunrise added emphasis to the action in progress.

Additional drama making the traditional scenes more real to the modern audience was achieved by such up to date techniques as those displayed in the familiar tableau of Christ praying in the Garden of Gethsemane.

Tricks of sound and lighting enabled Heaven to acknowledge the prayer.

Then there was the lighting effect "identification" of Judas which was repeated each time his name was mentioned.

And the clothing worn by the Christus gave off a glow after the resurrection scene through another adaptation of modern theatrical devices

Also for the first time this year there was a sound tract for the entire pageant, with each scene having its own mood music from the scores to such movies as "The Robe."

Other modern techniques used in staging the pageant included the flash-back approach, with the drama opening with the scene of the crosses on Golgotha. Two of the eight scenes — the Last Supper and the trial before Pilate — were on a revolving stage.

The Rev. Mr. Wyrick said he was using all the tricks of the trade to emphasize the message in the story "because it is the Easter message which makes our pageant something other than just a story."

should know

LESSON LEARNED, HOW'S FOR GOING FOR A WALK?
. . . Junior's kennel name is Carwood Casanova

Photos by Bill Kuenzel

CANINE delinquency is on the rise.

No use kidding ourselves, says Arthur Woods, an authority on the subject. Fido is going to the dogs.

"There was a time when the family dog took orders from his master," Woods explains. "But not any more. These days the dog is the master of the house — and he knows it.

And who is responsible for this sad situation? Look no further, dogowners. The accusing finger points at you.

"A dog is only as good as his master," says Woods sternly. "Dogs are born with intelligence but not with manners. They have to be disciplined, which means work for the master. What would you expect of the dog?"

Thanks to a lifetime interest in dogs, Woods knows exactly what to expect of them. A former restaurant owner, he joined the ranks of professional dogdom 10 years ago and has since earned himself a listing in Who's Who in American Dogdom. He operates a local kennel for beagles, gives private lessons to undisciplined canines, appears on television shows to demonstrate his technique and spends his spare time conducting group classes in obedience training at the Humane Society of Greater Miami.

★ ★ ★

"THE CLASSES are primarily for the masters, not the dogs," he said. "By the time most people get around to entering a dog in obedience classes, you can figure the animal has already become master of the house. My job is to reverse that situation and, believe me, it can take diplomacy."

For some reason, he claims, obedience classes are far more popular in other major cities than in Miami.

"In Los Angeles, for example, there are 10 to 15 classes a week with up to 75 dogs in a class — and there is a waiting list for new students.

A tactful man, Woods will not speculate on the reason for this difference. But he will admit that dogs in that other city, where he also taught, seem better behaved.

★ ★ ★

HIS CLASSES here for bad-mannered dogs and their cowed masters are held in an annex of the Humane Society's headquarters at NW 95th St. A caged lion, a couple of love birds, several monkeys and any other odd animals that happen to be guests of the Society serve as glum spectators. The lion contributes nothing, but Woods believes a cocker spaniel does benefit from association with an Afghan.

"Most dogs will come in contact with other dogs from time to time," he said. "They might as well learn that the sight of a friend — or enemy — is no excuse to forget good manners.

So, despite an air of doggy pandemonium during the early lessons, the dogs go through their paces within sniffing — and fighting — distance of each other. Surprisingly, it works.

Although some breeds have a more difficult time learning manners than others, Woods likes to start the training when the dog is about six months old. He won't say which breeds are the problem children.

★ ★ ★

THE TEACHING technique is one that will seem distressingly familiar to many ex-GI's. When the lesson begins, masters and dogs stand more or less at attention.

"Together, FORWARD," he will say, and a dozen or so dogs will move with their masters. Heel, sit, stay, come, fetch and — most important — NO, are other words added to the dogs' vocabulary.

In theory, each command by the instructor is relayed in the same firm voice by the master to his dog. Dog and human temperaments being what they are, however, there are occasional modifications.

The command "sit," for example, recently ended up as: "Oh, for goodness sake, sit down!"

★ ★ ★

IF ROVER happens to be an introvert, a snob or has developed a neurotic dislike of other dogs, he will change his ways before leaving this class. Woods will put all the dogs at attention, then have one animal and master move among them. A student that responds to this with a sniff, growl or twitch will get a reprimand.

"Cocker," Woods will say to a forgetful spaniel, "sit." In a crisis like this, he seldom bothers to deal through the master.

There have been times, he admits, when the authoritative word failed to impress the student. "Worst one I ever had was a tiny three-

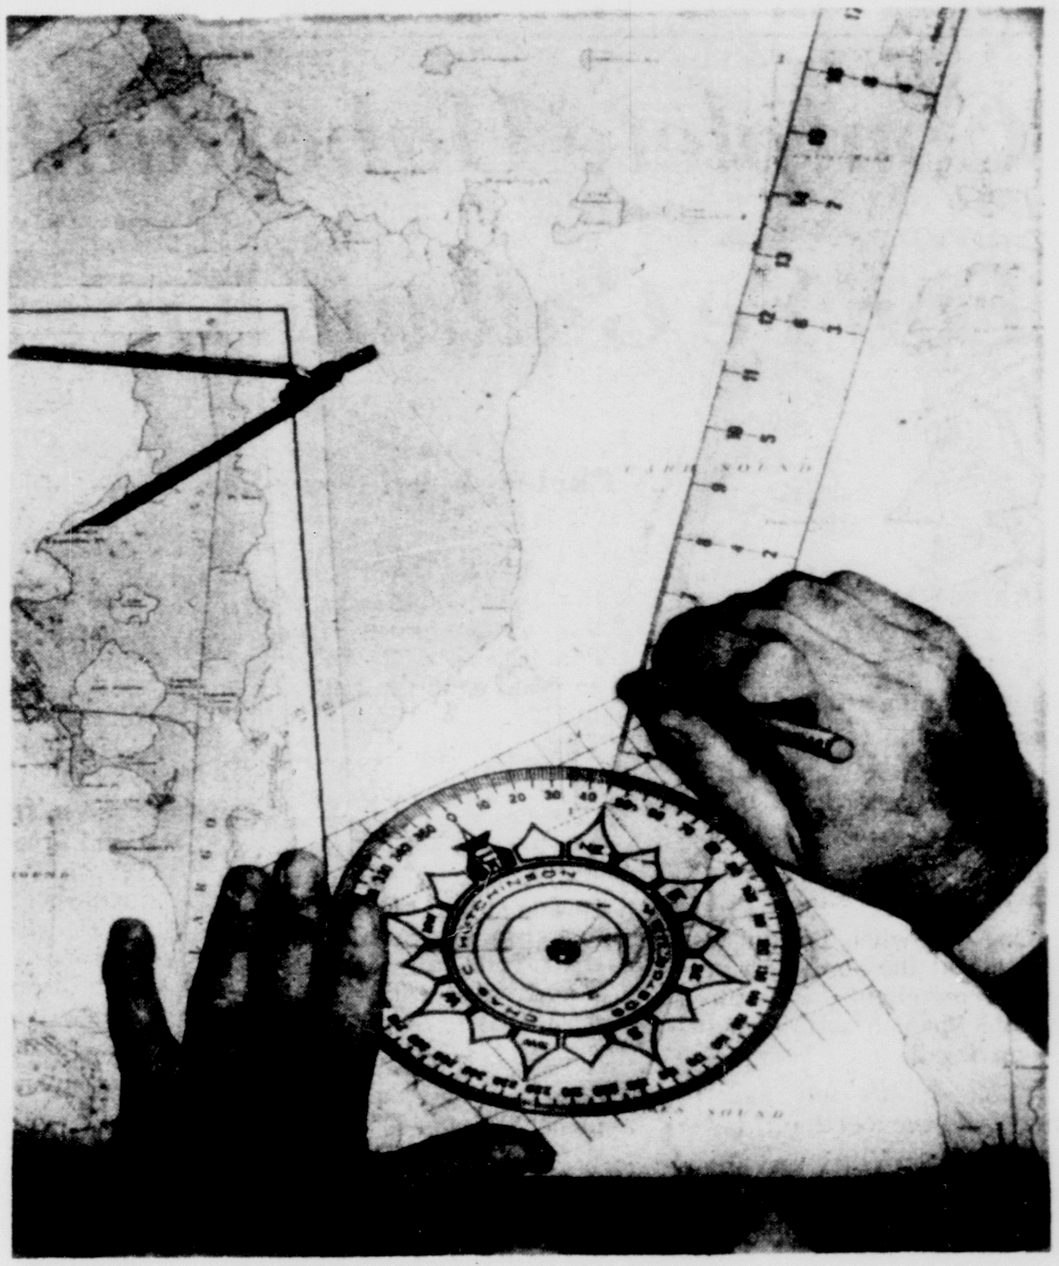
Chart a Course At Bargain Rates

By Steve Trumbull

Photos by Lewis McLain



IF YOU CAN READ A ROAD MAP, YOU CAN READ A CHART

. . . no vast knowledge of science of navigation is necessary

Just as Daddy did, you still get back change from your dollar bill for what can well be the most valuable single item in getting you from here to there — whether you are cruising in a little outboard job or a luxury-packed cabin cruiser.

Yet many of today's newcomers in this field (and they are legion) shy away from this bargain counter deal. They think that a deep seated knowledge of that occult science, navigation, is required for chart reading.

All of which is a lot of stuff. If you can read a road map you can read a chart, for it is a road map of the waterways — but packed with far more useful information than any road map ever printed.

★ ★ ★

FOR EXAMPLE, Coast and Geodetic Survey charts 847 and 848 (printed back to back on the same sheet of paper that costs 50 cents) give you complete information on the Inland waterway from Delray Beach to the north end of Eliott Key — plus everything in and around Biscayne Bay.

Packed into this double-barreled bargain is more information than could be crowded in a sizable book — water depths, channel markers, lighted and unlighted, distinguishing land marks ashore, the character of the bottom, obstructions — and on and on. The same is true on all charts.

For normal small boat use, the explanation of the symbols that you will find printed on this and all other charts is enough to make them understandable.

★ ★ ★

IF YOU WANT to get the maximum information for this — and for all other charts printed both by the Coast and Geodetic boys or by the Hydgraphic office — ask the chart dealer for "Chart No. 1." This isn't a chart at all. It is a booklet illustrating and describing every symbol printed on virtually any English language chart you may buy.

Except for their size C&GS No. 1 and HO No. 1 are identical publications. The cost? A modest 25 cents.

In these waters close to home, just a visual scanning of a chart is a lot of help. If you go cruising, the ultimate hope of every small or large boat owner, you can make the chart far more useful by learning the very simple procedure of "laying off courses" from that chart and then following them with your compass.

★ ★ ★

AGAIN THIS is a process often "explained" in such technical language that the boating newcomer may be inclined to say "t'hell with it!"

Actually it's pretty simple. You do it with the help of another printed aid on the chart called a "compass rose." These are printed in lavender ink, and show a compass face within a compass face. The outer circle is oriented to true north, the inner one to magnetic north.

Now if this paragraph throws you, just forget it. It could be important in some areas, where there is a vast difference (known to the trade as "variation") between true north and magnetic North.

In our area there is only a fraction over one degree of difference. So if you make a blooper and pick the outer instead of the inner "rose" no great harm would be done on anything but a very long haul between markers. You should, of course, take the inner circle because your compass points magnetic north (you hope), not true north.

★ ★ ★

IF YOU'VE survived that, now to the business of using that "rose" to figure the direction of that line you draw from where you are (you hope) to where you want to go.

Lacking other tools, we have done a reasonably accurate job of that by merely rolling a bottle or other cylindrical job from that line to the center of the nearest pictured compass "rose."

Skilled and fussy navigators will shudder at that one, so ask the fellow who sells you a chart to tell you about parallel rulers, or a course protracter.

The rulers, costing around $5, are a pair of straight edges, joined by pivoted bars. Putting one edge on that course line, you "walk" them to that inner compass "rose," and read the course from the "rose."

★ ★ ★

A SIMPLE and inexpensive course protractor that consisted of nothing more than a celluloid reproduction of a compass card and a thread that could be stretched from its center seems to have disappeared from local markets. There is another one that sells for around $3.50 with a celluloid ruler replacing the string.

With either of these the trick is to put the center of the "rose" on the protractor over your point of departure, then stretch the straight edge, or thread, across the center of the nearest "rose" printed on the chart.

Now rotate the protracter "rose" until the straight edge crosses the same degree marks on it and on the printed "rose" on the chart. Then swing the edge back to that marked course, read it off — and that's all there is to it.

★ ★ ★

Most of these also sell parallel rules or course protracters. If this explanation of how to use them is still baffling, get the salesman to show you. It's really quite simple.

Because of space limitations on the outboard cruiser, you will find it far easier to do this "taking off" in advance and on the dining room table. Then, using a hard pencil, figure and mark on the chart all courses you are likely to take.

Learn How Navy Cures Electrolysis

By Don Mucklow

FOR YEARS, corrosion and electrolysis have been a problem to boatmen.

Millions of dollars worth of expensive underwater parts such as propellers, struts, shafts, rudders, hull fittings, keel coolers, ground plates, etc., are rendered useless every year by galvanic corrosion.

The corroding of metals in sea water is caused by an electrical chemical process. A current is generated as the metal corrodes or attempts to revert to its original state. Sea water, being saline, acts as a conductor of the electrodes which are discharged into the water from the metallic underwater fittings of a vessel.

Where To Buy?

Call FR 9-3826 after 9:30 a.m. today. After 24 hours, write to The Miami Herald Shopping Service, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A system of electrolysis control which has been in use for years by the Navy to protect submarines and other Naval craft is based on the principle that a counter current can neutralize the chemically generated current but that the electrodes through which this current is discharged into the water will be destroyed. By grounding completely to the negative side of the boat system all underwater metal parts and by utilizing an electrode mounted through the hull to discharge the counter current, electrolysis can be controlled.

Now, this same principle has been adapted to a kit-type package which can be installed by the "do-it-yourselfer."

The heart of the system is the high efficiency electrode which is mounted through the hull to discharge the counter current. This is connected through the control unit to the positive side of the boat's electrical system.

Note that the vessel must have a negative side for ground. Vessels having positive ground should be reversed so that the negative side of the battery, and system, carry the full ground.

* * *

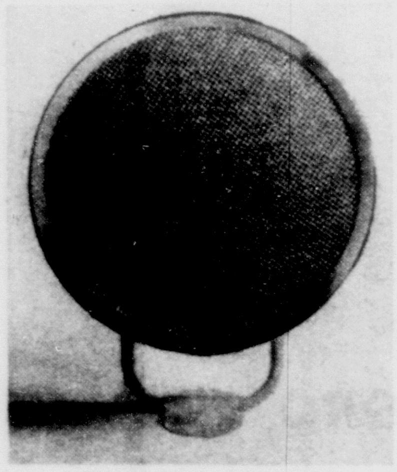
THE POSITIVE electrode is a platinum coated—usually over titanium—button that is mounted through the hull and exposed to the conductive sea water. The electrode is connected to a meter box which contains a rheostat and reading dial whereby the flow of current is regulated.

By using a computation sheet, which comes with the kit, the estimated number of square feet is figured, and the rheostat set to the reading which is furnished with the kit.

After having selected the correct meter setting for your particular installation, it should not be necessary to change this setting unless additional underwater fittings are added to the vessel.

* * *

ALTHOUGH we here in South Florida will not admit that a heater is really necessary aboard the boats in our balmy climate, it may be of interest to cold-natured yachtsmen to know that new heater which gives low-cost heat without flame or smoke, and is completely safe is now on the market.



NO FLAMES
. . . in new heater

This heater delivers up to 3,500 B.T.U.'s per hour and yet, being flameless, safe to use even when flamable gases are present. It requires no maintenance, no cleaning, no spare parts, and operates on a few ounces of fuel per hour.

The heater operates on a catalytic action rather than by actually burning fuel. That is, the heat is generated by chemical action between the fuel and a specially designed screen. It involves the use of precious metals—in this case platinum—with a means of preheating, either by electricity or methylatro fuel, to start the chemical action and produce the heat.

POPULAR RAVEN EASY TO KEEP UP

Today Sailboats Use Less Elbow Grease

By John Bohannan

IN THE OLD DAYS the owner of a sailboat had to spend more time working on it than sailing it, except for the wealthy who could hire everything done for them. To have a craft propelled by wind called for plenty of leisure and good muscles.

Today, thanks to the increased use of plastics and metals and design improvement of craft and gear, most of the drudgery has been removed from sailing. It can compare favorably with power boating for convenience and ease of upkeep. And besides, the wind is free.

One of the biggest steps forward has been the increased use of the fiberglass hull, which is impervious to such forms of deterioration as dry rot, rust, or the ravages of the shipworm.

The fiberglass hull owner finds himself in the enviable position of leaving it bare or not, as he chooses. He can duck the tedious hours of scraping, sanding, varnishing and painting.

Spars of straight-grain spruce are beautiful, strong and resilient, but those of aluminum alloy extrusions require no attention. The owner can forget sandpaper and varnish brushes; he can concentrate on sailing.

* * *

SAILS THEMSELVES have undergone work-free changes. The appearance of nylon, orlon and dacron have provided certain gains in aerodynamic efficiency and ease of upkeep.

Slick, shiny surfaces of synthetic sails cut skin resistance. And not being subject to mildew, they don't have to be dried so thoroughly as cotton sails.

It was found that some synthetics stretched too much to be used satisfactorily as working sails, but new materials came along which didn't "bag out when it blows."

Stitching threads and boltropes with the same shrinking and stretching characteristics as the sail cloth were developed and today synthetics are winning races and holding their shape.

In running rigging, too, synthetic materials are making their appearance.

Nylon has proved superb for anchor lines and dock lines, easing the shock of wave action through its flexibility, and eliminating the need of drying lines before stowing.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Elizabeth Curtis, a Surfside resident enrolled with her miniature poodle, Silver Bits, sums it up this way:

"This may be hard work for Silver Bits, but it's worse for me. Still, it's marvelous what a difference these classes have made in my home. I don't care if he ever 'heels' or 'sits' again. The important thing is that he minds me — and that's wonderful.

Woods expects his enrollment to increase as a result of the new Metro ordinance requiring dogs to be leashed at all times on the street. His theory is that dog-owners, forced now to join their pets on neighborhood strolls, will want cooperation from the other end of the leash.

"After all," he adds, "every other member of the family is expected to attend school. Why should the dog be different?"

PARENTS KNOW WHAT CHILDREN TALK ABOUT GLYN HALL

By Lawrence Thompson

WE HAD GIVEN the children soft drinks and the 3-year-old girl was pouring hers from the bottle into a cup, and then back into the bottle.

"See," she announced, "I even can't spill any."

Now, there's nothing clever or wise about that statement. The only reason I mention it is that it seemed so completely commonplace to me. Accepting the fact that is wasn't a profound observation or a cute utterance, I did more and simply accepted it as a statement of fact. I saw nothing strange or unusual about the way she had expressed herself. She merely was telling me that she wasn't spilling the drink as she poured it.

★ ★ ★

MASTERING a language is a complicated and a difficult task. Once a child has learned how to form words he doesn't have much trouble learning a Tarzan-Tonto-type of "Daddy-Mommy-Me-You-Wanna Dink" communication in which he can make his main wants known and can identify the main people of his world.

But when he beings to think, and when he begins to try to express his thoughts in word language, the kid is faced with a big problem. Fortunately, it never frightens a child. He goes about it as happily as naturally as he tries to learn how to walk or use roller skates, with no embarrassment about the grammatical falls encountered while learning.

★ ★ ★

AS HE begins to master the language of grown-ups, without benefit — or hindrance — of rule books, he expresses himself in a strange tongue. It is very plain talk to the parents, but to strangers is a gibberish that either is incomprehensible or is quaint and laughable.

I was pretty upset recently when a friend visited in our home and kept asking for translations of the very plain statements made by our children.

After that I wrote down some of the things they said, and when I read them later I could hardly believe that my bright babies had used such odd expressions.

★ ★ ★

HERE ARE some of the things they said, and now that the notes are cold I have trouble explaining some of them, although they were completely clear at the time:

"Last night where they are?" (This obviously means where were they — or where was something — at some time previously. I believe that's what it obviously means.)

"My nose is running before." (This was when I called the littlest girl over because of a runny nose. She meant it had been running all day. That's how I interpret it anyway.)

"Long years ago when it was Christmas, did we get this from Santa?" (Anyone could understand that. To them, Christmas was long years ago.)

"Whose toy this is?"

"Both the doll's foots is breaked. But I didn't broke them."

"How many days to tomorrow?"

"He hitted me and it hurted."

"What those are?"

"Who that is?"

"Me supposed get applesauce, too." (This shows the influence of Indians on TV, although I never saw Tonto eating applesauce).

"Have I growed up still?"

"How many years is three?" and "How old is four?"

"My daddy is a porter" and "Daddy types for The Herald." (They mean I am a reporter on The Herald or maybe they mean exactly what they say.)

"Mommy has gone at the store."

"What color the Bunny Rabbit's eyes are?"

"Long years ago I told you couldn't we do finger painting and you couldn't remember." (A few days before I had promised they could finger paint after dinner, then forgot it after dinner).

"You can't do something what I can do."

"Hop on your another foot."

"It hurt real hard."

"I can draw my name."

Well, they make sense in our own family, anyway.

The Fathead Father Type Fading, Says Actor Don Porter

Brighter Days Ahead for Video's Dads

By HAL HUMPHREY

PORTER

HOLLYWOOD — The day of father playing the 14-carat boob on TV's situation comedies is rapidly passing.

Anyway, that is the opinion of Actor Don Porter who has been re-teamed with Ann Sothern on her CBS series by popular demand.

"Women are tired of seeing the male constantly dominated on these shows," Don states. "That's one of the reasons for westerns' being so popular now.

"Men used to be glad to let their wives run the household, but I believe we're beginning to take more of an interest in helping with family problems."

Don turned down the doctor-husband-father role in the Donna Reed show on ABC because he felt the character was made to look too much the sap.

He then signed with 20th Century-Fox for a doctor-husband part opposite Phyllis Avery in a projected TV series titled "I Love My Doctor." Miss Reed's series sold first, and Twentieth couldn't find a sponsor for the Porter-Avery comedy.

This turn of events doesn't do much for Don's argument, but he remains adamant. Miss Sothern evidently goes along with his thinking. he replaced the hen-pecked Ernest Truex because she felt the need for a character who not only offered some sexual attraction, but whom she wasn't dominating.

Don has an understanding, too, which allows him to call for a script rewrite whenever he feels his dignity as a male is being impugned.

Maybe the worm is turning in TV, after all.

THAT LONG BEACH, Calif., mother who gave birth to her fourth baby on a sofa in her living room while watching the late, late movie has given the doctors something to worry about besides socialized medicine.

Mrs. Virginia Smith says that she felt so good afterward that she didn't bother call the doctor, but continued watching the movie — a George Raft thriller called "Lucky Nick Cain."

TV viewing already has been hailed as a great sleep inducer. Now if it turns out to be the perfect anesthetic for mothers in labor, there is no telling what other marvelous therapeutic benefits to mankind are hidden behind that magic tube.

UNLESS CBS comes up with a new time spot that is acceptable to Jack Benny, the veteran funnyman may give up his half-hour alternate weekly series next season.

Jack wants out of that Sunday spot, because he feels it is too early for adults. Getting the squeeze put on him in the ratings by ABC's "Maverick" probably helped him decide this, too.

In any case Jack will be leaving his tobacco sponsor, dissolving one of the longest sponsor partnerships in TV-radio history.

NBC'S board chairman, Robert Sarnoff, went off the deep end again recently in his one-man war against TV critics.

"If the average viewer is constantly told, without contradiction, that he is guilty of a shameful act in watching his favorite programs, then he might begin to approach his set the way the small boy approaches the cooky jar," said Sarnoff before the National Assn. of Broadcasters in Chicago.

Oh, come now, Mr. Board Chairman! Just put a sweeter brand of cookies in that jar, and you need never worry about a sensitive public with a guilt complex shunning you.

It might be a good idea, too, if you put some extra hexochlorophene in those cookies for us critics who can't wash out our mouths right after partaking of your goodies.

NBC HAD to give up filming its new "Bonanza" series at Virginia City, Nev. Rows of parking meters and TV antennae gave the once-famous mining town too modern a look.

Now the network is planning to build its own Virginia City on a Hollywood movie lot.

FINALLY IT can be told. The reason no one could get a call through to Jack Paar while he was holed up in that Beverly Hills hotel is because he registered as "Gunther Berdoo." Fame is hell, ain't it, Jack?

TWO SPECIAL SHOWS will star the inimitable Mary Martin today. She will do one hour-long program for children at 4 this afternoon and another for the grown-ups at 8 tonight. Both are NBC colorcasts on Channel 7. (See story about Mary Martin on Pages 20 and 21).

Hawaiian Documentary on Ch. 7

"Hawaii—Pacific Miracle," an hour-long documentary in full color on America's newest state will be telecast by NBC at 6 tonight over WCKT (Ch. 7).

NBC news correspondent Robert McCormick and a camera crew have done a comprehensive survey, ranging from the tiny fishing village of Milolii, where the original Hawaiians lived, to modern Honolulu.

McCormick also conducts interviews with union leader Jack Hall about Communism; banker Jay Shoemaker about Hawaii's economy; William Ewing, managing editor of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, about race relations.

Also filmed was the opening of the joint session of the Hawaiian legislature and a unique program of entertainment staged for the legislators.

Lure for Ladies in May

CBS Concocting New Daytime Series For Housewives

By Jack Anderson

CBS IS LAUNCHING in May a new series of special daytime TV shows under the general program title, "Woman!". I don't know why the exclamation point unless it's to give the title a neon light effect or that extra garter snap of urgency.

The ratings of shows as well as the number of sets in use in daytime television is so abysmally low, maybe CBS had better put two or three exclamation points after that title.

Lester Cowan, TV network president, says CBS is going to spend as much money on this series as it does on its nighttime offerings. As the program's title implies, it is aimed at the ladies. It will deal with the woman personally, her family, her world and her future, says the CBS announcement.

ANDERSON

The CBS program people are currently slaving over their hot range on an opening group of programs having to do with the topic, "Do They Marry Too Young?"

Hostess Hasn't Been Picked Yet

SUCCEEDING PROGRAMS will go into such topics as "Who Tells Me How to Dress?" "Is the American Woman Losing Her Femininity?" and "You Can't Raise Children by the Book."

CBS says the series will be hosted by a "top television personality" but doesn't identify who it will be.

The project sounds something like the old NBC Home show in aim and format. NBC spent a prodigious stack of folding stuff trying to lure the little woman to her set from the bassinette and washing machine.

NBC's affiliate stations began finding that the little woman preferred watching an old Norma Talmadge celluloid on an opposition station. Presumably the sought-after ladies felt they were housewives Eagle Scout class and needed no instruction from TV on how to wean the baby, or keep their pores from becoming volcanos.

I'd suggest to CBS that if it must get itself involved in this sort of thing that it go easy on the uplift and give the show the air of a typical mid-morning kaffeeklatsch in a housing project.

Arlene's Duds Were Too Short

YOU KNOW WHAT I mean — everybody on the show looking like hell in toreador pants, halter, babushka and sandals. You've got to give the home viewer something she can identify with.

The trouble with Arlene Francis was that she was always turned out too smartly. She'd come on camera every morning in an outfit the average housewife would have to kill her husband for his insurance to buy.

CBS could take a leaf from Jack Paar's book, too. Have everybody on the show speaking frankly — very, very frankly.

What home viewer cares whether "Is the American Woman Losing Her Femininity?" when she can get the latest scoop on what movie ingenue got crocked and beat up her husband the night before. If they can get the ingenue's worst enemy to tell the story, the CBS series will have it made.

The Singing Star's Presentation Of 'Peter Pan' Still Holds Record For Biggest Audience on Video

In both TV performances she will "fly" in an encore from her well-known "Peter Pan" appearance.

The audience for the TV matinee show will be composed of children with whom she'll talk—as she did in her recent tour. She will be assisted occasionally by dancer Dick Sanders and Brazilian guitar virtuoso Luiz Bonfa.

Miss Martin recalled that she rehearsed 16 weeks for "Peter Pan." She has rehearsed even longer for her shows this year—if you can consider a six months road tour a rehearsal for television.

And she does consider it that in a sense.

"You can't separate a television performance from a stage performance," she said. "You can say that it grows from the stage. If you seek perfection, you never can have enough practice. You rewrite and you eliminate and you change. It's the only means of learning what is exactly right."

Few performers can tell you what they'll be doing a year hence. But Miss Martin can as the result of the carefully planned schedule which she and her husband work out.

This will be her only television appearance in 1959. Later in the spring she and Halliday will take a freighter "the only way we completely relax" to Brazil where they'll vacation on their ranch.

In the fall she will star in the Broadway opening of Rodgers and Hammerstein's new show, "Love Song." If the musical is as popular as it is expected to be, she'll be busy with eight weekly stage performances for at least a year.

And then?

"Do you really expect anyone to plan farther ahead than that?" she asked, smiling.

Well, in her case you might.

But she can see as little possibility of her making a television appearance in 1960 as of appearing again this year after today's double performance.

WITH DANCER Dirk Sanders the singing star rehearses selections from "South Pacific" for her colorcast special show tonight.

GARBED FOR HER ROLE as 'Peter Pan', she rehearses song, "I Gotta' Crow," for the children's show this afternoon at 4 on NBC

WARM-UP TIME finds Miss Martin unlimbering to music on balcony of her New York apartment for her adult-appeal show at 8 tonight.

FOR TV'S DOROTHY BROGAN

A Happy Childhood Pays Off

The 'Kid' Who Was Zane Grey's Neighbor Puts to Use Lessons Learned at His Knee

THE BOSSMAN of Four Star Productions, Dick Powell, checks a hat to be worn on video's Zane Grey Theater with Dorothy Brogan, assistant to the producer.

By Ed Misurell

When slender Dorothy Brogan was a little girl, she used to go on long hunting and fishing trips with the kids next door and their dad. Today, a couple of decades later, those same outdoor jaunts are the very things that keep her tied to a desk from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. five days each week and busy a good part of the week end checking scripts in her plush Hollywood apartment.

"Don't misunderstand," said Dorothy smilingly, "I'm not complaining. I'm one of those lucky persons who finds her job thoroughly enchanting. As assistant to the producer of CBS-TV's Zane Grey Theater, the job keeps me on a full schedule all week. Among other things, it calls for me to go over every script used on the program with 'the kids next door'—Loren, Romer and Betty Grey—to preserve the mood and atmosphere found in their father's famed works."

Dorothy's association with the Greys began in Altadena, Calif., where the author had settled his family after a short career as a traveling dentist. "Loren, Romer, Betty Zane and I soon became almost inseparable companions," recalls Dorothy. "Their father and mother treated me as a member of the family. ZG—that's what we called him—loved to go on hunting and fishing expeditions and took us along with him. My own folks encouraged me because they felt the trips would develop character and resourcefulness."

Apparently Grey felt the same way, according to Dorothy. "On one occasion," she related, "he took us into the wild Mexican country to hunt puma. His main purpose for the trip was to teach us how to conserve food and water. He wouldn't let us have water between meals. We learned to control our hunger and thirst by the time the expedition was over and ZG was quite proud of the showing we made in our youthful efforts to live with nature."

During their school years Dorothy and the Greys continued their close friendship. After graduating from high school, she decided that she wanted a career in the entertainment field and went to work for a movie studio and then into the program development department at CBS where her boss was Hal Hudson, the man who originated Gunsmoke on radio.

When Grey died in 1939, his 80 novels, numerous short stories and non-fiction works had made him a millionaire. The family was besieged with offers from movie companies that wanted to adapt a number of his novels to the screen. Loren, who was a psychologist, Romer, administrator of the estate, and Betty Zane, a housewife, called upon Dorothy for help. She played a key role in the sale of a number of Grey's works to the studios.

"Four years ago," related Dorothy, "when westerns started to become popular on TV, the Greys again began to receive many offers for their Dad's stories." Again she was called in as an advisor. After a series of discussions, they decided that they would contact Dick Powell who, as president of Four Star Productions, headed one of the major video organizations in Hollywood. They felt that because of his reputation as an actor and producer and his appreciation of writers, he would do justice to Grey's western stories.

Powell went for the idea and even put a clause in the contract stating that the family had the right to approve all scripts. Because Dorothy was so well versed in the author's works and because of her show business background she was named assistant to the producer — her old CBS boss Hal Hudson. Her duties are many and varied. She helps with the selection of scripts and actors as well as many production details. "I guess," she said with a smile, "you might say I do everything but paint the scenery and act."

Besides all of his published works, the Greys still have a trunk full of big yellow pads covered with their father's slanted script. "ZG," continued Dorothy, "never used a typewriter or a secretary. He always wrote every story in long hand.

"I remember vividly that he had a way of making the toughest lessons dramatically simple, like the time we were returning on his boat from a trip to Catalina. We kids kept talking about the sharks which we were sure inhabited those waters. 'Nonsense,' said ZG, 'there are no sharks here, and jumped overboard and started swimming. After spending a long time in the water, he climbed aboard and said simply, 'See, no sharks devoured me.' Then he made us jump in and swim for a good distance along with the boat. Whatever fear we had was quickly conquered by the experience."

There are many people who feel that Grey's stories are primarily for men, but Dorothy is quick to point out that they are wrong. "ZG wrote about people and emotions," she said, "not just cardboard heroes engaged in shoot-em-ups. I think that's one of the reasons why our stories keep entertaining television audiences of both sexes. They are about people in the West — with the accent on people. As you can imagine I have a tremendous personal feeling for this series. It's not just my livelihood."

Double-header for Mary

MISS MARTIN REHEARSES SONG WITH MARY AND LINDA RODGERS, DAUGHTERS OF COMPOSER RICHARD RODGERS

. . . it's a children's tune written by the girls for today's television show

After Long Absence From Television the Inimitable Miss Martin Returns Today To Do Two Shows, One for Children and Another for Adults on NBC (Ch. 7)

By Charles Mercer

Associated Press Writer

AFTER a long absence from television, Mary Martin returns to the home screen today — not just once, but twice.

On the theory that good things should go in pairs, NBC-TV will present her in a program directed primarily to children from 4 to 5 p.m. and then in a show aimed chiefly at an older audience from 8 to 9 p.m., on Channel 7. But no one objects if everyone watches both programs.

Possibly because of—or possibly in spite of—the fact that Miss Martin appears rarely on television, she undoubtedly can be called the most popular entertainer who appears in the medium.

Unquestionably there is nothing accidental about Miss Martin's television career. It is more carefully planned and developed than that of any performer who appears on TV.

Discussing it the other day over lunch with her husband and manager, Richard Halliday, in their New York apartment, Miss Martin put it this way:

"We like to do what we do. And we don't do anything we don't like.

"My husband and I feel that anything I am to do well on television literally must be grounded on the experience of the stage. An audience teaches you everything — in timing, in selections, in virtually your entire performance. Only after a thorough grounding on the stage is your performance ready for the television audience."

Thus her double performance today is the result of her stage experience on a six-months tour of 83 American cities.

They will be basically solo shows, featuring her in songs she has been singing since she introduced Cole Porter's "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" on the Broadway stage and became a show business sensation.

Man at Mike

Powers Ex-Yankee

NED POWERS
. . . hails from Boston

NED POWERS doubles in brass for WINZ. He is both program director and one of its brightest on-the-air personalities. His appointment in 1957 to an executive post necessarily cut down his mike time. But he keeps his band — or voice — in with a two hour program at noon on Saturdays. Powers, a native of Newton, Mass., wanted singing as a career after attending Boston University, but he married his high school sweetheart and decided vocalizing was too uncertain a way of making a living. An old friend suggested he try radio. He did, with conspicuous success. In six years, from a bit assignment as Santa Claus on a small station he became one of the nation's top disc jockeys on Boston's powerful WHDH. He headed for Miami in 1956 to join WINZ's staff. His way with a mike proved as winning as it had been in Boston. Powers, his wife, Betty, and their two children live on Key Biscayne.

Hans Full

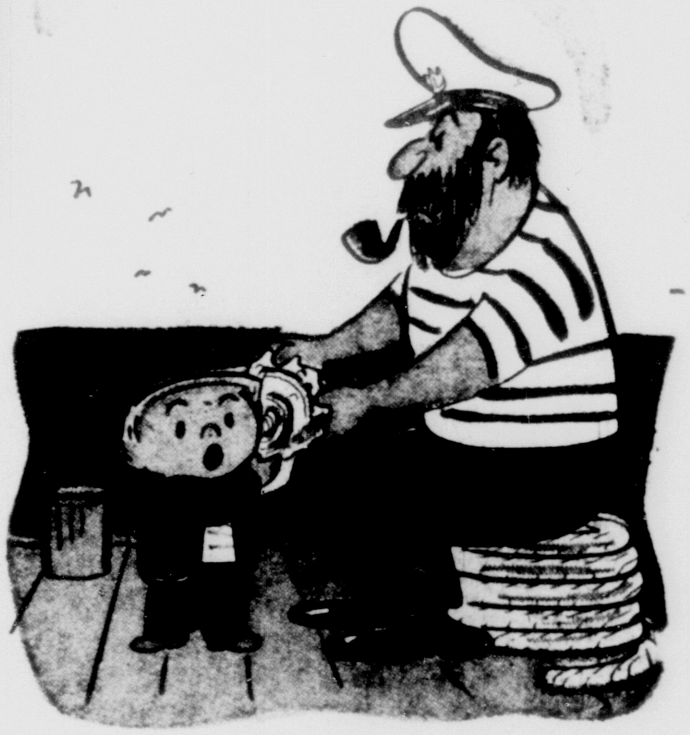
HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — Hans Conried has been signed for the starring role in the "Mr. Belevedere" TV series starting this spring. He's currently on Broadway.

COLORATURA soprano Roberta Peters will sing the role of Gilda in Verdi's "Rigoletto" on the Metropolitan Opera broadcast at 8:15 tonight on WGBS.

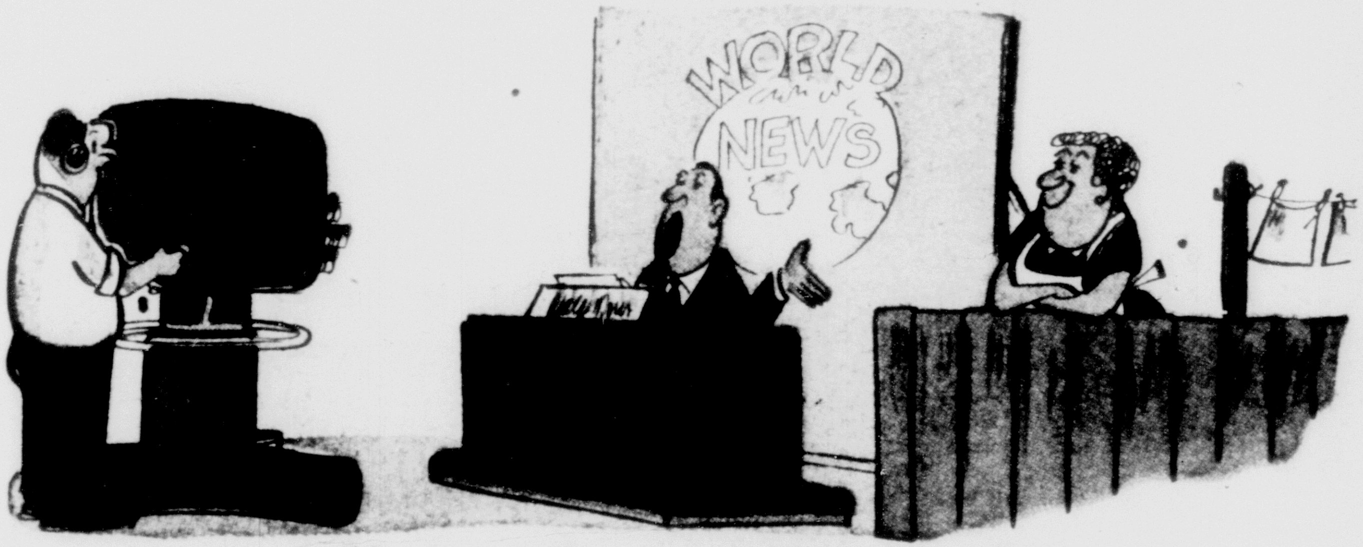
CHANNEL CHUCKLES

By Bil Keane

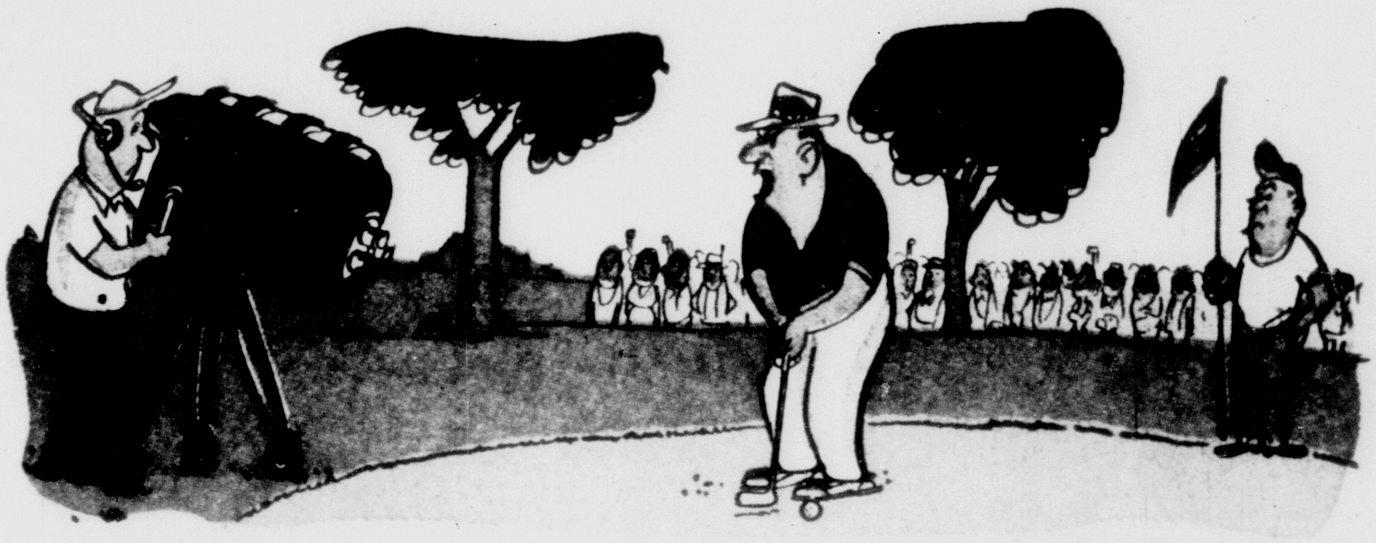
TEEVY



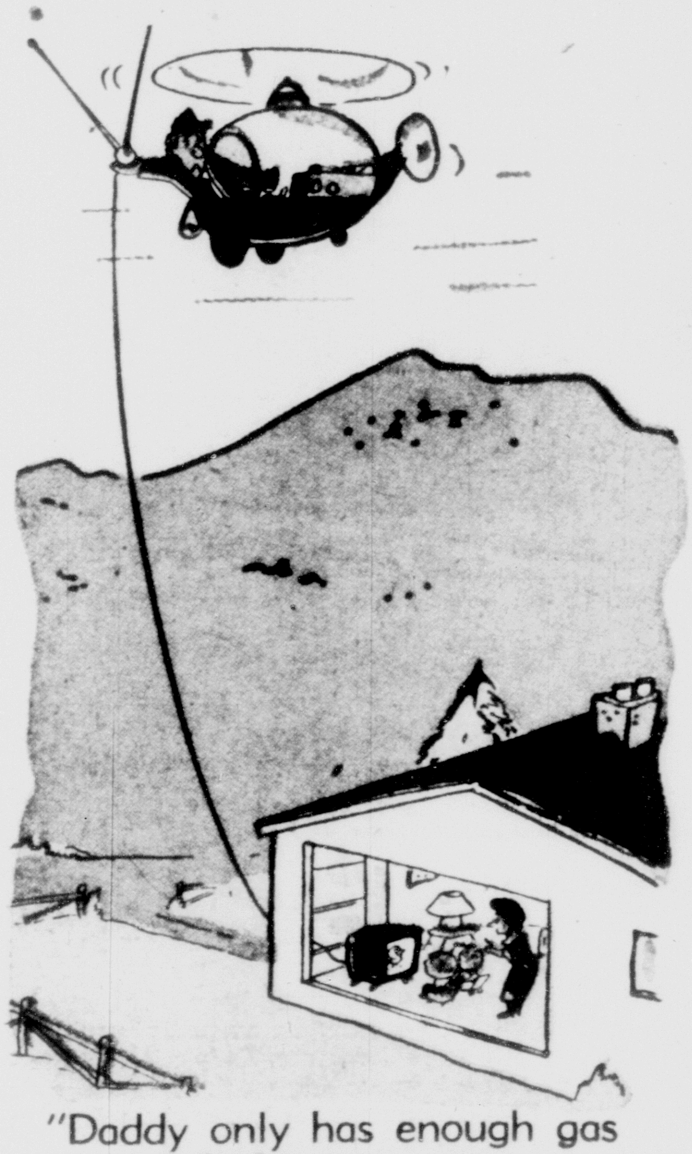
"The sound's okay, but where's the picture?"



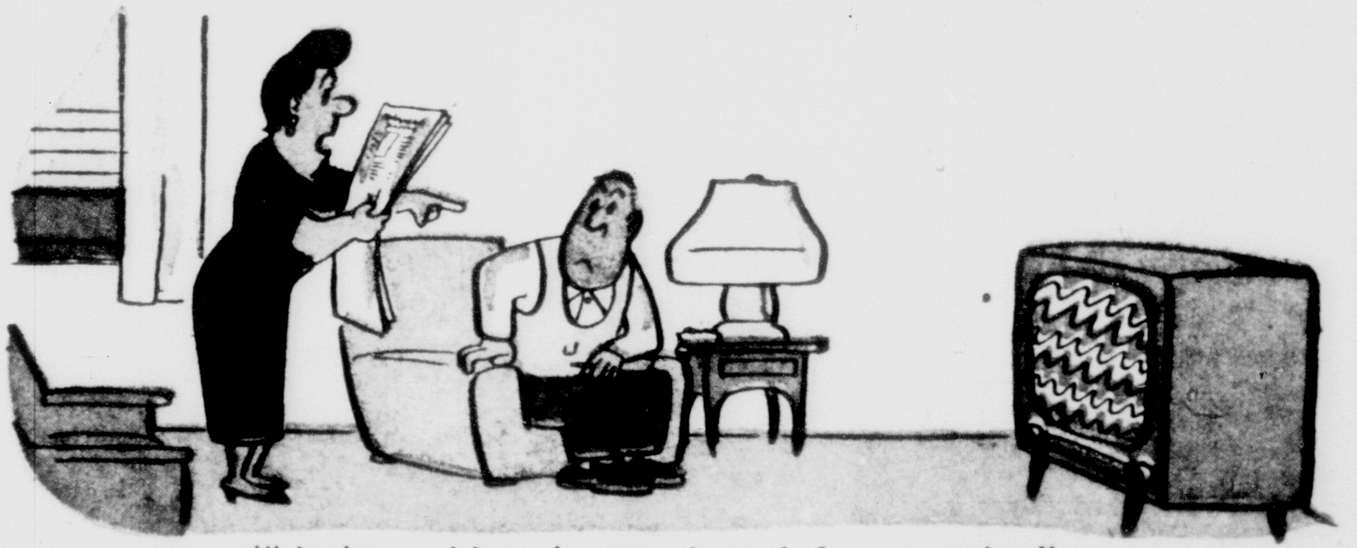
"And now for the local news . . ."



"I have the oddest feeling that someone in Peoria is cracking his knuckles."



"Daddy only has enough gas left for one more program."



"Nothing like that is listed for tonight."

Ask TV Scout

The TV Scout staff in New York and Hollywood will answer interesting questions in this space. We cannot answer by mail or telephone. Mail your questions to Ask TV Scout, Room 1926, 461 Eighth Ave., New York, 1, N.Y.

On March

FRANCES REDINGER, of Wichita, Kan., asks what has happened to Hal March since the demise of The $64,000 Question.

Hal is currently working out a new daytime variety show with Joe Cates, the man who produced The $64.000 Question. It probably will be an NBC show if, and when, it is sold.

Gale's Game

A CAMDEN, N.J. fan of Gale Storm asks why Gale is switching her show from CBS to ABC next season.

GALE

It is not Gale's idea. Her current rating on CBS is considered barely adequate and the network was considering dropping the show altogether. Thus when the ABC opporunity presented itself, Miss Storm didn't hesitate.

Inside Doc

MRS. CARL FIKE, of Paducah, Ky., wants to know who plays Doc Adams on Gunsmoke.

His name is Milburn Stone. He's been in hundreds of movies, sometims playing leads in B films and secondary parts in a few major movies.

Yep, It's Theirs

MRS. JEFFREY MAZZA of Lake Worth, Fla., asks if the "victims" get to keep the surprises awarded to them in the audience by Bill Leyden on It Could Be You.

Yes, though frequently they'd rather not, and if so, they can just return them.

Change Partners

MRS. JEROME LABACH of Allentown, Pa., asks if Jack Webb had a partner on "Dragnet" prior to Ben Alexander.

Yes, when the show first started on television, the part was played by an actor named Barton Yarborough who died after only a few shows were made. Alexander was his replacement.

Up Garner

KATHLEEN GARITY of Philadelphia, asks if "Up Periscope" is James Garner's first starring part in films.

Yes, though he has appeared in many movies, most conspiculously as Marlon Brando's buddy in "Sayonara."

HANDSOME JACK NARZ, EMCEE OF CBS' DAYTIME QUIZ, TOP DOLLAR

WHO'S AFRAID of the big bad monster? Plainly, this unidentified youngster was not when the Frankenstein bad man made an appearance recently on Miami's Flagler street as a promotion for an upcoming horror film on WCKT (Ch. 7).

He's No Elvis or Ricky But—

Sub-debs Dig That Tony Dow

WHO TOLD YOU that the boy next door doesn't still make a young girl's heart go flip-flop?

DOW

Elvis and Ricky may have their hordes of loyal and loud fans, but the 14-year-old boy who doesn't do anything more exciting than stand on his head is apparently just as strong in the swoon department.

For proof, all you have to do is read any of the hundreds of letters a week sent to young Tony Dow, who stars as Wally Cleaver on ABC-TV's popular "Leave It to Beaver" series (Thursdays, 7:30 p.m., Ch. 10.)

Some of the letters that arrive each day are on pink stationery and some are scented. But they all have one thing in common—each is a fervent avowal of eternal devotion to Tony in the handwriting of a junior high girl.

"It's really something," the young actor declares, in young American boy. He reacts to this chocolate malt-Coke set adulation as any young American boy. He turns red with embarrassment.

Just as any of the boys next door, sitting precariously on top of wooden fence, he'd rather fall off than give any sign that he's aware of the attention of the girl he's trying to impress.

As Wally Cleaver in the television series, Tony doesn't do anything extraordinary.

He plays some sandlot baseball. He washes the car for his father (Hugh Beaumont). He carries out the trash for his mother (Barbara Billingsley). And he "takes care" of his little brother, Beaver (played by 11-year-old Jerry Mathers).

Girls seeing "Wally" helping his brother out of a jam, apparently instinctively sense an "availability" in Wally. And Wally, furthermore, is "kinda cute." No need to be jammed in the screaming pack at the stage door for some idol or other; there's some pretty good date bait right across the street — if you get him to notice you.

At the moment though, they're in the same boat as the thousands of fans who write him letters.

He's still flattered — and bashful.

Oh Johnny!

ABC-TV's "The Sammy Kaye Show" probably boasts the largest staff of musicians named Johnny. There's trumpeter Johnny Amoroso, saxophonist Johnny McAfee, drummer Jack "Johnny" Jennings and accordionist Johny La Padula. Also, there's trumpeter J Blasingame Bond who conducts the Dixieland Band. Right. J stands for Johnny.

REHEARSING for his new ABC show which has its premiere at 8:30 Tuesday night on WCKT (Ch. 7) is personable Jimmy Rodgers with Connie Francis who will be the distaff regular on the show. The show is half of the replacement for the Gobel-Fisher show.

Rodgers, Blues Replace Fisher

Two new half-hour shows will have their premieres this week as replacements for the Gobel-Fisher show on NBC over WCKT (Ch. 7) from 8 to 9 p.m.. Tuesdays

Into the 8 p.m. spot goes Pete Kelly's Blues, a Jack Webb creation, starring William Reynolds at Peter Kelly, a Kansas City jazz musician who gets involved in the underworld of the turbulent 1920's.

It will be followed at 8:30 by the Jimmie Rodgers Show, starring the 25-year-old guitarist-singer in a half hour of musical variety. Vocalist Connie Francis, the Kirby Stone Four and Buddy Morrow and his orchestra will be the show's regulars.

FIRM GRIP is kept by Edward "Kookie" Byrnes on shapely Laurie Mitchell who plays a gun gal in the Friday night episode at 9:30 of ABC's 77 Sunset Strip on WPST-TV (Ch. 10). Kookie tries to keep her from robbing a bank.

Spring Special on Channel 4

An hour-long music and variety special, "America Pauses For Springtime," will be telecast by CBS at 7:30 Monday night over WTVJ (Ch. 4) with an all-star list of participants.

These include Margoe and Gower Champion, Genevieve, Jane Wyman, Robert Merrill, Herb Shriner, Jean Ritchie, the West Point Choir and Air Force Chorale, and golfers Bobby Jones, Arnold Palmer, Doug Ford, Jack Burke Jr. and Byron Nelson.

The program will originate in New York and will feature remote pickups from throughout the United States.

Nasser Gains in Sudan

Mahdi's Death Opens Road

By PAUL GHALI
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

PARIS — The death of 73-year old Si Abder Rahman el Mahdi in Khartoum last week is a major political event for all the people of the Nile valley.

GHALI

For the United Arab Republic's president, Gamal Abdel Nasser, it opens the road for a long-awaited agreement with the Sudan government over the disputed Nile waters. This agreement is indispensable to construction of the high Aswan Dam Nasser has been dreaming of ever since he came to power in 1954.

The Mahdi was the son of the Dervish leader whose followers killed the British governor general, George Gordon, in 1885. Head of the important Ansari sect, he was also the biggest landowner in Sudan and a top political figure in Khartoum.

Although his influence had tended to wane after a military junta took over political power in July 1958, the Mahdi was still the nominal head of Sudan's strongest political formation, the Umma Party.

He maintained good personal relations with successive Egyptian leaders but he strongly opposed any Egyptian encroachment in Sudan affairs. In point of fact, his dream was to establish the Sudan as a monarchy and himself as king.

To visiting correspondents in Khartoum, the distinguished Mahdi, at least before the 1958 revolution, was easily accessible. The old turbaned religious leader received them in the gardens of his sumptuous palace in Khartoum, surrounded by a retinue of sons, grandsons, assistants and servants.

He was a loyal opponent of the British rule as long as it lasted and a staunch nationalist for his country. His social views were somewhat conservative. As manager of his own large estate and cotton plantations, he was astute, realistic and often ruthless.

As long as he lived there was little chance that Khartoum would ever get along well with Cairo.

The disappearance of the Mahdi's political influence did not take long to be felt in the relations between the Sudanese and the Egyptians.

His death hardly had been officially announced when Gen. Ohammed Talaat Farid, Khartoum's minister for information, declared that Sudan was "ready to come to an agreement with the sister nation Egypt on all questions dividing the two countries, particularly over the problem of the Nile waters."

The late Mahdi always feared such an agreement on the ground that Egypt would insist on getting the lion's share of the precious Nile waters. The Mahdi's vast plantations grow cotton that competes with Egypt's best brands. Any water arrangement with Cairo might have affected irrigation in some parts of his estates.

Eating Habits Are Confusing

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The LaSalle String Quartet is home again after battling travel problems — and food customs —of Europe on a three month concert tour.

"Each country must be met differently in terms of restaurants," said Walter Levin, first violinist. "In England you must begin the concert early because the restaurants all close at nine.

"In Scandinavia, you are invited to a post-concert supper.

"In Italy, there is no problem; you can eat before, during and after the concert."

Despite these problems, only cellist Jack Kirstein was affected. He lost 12 pounds on the tour.

Tongue Twister Hikes Eyebrows

RICHMOND, Va. —(AP)— The word concasphinsulated on a Chesterfield County building permit caused some furrowed brows. It referred to the type roof for an industrial building. Miss Patricia Barbour, secretary to the building inspector, solved the problem.

She had overlooked putting in the periods. the next permit read "Conc.asph.insulated." Meaning concrete, asphalt, insulated.

Christ's Life Was Humble And His Teaching Simple

NEW YORK — (AP) — His message was a simple one: "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." (John 8:12).

His pulpit was on the seashore, the mountainside, the village street — and wherever else He could find listeners. He was a man of miracles. He calmed the raging sea, raised the dead, cured the afflicted. He was Christ, the Savior.

By modern standards, His teaching missions covered a small area. His field of ministry extended but 120 miles. His ministry was believed to have lasted from 18 months to three years, during which He was constantly on the move followed by His faithful disciples.

Christ's ministry began after His baptism in the lower Jordan River by John the Baptist. Scholars believe He was about 30 years of age at the time. From there, He went to the Sea of Galilee where He was joined by His first disciples.

His teachings were to take Him and the disciples along the north shore of Galilee, into northern Judea around the Dead Sea where He added more disciples, to the area above Galilee and to the Mediterranean shore.

If Christ had a headquarters for His ministry, it was Capernaum, on the shore of Galilee. Also in the area, He performed His miracle of fish and loaves, calmed the angry waves, and delivered the Sermon on the Mount.

The group traveled in poverty, with its little money entrusted in the care of Judas, who later was to be the betrayer.

Christ faced opposition from scribes and priests throughout His ministry. They regarded Him as a transgressor who spread false words. His fame as a miracle-maker spread, though He did not wish it to do so. Rather, He wanted His words to be known.

Finally, after the Pharisees heard that Christ had called Himself the Bread of Life, and heard of the Sermon on the Mount, a delegation went to Jerusalem to present the case against Him to Pilate and the high priest.

Christ was not to be called immediately to answer the charges. He did go to Jerusalem with His disciples to celebrate the Feast of the Tabernacles which marked the end of the year and the bountiful harvest.

While there, the priests and scribes again charged blasphemy when Christ preached in the temple, helped the accused adultress, and raised Lazarus from the dead.

At last came Christ's final and triumphant entry into Jerusalem. According to the Scriptures, He rode upon a young ass while His followers joyously waved palm fronds.

Inside Jerusalem's gates lay His destiny — the betrayal by one of His own, the arrest, His trials before the priests, Herod and Pilate and, finally, the Crucifixion and the Resurrection.

Doctor Saved His Leg in Wartime Italy

Lawmaker Finds Old Friend

ALBANY, N. Y. — (AP) — Fifteen years ago, an Army surgeon toiled over a badly wounded Negro soldier in the north of Italy.

WATSON

The soldier, a young private, had been hit in the leg by German shellfire.

At first, the surgeon thought the leg would have to come off. Then he thought he'd take a chance and try to save it.

The operation worked. But the soldier had no opportunity to express the appreciation he felt.

The young man, James L. Watson, returned to his home in New York City, became a lawyer, and, in 1954, was elected to the State Senate from the 21st district.

Something he remembered from the war made him think his doctor had come from Albany, so he searched for him here — without success. He thought the name was Dr. Plank.

The story of his search was publicized in Albany recently. A hospital worker who read the story called the senator. A Dr. Arthur Plankers of Dubuque, Iowa, was listed in a national medical directory, he said, but there was no Dr. Plank.

Watson telephoned Dubuque. Dr. Plankers said he was a surgeon and remembered the case well. He said another doctor in the Army tent in Italy had come from Albany. The soldier, in his pain and shock, had misunderstood.

The delighted senator said he hoped to arrange a meeting soon.

"I sure was happy to hear from the doctor who saved my leg," he said.

Lifeboat to Get Niagara Test

LONDON —(UPI) — An "unsinkable" lifeboat will have its indestructibility tested the hard way next June — over Niagara Falls.

Its inventor, Harold Gaskin, said he had received permission from Canadian authorities to send the 26-foot long laminated wooden boat over the 162-foot-high falls.

He Exercises in Thin Air

Scientist Lives High to Find Ways to Stay Alive in Space

If and when a meteor knocks a hole in a pressurized space ship, everyone aboard will die. Except, perhaps the man who has developed high altitude tolerance.

The precious extra seconds granted by special training at extreme heights may enable the spaceman to plug the hole and save his ship. So believes this Air Force researcher, German-born Dr. Bruno Balke, who is directing the U.S. study of the situation.

—Associated Press Photo

Alpine Sprints May Save U.S. Spacemen

... sergeant follows Dr. Bruno Balke to top

SAN ANTONIO, Texas —(AP) — On some lunch hours or afternoons, 51-year-old Dr. Bruno Balke leaves his office and sprints off on a cross-country run.

Another day, he sits munching a sandwich and reading a book inside a steel chamber breathing air exactly like the thin, oxygen-starved air four miles or higher above the earth.

Other times, the slim, athletic physiologist is climbing mountains in Colorado, or Peru.

It is all part of special physical training which he believes could mean life instead of death in case of accidents to space ships.

A meteor puncturing a space ship could let air escape from the sealed cabin, for example. Occupants would black out and die within a matter of seconds.

But the man acclimated or accustomed to thin air could live on for precious extra seconds, maybe long enough to plug the leak or take other steps for survival, Dr. Balke says.

America's first spacemen may get this kind of training — perhaps atop Mt. Evans near Denver.

Not all space experts are convinced this pre-training would be helpful — some think developing this ability drains a person's physical reserves or abilities in other ways.

Living and exercising high up on mountains is the most efficient way of developing the tolerance for survival in thin air, says Dr. Balke, a German-born researcher at the famed Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Air Force Base.

Pressure chambers in which air pressure can be reduced to high altitude levels provides a dramatic test of this tolerance.

The average person blacks out after only five minutes at 25,000-foot altitude. But "if you are acclimated to a mountain altitude of 14,000 feet, you can stay conscious indefinitely," Dr. Balke says.

At 50,000 feet most people would conk out instantly, even if they were breathing pure oxygen.

But Dr. Balke got along for half an hour at 58,000-foot simulated altitude, without wearing a pressure suit, breathing from an oxygen mask, after weeks of mountain life and training.

"That would be about like walking around on the surface of Mars without a pressure suit," the bearded scientist remarks.

"You slowly lose the high altitude tolerance, but you can keep it by spending a half hour or hour a day in a pressure chamber at simulated high altitudes."

Running and breathing exercises developed Balke's ability to stay conscious at 58,000 foot altitude.

He used a mask which pumped oxygen to his lungs. But, unless he took care, the oxygen could expand, bursting his lungs. So he had to take short breaths, controlling his breathing, and particularly developing muscular ability to force the air out again.

Some of Balke's training studies — including rugged mountain hikes lasting nine hours — are carried out on Mt. Evans where four universities — Colorado, Princeton, Harvard and MIT — maintain a high altitude laboratory and dormitory at 10,700 feet.

Higher up, at 14,000 feet, is a shack which can sleep six to eight men.

Dr. Balke says it would be a suitable place for part of the training of spacemen. While they were developing emergency reserves to withstand thin air, they could also be getting instruction in space navigation and survival.

Gun-Bottle Scrap Lost By Robber

NEW YORK —(AP)— A robber was fatally beaten at a Brooklyn store during a wild battle featuring bullets versus bottles.

The holdup man fired four shots and missed with every one. Three store defenders, wielding bottles, did not miss.

Police identified the dead robber as Armstead Small, 24, a Negro.

They said he burst into Freddy's Supermarket, shouted "This is a holdup" and fired a shot into the ceiling.

In the store were the owner, Alfredo Rios, 42; his brother-in-law, Miguel Valentine, 32, and a customer, Jose Roma, 26.

Rios flung a bottle and struck the robber in the head. Small began firing at the three men as they closed in on him.

They gave him a severe beating and the proprietor also stabbed him with a butcher's sword-like knife-sharpening tool. He died a short time later.

Deceptive Sobs

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. —(UPI) — Court observers were sure they knew how a $200,000 negligence suit against the New York Central Railroad would turn out when one juror broke down and cried during the testimony. However, the Supreme Court jury decided in favor of the railroad.

Three Wakeful Days

Lack of Sleep Makes Mind, Muscles Falter

SALT LAKE CITY — (AP) — What happens to men forced to go 72 hours without sleep?

Three University of Utah scientists say seven volunteer medical students who tried it: Had temporary periods of mental confusion, lack of muscular coordination, even hallucinations.

Were more prone to hallucinations when stimulated by LSD-25, a vision-provoking drug.

Suffered no noticeable physical damage or impairment of body metabolism.

Maintained a "persistent and sustained interest in food and sex."

Psychiatrists Eugene L. Bliss and Lincoln D. Clark and Biochemist Charles D. West reported their findings in Friday's issue of the American Medical Association's archives of neurology and psychiatry.

Their tentative conculusion: Prolonged insomnia may sometimes be a critical factor in bringing on attacks of schizophrenia, the most common type of mental illness.

Their findings are the first official report on tests conducted on the volunteers here. All seven were kept awake 72 hours in what the article calls a "friendly, social situation," while the doctors kept close tab on their physical and mental reactions.

France Frowns At 'Creeping'

PARIS — (AP) — April 1 has been set as J-Jour (D-Day) by the Office of French Vocabulary in its offensive against English and Americanism creeping into the French Language.

It's putting up a loving cup for the French newspaper that lapses least that day into borrowed English words that have perfectly good French equivalents, such as strip-tease, pipeline and parking. One thing an aspirant paper had better not mention opened recently on the Champs-Elysees, a drugstore.

Newest Drink 'On Iceberg'

WALTHAM, Mass. —(UPI) — Here's something new in the way of drinks: "Whisky on iceberg."

Frederick J. Sanger of the U.S. Corps of Engineers here says that road-building crews in northern Greenland got a big kick out of taking a piece of iceberg and pouring liquor over it.

The iceberg since it's filled with air, crackles and pops.

History To Repeat

SITKA, Alaska —(AP)— Sitka's Castle Hill, one of this huge state's most historic spots, will again become the scene of a history-making event July 4.

It was on Castle Hill on Oct. 18, 1867, that Russia formally signed over to the U.S. the vast, unexplored territory of Alaska for seven million dollars.

On next July 4, state officials said, the first 49-star flag to be raised in this newest state in the Union will be raised on Castle Hill.

This Autoist Quick Thinker

LONDON — (UPI) — Police gave chase to a motorist on the suspicion he was a thief.

The motorist stepped on the gas, was clocked at 70 miles an hour, smashed into another car and fled into an apartment house.

Through a back door and back streets he raced to the nearest police station to report: He had been chased by thieves.

Student Learns But Can't Vote

SAN DIEGO, Calif. —(AP)— Bill Hartley, campaigning for city council, was stopped by a university student and spent 20 minutes answering questions about the American electoral system.

"Are you registered to vote?" Hartley finally inquired.

"Oh, no," explained the youth. "I'm from Saudi Arabia."

Scalpel's Swish Ends Court Suit

LA JOLLA, Calif. —(AP)— A ventriculucordectomy settled a law suit.

It was performed by Dr. J. E. Spoon, veterinary surgeon, to correct the noisy barking of Maxie, a dachshund—reducing it to something like a gentle cough.

Miss Priscille G. Ferry, who the barking had bothered, then withdrew her suit against Miss Sara G. Hayden, Maxie's owner.

Firemen Winning Their Battle Against Fat

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Philadelphia firemen aren't taking any chances on a bulging midriff delaying them as they slide down those brass poles to answer alarms.

The smoke eaters hereabouts are waistline-conscious — so much so that 11 have lost a total of 474 excess pounds in a campaign against fat.

It all began four years ago, when the department began requiring a regular physical checkup. On the first go-round of examinations, it was found that one of every seven firemen was overweight.

It's occupational, of course. Firemen often have long spells of just sitting around, a beam-broadening occupation at best.

Dr. Saverio Brunetti, chief departmental physician, told of the progress the firemen have made in their assault of avoirdupois.

Of some 360 who were originally found to be oveweight, virtually all have slimmed down to proper size, he said. The rest are still working off the excess—mostly by eating less—and are expected to leave the ranks of the rotund shortly.

The champion weightloser of the department got rid of 77 unwanted pounds in 3½ years, Dr. Brunetti reports.

All of which goes to prove that fat can be fought as well as fire—but fire is easier for most.

Red China Abolishes Rule of Dalai Lama

Puppet Regime Set Up

TOKYO — (AP) —Red China Saturday abolished the Dalai Lama's regime in Tibet, elevated the rival Panchen Lama in his stead, and imposed military rule on the rebellious Himalayan land.

Peiping asserted the revolt that erupted March 19 was crushed in two days and 4,000 rebels were captured. But Red China admitted rebel bands fought on in various parts of the land of the Lamas. Peiping asserted these bands were being mopped up.

Broadcasts from the capital of Red China asserted the 23-year-old Dalai Lama was abducted by the rebels and "under duress" tore up the 1951 treaty with Red China under which he was allowed to retain nominal rule.

This tended to bear out reports from India and elsewhere that the Dalai Lama had made good his escape from Lhasa, the capital, and had joined the rebels, probably in southern Tibet.

Presumably, the Dalai Lama is with the fierce Kampa tribal warriors, who from positions in southern Tibet have been fighting the Chinese Reds for three years.

The Panchen Lama last was reported at his religious headquarters at Shigatse, southwest of Lhasa. The 21-year-old spiritual leader now may be in Lhasa. He is considered the spiritual equal of the Dalai Lama but traditionally wields no temporal power. He generally has been considered more complaisant toward the Communists than the Dalai Lama.

Peiping asserted the command center of the revolt was Kalimpong, in northern India where the trade routes wind in from Tibet.

Nationalist China airdropped supplies to the rebels in their stronghold south of the Tsangpo River, Peiping said, thus supporting Chinese Nationalists' claims that they have been aiding the rebels. The Tsangpo River flows south of Lhasa.

Peiping said "radio stations were set up there by agents sent by the imperialists and the Chiang Kai-shek (Nationalist) clique to further their intrigues."

Trouble broke out, Peiping said, after the Dalia Lama was scheduled to attend a theatrical performance in the auditorium of the Tibetan military command. Accounts from Tibetans reaching India have said the Dalai Lama was ordered by the Red Chinese to come without companions and this raised fears for his safety among his followers.

Sunny Fortune Splits $400 Prize

By SUNNY FORTUNE
Herald Puzzle Editor

Sunny Fortune's personal Easter rabbit spread $200 eggs from Miami to Key West today—splitting the $400 prize for his puzzle between a pair of women in the two cities.

"Good for me," whooped Mrs. R. T. May of Miami. "I'm so proud I could cry," was the reaction of Mrs. Ollie Jenkins of Key West.

Ten other persons just missed a share of the eggs by a rabbit's whisker when they were one word off the correct answers.

SUNNY

They'll have another chance this week as Sunny drops a fresh $300 into the nest and starts building a fund for the next winner. You'll find the puzzle waiting for you on Page 4-B.

For both Mrs. May, of 490 NE 61st St., and Mrs. Jenkins of 912 Whitehead St., the prize money came "just at the right time."

Mrs. Jenkins, who has been working the puzzles about a year, said her part of the prize would go for bills and a Spring outfit for her 10-year-old daughter, Sharon.

The $200 meant an Easter outfit for Mrs. May, too. "Now I can splurge," she said. "That shopping trip I was going on will become a real tour."

Neither woman takes time from her domestic activities to make a practice of entering contests. "But I've been working this one since it started," Mrs. May said, "and just decided I wouldn't give up."

Mrs. R. T. May
. . . 'good for me!'

Car Slams Into Tree; Five Killed

WASHINGTON, Pa. —(AP)— An auto ran off a highway and smashed against a tree near the town of Slovan early Saturday, killing all five occupants.

Killed in the crash were Reymond Ayers Jr., 21; his wife, Mary, 20; their two children, Dolly, about five, and Robert, about eight months; and Ayers' sister, Hazel.

State police said the Ayers lived in Cleveland, Ohio, and apparently were returning home after visiting relatives in Shinnstown, W. Va., where they formerly lived.

Clouds Won't Spoil Day

There may be some clouds but there shouldn't be much rain in Florida on Easter, weathermen said Saturday.

Lots of sunshine had been forecast all over the state for Saturday before a stationary weather front, which had confined itself to North Florida, started drifting south.

"As long as it stays around we should have partly cloudy to cloudy weather, but no rain to amount to anything," said Forecaster Phil Ackerman.

Man Jailed In Fight to Burn House

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — (AP) — An irate home owner is in jail for trying to convince firemen with a club that he had a right to set fire to his own house.

"I can set fire to my own house if I want to, and you guys can't interfere," Calvin Stout, 31, shouted at firemen arriving to put out a fire in his living room.

Police said they finally had to club Stout, who had been threatening them with a chair leg and a bedpost. He was jailed on charges of disorderly conduct, assault and battery, resisting arrest and interfering with firemen.

Stout's wife reported he had set fire to an overstuffed chair after a family argument. She turned in the alarm.

Grim News Awaited Cinderella

NEW YORK — (UPI) — A pretty 13-year-old ballerina danced the role of Cinderella for the Perry Como television show Saturday, unaware that when the ball was over, she would be told her father was dead.

Sharon Lerit's father, Sanford, 43, died in a Newark, N.J., hospital Friday night. He had been ill 10 years and in a hospital for 11 weeks. But Sharon's mother, Florence, decided to bear her grief alone, until after Sharon had appeared before a nationwide television audience.

The members of the cast and others associated with Como show kept silent about Sharon's loss, so her mother could break the news to her after she returned home to Newark Saturday night.

The news was kept from Como, too. His associates said they had drawn a curtain of silence about Sharon's loss from him because it would upset him to know.

"He's a softy," a source close to Como said. "If he knew about it, he'd take her off the show to spare her from the possibility of being hurt."

The Como show on the National Broadcasting Co. television network, was in rehearsal throughout the day, and Sharon did not miss a step.

Everyone tried to treat her as though nothing had happened, but it was difficult with a score of reporters and photographers clamoring for photographs of the little Cinderella.

"We are sure she doesn't know her father is dead," a program official said. "She has been very excited over her chance to be a TV star. It is difficult for us to treat her as though nothing were wrong, but we have really worked at it."

Sharon, an eighth grade pupil who looks like a miniature version of the famous ballerina Maria Tallchief, wants to be a ballet dancer when she grows up.

She danced the Cinderella role in Como's Easter show last year, and was invited for a return engagement as the prima ballerina of a troupe of 12 little girls from the New York City Ballet School.

"I'm sure her father would have wanted her to go through with it," Mrs. Lerit said.

SEC Weighs Suspension

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Securities and Exchange Commission has announced it may suspend trading in the stock of a variety store chain, the H. L. Green Co. The firm has disclosed an apparent shortage approaching three million dollars.

Announcement of the shortage came only an hour after the 35-year-old president and director of the chain, Maurice E. Olen, resigned his $49,600-a-year post.

Paul Windels, regional administrator of the SEC, confirmed the apparent shortage and said the sale of Green stock may be suspended before the New York Stock Exchange opens on Monday.

Prayer for Today

Oh, Blessed Night When Christ Rose

By JIM BISHOP

Go With God

St. Gregory, the first of 16 Popes of that name, was a patrician who held a high political post in Rome before he felt the call to religious service. He then gave his wealth to the poor and made his home into a monastery. He rose to be Pope, from 590 to 604. As Pope he sent St. Augustine to effect the conversion of Britain to Christianity. His name also is associated (perhaps incorrectly) with the arrangement of so-called Gregorian mode or chant. The following Easter prayer comes down from him.

It is very meet and right, with all powers of heart and mind, and with the service of the lips, to praise the invisible God, the Father Almighty, and His Only-Begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who paid the debt of Adam for us to the Eternal Father, and effaced the bond of the ancient guilt by the Blood poured forth in loving-kindness.

For this is the Paschal festival in which Thou first didst bring our fathers, the children of Israel, out of Egypt and madest them to pass over the Red Sea dry-shod.

This, then, is the night which cleared away the darkness of sin by a pillar of radiance.

This is the night throughout the world which now restores to Grace and unites to holiness believers in Christ, separated from worldly vices and from the gloom of sin.

This is the night in which Christ broke the bonds of death and ascended from the grave, the conqueror. For to be born had been no blessing to us, unless we could have been redeemed.

Oh, the wondrous condescension of Thy loving-kindness towards us!

Oh, the inestimable tenderness of Thy love! To redeem the servant, Thou gavest up the Son.

This holy night, then, puts to flight offenses, washes away sins, and restores innocence to the fallen and joyousness to the sad.

Oh, truly blessed night, which spoiled the Egyptians and enriched the Hebrews — the night in which Heaven and earth are reconciled!

We pray Thee, Lord, therefore, that Thou wouldst preserve Thy servants in the peaceful enjoyment of this Easter happiness; through Jesus Christ our Lord, Who Livest and Reignest with God the Father, in the Unity of the Holy Ghost, God now and forever: Amen.

Joyful News : 'He Is Risen'

the early apostles' thoughts? The answer is abundantly clear in all of the gospels, in the book of Acts and in Paul's letters.

The earliest account of Jesus' resurrection appearances is given in Paul's first letter to the church at Corinth:

"For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins in accordance with the scriptures, that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day in accordance with the scriptures, and that he appeared to Peter, then to the twelve.

"Then he appeared to more than 500 brethren at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have fallen asleep. Then he appeared to James, then to all the apostles. Last of all . . . he appeared also to me."

It is sometimes said that the resurrection of Jesus is "the best-attested fact in history," because the whole Christian church bears witness to it.

Those who make this statement usually have two ideas in mind.

First, they mean that the existence of the church can hardly be explained except in terms of the resurrection. As one scholar has written, "it is easier, even for a non-believer in miracles, to accept the fact of the resurrection than to find any other adequate explanation of the change that came over the disciples within three days after they had fled Jerusalem in terror."

The second meaning is that the church, from the time of the apostles until now, has consisted at its core of men and women who are convinced — not by anything they had read or have been told, but by the irrefutable evidence of their own experience — that Christ is living still.

Stay in Berlin, Most Say

Nikita Is No Better Bluff Than Stalin, Poll in U.S. Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J. — Nikita Khrushchev is having no more success in threatening the American people on Berlin than his Kremlin predecessor, Josef Stalin, did 10 years ago.

Then, as now, the basic issue at stake in the beleaguered German city, as the public sees it, is the same:

"We've got to stand firm or Russia will overrun all of Europe."

If standing firm means keeping Western troops in Berlin even at the risk of war, the public is willing today — as it was over a decade ago — to take that gamble.

The Gallup Poll

The latest vote on the issue, in fact, is amazingly similar to that recorded in the late spring of 1948 when the Soviet blockade of Berlin provoked one of the first major crises in the "cold war."

At that time, Gallup Poll reporters asked voters across the nation:

"Do you think the U.S. and her Western European allies should stay in Berlin, even if it means war with Russia — or should the U.S. give up Berlin to the Russians?"

The vote:

STAY IN BERLIN?
1948

Stay in Berlin	80 Pct.
Give up Berlin	11 Pct.
No opinion	9 Pct.

When Gallup Poll reporters asked voters their sentiments on the same basic issue in recent days, here is how those persons familiar with the Berlin crisis replied:

"Do you think we should keep American forces in Berlin — along with British and French forces — even at the risk of war?"

STAY IN BERLIN?
1959

Yes, should	81 Pct.
No, should not	11 Pct.
No opinion	8 Pct.

Since Khrushchev raised the Berlin issue anew in his ultimatum to the West last November, checks on public opinion have found virtually no change in voters' attitudes toward keeping U.S., British and French forces in West Berlin.

The most recent vote, for example, closely parallels that recorded immediately following Khrushchev's ultimatum on the subject as reported last December.

The vote among those familiar at that time (77 per cent):

STAY IN BERLIN?
December '58

Yes, should	78 Pct.
No, should not	11 Pct.
No opinion	11 Pct.

Compared to other critical national issues of recent years, the Berlin crisis has stirred up wide interest throughout the nation and in all segments of the population — 78 out of every 100 voters nationally say they have heard or read about it.

Million Jobless In Cuba

"talks too much when he should be listening."

"Cuba today is in a state of shocked hero worship," said this official with surprising frankness. "Unfortunately, the most 'fidelista' of all — believer in Fidel Castro — is Castro himself. Soon he must come down from the clouds and face reality."

A prominent Cuban newspaperman, known as a longtime Castro backer, said he is fearful that while the 32-year-old prime minister talks himself hoarse on radio and television, left-wing extremists are moving into key advisory positions.

Among these are Alfredo Guevara, who directs classes in Marxist teachings to the army; Baco Alanso, head of the National Fine Arts Commission; Carlos Franqui, former proofreader on the Communist organ "Hoy" who now runs Castro's governmnet newspaper "Revolucion;" Antonia Antuna, who directs the National Institute of Culture under the Education Ministry; Casals Perez, head of "Rebel Radio," and many others.

Castro's brother, Raul heads the new army and "tolerates" communism. Another military strongman, now ill, is Argentine-born "Che" Guevara, who claims to be non-Communist although he has played ball with the Reds including the old Arbenz regime in Guatemala.

Two leftist authors, Emil Roig de Leuschenroig and Antonio Nunez Jimenez, have been reinstated to places of prominence and their works are being used in the schools and in indoctrinating the military.

Alberto Suno, assistant secretary general in the Prime Ministry, discounted the Red threat to this newsman.

"There is no question but what the Communists are trying to get into Cuba's government," he said. "They won't succeed."

A civic organization which allied itself with Castro to oust Batista is concerned over the Communist threat.

"Economic paralysis can only play into Russia's hands," said a spokesman for the Moment For Democratic Superation.

Castro has lofty aims. But too many of his plans are unrealistic and dangerous. Right now he appears to be in the position of an amateur tightrope walker on a high wire for the first time without a net.

NEXT: What Castro has accomplished and where he has failed.

Statistics

MIAMI READINGS AT 5:30 P.M. Saturday — Air, 77 degrees; wind, from the east at eight m.p.h.; barometer, 29.96 inches; relative humidity, 72 per cent, and the skies cloudy.

National Summary

A high pressure area pushing southward from Canada resulted in fair and cool weather over most of the country from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic during mid day Saturday with temperatures ranging from the 20s in the northern tier of states to the 50s in the Gulf States, except in Florida where readings reached the 80s.

Fair weather will continue over much of this area through Sunday, but frost was expected to extend as far south as the Carolinas by dawn today. Slowly rising temperatures are expected in this area by afternoon, however.

Scattered thundershowers or rain showers from eastern Texas into the lower Mississippi Valley will move into the eastern Gulf States today, while the variable cloudiness over the plains will continue through tomorrow.

Fair to partly cloudy weather will continue through Sunday over the southern portion of the Rocky Mountain States while showers or snow flurries will be scattered over the northern part accompanied by variable cloudiness during the same period.

Northern California, where snow fell Saturday, will be cloudy today, while the remainder of California will remain generally fair.

WEST PALM BEACH — The younger generation is going backward—way back, in fact, to the prehistoric.

Here in this era of space, atoms and jets, youngsters are keen on the stone age. That is if you judge a child by the books he reads.

"Ever child goes through the horse and dog book stage," says Mrs. Doris Skidmore, children's librarian at Memorial Public Library.

But now something new, or rather very old, has been added — the dinosaur.

"From kindergarten up, the children want to know about wildlife way back. They ask about dinosaurs and other things adults can't even pronounce much less be interested in."

But latter day science, in all its forms, isn't being neglected in the wake of the new rage for dinosaurs.

"They are interested in space also. They go from one extreme to the other," the librarian said.

In fact, the entire reading scope is broader these days. TV can take some credit for it, too. The "idiot box" is no bugaboo for bookworms in Mrs. Skidmore's view.

"It widens the scope of ideas," she explained with examples.

Remember the Shirley Temple series? Youngsters came to the library to read the stories. Let TV put on a good West Point drama or a spy and FBI thriller, and the library has a run on books about West Pointers, spies and FBI men.

"The same is true on biographies," says Mrs. Skidmore.

Then there are some books which captivate the younger generation year in and year out.

"Interest in fairy tales, legend and folk tales is not dead," the librarian said emphatically. "And boys will never get enough of the Civil War and World War I'."

The best send-off any book can get is a recommendation from another child. The adjectives 'keen' or 'super' are a mark of distinction for any children's book.

"Children like to be one of the crowd," says Mrs. Skidmore.

Named Mayor by Castro

Socas Puts 'Duty' Above Busboy Pay

ORLANDO —(UPI)— Meet the new mayor of Bolondron, Cuba, a 29-year-old bus boy who juggled dirty dishes by day and worked as a revolutionary by night for two years.

But Jose Gilberto Socas said he would rather be a bus boy in the U.S. than mayor of a Cuban city.

When Socas clears the last table at Ronnie's Restaurant here tonight, he will head for Tampa Airport bound for his new job as mayor.

"I like this country. I no want to leave it," he said in heavily-accented English. "This is a better living for my wife and two children. But I must do my duty."

Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, who met his staunch supporter only once, named Socas provisional mayor of Bolondron, a town of 16,000 in Matanzas Province, 120 miles south of Havana.

"I did not ask Castro for anything. I did not want any position in the new government. That's why I did not go back to Cuba after the revolution ended.

"This is a very big position — being mayor — little money and lots of worry.

"Besides, they like me very much here at the restaurant. I do a good job. I work hard. I am honest."

Socas frankly admits he doesn't know if he's particularly qualified to act as mayor of a Cuban city.

But he said he has been dabbling in political groups ever since he was a student of 17 in his hometown.

"When I got out of Cuba three years ago," he said, "I was local president of the Orthodox Party. I have had much experience with politicians. I am young but this is a young people's government."

His political activites in the quiet south Cuban city caused him to be put in jail "three or four times." His last visit behind bars convinced him it was unsafe to remain in Cuba as long as it was under the grip of President Fulgencio Batista.

He fled to Miami but was unable to get work because his papers were not in order. Later he was given a refugee visa and got a job at the Orlando restaurant washing dishes.

After hours he found plenty of work with Castro's local 26th of July movement.

"I made contributions to Castro and the party by collecting money, selling bonds and making propaganda. I also helped in other things," he said, declining to explain further.

Socas said he served as a correspondent for three Cuban newspapers, Diario Matanza, Cardena Oriental and Manana of Havana.

27 White Families To Vacate

LAKELAND—(UPI)—Twenty-seven white families here voluntarily have agreed to move from their homes to provide a new housing development for the over-crowded Negro population.

Officials hailed the move as a big step toward bettering race relations and preventing possible attempts by Negroes to move into other white sections.

City Planner George Sanford said the privately-conducted transfer in the Pinehurst Court subdivision will help solve "Lakeland's most pressing problem."

The 40-acre tract, at the northern outskirts, contains well-kept, moderately-priced homes. Most of the houses are in the $7,000 to $10,500 bracket, with one valued at $15,500.

Owners of 24 homes have agreed to put them up for sale immediately and the other three said they would rent the houses to Negroes.

A Negro spokesman predicted all the houses would be bought within 10 days after they are put on the market.

Some 9,000 Negroes live in Lakeland's Negro districts, so jammed not one remaining lot is eligible for FHA home financing. Lakeland's population is about 35,000.

The Pinehurst Court has a number of lots available for new Negro housing.

Convention Gains Seen In Florida

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capital Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Development Commission reported Saturday nearly 57 million dollars was spent in Florida in 1958 by 530,000 state regional and national delegates, who attended a total of 1,918 conventions.

Survey figures from 23 cities revealed a substantial increase over 1957. Approximately fifty-four million dollars was spent in the state in 1957 by 403,000 delegates, who attended 1,089 conventions.

Average expenditure per delegate attending a national convention was estimated at $126.15. Spending by a state or regional delegate averaged $111.42.

National conventions in the state are on the increase. A total of 624 national conventions were held in Florida in 1958, and 415 in 1957.

Increase of accommodations and facilities, climate and combination convention - vacations, have considerably brightened Florida's convention picture, the commission said.

Conventions already booked for Miami Beach's huge exhibition hall for 1960 will bring 187,500 persons. The city expects to equal, or better last year's business in 1959 and double it in 1960.

Tampa has increased its convention business at the rate of four or five per cent annually for the past 10 years. A goal of doubling the business has been set for the next two years.

Jacksonville's newest convention lure will be the Sports Coliseum, with a seating capacity of 13,000 persons, to be completed in the fall of 1960.

Student, 17, Drowned: Aunt Saved

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — A 17-year-old Melbourne High School senior drowned Saturday in the Indian River off the Melbourne-Indialantic Causeway when he swam out to retrieve a loose fishline cork.

Police identified the victim as Donald Mays who came here six weeks ago from Alabama. He had been fishing with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Holmes of Melbourne.

Mrs. Holmes also figured in the mishap and quick action by an off-duty Melbourne policeman, Eldon E. Frye, who was fishing nearby, saved her from drowning. Mrs. Holmes was taken to Brevard Hospital here, hwere her condition was reported as good.

Police said Mays, reportedly a good swimmer, apparently suffered a cramp when he swam after the cork. He called for help and his aunt and Fry swam out to him. Mrs. Holmes reached the boy first and, when he started to pull her under, Fry grabbed her and brought her to shore.

Mays' body was found in seven feet of water, about 50 feet from shore.

High-Hat Horses Prance In St. Augustine's Parade

ST AUGUSTINE — (UPI) — Twenty high-stepping horses pulling 20 gaily decorated carriages will prance through the streets of this historic city today in one of the nation's most unusual Easter parades.

Even the horses will be decked out in their Easter finest — jaunty Easter bonnets.

In everyday life, many of the same high-hat steeds earn their daily oats by hauling tourists' carriages about the city.

This year, the annual "Parada de Los Caballos y Coches" — or parade of horses and coaches — is based on a historical theme.

Riding in each of the carriages will be members of the royal family of Spain, which had control of the city in the 17th century. In reality, they will be masquerading local citizenry.

Mrs. Jacqueline Lopez Young will "star" as Queen Mariana, Spanish ruler from 1665 to 1675 who authorized construction of the famed Castillo de San Marcos here in 1672. It is the oldest masonry fort in the U.S.

Mrs. Young and her entourage of 12 are all descendents of the Solana family which can trace its lineage to 12th century Spain. They will wear authentic royal dress of the 17th century.

Only 20 horses will have bonnets, but about 75 in all will be used in the celebration. Those with hats can thank their deisgner, Mrs. Victoria Broadbent, who also was responsible for the hand-decorated flowered carriages.

The Easter service actually begins with a sunrise service atop the old fort. Later pontifical mass will be observed in the nation's oldest Roman Catholic cathedral, with Protestant services two hours later.

The Eastern festival continues through April 5, featuring Saint Augustine's historical pageant Monday, Tuesday and Friday.

More han 200 costumed actors will particiapte in the pageant based on the period 1565 through 1671.

Mystery Sniper Kills Woman Near Sarasota

LAUREL — (UPI) — A marksman fired one bullet through the front door of a home and killed a prominent Laurel matron Saturday night.

The bullet struck Mrs. Hazel Curry Woodward squarely between the eyes as she watched television. She died four hours later without regaining consciousness.

The victim's husband, former Sarasota County Commissioner William Woodward, told deputy sheriffs the assassin also fired at him. He said he was working in a garage near the house.

He said he ran outside and heard someone running away in the darkness.

Investigators who worked through the night on the case said they could not find the bullet Woodward said was fired at him. Officers said they had found no motive for the slaying. They said Woodward, a businessman, was apparently on good terms with his wife.

Deputies said the assassin stood on the front porch of the Woodward home shortly before midnight and aimed his weapon through the front door. The bullet passed through the screen door and hit Mrs. Woodward, sitting in a chair in a front room.

Woodward told oficers a bullet whizzed harmlessly past him as he was working in his garage. He said he ran outside just in time to hear retreating footsteps. Then, he said, he found his wife dying on the floor.

Neighbors backed up Woodward's story that at least two shots were fired.

Dulles Due Monday at Hobe Sound

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flies to Florida Monday to recuperate from radiation treatments for his abdominal cancer.

Dulles will travel aboard the presidential plane Columbine III. He is scheduled to depart at 10:45 a.m., arriving at the Palm Beach Air Force Base at 2:15 p.m.

The secretary will motor about 30 miles to Hobe Sound, where he will stay for an indefinite period at the residence of Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon.

Dulles will be accompanied by his wife; his special assistant Joseph N. Greene Jr.; Capt. Edward J. Kamin II, a Walter Reed Army Hospital staff specialist in internal medicine, and Miss Phylis Bernau, the secretary's personal assistant.

Newspapers Take Issue with Supreme Court

Herald's Gucker Heads Florida Dailies

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — The Florida Daily Newspaper Association elected Arthur J. Gucker, business manager of The Miami Herald, president Saturday and took a strong slap at the Florida Supreme Court.

Norman Artman, publisher of the Key West Citizen, succeeds Gucker as vice president.

R. C. Millar publisher of the Florida Times-Union, was reelected treasurer; Robert Lodmell, publisher of the Lake Wales Highlander, was reelected a director; and George Archer, publisher of the West Palm Beach Post-Times, was elected to the board.

Gucker, 56, joined The Herald in 1944. He has been business manager and a director of Knight Newspapers, Inc., since 1955.

Also at the meeting, the Associated Press Association of Florida elected Fred Pettijohn, managing editor of the Fort Lauderdale Daily News, president, Bennett DeLoach, managing editor of the Tampa Times, vice president and chairman of continuing studies committee; Roy Cook, managing editor of the Sarasota Journal, secretary, and Holmes Alexander, state editor of the Tampa Tribune, treasurer.

Arthur J. Gucker
... state press president

Pettijohn replaces George Beebe, managing editor of The Miami Herald.

The thrust at the Supreme Court came over its recent decision in the appeal of Phillip Singer, a deaf mute convicted of the slaying in 1956 of Mrs. Marylin Fagin, wife of Osee Fagin, who was prosecuting attorney for Alachua County, and who now is a State Representative.

The state charged Singer shot Mrs. Fagin in revenge for his conviction by Fagin on a charge of trespassing at the Gainesville Golf and Country Club after he had been fired as maintenance man.

Singer was captured several weeks later in Canada.

The court said there was no doubt about his guilt but that "newspapers should censor crime details that might be prejudicial" to the accused.

In reply the newspaper group declared:

"Factual information, dealing with occurrences of public interest and the performances of officers in their official duties, is vital and necessary for the public and curtailment of such news would deprive the people of information required for the intelligent exercise of the responsibilities as citizens.

"The people's right to know applies to acts of violence and other crimes as well as it does to other news and such publication in many cases protects the rights of defendants from over-zealous law enforcement officials."

Rawls Also Hits At Ervin Letter

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Sen. John Rawls of Marianna said flatly Saturday that state officials are "wasting their time" trying to sell the Legislature a reapportionment plan that gives any county more than one senator.

Rawls said Gov. LeRoy Collins might as well face the fact that no matter what inducements his plan might offer the rural counties, it will never be approved as long as it includes two senators for Dade County.

He also blasted Attorney General Richard Ervin for advancing a plan to give Duval, Dade and Hillsborough Counties each two senators.

"Dick Ervin should attend to the attorney general's office and leave reapportionment to the Legislature," he snapped, clearly irritated at any Cabinet officer joining in the long reapportionment squabble.

Rawls is chairman of the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee, which will have to approve any new reapportionment plan, and a majority of the committee shares his views.

He said the committee will not be able to meet before the opening of the Legislature April 7. When it does meet, he said, it will write its own reapportionment bill, and the governor can take it or leave it.

The Jackson County senator said he will offer a plan of his own, following the philosophy of adding a few new districts for fast-growing counties which now share a senator.

It is not yet in final form, but it will not go beyond the 45-Senator measure the last Legislature approved, and might not go as far.

Collins sent all Legislators a memorandum last week, explaining that his plan would give additional representation to the urban areas without taking anything from the slower-growing rural counties.

It leaves intact small counties which now have a separate senator, and permits a maximum of eight new districts to give senators to Bay, Monroe, Sarasota, Manatee, Okaloosa, Seminole, Brevard and Lee Counties.

All these counties, but Lee, were given senators in the 1957 bill, which died when the Supreme Court threw out the whole constitutional revision program of the 1957 session.

But it did not contain what majority leaders call the "Collins joker," a second senator for populous Dade.

Rawls said Collins' explanation has not influenced him one iota.

"I intend to fight it vigorously and any other plan that bases Senate membership on population, even for one district," he said.

Ervin, in a written recommendation to the governor and Legislature, included a section on reapportionment for the first time.

He said the Legislature should consider eliminating the provision limiting each county to no more than one senator, so the three largest counties might be given an additional senator.

Ervin proposed a compromise solution which would add three, or perhaps five Senate seats, and reapportion the present 38 districts.

This would not, he said, create an imbalance between large and small counties in so far as the urban and rural populations are concerned.

When the present reapportionment formula was written into the constitution, Ervin added, about 35 per cent of the population elected a majority of the Senate.

But with the shift in population southward, less than 17 per cent of the people now elect a majority of the Senate.

If his plan for additonal districts were added, the percentage of the electorate choosing a majority of the Senate would not even closely approach 35 per cent, he said, but it would comply with the constitutional mandate and help allay criticism that "our larger metropolitan centers are discriminated against under present apportionment."

Bomb Law Proposals Drafted

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Florida's prosecuting attorneys will ask the Legislature next month to enact broad laws to deter terrorist and hoax" bombings.

The prosecutors will urge it be made a felony to threaten to bomb, dynamite or blow up a building, and a penalty of up to a year in jail, or a $1,000 fine, for making false reports of bombings.

The state's prosecutors and Circuit Judges have givven approval to a host of other so-called "lawyer's bills."

One of the jurist's measures would increase to 10 years the terms of judges of the Supreme, District Appellate and Circuit Courts. This would require a constitutional amendment, changing the present six-year limitation.

The prosecutors guaranteed revival of an age-old fight in the Legislature by recommending for re-submission the proposal state attorneys appoint their own assistants.

Assistants, are now named by the governor in every county except Dade, which has a separate constitutional amendment. The prosecutors will also recommend every state attorney be allowed a special investigator and a $300-a-month secretary.

Another controversial proposal of the prosecutors would permit automatic revocation of the driver's license of a person arrested for drunken driving who refuses a test of the alcoholic content of his blood.

The prosecutors other bills include:

ADOPTING a model perjury act.

MAKING it an offense to resist a city police officer while he is making an arrest for violation of state law.

AUTHORIZING the search of a dwelling for any evidence of crime.

RAISING the maximum penalty to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

PERMITTING city police, in "hot pursuit" of a violator, to chase him beyond the city limits to make the arrest.

MAKING it a misdemeanor to attach to a motor vehicle a license plate not issued for that vehicle.

Among bills recommended by judges are:

REQUIRE suits for divorce against a non-resident to be filed in the county where the plantiff resides.

MAKE the penalty for forgery, or uttering forged bank checks or drafts, the same as for larceny.

INCREASE mileage allowance for jurors from five to 10 cents a mile.

Illness, Starvation Stalk Northwest Haiti

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

PORT-DE-PAIX, Haiti — For the last 13 months northwest Haiti has been slowly drying up.

Illness and death are now taking its toll of the starvation-weak people.

A farming region, northwest Haiti exists on its production of bananas, coffee, beans, peanuts and grain. Normal rainfall in May varies from five to seven inches in this area. Last May not a single drop of rain fell.

Except for a brief shower in December, which encouraged farmers to mortgage their homes or borrow money for seed, they have had no rain for more than a year. The seed now lies dried and rotting in the ground.

Drought Brings Death

Agriculture is the backbone of the northwestern area of Haiti. Farm products need rain and this area has had no rain for many months. One brief shower caused the desperate farmers to plant the last of their seed. Now, even if it should rain, there can be no planting.

On the footsteps of the drought have followed the grim spectres of starvation and disease. Evelyn DeTardo of The Herald staff recently visited Haiti and here tells the grim story of what she found there.

Heads of families, already weak from starvation, have left the area in search of jobs, walking as far as 100 miles. Most do not find jobs and on their return find their wives or some of the children have died in their absence.

ONE FATHER, who left to sell charcoal for his starved wife, fell from weakness on the way. After resting a day and making the sale, he returned home to find his wife dead.

A WOMAN in the area took her youngest child and set off to beg, leaving two older ones with neighbors. The children left behind are not expected to live and the father, who went in search of work and food about two months ago, has not been heard from.

The Haitians' woes began with hurricane Hazel, which battered the area in 1954. The people have not been able to recover from the economic losses of the big wind.

Animals have been holding up better than people, but they are not expected to last much longer.

Donkeys' which used to sell for $12 to $14 are now being offered for $1 and $2. There are no buyers. No one has food for animals.

Farmers are starving and in debt. Merchants can no longer give credit as their customers are penniless and not buying or paying back.

A number of residents are too ashamed to leave their homes because their clothes have worn completely away and they have no money to buy new ones.

Marcel Cornet, French priest in the Jean Rabel parrish, fears a typhoid epidemic may decimate the famine stricken area. More than 200 have died already from lack of food and typhoid in that region, which has about 45,000 population. There is no estimate of the entire population in the northwest.

Father Cornet, touring the medical dispensaries in the hunger areas, said the medicine which exists is too expensive for the populace at cost, and many dispensaries even are out of aspirin.

At one dispensary they did not even have tea to give a young woman who had just given birth to a child. Instead they sent her out into the market to beg for food so she could come back and nurse her baby.

More than 2,000 persons are believed fled to the Bahama Islands from the drought stricken coastal areas in the northwest and from the island of Tortuga.

A Baptist Church in La Belle, which used to have a congregation of about 260 had an attendance of two on a recent Sunday.

One family visited near Jean Rabel, is typical of the famine infested area of the northwest.

A young boy, arms and legs like thin twigs sat shelling a handful of peas for lunch. His stomach was swollen like a balloon and his cheeks puffed from fever.

His father, Estilen Vital, was boiling green mangoes in a tin can. For a change of diet they sometimes bake the mangoes.

Vital's 15-year old son recently died of starvation. The only animal they have left is a pig, which, if there were any buyers, he would have sold for his son's funeral.

Haitian funerals generally require elaborate ceremonies. Without money, the dead are now being buried under the cover of night, without coffins.

The hopeless attitude of the people is appalling.

Some have written to the president, and have received no reply. "Only God can save us now," they say.

One farming family in Fond-La-Loi works all day Sunday weaving baskets. They are able to weave about five or six a day which once sold for one cent, or two for a penny.

They then walk to the market or 30 miles to Port de Paix without hope for a sale. "But it is something to do."

Everyone left in the area seems to have the same resignation. "If rain does not come we're all going to die. If it does come we'll just have to look at it because we have no more seed to plant."

Church World Service and Catholic Welfare Organization will have sent about 6,000 tons of food into the northwest by the end of the fiscal year in July.

Mrs. Charles Zellermayer, liason between the Episcopal Deanery of Women of South Florida and Haiti's Episcopal Church, said they plan to get together about 600 pounds of food at the minimum to send in. But even at this most families are lucky if they get one meal in a month.

And, if you don't happen to be a member of the congregation, you go without.

Nicaraguan Group Wants Envoy's Scalp

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

POLITICAL enemies of the Somoza brothers who rule Nicaragua are demanding that U.S. Ambassador Thomas Whelan get out of their country.

SOUTHWORTH

A letter mailed to Whelan and signed by more than 50 distinguished leaders of the opposition accuses the ambassador of intervening in the internal affairs of Nicaragua.

The letter — a copy of which was mailed to The Herald—charges that Whelan has damaged the friendly relations between the two countries.

"It is sad," the letter states, "that the political forces of the opposition parties in Nicaragua to which we belong have lost all contact with the American Embassy...

"We believe that this change and the cold relations are due principally to your attitude for years, by words and deeds . . . of being too friendly with the dictatorship that oppresses Nicaragua . . . and by taking part in internal political matters."

'Would Be in Best Interest'

THE LETTER adds that the interests of both countries would be served "if you will decide to step down from your high post."

A blue-eyed Irishman, Whelan was a wholesale potato buyer in the Dakotas before he became ambassador to Nicaragua eight years ago.

The Somoza family has ruled Nicaragua for more than 20 years. After the old soldier, Anastasio, was assassinated in 1956 his sons took over. Luis was educated in the U.S. and groomed to replace his father. Anastasio Jr. went to West Point and now runs the army.

Young Gen. Anastasio is spending his Easter vacation outside the country and President Luis scoffs at rumors that his land may soon be invaded by revolutionaries.

Nicaragua on the List

BUT THE SOMOZA BOYS know that dictatorship foes in Cuba, Venezuela and other Latin American countries have listed Nicaragua, the Dominican Republic and Paraguay as the only three dictatorships remaining in Latin America and have vowed their support of any attempt to overthrow them.

Last month Honduras and Nicaragua signed an agreement in Washington to prevent their territories from being used as bases for mounting revolutions against each other. Strong bands of rebels have been reported to be gathering on the border.

President Somoza says his government is in a position to "repel any armed attempt against it, whether it comes from inside or outside the country."

Two Already Have Resigned

LAST WEEK, Nicaraguan Ambassador Leonte Herdocia and Nicaraguan Minister-Counseller Otto Somarriba resigned their posts and were given diplomatic asylum by the Costa Rican government.

Herdocia and Somarriba said they could not continue to serve the government of Somoza because of its "outrages and excesses."

An expert political observer from Nicaragua visiting in Miami said the political opposition in Nicaragua is trying to find a peaceful way of easing the Somoza family out of power and conducting free elections.

'Disease' Pointed Out

'Sick' Silver Dollars Used In Campaign on Inflation

HARTSVILLE, S.C.—(AP)—A. Lee M. Wiggins, former undersecretary of the Treasury, is dramatizing a personal fight against inflation by sending "sick" silver dollars to congressmen, financial writers, editors and others.

The 67-year-old, one-time president of the American Bankers Association said he is getting some results.

He said he has received replies from almost all the personal friends in House and Senate to whom he sent uncirculated 1923 silver dollars. And "all showed keen interest," he added.

The silver dollars were accompanied by notes which said:

"Although it has done no work in the 30-odd years of its existence, it has lost about one-half of its ability to do a day's work, or to buy goods and services.

"This dollar is ill from a disease called inflation. The further spread of this disease may destroy it. Effective remedies are well known. They can be administered by the American people."

About U.S. Life

Housewife Puts Colombia In the Know

By GIL SLOAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia — As the U.S. becomes more conscious of Latin America, these southern neighbors are discovering more and more about the country to the north.

Now, any native of Barranquilla (who reads the papers) not only knows, for example, that there are such places as Richmond, Ind.

They also are acquainted with the type of family life in such a smallish, quiet town.

They found that out here the other day when one of the local dailies published a letter from a Richmond (Ind.) housewife.

It was addressed simply to "Barranquilla newspaper, Barranquilla, Colombia, South America." It appropriately was delivered to the paper whose editor has a good command of the English language.

It reads: Dear Sirs:—

"I have been reading an article written by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service. It tells about some of the things your people have learned about the life of an American in the U. S. I think maybe you have not heard enough of the average American Norte Americano).

"First of all, my husband is a World War II vet. He took advantage of G. I. schooling and became a teacher. He graduated with a B. S. degree from Ball State at Muncie, Ind.

We have a 1949 Pontiac and a 1950 Pontiac wagon for transporting the children to school.

"My husband has to drive rough country roads to teach in a country school that is 20 miles away. That is the reason for the second one.

"We have several radios, one working TV set, eight room house, full basement, oil furnace, two bathrooms, automatic washer and dryer and a nice small library.

But Top Aides May Pull Cuba Out

Million Jobless as Castro Orates, Fumbles

Fidel Castro
. . . words, words, words

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — More than one million persons — one-sixth of Cuba's population —are out of jobs.

The government is operating in a state of disorganized confusion.

Business paralysis is setting in as industry waits to see how far Cuba's socialistic-minded savior, Fidel Castro, will go.

Yet despite the business collapse and the Communists' hopes of moving in when the hero-worship of Castro wears off, there is still a hope for recovery.

It hinges on the efforts of two Castro aides, Dr. Regino Boti, minister of the National Economy Board, and Dr. Felipe Pazos, head of The National Bank. Both are extremely able. If Castro gives them a chance, they may be able to reverse the trend which Castro has initiated.

Castro, as self-appointed prime minister of the revolutionary government, calls the shots and outlines policy as he goes. Frequently policy seems to be made on the spur of the moment, without rationalization, in the middle of one of his hours-long speeches.

If he keeps it up, observers here feel the Russians and their Red party leaders need move hardly a finger toward eventual capture of this sugar republic and a strategic North American beachhead.

Yet, the Cuban people—90 per cent Catholic—are instinctively anti-Communist and pro-capitalist.

What is happening here is reminiscent of Guatemala four years ago when the Communists were able to push Jacobo Arbenz into power. But then it took long months of careful, crafty planning — of infiltration and manipulation.

In Cuba, it is being accomplished by the national hero, a man who is not a Communist but rather is an inept administrator, idealist and demagogue.

Some alarmed Cubans have suggested that Nikita Kruschchev's secret agents and organizers aren't needed in Cuba — that Castro himself is unwittingly "talking" Cuba into the Communist orbit.

In fairness to Castro, it must be emphasized that he appears completely sincere. And he has achieved, for the moment at least, honesty in government, a quality hitherto unknown in Cuban politics.

Despite his sincerity, he gives every indication of doing a beautiful job of fouling up this island-nation's economy, driving it toward bankruptcy, upsetting traditional social customs and creating an atmosphere of "government by confusion."

He may know where he is heading, but that's more than do some of his closest supporters who are government officials.

Several whom I talked to admitted they are baffled. Others maintain all is well, that this is simply a transitory period.

All swear blindly by the leader who directed the revolution which overthrew the seven-year regime of Dictator Fulgencio Batista last New Year's Day.

"Don't condemn Castro," pleaded youthful looking J. A. Ossorio, American affairs officer in the Prime Ministry. "There is absolutely no connection between the Castro

"Despite his sincerity, (Fidel Castro) gives every indication of doing a beautiful job of fouling up this island-nation's economy."

McDermott

This, in part, is the conclusion of The Herald's foreign-analyst, John B. McDermott, as he revisits Cuba for a look at the sugar republic's stormy rebirth under the banner of the rebel hero Castro.

In recent years McDermott has traveled to trouble spots of the world—Russia, Africa, Germany, the Near East — to look at politics in terms of people and their leaders.

Too Contradictory

Cuban Business Future Is Dark

By WILLIAM GAUDET
Special To The Herald

HAVANA, Cuba — The cooler heads of businessmen see the answer to Cuba's future in plain everyday economics.

And they are disturbed by what Fidel Castro's government has done, or failed to do.

They cite paradoxes — the government doing one thing with one hand and the opposite with the other — which they believe could spell serious trouble for the island unless there is better coordination.

They cite instances of too much idealism and not enough realism:

* * *

CASTRO'S REDUCING RENTS all over the island — and the stress at the same time is on the need for new housing construction.

* * *

GAUDET

THE government order to the Cuban Telephone Co. to sharply reduce monthly charges — and the announcement that followed it closely that there was going to be a vast expansion program.

* * *

MUCH TALK about the importance of private enterprise aided by foreign capital and know-how — and not one law so far to help expansion by private enterprise already here, or to attract new foreign capital.

It is not that the businessmen are against the announced Castro policies of reform to help the little men. Many of them are little men themselves. But they believe the reforms should come side-by-side with laws which help rather than hinder the role of capital.

Many businessmen will tell you they are deeply concerned over how to protect capital they have already invested. Property values in Havana and elsewhere, for instance, already have dropped — some say as much as 40 to 60 per cent — as a result of the rent reduction decree.

Another incongruity, observers say, is the much-talked-of drive to produce in Cuba, by Cubans, the things which Cubans need and use.

But, asks the businessman, how can this sort of nationalism work in a country which itself depends more than anything else on the export of sugar? And whose largest market, the U.S., is maintained through a system of quotas — the U.S. imports so much sugar in return for export rights of its own goods to Cuba?

Take away the U.S. as a sugar market, and the entire economy of Cuba will crumble, the businessmen say.

Government officials say the government controls over foreign exchange will be lifted when sale of the sugar crop — expected to bring between 300 and 600 million dollars to the island — begins. But some capitalists doubt it. They believe the government will not allow many of the dollars to get out of Cuba.

Already, practical businessmen say, there are many working quietly to find a way of getting their capital out of Cuba.

But this unrest is not obvious.

To the visitor, the thousands who jam into the Plaza whenever Castro speaks are the obvious sign that he is the Cuban hero and that the huge mass of people is willing to believe — for awhile, anyway — his idealistic optimism and accept his actions.

Nicaragua Invasion Held Near

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — (UPI) — The Dominican military intelligence service said Saturday that former President Jose Figueres of Costa Rica is massing men and weapons for an invasion of Nicaragua.

An official communique said that 35 Cuban "barbudos" (bearded followers of Fidel Castro) landed on the Costa Rican coast near the Nicaraguan frontier March 19 from the Panamanian ship White Shadow. It said arms for 500 men also were put ashore.

According to the communique, the band is now in the mountains where it is being "directed" by Figueres from his ranch La Lucha.

The invasion of Nicaragua from Costa Rica, the communique said, would be combined with similar operation from Honduras.

"The Dominican intelligence service knows that a network of conspirators exists in the Caribbean which has violated all international rules by using ham-wave bands to maneuver against countries to foment armed revolt," the communique said.

Cloudy But Dry Forecast

There may be some clouds but there shouldn't be much rain to spoil Easter in Florida, weathermen predicted Saturday.

Fair, mild weather was forecast for most of the rest of the nation, except for showers expected in the Rockies and a few snow flurries in the Northwest.

Florida's skies should be a bit more cloudy than expected, weathermen said, because of a stationary weather front hanging over most of the state.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower, spending the long Easter weekend in Gettysburg, pa., planned to lead the nation in worship by attending services at the Presbyterian church near their farm. They planned a "very quiet weekend."

And New York's Fifth Avenue will be bright with the annual parade of latest fashions past St. Patrick's Cathedral. The picture will be the same on Chicago's "Magnificent Mile," and on main streets throughout the nation.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., 100 motion picture stars will accompany 100 crippled children in a parade dedicated to Easter Seals, and at the Hollywood Bowl more than 20,000 are expected to hear Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, a prominent Mormon, deliver his Easter message.

Before day broke on Easter, the Roman Catholic world had its message from Pope John. Departing from the custom of delivering Papal Easter messages on Sunday, Pope John spoke to the world from Vatican City Saturday night.

In a broadcast heard around the world in many languages, the Pope offered prayers for the rulers of the earth and for peace.

PARIS — (AP) — Heavy rains continued to fall over two-thirds of the island of Madagascar Saturday. Floodwaters threatened to stop food supplies to the capital of Tananarive.

Reports reaching Paris indicated at least 100 persons have been killed and 3,000—perhaps many more—left homeless on the island in the Indian Ocean. Rivers broke their banks four days ago after a month of stormy weather.

Blockade Of Russia Our Tack?

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Washington Evening Star said Saturday the U.S. is considering a naval blockade of Russia in the Baltic and Black Sea areas if the Soviet Union cuts off the West's access to Berlin.

"This is one of the measures short of nuclear war this country recognizes it has at its disposal, officials here confirm, if the Soviet Union goes through with its threats to oust the West from Berlin," The Star said.

It added that no decision has been reached on the point at which such a serious counter-measure would be ordered. The newspaper said the plan may be discussed here this week at the secret sessions of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers meeting.

At the State Department, Press Officer Francis Tully said of The Star's report:

"We are considering many different possibilities from time to time of things that might or could be done (about the Berlin situation) but as to any military decisions that might be made, I can't comment."

Privately officials said a naval blockade of a major power would have to be considered an act of war which could be used if hostilities actually started. But they noted that President Eisenhower has emphasized at news conferences in recent weeks that if there is to be any shooting it will be done by the other side.

Pointing out that Turkey controls the Bosphorus and Dardanelles outlets from the Black Sea, and Denmark controls the Kattegat at the mouth of the Baltic Sea, The Star said both nations could become key nations in the Berlin crisis.

A Walk in the Florida Sun—in a Business Suit
. . . Nixon followed by his friend, Bebe Robozo, at Key Biscayne

Our Power Greater, He Claims

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Vice President Richard Nixon said in Miami Saturday that the U.S. has enough military muscle to stand up at a summit conference without fear of submitting to Russian blackmail.

He conceded the Russians have more long-range missiles and submarines.

"But in over-all military power, we, with our allies, have greater strength."

Here with his wife and two daughters for the Easter holidays, the vice president also maintained that the Republican Party must be rebuilt and that the administration must post a good record from here on in to win the 1960 presidential election.

Skirting questions about his own potential candidacy, Nixon commented:

"By concentrating on those two efforts we can win no matter who is nominated . . . I am not working or engaging in activities toward the nomination."

With aplomb and a polished delivery, he touched on a wide range of topics, including the missile program, foreign relations, Latin America, inflation and presidential qualifications.

At one point he digressed to remark on the difficulty he has with arithmetic while helping his young daughters with their homework.

"If anybody has any ideas about American education, they should try doing their children's arithmetic problems. I can do long division but I'm not so good in algebra and geometry," he confessed.

"It's a good thing Mrs. Nixon was once a teacher."

Turning to weightier subjects the vice president made the following observations:

U.S. BUDGET — This is expected to be the biggest issue during the current session of Congress. Unless the federal budget is balanced, it will be difficult to balance the family budget.

FOREIGN AID — Nothing could hurt the U.S. in the cold war more than a partisan debate on foreign aid. A vote to cut mutual security is a vote to raise defense expenditures and a vote to increase the draft of American boys.

MISSILE RACE — The Russians are ahead of the U.S. in some areas, such as the pro-

Hike in Foreign Aid Looms

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Eisenhower has enlisted bipartisan Senate support for an effort to boost the 100 million dollars voted by the House for foreign aid development loans.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader, predicted the Senate will add at least 75 million dollars to the loan fund. The fund provides low-interest loans to assist public works in underdeveloped countries friendly to the West.

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said in a separate interview he will urge the appropriations committee to raise the House-approved total to 200 million dollars.

This still would leave the fund 25 million dollars short of Eisenhower's request for 225 million dollars in emergency money for the remainder of this fiscal year, ending June 30. A compromise between Senate and House figures would be likely to leave the total even lower.

When the House Appropriations Committee cut out all of Eisenhower's request the President termed the action irresponsible.

The Story, and Meaning, of Easter

'He Is Risen'--the News That Never Grows Old

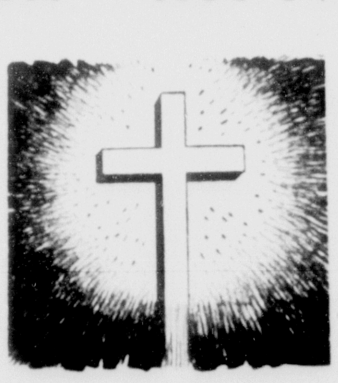
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

More than seven hundred million people around the world are celebrating Easter today.

In stately Latin and melodious Polynesian, and in virtually every other known tongue, they repeat the news that sped through the demoralized company of Christian disciples on the first Easter morning, 1,929 years ago.

"He is risen!"

Easter is the oldest and most sacred of Christian holy days for good reason. Unlike the Oriental religions which are based on mystical experiences and metaphysical speculation, Christianity is anchored in history to an event — the resurrection of Jesus Christ.



From its earliest days to the present, the Christian church has never hesitated to stake its whole case on the claim that this event really happened.

"If Christ be not risen," the apostle Paul told the Corinthians, "then is your faith in vain."

What is the evidence for the resurrection?

Many Christians probably would answer that question by citing the Biblical stories about the finding of the empty tomb. These stories dramatize the fact of the resurrection as nothing else can, and their devotional value has earned them the central place at most Easter worship services.

But to the rigorously objective modern scholars who have exposed the New Testament to the most searching scrutiny ever given to any book, the empty tomb is secondary evidence.

These scholars point out that there are a number of discrepancies in the various gospel narratives about the awesome discovery that greeted the devoted women who went to the tomb "early in the morning on the first day of the week."

These discrepancies do not mean that the story is untrue. On the contrary, even a newspaper reporter can discern, in the different accounts, just that variation in detail but agreement on essential fact, which is the hallmark of authentic eyewitness accounts of any momentous event.

But the discrepancies do indicate to Biblical researchers that the first Christians did not attach primary importance to the empty tomb. If they had, a greater attempt probably would have been made to pin down the precise facts, to harmonize the disparate versions that circulated freely in the oral traditions until they eventually were set down in the gospels.

What pushed the empty tomb into the background of the early apostles' thoughts? The answer is abundantly clear in all of the gospels, in the book of Acts and in Paul's letters.

Red China Abolishes Rule of Dalai Lama

Puppet Regime Set Up

TOKYO — (AP) —Red China Saturday abolished the Dalai Lama's regime in Tibet, elevated the rival Panchen Lama in his stead, and imposed military rule on the rebellious Himalayan land.

Peiping asserted the revolt that erupted March 19 was crushed in two days and 4,000 rebels were captured. But Red China admitted rebel bands fought on in varoius parts of the land of the Lamas. Peiping asserted these bands were being mopped up.

Broadcasts from the capital of Red China asserted the 23-year-old Dalai Lama was abducted by the rebels and "under duress" tore up the 1951 treaty with Red China under which he was allowed to retain nominal rule.

This tended to bear out reports from India and elsewhere that the Dalai Lama had made good his escape from Lhasa, the capital, and had joined the rebels, probably in southern Tibet.

Presumably, the Dalai Lama is with the fierce Kampa tribal warriors, who from positions in southern Tibet have been fighting the Chinese Reds for three years.

The Panchen Lama last was reported at his religious headquarters at Shigatse, southwest of Lhasa. The 21-year-old spiritual leader now may be in Lhasa. He is considered the spiritual equal of the Dalai Lama but traditionally wields no temporal power. He generally has been considered more complaisant toward the Communists than the Dalai Lama.

Peiping asserted the command center of the revolt was Kalimpong, in northern India where the trade routes wind in from Tibet.

Nationalist China airdropped supplies to the rebels in their stronghold south of the Tsangpo River, Peiping said, thus supporting Chinese Nationalists' claims that they have been aiding the rebels. The Tsangpo River flows south of Lhasa.

Peiping said "radio stations were set up there by agents sent by the imperialists and the Chiang Kai-shek (Nationalist) clique to further their intrigues."

Trouble broke out, Peiping said, after the Dalai Lama was scheduled to attend a theatrical performance in the auditorium of the Tibetan military command. Accounts from Tibetans reaching India have said the Dalai Lama was ordered by the Red Chinese to come without companions and this raised fears for his safety among his followers.

Sunny Fortune Splits $400 Prize

By SUNNY FORTUNE
Herald Puzzle Editor

Sunny Fortune's personal Easter rabbit spread $200 eggs from Miami to Key West today—splitting the $400 prize for his puzzle between a pair of women in the two cities.

Mrs. R. T. May
. . . 'good for me!'

Mrs. Ollie Jenkins
. . . 'I'm so proud'

"Good for me," whooped Mrs. R. T. May of Miami. "I'm so proud I could cry," was the reaction of Mrs. Ollie Jenkins of Key West.

SUNNY

Ten other persons just missed a share of the eggs by a rabbit's whisker when they were one word off the correct answers.

They'll have another chance this week as Sunny drops a fresh $300 into the nest and starts building a fund for the next winner. You'll find the puzzle waiting for you on Page 4-B.

For both Mrs. May, of 490 NE 61st St., and Mrs. Jenkins of 912 Whitehead St., the prize money came "just at the right time."

Mrs. Jenkins, who has been working the puzzles about a year, said her part of the prize would go for bills and a spring outfit for her 10-year-old daughter, Sharon.

The $200 meant an Easter outfit for Mrs. May, too. "Now I can splurge," she said. "That shopping trip I was going on will become a real tour."

Neither woman takes time from her domestic activities to make a practice of entering contests. "But I've been working this one since it started," Mrs. May said, "and just decided I wouldn't give up."

FOREIGN RELATIONS — The bond between the U.S. and Great Britain is closer than at any time since World War II, thanks to President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The U.S. makes the mistake of thinking of Latin America as one great area, instead of in terms of individual countries with different problems. U.S. prestige generally is better than a year ago.

FIDEL CASTRO — If there is anything the U.S. wants it is friendship and cooperation with the Cuban people and government. Castro has indicated opposition to some U.S. policies, but it is based on misunderstandings which can be removed when the rebel leader visits the U.S.

Nixon added that U.S. relations with Latin America are being improved through the creation of an inter-American loan institution, studies aimed at stabilizing prices of Latin products and mounting interest in Latin America.

He noted that world peace has been maintained during the seven years of the Eisenhower administration, "but we are going to have crises in world affairs as long as international communism persists in its present tendencies."

He said that the major qualifications of presidential candidates shift with the times and their issues.

In addition to the usual prerequisites, he opined that presidential timber must have experience and understanding of international affairs, plus a working knowledge of domestic economics.

Nexon, however, begged off the question of whether he possessed those qualifications on grounds of prejudice.

Grim News Awaited Cinderella

NEW YORK — (UPI) — A pretty 13-year-old ballerina danced the role of Cinderella for the Perry Como television show Saturday, unaware that when the ball was over, she would be told her father was dead.

Sharon Lerit's father, Sanford, 43, died in a Newark, N.J., hospital Friday night. He had been ill 10 years and in a hospital for 11 weeks. But Sharon's mother, Florence, decided to bear her grief alone, until after Sharon had appeared before a nationwide television audience.

The members of the cast and others associated with Como show kept silent about Sharon's loss, so her mother could break the news to her after she returned home to Newark Saturday night.

The news was kept from Como, too. His associates said they had drawn a curtain of silence to keep Sharon's loss from him because it would upset him to know.

"He's a softy," a source close to Como said. "If he knew about it, he'd take her off the show to spare her from the possibility of being hurt."

The Como show on the National Broadcasting Co. television network, was in rehearsal throughout the day, and Sharon did not miss a step.

Everyone tried to treat her as though nothing had happened, but it was difficult with a score of reporters and photographers clamoring for photographs of the little Cinderella.

"We are sure she doesn't know her father is dead," a program official said. "She has been very excited over her chance to be a TV star. It is difficult for us to treat her as though nothing were wrong, but we have really worked at it."

Sharon, an eighth grade pupil who looks like a miniature version of the famous ballerina Maria Tallchief, wants to be a ballet dancer when she grows up.

She danced the Cinderella role in Como's Easter show last year, and was invited for a return engagement as the prima ballerina of a troupe of 12 little girls from the New York City Ballet School.

"I'm sure her father would have wanted her to go through with it," Mrs. Lerit said.

Holiday on Ice Producer Dies

George Tyson, producer of the Holiday on Ice shows which have toured the world and a major name in theatrical circles, died of cancer Saturday at his South Miami home.

The colorful show is scheduled to open Monday night in Miami Beach's Exhibition Hall for its 1959 Florida premiere.

Mr. Tyson, 58, had been ill for several weeks, and had suffered a relapse following an operation.

St. Gregory, the first of 16 Popes of that name, was a patrician who held a high political post in Rome before he felt the call to religious service. He then gave his wealth to the poor and made his home into a monastery. He rose to be Pope, from 590 to 604. As Pope he sent St. Augustine to effect the conversion of Britain to Christianity. His name also is associated (perhaps incorrectly) with the arrangement of so-called Gregorian mode or chant. The following Easter prayer comes down from him.

It is very meet and right, with all powers of heart and mind, and with the service of the lips, to praise the invisible God, the Father Almighty, and His Only-Begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who paid the debt of Adam for us to the Eternal Father, and effaced the bond of the ancient guilt by the Blood poured forth in loving-kindness.

For this is the Paschal festival in which Thou first didst bring our fathers, the children of Israel, out of Egypt and madest them to pass over the Red Sea dry-shod.

This, then, is the night which cleared away the darkness of sin by a pillar of radiance.

This is the night throughout the world which now restores to Grace and unites to holiness believers in Christ, separated from worldly vices and from the gloom of sin.

This is the night in which Christ broke the bonds of death and ascended from the grave, the conqueror. For to be born had been no blessing to us, unless we could have been redeemed.

Oh, the wondrous condescension of Thy loving-kindness towards us!

Oh, the inestimable tenderness of Thy love. To redeem the servant, Thou gavest up the Son.

This holy night, then, puts to flight offenses, washes away sins, and restores innocence to the fallen and joyousness to the sad.

Oh, truly blessed night, which spoiled the Egyptians and enriched the Hebrews — the night in which Heaven and earth are reconciled!

We pray Thee, Lord, therefore, that Thou wouldst preserve Thy servants in the peaceful enjoyment of this Easter happiness; through Jesus Christ our Lord, Who Livest and Reignest with God the Father, in the Unity of the Holy Ghost, God now and forever: Amen.

Joyful News : 'He Is Risen'

resurrection appearances is given in Paul's first letter to the church at Corinth:

"For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins in accordance with the scriptures, that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day in accordance with the scriptures, and that he appeared to Peter, then to the twelve.

"Then he appeared to more than 500 brethren at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have fallen asleep. Then he appeared to James, then to all the apostles. Last of all . . . he appeared also to me."

It is sometimes said that the resurrection of Jesus is "the best-attested fact in history," because the whole Christian church bears witness to it.

Those who make this statement usually have two ideas in mind.

First, they mean that the existence of the church can hardly be explained except in terms of the resurrection. As one scholar has written, "it is easier, even for a non-believer in miracles, to accept the fact of the resurrection than to find any other adequate explanation of the change that came over the disciples within three days after they had fled Jerusalem in terror."

The second meaning is that the church, from the time of the apostles until now, has consisted at its core of men and women who are convinced — not by anything they had read or have been told, but by the irrefutable evidence of their own experience — that Christ is living still.

Stay in Berlin, Most Say

Nikita Is No Better Bluff Than Stalin, Poll in U.S. Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J. — Nikita Khrushchev is having no more success in threatening the American people on Berlin than his Kremlin predecessor, Josef Stalin, did 10 years ago.

Then, as now, the basic issue at stake in the beleaguered German city, as the public sees it, is the same:

"We've got to stand firm or Russia will overrun all of Europe."

If standing firm means keeping Western troops in Berlin even at the risk of war, the public is willing today — as it was over a decade ago — to take that gamble.

The Gallup Poll

The latest vote on the issue, in fact, is amazingly similar to that recorded in the late spring of 1948 when the Soviet blockade of Berlin provoked one of the first major crises in the "cold war."

At that time, Gallup Poll reporters asked voters across the nation:

"Do you think the U.S. and her Western European allies should stay in Berlin, even if it means war with Russia — or should the U.S. give up Berlin to the Russians?"

The vote:

STAY IN BERLIN?
1948

Stay in Berlin	80 Pct.
Give up Berlin	11 Pct.
No opinion	9 Pct.

When Gallup Poll reporters asked voters their sentiments on the same basic issue in recent days, here is how those persons familiar with the Berlin crisis replied:

"Do you think we should keep American forces in Berlin — along with British and French forces — even at the risk of war?"

STAY IN BERLIN?
1959

Yes, should	81 Pct.
No, should not	11 Pct.
No opinion	8 Pct.

Since Khrushchev raised the Berlin issue anew in his ultimatum to the West last November, checks on public opinion have found virtually no change in voters' attitudes toward keeping U.S., British and French forces in West Berlin.

The most recent vote, for example, closely parallels that recorded immediately following Khrushchev's ultimatum on the subject as reported last December.

The vote among those familiar at that time (77 per cent):

STAY IN BERLIN?
December '58

Yes, should	78 Pct.
No, should not	11 Pct.
No opinion	11 Pct.

Compared to other critical national issues of recent years, the Berlin crisis has stirred up wide interest throughout the nation and in all segments of the population — 78 out of every 100 voters nationally say they have heard or read about it.

government and the Communists.

"Socialist? Yes. But Communist? No.

"The Bible says 'You shall know them by their works.' Give Castro a chance to prove himself."

Another official admitted off-the-record that Castro "talks too much when he should be listening."

"Cuba today is in a state of shocked hero worship," said this official with surprising frankness. "Unfortunately, the most 'fidelista' of all — believer in Fidel Castro — is Castro himself. Soon he must come down from the clouds and face reality."

A prominent Cuban newspaperman, known as a longtime Castro backer, said he is fearful that while the 32-year-old prime minister talks himself hoarse on radio and television, left-wing extremists are moving into key advisory positions.

Among these are Alfredo Guevara, who directs classes in Marxist teachings to the army; Baco Alanso, head of the National Fine Arts Commission; Carlos Franqui, former proofreader on the Communist organ "Hoy" who now runs Castro's governmnet newspaper "Revolucion;" Antonia Antuna, who directs the National Institute of Culture under the Education Ministry; Casals Perez, head of "Rebel Radio," and many others.

Castro's brother, Raul heads the new army and "tolerates" communism. Another military strongman, now ill, is Argentine-born "Che" Guevara, who claims to be non-Communist although he has played ball with the Reds.

Two leftist authors, Emil Roig de Leuschenroig and Antonio Nunez Jimenez, have been reinstated to places of prominence and their works are being used in the schools and in indoctrinating the military.

Alberto Suno, assistant secretary general in the Prime Ministry, discounted the Red threat to this newsman.

"There is no question but what the Communists are trying to get into Cuba's government," he said. "They won't succeed."

Castro has lofty aims. But too many of his plans are unrealistic and dangerous. Right now he appears to be in the position of an amateur tightrope walker on a high wire for the first time without a net.

National Summary

A high pressure area pushing southward from Canada resulted in fair and cool weather over most of the country from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic during mid day Saturday with temperatures ranging from the 20s in the northern tier of states to the 50s in the Gulf States, except in Florida where readings reached the 80s.

Fair weather will continue over much of this area through Sunday, but frost was expected to extend as far south as the Carolinas by dawn today. Slowly rising temperatures are expected in this area by afternoon, however.

Scattered thundershowers or rain showers from eastern Texas into the lower Mississippi Valley will move into the eastern Gulf States today, while the variable cloudiness over the plains will continue through tomorrow.

Fair to partly cloudy weather will continue through Sunday over the southern portion of the Rocky Mountain States while showers or snow flurries will be scattered over the northern part accompanied by variable cloudiness during the same period.

Northern California, where snow fell Saturday, will be cloudy today, while the remainder of California will remain generally fair.

Two Dade Seats 'Just Time Waste'

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Sen. John Rawls of Marianna said flatly Saturday that state officials are "wasting their time" trying to sell the Legislature a reapportionment plan that gives any county more than one senator.

Rawls said Gov. LeRoy Collins might as well face the fact that no matter what inducements his plan might offer the rural counties, it will never be approved as long as it includes two senators for Dade County.

He also blasted Attorney General Richard Ervin for advancing a plan to give Duval, Dade and Hillsborough Counties each two senators.

"Dick Ervin should attend to the attorney general's office and leave reapportionment to the Legislature," he snapped, clearly irritated at any Cabinet officer joining in the long reapportionment squabble.

Rawls is chairman of the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee, which will have to approve any new reapportionment plan, and a majority of the committee shares his views.

He said the committee will not be able to meet before the opening of the Legislature April 7. When it does meet, he said, it will write its own reapportionment bill, and the governor can take it or leave it.

The Jackson County senator said he will offer a plan of his own, following the philosophy of adding a few new districts for fast-growing counties which now share a senator.

It is not yet in final form, but it will not go beyond the 45-Senator measure the last Legislature approved, and might not go as far.

Collins sent all legislators a memorandum last week, explaining that his plan would give additional representation to the urban areas without taking anything from the slower-growing rural counties.

It leaves intact small counties which now have a separate senator, and permits a maximum of eight new districts to give senators to Bay, Monroe, Sarasota, Manatee, Okaloosa, Seminole, Brevard and Lee Counties.

All these counties, but Lee, were given senators in the 1957 bill, which died when the Supreme Court threw out the whole constitutional revision program of the 1957 session.

But it did not contain what majority leaders call the "Collins joker," a second senator for populous Dade.

Rawls said Collins' explanation has not influenced him one iota.

"I intend to fight it vigorously and any other plan that bases Senate membership on population, even for one district," he said.

Ervin, in a written recommendation to the governor and Legislature, included a section on reapportionment for the first time.

He said the Legislature should consider eliminating the provision limiting each county to no more than one senator, so the three largest counties might be given an additional senator.

Ervin proposed a compromise solution which would add three, or perhaps five Senate seats, and reapportion the present 38 districts.

This would not, he said, create an imbalance between large and small counties in so far as the urban and rural populations are concerned.

When the present reapportionment formula was written into the constitution, Ervin added, about 35 per cent of the population elected a majority of the Senate.

But with the shift in population southward, less than 17 per cent of the people now elect a majority of the Senate.

If his plan for additonal districts were added, the percentage of the electorate choosing a majority of the Senate would not even closely approach 35 per cent, he said, but it would comply with the constitutional mandate and help allay criticism that "our larger metropolitan centers are discriminated against under present apportionment."

Bomb Law Proposals Drafted

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Florida's prosecuting attorneys will ask the Legislature next month to enact broad laws to deter terrorist and hoax bombings.

The prosecutors will urge it be made a felony to threaten to bomb, dynamite or blow up a building, and a penalty of up to a year in jail, or a $1,000 fine, for making false reports of bombings.

The state's prosecutors and Circuit Judges have given approval to a host of other so-called "lawyer's bills."

One of the jurist's measures would increase to 10 years the terms of judges of the Supreme, District Appellate and Circuit Courts. This would require a constitutional amendment, changing the present six-year limitation.

The prosecutors guaranteed revival of an age-old fight in the Legislature by recommending for re-submission the proposal state attorneys appoint their own assistants.

Assistants are now named by the governor in every county except Dade, which has a separate constitutional amendment. The prosecutors will also recommend every state attorney be allowed a special investigator and a $300-a-month secretary.

Another controversial proposal of the prosecutors would permit automatic revocation of the driver's license of a person arrested for drunken driving who refuses a test of the alcoholic content of his blood.

The prosecutors' other bills include:

ADOPTING a model perjury act.

MAKING it an offense to resist a city police officer while he is making an arrest for violation of state law.

AUTHORIZING the search of a dwelling for any evidence of crime.

RAISING the maximum penalty to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

PERMITTING city police, in "hot pursuit" of a violator, to chase him beyond the city limits to make the arrest.

MAKING it a misdemeanor to attach to a motor vehicle a license plate not issued for that vehicle.

Among bills recommended by judges are:

REQUIRE suits for divorce against a non-resident to be filed in the county where the plaitiff resides.

MAKE the penalty for forgery, or uttering forged bank checks or drafts, the same as for larceny.

INCREASE mileage allowance for jurors from five to 10 cents a mile.

Convention Gains Seen In Florida

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capital Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Development Commission reported Saturday nearly 57 million dollars was spent in Florida in 1958 by 530,000 state, regional and national delegates, who attended a total of 1,918 conventions.

Survey figures from 23 cities revealed a substantial increase over 1957. Approximately fifty-four million dollars was spent in the state in 1957 by 403,000 delegates, who attended 1,089 conventions.

Average expenditure per delegate attending a national convention was estimated at $126.15. Spending by a state or regional delegate averaged $111.42.

National conventions in the state are on the increase. A total of 624 national conventions were held in Florida in 1958, and 415 in 1957.

Increase of accommodations and facilities, climate and combination convention - vacations, have considerably brightened Florida's convention picture, the commission said.

Conventions already booked for Miami Beach's huge exhibition hall for 1960 will bring 187,500 persons. The city expects to equal, or better last year's business in 1959 and double it in 1960.

Jacksonville's newest convention lure will be the Sports Coliseum, with a seating capacity of 13,000 persons, to be completed in the fall of 1960.

Where's Party? Ron'll Tell For Slight 'Living' Fee

(Another Story, Page 1G)

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — You can't beat a college education.

Take the case of 22-year-old Ron Kaiser of St. Louis, who is proving himself the beach college set's "craziest" promoter since two students "promoted" themselves to Marine corporals with fake identification cards and spent a couple days in the local pokey.

Here's how Ron, who said he graduated from the University of Illinois and studied at Sorbonne in Paris (thus the beard) spends his beach time among collegians!

—Selling "stock" in his "corporation."

—Tearing the corners off dollar bills.

By applying himself diligently to these pursuits, Ron manages (1) to pay his rent and (2) to buy beer.

The "corporation" is Beach Parties Inc., which Ron said he started so he could pay his rent.

College guys and gals join the corporation by paying Ron 10 cents each and get their names registered in a little book. The subscription entitles them to knowledge of all parties on the beach which Ron knows about.

"I usually know of about four or five a night," he said. "I already have 249 members in the club — shooting for 300 and then I'll retire.

"I get all the money—$24.90 so far. Use most of it for beer.

"I got some of the local big guys behind me. You know, lifeguards and so on . . . big men on the beach like that big fellow over there."

Ron said his "dollar bill corners" scheme wasn't too profitable.

"I'd tear the corner off a bill and leave it barely showing between two seashells. Then'd I'd offer whatever was inside to a guy for a quarter. It looked like there was a dollar in there.

"Only made about two bucks on that so I started the corporation."

So K-B-I, Wedge

You're 'Off the Wall' When 'Out to Lunch'

By DUANE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — are you "a cage rattler," "bent out of shape," or "off the wall?"

That's college talk as it's spoken at the beach this year, and if you don't dig it you're "out to lunch," "a real loser" or "bad news."

If you're really "out of it," you're "a honk," "a tool," or "a load."

But whatever you are, "stay loose," and KBI—"keep believing it."

College kids vacationing here will tell you that once you're "out strictly" (out to lunch), it's hard to "swing easy" again—especially if you aren't "tweedy" or "a mover."

And if you're "a smasher," or frequently become "smashed," "you've had it" and probably are "out of it" for good.

Stay out of left field. Organize. If a recognized sorority or fraternity won't have you, "tap-a-key-a-day" will.

Don't run for your dictionary. Only "a clod" or "a wedge" would do that.

Only collegians "are tuned" to these expressions and only they can explain them. Here are some of the definitions:

CAGE RATTLER — A handsome man who "rattles" or "shakes up" girls.
BENT OUT OF SHAPE — One who is intoxicated.
OFF THE WALL — One possessing a deficient personality.
OUT TO LUNCH — A square.
BAD NEWS — A dope.
REAL LOSER — A dopey dope. Also a "honk," "tool," "wedge" or "load."
SWINGS EASY — One who's popular.
SMASHER — A heavy drinker.
SMASHED — Intoxicated.
MOVER — One who moves about in the best circles.
SNAKEY — A beautiful off-beat girl.
TOUGH DOLLIE — Beautiful on-beat girl.
TWEEDY — A fellow who dresses well.
GROG — Beer.
TUNED — You're coming through.
KEEP BELIEVING IT — An expression with no particular meaning.

Dulles Due at Hobe Sound

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flies to Florida Monday to recuperate from radiation treatments for his abdominal cancer.

Dulles will travel aboard the presidential plane Columbine III. He is scheduled to depart at 10:45 a.m., arriving at the Palm Beach Air Force Base at 2:15 p.m.

The secretary will motor about 30 miles to Hobe Sound, where he will stay for an indefinite period at the residence of Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon.

Dulles will be accompanied by his wife; his special assistant Joseph N. Greene Jr.; Capt. Edward J. Kamin II, a Walter Reed Army Hospital staff specialist in internal medicine, and Miss Phylis Bernau, the secretary's personal assistant.

27 White Families To Vacate

LAKELAND—(UPI)—Twenty-seven white families here voluntarily have agreed to move from their homes to provide a new housing development for the over-crowded Negro population.

Officials hailed the move as a big step toward bettering race relations and preventing possible attempts by Negroes to move into other white sections.

City Planner George Sanford said the privately-conducted transfer in the Pinehurst Court subdivision will help solve "Lakeland's most pressing problem."

The 40-acre tract, at the northern outskirts, contains well-kept, moderately-priced homes. Most of the houses are in the $7,000 to $10,500 bracket, with one valued at $15,500.

Owners of 24 homes have agreed to put them up for sale immediately and the other three said they would rent the houses to Negroes.

A Negro spokesman predicted all the houses would be bought within 10 days after they are put on the market.

Some 9,000 Negroes live in Lakeland's Negro districts, so jammed not one remaining lot is eligible for FHA home financing. Lakeland's population is about 35,000.

The Pinehurst Court has a number of lots available for new Negro housing.

Ike Plods, Kennedy Declares

TAMPA — (UPI) — Sen. John Kennedy (D., Mass.) said Saturday the Eisenhower administration is "plodding along with leaden feet" on both foreign and domestic policies and predicted a Democratic victory in the 1960 presidential election.

Kennedy, a possible Democrat nominee, told a state convention of Young Democrats the GOP had offered nothing but promises in dealing with domestic and international problems and the American people would surely vote for a change.

"It is easy to say we need a new administration. But it will be up to the party to make sure that the voters make a change the next time," he said.

"We've got to come forward with a new and dynamic program," he added.

Apgar Services Set For Today

VERO BEACH — Mrs. Isabel Apgar of 3501 Ocean Dr., who had lived in Vero Beach 11 years, died Saturday. She moved here from Lake Worth. Survivors include two daughters, Berly Kalix of Vero Beach and Bettye Elliott of Orlando. Services will be at 7 p.m. today at Floyd Funeral Home.

Mystery Sniper Kills Woman Near Sarasota

LAUREL — (UPI) — A marksman fired one bullet through the front door of a home and killed a prominent Laurel matron Saturday night.

The bullet struck Mrs. Hazel Curry Woodward squarely between the eyes as she watched television. She died four hours later without regaining consciousness.

The victim's husband, former Sarasota County Commissioner William Woodward, told deputy sheriffs the assassin also fired at him. He said he was working in a garage near the house.

He said he ran outside and heard someone running away in the darkness.

Investigators who worked through the night on the case said they could not find the bullet Woodward said was fired at him. Officers said they had found no motive for the slaying. They said Woodward, a businessman, was apparently on good terms with his wife.

Deputies said the assassin stood on the front porch of the Woodward home shortly before midnight and aimed his weapon through the front door. The bullet passed through the screen door and hit Mrs. Woodward, sitting in a chair in a front room.

Woodward told officers a bullet whizzed harmlessly past him as he was working in his garage. He said he ran outside just in time to hear retreating footsteps. Then, he said, he found his wife dying on the floor.

Neighbors backed up Woodward's story that at least two shots were fired.

Named Mayor by Castro

Socas Puts 'Duty' Above Busboy Pay

ORLANDO —(UPI)— Meet the new mayor of Bolondron, Cuba, a 29-year-old bus boy who juggled dirty dishes by day and worked as a revolutionary by night for two years.

But Jose Gilberto Socas said he would rather be a bus boy in the U.S. than mayor of a Cuban city.

When Socas clears the last table at Ronnie's Restaurant here tonight, he will head for Tampa Airport bound for his new job as mayor.

"I like this country. I no want to leave it," he said in heavily-accented English. "This is a better living for my wife and two children. But I must do my duty."

Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, who met his staunch supporter only once, named Socas provisional mayor of Bolondron, a town of 16,000 in Matanzas Province, 120 miles south of Havana.

"I did not ask Castro for anything. I did not want any position in the new government. That's why I did not go back to Cuba after the revolution ended.

"This is a very big position — being mayor — little money and lots of worry.

"Besides, they like me very much here at the restaurant. I do a good job. I work hard. I am honest."

Socas frankly admits he doesn't know if he's particularly qualified to act as mayor of a Cuban city.

But he said he has been dabbling in political groups ever since he was a student of 17 in his hometown.

"When I got out of Cuba three years ago," he said, "I was local president of the Orthodox Party. I have had much experience with politicians. I am young but this is a young people's government."

His political activities in the quiet south Cuban city caused him to be put in jail "three or four times." His last visit behind bars convinced him it was unsafe to remain in Cuba as long as it was under the grip of President Fulgencio Batista.

He fled to Miami but was unable to get work because his papers were not in order. Later he was given a refugee visa and got a job at the Orlando restaurant washing dishes.

After hours he found plenty of work with Castro's local 26th of July movement.

"I made contributions to Castro and the party by collecting money, selling bonds and making propaganda. I also helped in other things," he said, declining to explain further.

Socas said he served as a correspondent for three Cuban newspapers, Diario Matanza, Cardena Oriental and Manana of Havana.

Socas said he doesn't have any plans for his job as mayor.

"I will work hard and do my best," he said. "Maybe, one of these years I can buy another drug store like I used to operate with my father-in-law before the revolution."

State Court Rapped

Herald's Gucker To Head Newsmen

JACKSONVILLE—(AP)—The Florida Daily Newspaper Association elected Arthur J. Gucker, business manager of The Miami Herald, president Saturday and took a strong slap at the Florida Supreme Court.

Arthur J. Gucker
. . . state press president

Norman Artman, publisher of the Key West Citizen, succeeds Gucker as vice president.

R. C. Millar publisher of the Florida Times-Union, was reelected treasurer; Robert Lodmell, publisher of the Lake Wales Highlander, was reelected a director; and George Archer, publisher of the West Palm Beach Post-Times, was elected to the board.

Gucker, 56, joined The Herald in 1944. He has been business manager and a director of Knight Newspapers, Inc., since 1955.

The thrust at the Supreme Court came over its recent decision in the appeal of Phillip Singer, a deaf mute convicted of the slaying in 1956 of Mrs. Marylin Fagin, wife of Osee Fagin, who was prosecuting attorney for Alachua County, and who now is a State Representative.

The state charged Singer shot Mrs. Fagin in revenge for his conviction by Fagin on a charge of trespassing at the Gainesville Golf and Country Club after he had been fired as maintenance man.

Singer was captured several weeks later in Canada.

The court said there was no doubt about his guilt but that "newspapers should censor crime details that might be prejudicial" to the accused.

In reply the newspaper group declared:

"Factual information, dealing with occurrences of public interest and the performances of officers in their official duties, is vital and necessary for the public and curtailment of such news would deprive the people of information required for the intelligent exercise of the responsibilities as citizens.

"The people's right to know applies to acts of violence and other crimes as well as it does to other news and such publication in many cases protects the rights of defendants from over-zealous law enforcement officials."

Group Host To Senator

U.S. Sen. Jennings Randolph of West Virginia will discuss "The Business Man in Public Affairs" before the Committee of One Hundred at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the committee's Belle Isle club house.

RANDOLPH

This will be the committee's last meeting of the 1958-59 season.

Sen. Randolph was known as the "Boy Orator" when he was a member of the U.S. House of Representatives from 1933 to 1947. Previous to his election to the Senate last November, he was assistant to the president and director of public relations for Capital Airlines.

Bar Seeking Legal Base For Peace

By JOHN H. FENTON
The New York Times Service

BOSTON—The American Bar Association has undertaken a search for leadership in world peace through law.

Seventy-five lawyers from 11 Eastern states met here to launch the program under the association's committee on world peace through law.

This is the first of a series of five regional meetings in the U.S. They are intended to mine information from selected groups of lawyers on how international disputes may be settled at the bar instead of the battlefield.

The selections are being made by the presidents of state bar associations. Other meetings are to be held in Charlotte, N.C., Chicago, San Francisco and Dallas.

The meetings in the U.S. are to be followed by others tentatively planned for Latin America, Asia, Africa and Europe. A world conference of lawyers to formulate an international code of law is the ultimate goal.

Charles S. Rhyne of Washington, D.C. a former president of the bar association, is chairman of the committee.

During his term last year he travelled more than 40,000 miles and visited 40 countries, including the Soviet Union, on behalf of the concept of a "lawful" world.

Rhyne said that he was confident that Soviet Russia eventually would join in the effort. He asserted that if the free world could show that acceptance of the compulsory jurisdiction of an international law could work, "that they would almost be forced propagandawise to come in."

BECKLEY, W. Va. — (AP) — Police would like to put the bite on a thief who broke into a dental laboratory here. A spokesman for the Como Co. told police a burglar had stolen 450 sets of false teeth valued at some $2,000.

Our Hero! He Saved The Porch

NORTH VERNON, Ind. —(AP) — Some businessmen in Rep. Randall S. Harmon's birthplace are plugging him as a presidential candidate who saved the disappearing American front porch.

In the hullabaloo over the $100-a-month government rent Harmon collects for a home office on his own front porch in Muncie, Ind., John Powell organized a "Randall S. Harmon for President Club No. 1" here, saying:

"The front porch for American homes was finished until Harmon came along. And if he can save the front porch from extinction, he is the needed man of the hour to bring back other virtues of American living that are gradually fading from the scene."

Powell, a loan office manager, lined up 15 other gleeful citizens as club members, and they sent Harmon a straight-faced letter, asking his authorization.

There has been no reply, but Powell said he expects the Democratic congressman to approve, for the publicity if nothing else.

More Than 300 Sets of Twins to Parade Today

More than 300 sets of twins will parade down Flagler St. and Biscayne Blvd. this afternoon.

Traveling by roller skates, baby carriages, floats, and on foot, they will move two by two from the courthouse to Bayfront Park, starting at 2:30.

And at the end of the parade, a bugler will sound the signal for the annual egg hunt—open to all children under 12, twins or not—to begin in the park.

Prizes for the egg hunt will be awarded at the bandshell at 4 p.m. Winners will get a variety of prizes, including a radio, a baseball glove and amusement park tickets.

Parade prizes will be awarded in three divisions — for floats, for twins from 6 to 12, and for teenage twins.

Former Gov. Fuller Warren will be chairman of the parade judges, who will include State Attorney Richard Gerstein; Mrs. Laura Sutter, supervisor of special education for Dade schools; Dr. Arthur Sokoloff, authority on twins; Pat Murphy of The Miami Herald; Rosalind Rush of The Miami News; and television personalities Chuck Zink, Bill Wyler, Molly Turner and Susan Shutter.

Joining the twins in the parade will be five local drum and bugle corps, including three state champion units.

The parade and egg hunt are sponsored by the Dade County Mothers of Twins Club, founded five years ago by Mrs. Penny Thompson.

Salt Poses Problem

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

COCOA — Taste your next glass of water carefully . . . then try to imagine it loaded with salt.

That'll give you an idea why the Brevard County Commission wants to convert the St. Johns River into a reservoir.

BROWN

The St. Johns provides water for about half Brevard's people. If it gets salty, their water will be salty.

And people can't live without fresh water.

Neither can the beef cattle and the citrus trees important to Brevard's economy.

Salty water creeps into Brevard's soil from the Atlantic and the Indian and Banana rivers.

It fights with fresh water seeping eastward from the St. Johns, and while the St. Johns is high it can't go far inland.

But when the St. Johns falls because of drought or because a lot of people are using its water, the salt marches inland poisoning soil and contaminating wells.

If the fresh river falls far enough, ocean salt water can also come into it by traveling upstream from the river mouth at Jacksonville. Ocean water has gotten as far as Lake Mohroe (just outside Brevard) that way.

* * *

Money Needed

This isn't theory. It's already happening, according to County Commissioner Bernard Parrish.

Parrish says salt has marched into some of the groves of Turnbull Hummock in North Brevard — the county's richest citrus-area.

Other salt has knocked out some Merritt Island groves, he adds.

County Agriculture Agent James Oxford is even more concerned. Salty springs — which may be fed by the ocean — are throwing their poison into the St. Johns just west of Cocoa, he says,

In theory the solution to the problem is simple.

If the waters of the St. Johns were impounded and kept at 20 to 25 feet above sea level, they could halt salt intrusion and insure Brevard of sweet water.

The Central and South Florida Flood Control District has a 34.5-million-dollar plan for doing that — but it doesn't have the money to undertake the plan.

Because it lacks the money, the FCD staff led by Director Ed Dail — a man familiar with Brevard's problems — is working on a cheaper plan which needs the cooperation of riverside property owners.

* * *

Impatient

The FCD staff is now asking the property owners for permission to flood part of their land, and asking them to build the riverside dikes which would keep the spreading river waters from covering valuable agricultural property.

But Brevard's commissioners are getting impatient.

They point out the county has been pouring money into the FCD for 10 years and gotten nothing back.

This year's Brevard contribution will be about $160,000 — enough to support a bond issue for dams and spillways, according to Commission Chairman Max Rodes and Parrish.

The commission plan has one kink.

The river in many places is the Brevard-Orange county line, so some of the water control works must be built in Orange County. The commission will have trouble doing that because it can't spend money outside Brevard.

FCD agents car spend money in both counties easily because both are part of the FCD

From this controversy — which has raged without much notice from the people who drink the water — one point has become clear:

Something must be done . . . and something must be done soon.

Something Special for Dobbin Today

. . . he's a star in unique Easter festival

High-Hat Horses Prance In St. Augustine's Parade

ST. AUGUSTINE — (UPI) — Twenty high-stepping horses pulling 20 gaily decorated carriages will prance through the streets of this historic city today in one of the nation's most unusual Easter parades.

Even the horses will be decked out in their Easter finest — jaunty Easter bonnets.

In everyday life, many of the same high-hat steeds earn their daily oats by hauling tourists' carriages about the city.

This year, the annual "Parada de Los Caballos y Coches" — or parade of horses and coaches — is based on a historical theme.

Riding in each of the carriages will be members of the royal family of Spain, which had control of the city in the 17th century. In reality, they will be masquerading local citizenry.

Mrs. Jacqueline Lopez Young will "star" as Queen Mariana, Spanish ruler from 1665 to 1675 who authorized construction of the famed Castillo de San Marcos here in 1672. It is the oldest masonry fort in the U.S.

Mrs. Young and her entourage of 12 are all descendents of the Solana family which can trace its lineage to 12th century Spain. They will wear authentic royal dress of the 17th century.

Only 20 horses will have bonnets, but about 75 in all will be used in the celebration. Those with hats can thank their designer, Mrs. Victoria Broadbent, who also was responsible for the hand-decorated flowered carriages.

The Easter service actually begins with a sunrise service atop the old fort. Later pontifical mass will be observed in the nation's oldest Roman Catholic cathedral, with Protestant services two hours later.

The Eastern festival continues through April 5, featuring Saint Augustine's historical pageant Monday, Tuesday and Friday.

More than 200 costumed actors will particiapte in the pageant based on the period 1565 through 1671.

That Warehouse On Agenda Again

By ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Correspondent

JENSEN BEACH—The public will be given a chance to express views on the hottest zoning issue yet to face officials and semi-officials in Martin County.

The Jensen Beach Zoning Committee, headed by Warner B. Tilton, will conduct a public hearing on the granting of a building permit to Johnny Hendry on the Jensen Beach Cut-off Rd. at 8 p.m. Monday at the community center.

The controversy between the zoning committee and the Martin County Planning Board goes deeper than the question of whether or not to give Hendry a permit to construct a warehouse-office building in an area zoned for commercial two, which permits motels, hotels, and doctor's offices.

The Box Score:

Hendry was turned down on the permit request by the Jensen Zoning Committee on the basis that the permit was in violation of existing laws.

Hendry took request to zoning board on appeal. The zoning board, headed by Arnold Bauer, could not get a quorum so took the request directly before the commission.

The county commission granted the request and directed Thomas Hellier to issue the permit.

On Feb. 13, the commission reversed its decision and it learned that the local zoning committee refused it in January, tossed the problem back in the laps of the Jensen zoning committee.

The Jensen zoning committee, again, refused the request for the permit at an early meeting in March.

On March 3, the zoning board, by a vote of 3-1 overruled the Jensen zoning committee's decision the the grounds that the "zoning committee had abused its discretionary powers."

The county commission on March 10 was presented with the zoning board's decision, and voted to agree with the local zoning committee's request that a public hearing be held in order that nearby property owners could voice opinions of the issue.

Tilton from the first said that if the permit was granted it would be a variance and should be decided at a public hearing.

Fire Levels House, Wind Fans Flames

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

COCOA — A fire, fanned by a brisk breeze, Saturday leveled a two-story frame house in Sharpes, a small community about five miles north of Cocoa.

Firemen from Cocoa and two Brevard County volunteer units weren't able to do much "except watch it burn" because the blaze had a good start by the time they arrived, Bob Sunday, assistant chief of the Four Communities Volunteer Fire Department, said.

Burned out were Mr. and Mrs. Morton Parks and George Mack, a boarder. No one was injured, but all three lost most of their belongings.

Parks attributed the fire to faulty wiring. The blaze started in the attic.

The house, which stood on the Indian River shore, was one firemen managed to save two months ago when a nearby house burned to the ground.

Student, 17, Drowned: Aunt Saved

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — A 17-year-old Melbourne High School senior drowned Saturday in the Indian River off the Melbourne-Indialantic Causeway when he swam out to retrieve a loose fishline cork.

Police identified the victim as Donald Mays who came here six weeks ago from Alabama. He had been fishing with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Holmes of Melbourne.

Mrs. Holmes also figured in the mishap and quick action by an off-duty Melbourne policeman, Eldon E. Fry, who was fishing nearby, saved her from drowning. Mrs. Holmes was taken to Brevard Hospital here, where her condition was reported as good.

Police said Mays, reportedly a good swimmer, apparently suffered a cramp when he swam after the cork. He called for help and his aunt and Fry swam out to him. Mrs. Holmes reached the boy first and, when he started to pull her under, Fry grabbed her and brought her to shore.

Mays' body was found in seven feet of water, about 50 feet from shore.

Pension Changes Studied

By ANNE WILDER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — A warning the Fort Pierce municipal pension system is headed for financial difficulties was again sounded by City Manager Floyd Glisson when he met with city employes to discuss alternate pension plans.

The city was told by an actuary, A. G. Gabriel of Detroit, more than a year ago the pension system is underfinanced. So far, no alternate plan has been set up.

Mayor James Howe, talking to the group Friday night, said the City Commission's concern is to make sure that, when the employes retire, necessary funds are available. He added "Nothing is going to be forced on you — whatever is done will be done with the approval of the majority."

Glisson said Friday the "guesstimate" is that the present system will be in trouble in about 12 years. In his original report, Gabriel said the plan will work a "grave hardship" on younger workers, who pay into the fund for years, and then find anticipated benefits sharply reduced.

The present system provides for reduction of pensions if city and employe contributions are not sufficient to pay the benefits set up.

Glisson said Gabriel has been asked to draw several plans for employe consideration. One will be a modified pension plan, coordinated with social security.

The City Commission has approved bringing city employes under social security, if the employes so desire, but cannot finance both the pension system and the social security payments.

Glisson said he felt social security benefits would more than make up any benefits lost in changing the pension system, as far as the younger workers are concerned.

The problem, he said, is workers near the retirement age, who would not be under social security long enough to derive benefits.

As far as the city pension system soundness is concerned, Glisson said if employes wish to select an accountant or actuary to make a study for them, the city will pay the bill.

2 Brothers Will Need Introduction

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — (AP) — Robert Boling, 37, of Waterloo, Iowa, met Edwin Boling, 60, of Marion, Ind., his oldest brother, for the first time.

The introduction was made by a fourth brother, Jim Boling, 47, of St. Joseph.

The reason Robert had never met Edwin and Loren was that they left home before he was born. All except Robert were born at Barnes, Kan Robert was born here.

School Officials Ask Salary Hikes

Herald Service

FORT PIERCE—St. Lucie County School Board members will seek raises for themselves and a pay increase for the school superintendent, at the coming legislative session.

The board, meeting Saturday, unanimously approved submitting these bills to Rep. Rupert J. Smith for introduction. The bills did not include a referendum provision.

The board salary bill would raise members' pay from $50 a month to $150. School Superintendent Ben Bryan said St. Lucie is one of six counties paying $50 a month, lowest for board members.

A second bill would allow the board to set the school superintendent's salary at 10 per cent above top salary paid other school personnel. At present, several receive as much, or more than the superintendent.

Bryan said Saturday the bill would enable the board to set a salary scale commensurate with the responsibility of the position. School personnel have received four salary increases in recent years, while the superintendent's salary is unchanged.

Other bills requested by the school board would enable school bus drivers to have 20 days cumulative leave, instead of six and set up a division of racing tax funds, to allow 10 per cent to go to an area junior college. This plan has been approved by the St. Lucie County Commission.

Board members elected E. C. Collins chairman to succeed the late Clyde Cato. Kirby Hayes was elected vice chairman.

Teacher's Funeral Is Monday

Herald Service

VERO BEACH — The funeral of Leo S. Cahill, 46, Vero Beach High School teacher, will be at 9 a.m. Monday at St. Helen's Catholic Church.

Mr. Cahill, a director of the Florida Education Association, was injured in an automobile accident on March 23 while returning from an FEA meeting at Tampa. He died Friday in a Lakeland hospital.

A move for a memorial to the veteran teacher has been started. Contributions to the memorial fund may be sent to the L. S. Cahill Memorial, at the Indian River Citrus Bank. Fergus Wood, one of the memorial group, said.

The nature of the memorial has not yet been set, Wood said. Several plans are being considered.

Road Work In Orlando

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — The road department said Saturday four-laning of nearly two miles of Kuhl Ave. in Orlando will get started April 6.

The $731,427 project will extend from Jennie Jewel Dr. south of Orlando, north to Gore Ave. in the city.

Work is also expected to begin April 4 on a $217,347 improvement project on State Road 828 in Miami. And the department said paving of seven miles of State Road S-278 southwest of Defuniak Springs has been completed.

Strategy Planners Prepare

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — A heated battle over Melbourne's proposal to annex 22 square miles of western lands took shape Saturday. The showdown on the issue will come in an April 18 election.

Both pro and anti-annexationists warmed up to the expected big fight with frequent searing word battles.

Meanwhile, Melbourne's citizens committee on consolidation of the rural and urban areas laid plans for an educational campaign for votes. Annexation foes mapped their own battle plan, including a public meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Eau Gallie Civic Center.

The Melbourne consolidation committee and representatives of the unincorporated West Melbourne area met recently to discuss the move. Harlan Manweiler, president of the West Melbourne Chamber of Commerce, reported "nothing concrete" was decided.

Annexation foes have been quietly working within the city limits to drum up support for their side. Their pitch is directed mostly to new sub-division residents.

Under Melbourne's charter, city and annexation area voters will ballot in the same election. Melbourne voters, therefore, hold the key to success or failure of annexation.

This election setup appears to be one of the important talking points for the anti-annexationists. They dub it "unfair." They also claim Melbourne would not be able to provide municipal services, because "most of the territory consists of raw acreage."

But the consolidation committee chairman, Neill Johnson, said Saturday, "The insignificant costs are trivial, compared to the vast benefits. Welding these two areas into one great community is not only for today and tomorrow. We are looking into the future—five, 10, even 50 years from now."

Johnson said the city will be organized on a block by block basis in a drive to get out voters in the special election. Numerous civic organizations have already volunteered their services.

All registered voters may ballot in the April 18 election, and Johnson's committee will also attempt to get qualified residents to register.

Opposition to the program is headed by a recently organized Committee Against Annexation and the West Melbourne Chamber. Eau Gallie also is opposing the Melbourne annexation.

Few Patriots

HOLLIS, Okla —(AP)— Sponsors of a program to celebrate this city's 50th anniversary said they will try once more to interest citizens in the proposed event. At their first meeting six persons turned out.

Illness, Starvation Stalk Northwest Haiti

Drought Brings Death

Agriculture is the backbone of the northwestern area of Haiti. Farm products need rain and this area has had no rain for many months. One brief shower caused the desperate farmers to plant the last of their seed. Now, even if it should rain, there can be no planting.

On the footsteps of the drought have followed the grim spectres of starvation and disease. Evelyn DeTardo of The Herald staff recently visited Haiti and here tells the grim story of what she found there.

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

PORT-DE-PAIX, Haiti — For the last 13 months northwest Haiti has been slowly drying up.

Illness and death are now taking its toll of the starvation-weak people.

A farming region, northwest Haiti exists on its production of bananas, coffee, beans, peanuts and grain. Normal rainfall in May varies from five to seven inches in this area. Last May not a single drop of rain fell.

Except for a brief shower in December, which encouraged farmers to mortgage their homes or borrow money for seed, they have had no rain for more than a year. The seed now lies dried and rotting in the ground.

Heads of families, already weak from starvation, have left the area in search of jobs, walking as far as 100 miles. Most do not find jobs and on their return find their wives or some of the children have died in their absence.

ONE FATHER, who left to sell charcoal for his starved wife, fell from weakness on the way. After resting a day and making the sale, he returned home to find his wife dead.

A WOMAN in the area took her youngest child and set off to beg, leaving two older ones with neighbors. The children left behind are not expected to live and the father, who went in search of work and food about two months ago, has not been heard from.

The Haitians' woes began with hurricane Hazel, which battered the area in 1954. The people have not been able to recover from the economic losses of the big wind.

Animals have been holding up better than people, but they are not expected to last much longer.

Donkeys' which used to sell for $12 to $14 are now being offered for $1 and $2. There are no buyers. No one has food for animals.

Farmers are starving and in debt. Merchants can no longer give credit as their customers are penniless and not buying or paying back.

A number of residents are too ashamed to leave their homes because their clothes have worn completely away and they have no money to buy new ones.

Marcel Cornet, French priest in the Jean Rabel parrish, fears a typhoid epidemic may decimate the famine stricken area. More than 200 have died already from lack of food and typhoid in that region, which has about 45,000 population. There is no estimate of the entire population in the northwest.

NEWS FROM AROUND
LATIN AMERICA

Father Cornet, touring the medical dispensaries in the hunger areas, said the medicine which exists is too expensive for the populace at cost, and many dispensaries even are out of aspirin.

At one dispensary they did not even have tea to give a young woman who had just given birth to a child. Instead they sent her out into the market to beg for food so she could come back and nurse her baby.

More than 2,000 persons are believed fled to the Bahama Islands from the drought stricken coastal areas in the northwest and from the island of Tortuga.

A Baptist Church in La Belle, which used to have a congregation of about 260 had an attendance of two on a recent Sunday.

One family visited near Jean Rabel, is typical of the famine infested area of the northwest.

A young boy, arms and legs like thin twigs sat shelling a handful of peas for lunch. His stomach was swollen like a balloon and his cheeks puffed from fever.

His father, Estilen Vital, was boiling green mangoes in a tin can. For a change of diet they sometimes bake the mangoes.

Vital's 15-year old son recently died of starvation. The only animal they have left is a pig, which, if there were any buyers, he would have sold for his son's funeral.

Haitian funerals generally require elaborate ceremonies. Without money, the dead are now being buried under the cover of night, without coffins.

The hopeless attitude of the people is appalling.

Some have written to the president, and have received no reply. "Only God can save us now," they say.

One farming family in Fond-La-Loi works all day Sunday weaving baskets. They are able to weave about five or six a day which once sold for one cent, or two for a penny.

They then walk to the market or 30 miles to Port de Paix without hope for a sale. "But it is something to do."

Everyone left in the area seems to have the same resignation. "If rain does not come we're all going to die. If it does come we'll just have to look at it because we have no more seed to plant."

Church World Service and Catholic Welfare Organization will have sent about 6,000 tons of food into the northwest by the end of the fiscal year in July.

Mrs. Charles Zellermayer, liason between the Episcopal Deanery of Women of South Florida and Haiti's Episcopal Church, said they plan to get together about 600 pounds of food at the minimum to send in. But even at this most families are lucky if they get one meal in a month.

And, if you don't happen to be a member of the congregation, you go without.

Somoza Foes Active

Nicaraguan Group Wants Envoy's Scalp

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

POLITICAL enemies of the Somoza brothers who rule Nicaragua are demanding that U.S. Ambassador Thomas Whelan get out of their country.

SOUTHWORTH

A letter mailed to Whelan and signed by more than 50 distinguished leaders of the opposition accuses the ambassador of intervening in the internal affairs of Nicaragua.

The letter — a copy of which was mailed to The Herald—charges that Whelan has damaged the friendly relations between the two countries.

"It is sad," the letter states, "that the political forces of the opposition parties in Nicaragua to which we belong have lost all contact with the American Embassy. . .

WHELAN

LUIS

ANASTASIO

"We believe that this change and the cold relations are due principally to your attitude for years, by words and deeds . . . of being too friendly with the dictatorship that oppresses Nicaragua . . . and by taking part in internal political matters."

* * *

'Would Be in Best Interest'

THE LETTER adds that the interests of both countries would be served "if you will decide to step down from your high post."

A blue-eyed Irishman, Whelan was a wholesale potato buyer in the Dakotas before he became ambassador to Nicaragua eight years ago.

The Somoza family has ruled Nicaragua for more than 20 years. After the old soldier, Anastasio, was assassinated in 1956 his sons took over. Luis was educated in the U.S. and groomed to replace his father. Anastasio Jr. went to West Point and now runs the army.

Young Gen. Anastasio is spending his Easter vacation outside the country and President Luis scoffs at rumors that his land may soon be invaded by revolutionaries.

* * *

Nicaragua on the List

BUT THE SOMOZA BOYS know that dictatorship foes in Cuba, Venezuela and other Latin American countries have listed Nicaragua, the Dominican Republic and Paraguay as the only three dictatorships remaining in Latin America and have vowed their support of any attempt to overthrow them.

Last month Honduras and Nicaragua signed an agreement in Washington to prevent their territories from being used as bases for mounting revolutions against each other. Strong bands of rebels have been reported to be gathering on the border.

President Somoza says his government is in a position to "repel any armed attempt against it, whether it comes from inside or outside the country."

* * *

Two Already Have Resigned

LAST WEEK, Nicaraguan Ambassador Leonte Herdocia and Nicaraguan Minister-Counseller Otto Somarriba resigned their posts and were given diplomatic asylum by the Costa Rican government.

Herdocia and Somarriba said they could not continue to serve the government of Somoza because of its "outrages and excesses."

An expert political observer from Nicaragua visiting in Miami said the political opposition in Nicaragua is trying to find a peaceful way of easing the Somoza family out of power and conducting free elections.

BUENOS AIRES — The cost of living went up 9.1 per cent in the month of February, mostly in higher food prices. It was necessary to set higher prices in March for the financing of a gigantic dam and hydroelectric power plant at Chocon in northern Patagonia.

'Disease' Pointed Out

'Sick' Silver Dollars Used In Campaign on Inflation

HARTSVILLE, S.C.—(AP)—A. Lee M. Wiggins, former undersecretary of the Treasury, is dramatizing a personal fight against inflation by sending "sick" silver dollars to congressmen, financial writers, editors and others.

The 67-year-old, one-time president of the American Bankers Association said he is getting some results.

He said he has received replies from almost all the personal friends in House and Senate to whom he sent uncirculated 1923 silver dillars. And "all showed keen interest," he added.

The silver dollars were accompanied by notes which said:

"Although it has done no work in the 30-odd years of its existence, it has lost about one-half of its ability to do a day's work, or to buy goods and services.

"This dollar is ill from a disease called inflation. The further spread of this disease may destroy it. Effective remedies are well known. They can be administered by the American people."

Housewife Puts Colombia In the Know

By GIL SLOAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia — As the U. S. becomes more conscious of Latin America, these southern neighbors are discovering more and more about the country to the north.

Now, any native of Barranquilla (who reads the papers) not only knows, for example, that there are such places as Richmond, Ind.

They also are acquainted with the type of family life in such a smallish, quiet town.

They found that out here the other day when one of the local dailies published a letter from a Richmond (Ind.) housewife.

It was addressed simply to "Barranquilla newspaper, Barranquilla, Colombia, South America." It appropriately was delivered to the paper whose editor has a good command of the English language.

It reads: Dear Sirs:—

"I have been reading an article written by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service. It tells about some of the things your people have learned about the life of an American in the U. S. I think maybe you have not heard enough of the average American Norte Americano).

"First of all, my husband is a World War II vet. He took advantage of G. I. schooling and became a teacher. He graduated with a B. S. degree from Ball State at Muncie, Ind.

We have a 1949 Pontiac and a 1950 Pontiac wagon for transporting the children to school.

"My husband has to drive rough country roads to teach in a country school that is 20 miles away. That is the reason for the second one.

"We have several radios, one working TV set, eight room house, full basement, oil furnace, two bathrooms, automatic washer and dryer and a nice small library.

"I do not dye my graying hair, my husband does not wear a toupee on his receding hair line. Our love is wonderful.

"Thank you for listening.

"Now in France . . . Bah!

Yours truly,
Mrs. Wm. E. Williams

"P. S. Hasta luega. We hope to visit South America when the children grow up. Maybe we might meet then."

69 TIMES A WINNER

In winning the coveted FIRST PRIZE for PUBLIC SERVICE for a series of articles on the Insurance Lawsuit Racket, The Herald for the 69th time in the past 12 years has carried off high honors in state-wide competition . . . with more citations than any other Florida newspaper has ever received.

The widely-read articles exposed a primary cause for the rising cost of automobile insurance. They were written by Joy Reese Shaw.

Other awards that added to The Herald's total were:

FIRST PRIZE for the best Page One newspaper makeup, awarded to Charles Ward. The contest judge called it "an easy, light, well-balanced page that's almost impossible to fault." It was the fifth time in the last six years that The Herald has been cited for the most effective Front Page in the state.

FIRST PRIZE for the best spot news reporting, awarded to Larry Thompson, James Buchanan and Gene Miller who worked as a team in reporting the Braniff Airline crash in Miami in 1958.

SECOND PLACE in the Feature Writing competition, won by James Buchanan for a series of on-the-spot stories with Raul Castro's rebel forces in the mountains of Cuba.

THIRD PLACE in the Sports Writing competition, won by Mel Derrick for his colorful story about the late Willie Hoppe, longtime billiard king.

On The Herald's staff are many men and women who have earned outstanding recognition. Their combined talents and capacities make The Herald the completely satisfying and influential newspaper that it is.

Miss Parmelee to Be Bride Of Emery J. Newell in July

Miss Parmelee
. . . FSU student

WEST PALM BEACH—Jane Graham Parmelee and Emery J. Newell, son of Judge and Mrs. Edward G. Newell, 132 Greenbriar Dr., Lake Park, plan a July wedding.

Her engagement is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Parmelee, 2 Currie Crescent.

An alumna of Palm Beach High School, where she was a cheerleader, president of the Keyettes and a member of the mixed choir, she is now attending Florida State University and is a member of the FSU Circus and Pi Beta Phi social sorority.

Mr. Newell was graduated from Palm Beach High School and the University of Florida, where he received BSBA and LLB degrees.

He was a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Phi Delta Phi and commander of Sigma Nu.

He is a practicing attorney, director of the Kiwanis Club, exalted ruler of the Elks Lodge and a past president of the Palm Beach County Bar Association.

WHICH BLOOM IS PHONY?

Artificial Flowers Are Hard to Detect

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

THE PALM BEACHES — This is a story about the flowers that bloom in the stores, tra la. Moonlight and roses may bring memories of you, but future moons may well be synthetic, and the roses not for real.

There's a tidal wave vogue for artificial flowers. They look so like the McCoy that you have to touch them, or sniff them, to know whether they're genuine or man-made. And pinching the flowers is not considered good manners when you're a guest in someone's home.

DON'T TOUCH, OSGOOD, BUT ARE THEY REAL OR FALSE?
SNIFF

A shop off Worth Ave. sells nothing but ersatz blooms in stylized and sophisticated arrangements. They do not pretend to be anything but gay counterfeits.

Department stores in West Palm Beach, though, are a bower of spring blossoms. Counter-parts.

Wearing a tulip, a big yellow tulip, or even a red, red, rose is no problem. Just don't do anything drastic when you find out it's plastic. Your home can glow with lilacs and smilax. Was that "sweet bunch of daisies" ever "plucked from the dell," as the gay 90's song said. Daisies won't tell, but you and I know they're straight from the lab. The yellow rose of Texas, the blue bells of Scotland, and the African violet are also beautiful, but false.

There's hocus pocus about the crocus that comes into focus in Florida.

White hyacinths to feed the soul are available but you must sell more than half a loaf of bread (better than none) to buy one of these created creations. They're expensive. So are the heavenly orchids, but after all they need no slathouse.

Anything like blooms in conservatory, garden, or orchard can be duplicated. You buy them by the spray, bouquet, or single romantic blossom.

When the springtime comes, gentle Annie, all those wildflowers scattered on the lea are yours without bending your back. Just open your purse.

Rosey, you are my posy, and a rose is a rose is a rose, and only your nose knows whether the petals are pure but passing, or plastic but permanent.

Heart Doctor Visiting at Palm Beach

PALM BEACH —Dr. and Mrs. Leo Loewe of New York City are vacationing at Whitehall. Dr. Loewe is on the staff of Jewish Hospital of Brooklyn and on the faculty of the New York State Medical College Down-State Division.

He has been identified for several years in the field of cardio-vascular disease, and is the discoverer of the cure for sub-acute bacterial endocarditis, heretofore uniformly fatal.

The doctor is one of the founders of the American College of Angiology, which sponsors research and scientific forums on diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

He is also one of the editors of the journal, "Angiology."

He will be one of the speakers at an International Conference on Angiology to be held at Atlantic City in June.

Miss Parker To Marry

STUART — An April 4 wedding is planned by Jean Parker, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Parker, and Joseph C. Crankshaw. He is the son of Mrs. Mary Crankshaw, Jacksonville.

The double ring ceremony will be held at First Baptist Church. No formal invitations are being sent locally, but friends of the couple are invited to attend the wedding and reception.

Iraq Loan OKd

MOSCOW — (AP) — The Supreme Soviet has ratified the 550 million ruble aid loan recently signed with Iraq. The ruble is officially rated at four to the dollar.

Heart Fund Tea

STUART — A dessert tea will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Stuart Woman's Club building to honor workers in the recent Heart Fund drive, said Mrs. John W. Wolf, Heart Sunday chairman. The Heart Association of Palm Beach and Martin Counties is sponsoring the tea.

'Zhivago' Review

PALM BEACH — Mrs. Drexel J. Sibbersen, president of the Women's Auxiliary of Bethesda-by-the-Sea Episcopal Church will review Boris Pasternak's "Dr. Zhivago," on Thursday, April 2 at 1 p.m. The meeting will be held in the church guild hall.

BROADWAY STAR Julie Wilson will grace "Babes in Arms" with her talents March 30-April 4 at the Royal Poinciana Playhouse in Palm Beach. Show is rewritten (by George Oppenheimer) version of the 1937 Rodgers and Hart musical.

Rep. Bolton To Talk of History

Herald Bureau

PALM BEACH — Frances P. (Mrs. Chester O.) Bolton, U.S. Representative from Ohio, will address the Palm Beach County Historical Society at 8 p.m. next Friday.

Rep. Bolton, a ranking member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, will speak on "The U.S. in Current History."

A member of a family which has maintained a winter home in Palm Beach since 1893, the speaker will also reminisce on the Palm Beach of earlier days.

Mrs. Bolton is the holder of 11 honorary degrees from colleges.

She occupies a unique position in public life as the granddaughter of a congressman and U.S. senator, the widow of a congressman to whose post she was elected 11 years ago, and the mother of still another congressman with whom she served beginning in 1952.

The program will be held in the guild hall of Bethesda Church.

Rep. Rogers To Speak

PALM BEACH — Congressman Paul G. Rogers will speak at the dedication of Matthews Auditorium, largest step in Palm Beach private school's five-year expansion program, Monday at 11 a.m.

The building is a gift of Mrs. Ricardo C. Gonzales, the former Jean Flagler, granddaughter of the late Henry M. Flagler, pioneer developer of South Florida.

Mrs. Gonzales, a member of the board of trustees since 1945, will be on the platform with two of her sons, George and Robert Matthews.

Parents, friends, and patrons have been invited to the ceremony. The Rev. Tage Tiesen, rector of Church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea, will give the invocation and benediction.

Miss Odom
. . . plights troth

Miss Odom To Marry In April

WEST PALM BEACH — An April wedding is planned by Martha Rebecca Odom and James W. MacAlpine. Their engagement is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Milton Odom, the bride-elect's parents.

Mr. MacAlpine is the son of Mrs. Marian MacAlpine of St. Petersburg.

A graduate of Palm Beach High School, Miss Odom is now attending Palm Beach Junior College, where she is a member of the Philo Social Club.

Her fiance attended Palm Beach Junior College and the University of Florida, Gainesville. He is now in the Army, stationed at Fort Jackson, S.C.

Club Hears M.D. From Germany

WEST PALM BEACH — Dr. Eva Herlinger of Berlin was honor guest at a reception which the Palm Beach and Gulf Stream branches of the American Association of Univeristy Women gave recently at the George Washington Hotel.

The AAUW awards International Fellowship grants to outstanding graduate students from the countries. About one fourth of the 1958-59 grantees were, like Dr. Herlinger, physicians.

Dr. Herlinger is in the U. S. to study maternal and child health and to observe American prenatal clinical techniques.

She gave a brief talk on her work at the University of North Carolina.

The reception was attended by 20 members of the Gulf Stream group and 40 members of the West Palm Beach branch of the AAUW.

'Hole in Head' Is Slated By Norton

WEST PALM BEACH — Norton Gallery Players will present the Broadway hit, "A Hole in the Head," April 7-11.

This is a comedy of Florida resort hotel business. In the leads will be Ray Galambos, Jim Cochran, Leah Edlin, Stella Monchick, and as a 10-year-old, Young Dennis Cooley of Boca Raton.

The play was written by former Miamian Arnold Shulman.

Junior Women Elect Mrs. Cook

New senior sponsor is Mrs. Howard M. Wheeler.

Chisox Bounce Burdette

BRADENTON—(AP)—A three-run rally in the seventh inning ruined Lew Burdette's bid to go the distance Saturday and handed the Chicago White Sox a 5-2 exhibition victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Turk Lown, Rookie Don Rudolph and Gerry Staley held the National League champions to six hits. Rudolph got credit for the victory.

Burdette showed his best form of the spring for the first six innings, but faded in the seventh. He made way for a pinch hitter in the home half of the seventh, and Jerry Nelson finished up.

Tigers Topple Cardinals, 8-4

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — Bill White homered for the St. Louis Cardinals in his first game since he was acquired from San Francisco, but a former Giant teammate, southpaw Pete Burnside, pitched the Detroit Tigers to an 8-4 victory Saturday.

Burnside, striking out seven, went the distance as the Tigers posted their 10th triumph in 16 games. Joe Cunningham homered for the Cardinals.

A's Clobber Phils' Meyer

CLEARWATER—(AP)—Kansas City's Athletics clobbered Philadelphia Pitcher Jack Meyer for all their runs, ruining his first starting game of the exhibition season with a 5-2 victory over the Phillies.

Lefty George Brunet went all the way for the A's, giving up only four hits. Kansas City collected 10 safeties.

Redlegs Top Dodgers, 5-0

TAMPA — (AP) — Three-hit pitching by Joe Nuxhall and Tom Acker enabled Cincinnati to defeat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-0 Saturday.

Nuxhall reeled off the first seven innings in mid-season form, giving up only two hits, one a double by Don Demeter. Acker finished up in style. It marked his first appearance since suffering a groin injury two weeks ago.

Pirates Beat Senators, 1-0

ORLANDO —(AP)— A triple by Harry Bright followed by Bill Mazeroski's single in the fifth inning gave Pittsburgh a 1-0 victory over Washington Saturday. The Pirates received six-hit pitching from Laurin Pepper, Fred Green and George Perez.

The Pirates collected all four hits off Washington Starter Hal Griggs, who took the loss. John Romonosky, finishing up for the Senators, pitched four hitless innings.

Thomson-Led Cubs Win, 10-3

MESA, Ariz. — (AP) — Bobby Thomson's fourth spring homer, good for three first-inning runs, paced the Chicago Cubs to a 10-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants before 3,537 Saturday.

Score, Rookie Stop Bosox, 5-2

TUCSON, Ariz. —(AP)— Herb Score and Rookie Jim Perry limited Boston to seven hits Saturday as the Cleveland Indians posted a 5-2 victory over the Red Sox before 3,346.

Score, pitching for the first time in eight days, allowed one run on five hits in five innings, walked five and struck out the same number.

Perry, a gangling righthander who had a 16-8 record in the Eastern League last year, was even better than the celebrated Score. He retired 11 batters in a row after Sammy White and Marty Keough greeted him with singles.

Worried Art Wall Moves Up

WILMINGTON, N.C. —(AP)— Family man Art Wall, worried over his young son's measles attack, broke out in a rash of his own Saturday — eight birdies — to charge into a four-stroke lead after 36 holes in the Azalea Open golf tournament.

The 35-year-old Pocono Manor, Pa., pro scored a six-under-par 35-31 — 66 for a halfway total of 138 in the $15,000 tournament which ends Monday.

First-round leader Bob Goalby of Belleville, Ill., dropped to a second-place tie at 142 after a second round 72. Don Whitt of Borrego Spring, Calif., scored a second 71 to tie Goalby.

Four players shared fourth place at 144, six shots off the lead. They were Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y.; Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N.C.; Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and Bert Weaver of Beaumont, Tex.

Claude King of Virginia Beach, Va., led the amateurs with 148 after 77 today. Jack Nicklaus, young Walker cupper from Columbus, Ohio, tied him with a second 74 but withdrew in favor of some on-the-scene Masters practice at Augusta.

'Well-Heeled' After Bowie Win

Sizzling Vertex Triumphs by Six

BOWIE, Md —(AP)— Vertex, a fragile-legged horse, turned into a well-heeled one by easily winning the John B. Campbell Handicap for his second Saturday $100,000 victory in a week.

His profit of $74,595, added to last Saturday's fist prize in the Gulfstream Park Handicap, gave the 5-year-old chestnut total paychecks of $153,743 in eight days.

Vertex, owned by J. J. Brunetti and F. A. Piarulli, is only the second thoroughbred in history to win two hundred-grand races in such a short span. The first was Round Table in 1957, who won the Hollywood Gold Cup and Westerner.

Only doubt cast on Vertex Saturday was at the end, when Jockey Walter Blum on runner-up Backbone claimed he was fouled by Vertex as they raced head and head entering the backstretch.

Vertex subsequently pulled away to win by six lengths, and the judges disallowed Blum's foul claim.

The crowd of 18,320 bet heavily on Vertex, a home-born horse ridden by Baltimorean Sammy Boulmetis.

As a result, Vertex rewarded them at only $3.80, $3.20 and $2.20. Boncrist Farm's Backbone returned $6.60 and $4.20, while third place Talent Show, owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice, paid $5.60.

Vertex, who has had frequent leg trouble including loss of part of a hoof, ran as sound as an old dollar in covering the mile and a sixteenth in 1:43 1-5.

He was carrying 124 pounds, ranging from seven to 14 more than any of his nine rivals. A week ago he won at Gulfstream carrying 125 pounds for a mile and a quarter.

It was the third victory in four races for Vertex this year. He would up his 1958 campaign with a triumph in the Pimlico Special the day before his sire, The Rhymer, was burned to death.

"This is by far his best race," said Jockey Boulmetis. Trainer J. F. Piarulli, son of one of the owning partners, agreed. "He was better than he's ever been," said Piarulli.

Vertex was an undistinguished 2-year-old, starting only three times and earning but $3,330. He rounded into form last year with five victories in eight races for $134,757.

With $156,170 to his credit already this year, his next target is the $50,000 Lincoln special April 18 in Rhode Island.

Backbone was able to make a race of the Campbell for only the first half-mile. Going into the backstretch, Vertex gradually opened up daylight until he was four lengths to the good turning into the home stretch.

Down the last 1,150 feet, Jockey Boulmetis did little beyond encourage him, and Vertex continued to pull away from Backbone, who held on for second by a nose over Talent Show.

Michigan Nine Beats Duke, 6-2

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The University of Michigan opened its baseball season Saturday with a 6-2 win over Duke in the Florida State University baseball tournament.

Earlier, the University of Illinois beat North Carolina, 11-3. It was the last tournament game for North Carolina but the round-robin meet, entered by eight teams, continues through next week.

Michigan's Denny McGinn held Duke scoreless over the first five innings for the victory. Allan Koch finished up for Michigan.

Dick Rathman Hits Record 173.21 in Daytona Trials

DAYTONA BEACH — (AP) — Dick Rathman pushed his red Sumar Special up to 173.21 miles-an-hour Saturday in qualifying trials for the 100-mile speedway car race April 4.

His average, which clinched the pole position, was slightly faster than the 173.01 practice run Friday around the 2½-mile banked Daytona International Speedway.

Rathman's qualifying time set a record, bettering the 171.82 by Marshall Teague of Daytona Beach on Feb. 9—two days before he was killed in a Sumar Special.

Jim Rathman, Dick's younger brother from Miami, turned in the second best speed Saturday in a Simonz Special at 172.01. Roger Ward of Los Angeles, in a Leader Card Special was third at 171.03.

In all, eight drivers qualified Saturday out of an entry list of 26. Strong gusts of wind kept down the speeds.

Qualifying runs will continue today and Thursday for the 100-mile event sanctioned by the U.S. Auto Club and FIA.

Yankees Stage 'Off Day,' 7-2

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — The World Champion New York Yankees had an off-day scheduled Saturday, but Manager Casey Stengel used the occasion for a 10-inning intrasquad game won by the Gaynors, 7-2, over the Mauches.

Catcher Elston Howard's three-run inside-the-park homer in the second inning was the margin of victory.

Outfielder Ken Hunt also hit an inside-the-park homer, and 18-year-old outfielder Dick Barry garnered four hits.

Zack Monroe pitched the first six innings to gain credit for the win, but Bob Wiesler's four-inning, one-hit performance was the hurling highlight.

'King' Aces Gulfstream Turf Field

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Jockey John Sellers rode Cain Hoy Stable's One-Eyed King to a rousing victory in Gulfstream Park's $28,450 Donn Handicap Saturday, missing the world's record for a mile and a half on the turf by only two-fifths of a second.

Five-year-old One-Eyed King, who broke the world mark for a mile and one-sixteenth in his last grass start at Gulfstream, outfinished Hasty House Farms' Ekaba by three parts of a length in 2:25.4.

The world standard is 2:25.2, set by St. Vincent at Santa Anita where about half a mile of the grass course is downgrade.

The favored General Arthur was third, two lengths behind Ekaba.

One-Eyed King returned $7., $3.50 and $2.50. Ekaba, coupled in the wagering with Aysha, paid $3.50 and $2.40, while General Arthur was $2.50 to show.

Captain Harry Guggenheim, former U.S. ambassador to Cuba who owns Cain Hoy Stable, received $17,925 as One-Eyed King's share of the purse.

The Donn Handicap was the first mile and a half race run over the new Gulfstream turf course.

The program was viewed by 16,793 fans in overcast but comfortable weather.

Bill Harmatz broke Ekaba on top in the eight-horse field but let his stablemate, Aysha, pass him and set the early pace. As the field thundered by the stands the first time, Aysha led with Ekaba, General Arthur and One-Eyed King following in that order.

Mariners Guide, Firesickle, Trasgo and Point of Order were strung out well to the rear.

Going down the backstretch, Aysha began to fade under Lois Cook and Harmatz made his move with Ekaba. At the same time Sellers gave the go sign to One-Eyed King, and the Cain Hoy horse moved past General Arthur into second position.

On the outside of horses most of the way, One-Eyed King passed Ekaba on the turn for home as Bill Hartack saved ground along the hedge with General Arthur.

The trio straightened for home in that order, and neither Ekaba nor General Arthur was able to gain on the victor in the drive.

After dismounting, Sellers said, "My horse tried to loaf when he made the lead, but I got into him and he responded. He could have gone further."

One-Eyed King won under an impost of 116 pounds. Ekaba was covering 117, and General Arthur packed 126. The General was Hartack's fourth losing favorite of the day.

FAVORITES had tough sledding in the early events.

Gayle Smith guided Tiller Ep to an upset score in the first half of the daily double. The winner, who held a half-length edge on Biscayne at the finish, refunded $18.80. The favored Risk Again wound up last in the 12-horse field.

Song and Dance, ridden by Apprentice Jockey Richard Hurley, was a five-length victor in the second heat with the favored Beau Amour finishing fifth. The 6-12 combination returned $134.20.

Larry Wolf, who turned up a good thing in the betting, scored by two lengths in the third to pay $16.70. The winner was 20-1 on the track program, but closed at 7-1. The favored Shrewsbury Rocks ended up a distant seventh.

Cripples Grounded

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — (UPI) — A wheelchair basketball team of crippled veterans, cast as "Junketeers" in an Air Force directive, Saturday sat out the confusion over their proposed flight to California.

The University of Illinois team had planned to fly to El Toro Marine Base, Calif., to join five other teams of handicapped cagers in a national tournament April 2.

But that was before Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.), arose in the Senate Thursday to criticize "plush junkets" by civilians in Air Force planes.

Floyd-Swede Fight Reset For June 25

GOTEBORG, Sweden — (AP) — Floyd Patterson will defend his world heavyweight boxing title against Ingemar Johansson of Sweden in New York on Thursday June 25, promoter Bill Rosensohn said Saturday.

He made the announcement shortly after arrival from New York. The decision was reached following a conference with Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's advisor. Previously, June 23 had been the suggested date.

Rosensohn did not specify the exact site of the bout except to say that it would be in New York. Yankee Stadium is available from June 21 until July 3. He also has an option on the Polo Grounds.

Johansson, European heavyweight champion, plans to come to the United States in mid-April for his final training sessions. He has not yet picked his camp.

Rosensohn said that Patterson first would defend his title against Brian London, former British Empire champ, in Las Vegas, Nev., probably on May 1 and rated the match "an ideal tuneup for Patterson's bigger bout."

Summer Dog Races In Works?

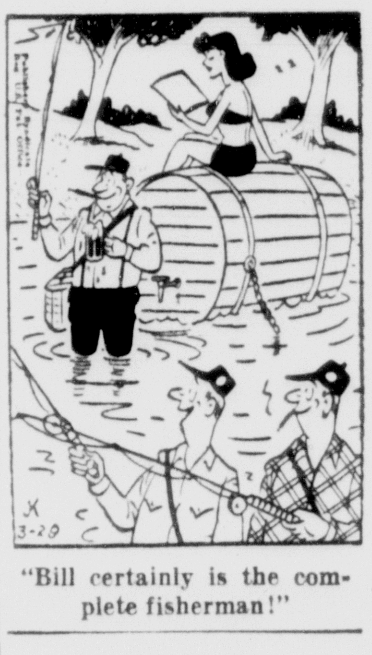
By the Associated Press

Summer dog racing in the Dade-Broward and Tampa-St Petersburg areas will be among the problems facing the 1959 Florida Legislature.

Several minor changes in State Racing Commission rules will be proposed, and there may be renewed efforts to establish a harness track at Pompano Beach.

But the knotty problem will be whether to extend greyhound racing into the summer months in the Greater Miami area and in the Tampa Bay section.

The Racing Commission has said it will not oppose summer dates, but it will oppose extending the number of racing days. It will be up to the four greyhound tracks — Flagler, Broward County, Miami Beach and Biscayne — as to which will operate on summer dates, and when, in the Dade-Broward area.



"Bill certainly is the complete fisherman!"

Spotlighting Sports

Silberman Is Dreaming Of Lighted Tropical Park

PRESIDENT SAUL SILBERMAN of Tropical Park must be allergic to daylight. Squinting at the sunshine flooding Gulfstream Park's infield, Silberman allowed he still thinks night flat racing would be a good thing for his track.

"They're talking about harness racing," Silberman snapped with the disguest of a thoroughbred addict for trotters. "If they want racing at night, why not let me light up Tropical? It wouldn't cost over $300,000."

Actually the desire for harness racing appears to be limited to an out-of-state group which will try to open the gates by having a Pompano track legalized by the legislature.

A couple of weeks back the talk was the boys would succeed. The latest dope is they'll be tossed for a loss. Many people agree with President Jimmy Donn of Gulfstream that Florida has enough racing.

It was last year that Silberman said he would approach the State Racing Commission, which sets the time—now limited to daylight hours—for horse racing. For reasons of his own Silberman has not made the pitch.

"You can say that I'm toying with the idea," said Silberman. "Actually the state, which appears to be interested in more revenue, should tell me to go ahead with the idea. It would increase our betting 25 per cent and mean that much more in state revenue.

"I'd be willing to guarantee the state $1,000 a night more, or the eight per cent, whichever was the largest," Silberman concluded.

Night horse racing may come, but not without a fight which no one—including Silberman—appears willing at the moment to undertake.

Beware of Fat Friends

IT WAS a pleasant Friday afternoon at Gulfstream—mainly because of resisting a fat friend's insistence that I wager $20 on Deer Crossing in the third race.

"You never bet over $2, but just once lay 20 bucks on this colt," the fellow said. "He can't lose."

After Deer Crossing finished fourth, I was telling another acquaintance about the fat guy's tip, and he said, "Why, the soandso didn't even bet on Deer Crossing himself. He lost on another horse."

Dodgers Making Progress

DRESSEN

ENCOUNTERING Coach Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers at the track was a surprise. His explanation indicated the Dodgers are progressing very well in their training at Dodgertown.

"There was no game, so Manager Walt Alston gave us the day off," said Dressen. "I played golf at the Hollywood Beach Country club and then came over here."

Dressen agrees the Dodgers will be much improved this season, allowing, "If we can get two more pitchers to go with our other three, we may do right well."

The starting trio (when last I talked with Manager Alston) was Johnny Podres (13-15), Sandy Koufax (11-11) and Don Drysdale (12-13).

Tip on the Masters

ANOTHER ON hand to contribute towards improvement of the breed was Toney Penna, the smiling McGregor executive. It was easy to get Toney to talk about The Masters golf tournament starting at Augusta next Thursday.

LITTLER

I plan to be on hand for the colorful event, but meeting Penna provided an opportunity to get early dope.

"Gene Littler is the most improved pro on the PGA tour," Penna volunteered. "I think he can win at Augusta. He has changed his grip from hooking to a more orthodox and versatile one. He has his right hand on the shaft more."

PENNA

If Littler fails, Penna still thinks the upcoming Masters will be bagged by a younger player. It is about time for youth to be served, Toney allowed.

How Golfers Missed $11,900

ENROUTE BACK to town, I stopped to see Jim MacLaughlin's new pro shop. It's a dandy, located in an attractive building between the ninth green and new No. 1 tee, and modern in its design. It embraces the ideas of Jim's assistant, Joe Benner.

MacLaughlin

Jim revealed that he and six other Miami Shores members sent $700 to Augusta last spring to be wagered on Palmer. The messenger did not arrive in time to get the money down at the prevailing odds of 17-1, which would have meant a payoff of $11,900.

McCALL

Benner assured me that Miami Shores Village Manager Lawton C. McCall deserves credit for the new and modern pro shop. He okayed the project and pushed for its completion, plus clubhouse and course improvements. The Shores has a good golf staff in Bob Patrick, starter; Martha Benner, registrar; Maynard Gustafson and Tom O'Neill, Russell Kerns, new greenskeeper, has the course in excellent condition.

Suggestions 'Good and Bad'

'Speeding Up' Baseball Experiment At Rollins Draws Mixed Reactions

WINTER PARK, Fla. —(AP)— Rollins' baseball week has produced some mixed opinions about speeding up the game — but the idea is going to the American Assn. of College Baseball Coaches anyway.

Joe Justice, athletic director at Rollins College, feels the game is too slow and has made a number of suggestions which were tried this week in a program of doubleheaders among New York University, Wake Forest, Ohio State and Rollins.

Mark Karow, Ohio State coach, said he would support the idea and submit it to the association. He said he would also take the matter up with George Trautman, president of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Justice made these suggestions:

No warmup pitches between innings although pitchers may warm up on the sidelines.

The team at bat may have a courtesy runner for the pitcher so he can take sideline warmup tosses.

Courtesy runners are allowed for catchers after two men are out so he will have time to adjust his gear.

Intentional passes to first base may be given without pitching to the batter.

Karow said "the possibilities of this streamlined baseball are virtually unlimited, but no time limit should be put on pitches."

Jack O'Connor, scout for the Philadelphia Phillies, said warmups should be kept because "they are needed up North where the weather is unpredictable."

Bill McCarthy, NYU coach, said he felt the rules would take the team out of the hands of the coach because "before I could decide what to do they were off in all directions. Also I think there should be at least three warmup pitches. Sideline warming doesn't do the job. And throwing the ball around the infield isn't necessary."

Al Klausman, NYU captain and outfielder, said "moving the teams on and off the field is good but elimination of warmups and peppering removes a lot of color."

Walter Peters, Ohio State catcher, said because of the warm weather here "not as much time is needed for warmups." The hustling of the players also helps the game, he believes.

George Weber, a spectator, doesn't "believe in having a runner for the pitcher or catcher. The rules, however, have speeded up the game."

W. S. Rooney, another fan, feels the rules are good if umpires are strict and follow them.

Zach Taylor, Chicago White Sox scout, says the speedup idea is good but the whole thing is in the hands of two persons — pitcher and catcher — and they seem to be cooperating in this experiment.

In spite of the speedup measures, few of the games during the week went nine innings in the two hours allotted. Most lasted seven or eight innings. One, however, when Rollins beat Wake Forest 4-1 on Friday, was hustled through in 1 hour and 36 minutes.

Six Days Of 'Glory' Open Up

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Gulfstream Park swings into "Blaze O' Glory Week" Monday with a six-day span of racing climaxed by the $100,000 added Florida Derby on Saturday.

Five Derby nominees clash in Monday's feature at a mile and 70 yards. The final test for sophomore candidates for the "Run For the Orchids" will have revolutionist, Rico Tesio, Puneyes, Lake Erie and Wheatley Road in the lineup.

Tuesday's attraction will be the dinner stakes for two-year-olds, followed by a dinder-dance in the Turf Club.

The Suwanee River handicap for fillies and mares highlights Wednesday's card.

The unique Grey Ghost purse, fashioned exclusively for grey horses, will be presented Friday.

On Derby eve, the annual Fiesta Tropicale Parade will be staged at Hollywood.

A special Dixieland group will be among the bands which start entertaining at 10 a.m. Derby day. The University of Miami's "Band of the Hour" will perform in a special show.

Eighteen stars from the Cypress Gardens will join in the program, with a water-skiing exhibition.

The field for the Derby is still shaping up. The big three in the lineup — Easy Spur, Troilus and Sword Dancer — are regarded as certain starters.

Mackle Colt

Atoll Grabs Big One

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Elkcam Stable of Miami unveiled its big Kentucky Derby hope Saturday in the $27,700 Swift Stakes and Atoll ran like he was worth his $100,000 purchase price as he romped home by six lengths in the slop at Jamaica.

Brookfield Farms scratched the favored Intentionally.

Atoll made it look easy as he gave the Mackle Brothers their second straight Swift Stakes victory and third in a row for a Florida-owned colt. Hubcap won for Elkcam Stable last year and King Hairan won it for Leo Edwards in 1957.

Inescapable was a length and a half in front of Jules Chambrun's Dandy Ron. It was the same distance back to the fourth horse, Reginald N. Webster's Royal Anthem.

However, stewards disqualified Dandy Ron from third for interfering with Inescapable on the turn for home. They placed him last and moved Royal Anthem into third money, moving up Orren P. Guy's Pointer to fourth.

FSU Adds McGowan As Coach

By BILL McGROTHA
Herald Correspondent

TALLAHASSEE — Bubba McGowan, a backfield coach at Gainesville High the last four years, has been named an assistant coach on Perry Moss' Florida State football staff.

McGowan is the second Gainesville High coach to join Moss. Earlier Dick Flowers, the school's head coach, was hired.

He served as Florida's freshman backfield coach in '52—the same role he's scheduled for at Florida State. He coached Service teams at Fort Jackson in '53 and '54.

Leon Sikes Wins Senior Golf Crown

ST. AUGUSTINE —(AP)— Leon Sikes of West Palm Beach Saturday won the American Seniors Golf Association tourney for the second time.

He won it in 1957 and Saturday had an easy time, ousting Bruce Coffin of Marblehead, Mass., 5-4.

It was his easiest match of the tourney which started Sunday and had 220 entries. Earlier Sikes had to go extra holes to beat Jud Brumley of Greenville, Tenn., and J. T. Kirkpatrick of Manchester, Conn.

After halving the first hole Saturday, Sikes won the second through the sixth to take a 5-up lead.

Coffin got birdies on the eighth and ninth to reduce the lead to 3-up at the turn but on the back nine Sikes won the 11th and 13th. The match ended on the 14th where both took 5s.

Half-Million Fans See Race

Oxford Survives Mutiny, Whips Cambridge Crew

LONDON —(AP)— Oxford won the 105th boat race from Cambridge Saturday despite an American inspired mutiny among its oarsmen.

The victory was an upset and the winning margin of six lengths vindicated Oxford Captain Ronnie Howard, who resisted criticisms of his training and coaching methods.

The winning time for the four and a quarter mile row up the rough and windy River Thames was 18 minutes, 52 seconds — well off the record of 17:50 set by Cambridge in 1947. Cambridge's time was 19:10.

Considering the tide, currents and wind, however, it was fairly fast going.

J. G. Rowbotham, the Oxford cox, called an almost perfect race. He steered his crew to the front in the first 300 yards and he never let Cambridge gain a speck of it back.

Howard, the winning captain — called boat president at British universities — was the day's hero. He rows No. 3.

Last winter Reed Rubin of New York City, No. 6 for Oxford last year and a former Yale varsityman, formed a rebel crew.

He said he did not like the way Oxford went about getting ready. Oxford had lost the last four races to Cambridge and Rubin wanted a new training program. Many top Oxford rowers supported him.

His mutiny failed when Howard insisted on Oxford preparing much the same way it had for years.

Another American also ran against Oxford rowing tradition. Chris Grimes of Locust Valley, N.Y., who rowed in Yale's 1956 Olympic champion crew, wore his favorite railwayman's cap in training.

The result left the count 58 for Cambridge, 46 for Oxford and one dead heat.

But Top Aides May Pull Cuba Out

Million Jobless as Castro Orates, Fumbles

Fidel Castro
. . . words, words, words

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — More than one million persons — one-sixth of Cuba's population —are out of jobs.

The government is operating in a state of disorganized confusion.

Business paralysis is setting in as industry waits to see how far Cuba's socialistic-minded savior, Fidel Castro, will go.

Yet despite the business collapse and the Communists' hopes of moving in when the hero-worship of Castro wears off, there is still a hope for recovery.

It hinges on the efforts of two Castro aides, Dr. Regino Boti, minister of the National Economy Board, and Dr. Felipe Pazos, head of The National Bank. Both are extremely able. If Castro gives them a chance, they may be able to reverse the trend which Castro has initiated.

Castro, as self-appointed prime minister of the revolutionary government, calls the shots and outlines policy as he goes. Frequently policy seems to be made on the spur of the moment, without rationalization, in the middle of one of his hours-long speeches.

If he keeps it up, observers here feel the Russians and their Red party leaders need move hardly a finger toward eventual capture of this sugar republic and a strategic North American beachhead.

Yet, the Cuban people—90 per cent Catholic—are instinctively anti-Communist and pro-capitalist.

What is happening here is reminiscent of Guatemala four years ago when the Communists were able to push Jacobo Arbenz into power. But then it took long months of careful, crafty planning — of infiltration and manipulation.

In Cuba, it is being accomplished by the national hero, a man who is not a Communist but rather is an inept administrator, idealist and demagogue.

Some alarmed Cubans have suggested that Nikita Kruschchev's secret agents and organizers aren't needed in Cuba — that Castro himself is unwittingly "talking" Cuba into the Communist orbit.

In fairness to Castro, it must be emphasized that he appears completely sincere. And he has achieved, for the moment at least, honesty in government, a quality hitherto unknown in Cuban politics.

Despite his sincerity, he gives every indication of doing a beautiful job of fouling up this island-nation's economy, driving it toward bankruptcy, upsetting traditional social customs and creating an atmosphere of "government by confusion."

He may know where he is ers who are government officials.

Several whom I talked to admitted they are baffled. Others maintain all is well, that this is simply a transitory period.

All swear blindly by the leader who directed the revolution which overthrew the seven-year regime of Dictator Fulgencio Batista last New Year's Day.

"Don't condemn Castro," pleaded youthful looking J. A. Ossorio, American affairs officer in the Prime Ministry. "There is absolutely no connection between the Castro heading, but that's more than do some of his closest support-

An Outsider Looks In

"Despite his sincerity, (Fidel Castro) gives every indication of doing a beautiful job of fouling up this island-nation's economy."

McDermott

This, in part, is the conclusion of The Herald's foreign-analyst, John B. McDermott, as he revisits Cuba for a look at the sugar republic's stormy rebirth under the banner of the rebel hero Castro.

In recent years McDermott has traveled to trouble spots of the world—Russia, Africa, Germany, the Near East — to look at politics in terms of people and their leaders.

Too Contradictory

Cuban Business Future Is Dark

By WILLIAM GAUDET
Special To The Herald

HAVANA, Cuba — The cooler heads of businessmen see the answer to Cuba's future in plain everyday economics.

And they are disturbed by what Fidel Castro's government has done, or failed to do.

They cite paradoxes — the government doing one thing with one hand and the opposite with the other — which they believe could spell serious trouble for the island unless there is better coordination.

They cite instances of too much idealism and not enough realism:

* * *

CASTRO'S REDUCING RENTS all over the island — and the stress at the same time is on the need for new housing construction.

* * *

GAUDET

THE government order to the Cuban Telephone Co. to sharply reduce monthly charges — and the announcement that followed it closely that there was going to be a vast expansion program.

* * *

MUCH TALK about the importance of private enterprise aided by foreign capital and know-how — and not one law so far to help expansion by private enterprise already here, or to attract new foreign capital.

It is not that the businessmen are against the announced Castro policies of reform to help the little men. Many of them are little men themselves. But they believe the reforms should come side-by-side with laws which help rather than hinder the role of capital.

Many businessmen will tell you they are deeply concerned over how to protect capital they have already invested. Property values in Havana and elsewhere, for instance, already have dropped — some say as much as 40 to 60 per cent — as a result of the rent reduction decree.

Another incongruity, observers say, is the much-talked-of drive to produce in Cuba, by Cubans, the things which Cubans need and use.

But, asks the businessman, how can this sort of nationalism work in a country which itself depends more than anything else on the export of sugar? And whose largest market, the U.S., is maintained through a system of quotas — the U.S. imports so much sugar in return for export rights of its own goods to Cuba?

Take away the U.S. as a sugar market, and the entire economy of Cuba will crumble, the businessmen say.

Government officials say the government controls over foreign exchange will be lifted when sale of the sugar crop — expected to bring between 500 and 600 million dollars to the island — begins. But some capitalists doubt it. They believe the government will not allow many of the dollars to get out of Cuba.

Already, practical businessmen say, there are many working quietly to find a way of getting their capital out of Cuba.

But this unrest is not obvious.

To the visitor, the thousands who jam into the Plaza whenever Castro speaks are the obvious sign that he is the Cuban hero and that the huge mass of people is willing to believe — for awhile, anyway — his idealistic optimism and accept his actions.

Nicaragua Invasion Held Near

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — (UPI) — The Dominican military intelligence service said Saturday that former President Jose Figueres of Costa Rica is massing men and weapons for an invasion of Nicaragua.

An official communique said that 35 Cuban "barbudos" (bearded followers of Fidel Castro) landed on the Costa Rican coast near the Nicaraguan frontier March 19 from the Panamanian ship White Shadow. It said arms for 500 men also were put ashore.

According to the communique, the band is now in the mountains where it is being "directed" by Figueres from his ranch La Lucha.

The invasion of Nicaragua from Costa Rica, the communique said, would be combined with similar operation from Honduras.

"The Dominican intelligence service knows that a network of conspirators exists in the Caribbean which has violated all international rules by using ham-wave bands to maneuver against countries to foment armed revolt," the communique said.

Cloudy But Dry Forecast

There may be some clouds but there shouldn't be much rain to spoil Easter in Florida, weathermen predicted Saturday.

Fair, mild weather was forecast for most of the rest of the nation, except for showers expected in the Rockies and a few snow flurries in the Northwest.

Florida's skies should be a bit more cloudy than expected, weathermen said, because of a stationary weather front hanging over most of the state.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower, spending the long Easter weekend in Gettysburg, pa., planned to lead the nation in worship by attending services at the Presbyterian church near their farm. They planned a "very quiet weekend."

And New York's Fifth Avenue will be bright with the annual parade of latest fashions past St. Patrick's Cathedral. The picture will be the same on Chicago's "Magnificent Mile," and on main streets throughout the nation.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., 100 motion picture stars will accompany 100 crippled children in a parade dedicated to Easter Seals, and at the Hollywood Bowl more than 20,000 are expected to hear Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, a prominent Mormon, deliver his Easter message.

Before day broke on Easter, the Roman Catholic world had its message from Pope John. Departing from the custom of delivering Papal Easter messages on Sunday, Pope John spoke to the world from Vatican City Saturday night.

In a broadcast heard around the world in many languages, the Pope offered prayers for the rulers of the earth and for peace.

100 Killed In Floods

PARIS — (AP) — Heavy rains continued to fall over two-thirds of the island of Madagascar Saturday. Floodwaters threatened to stop food supplies to the capital of Tananarive.

Reports reaching Paris indicated at least 100 persons have been killed and 3,000—perhaps many more—left homeless on the island in the Indian Ocean. Rivers broke their banks four days ago after a month of stormy weather.

Blockade Of Russia Our Tack?

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Washington Evening Star said Saturday the U.S. is considering a naval blockade of Russia in the Baltic and Black Sea areas if the Soviet Union cuts off the West's access to Berlin.

"This is one of the measures short of nuclear war this country recognizes it has at its disposal, officials here confirm, if the Soviet Union goes through with its threats to oust the West from Berlin," The Star said.

It added that no decision has been reached on the point at which such a serious counter-measure would be ordered. The newspaper said the plan may be discussed here this week at the secret sessions of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers meeting.

At the State Department, Press Officer Francis Tully said of The Star's report:

"We are considering many different possibilities from time to time of things that might or could be done (about the Berlin situation) but as to any military decisions that might be made, I can't comment."

Privately officials said a naval blockade of a major power would have to be considered an act of war which could be used if hostilities actually started. But they noted that President Eisenhower has emphasized at news conferences in recent weeks that if there is to be any shooting it will be done by the other side.

Pointing out that Turkey controls the Bosphorus and Dardanelles outlets from the Black Sea, and Denmark controls the Kattegat at the mouth of the Baltic Sea, The Star said both nations could become key nations in the Berlin crisis.

Hike in Foreign Aid Looms

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Eisenhower has enlisted bipartisan Senate support for an effort to boost the 100 million dollars voted by the House for foreign aid development loans.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader, predicted the Senate will add at least 75 million dollars to the loan fund. The fund provides low-interest loans to assist public works in underdeveloped countries friendly to the West.

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said in a separate interview he will urge the appropriations committee to raise the House-approved total to 200 million dollars.

This still would leave the fund 25 million dollars short of Eisenhower's request for 225 million dollars in emergency money for the remainder of this fiscal year, ending June 30. A compromise between Senate and House figures would be likely to leave the total even lower.

When the House Appropriations Committee cut out all of Eisenhower's request the President termed the action irresponsible.

Our Power Greater, He Claims

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Vice President Richard Nixon said in Miami Saturday that the U.S. has enough military muscle to stand up at a summit conference without fear of submitting to Russian blackmail.

He conceded the Russians have more long-range missiles and submarines.

"But in over-all military power, we, with our allies, have greater strength."

Here with his wife and two daughters for the Easter holidays, the vice president also maintained that the Republican Party must be rebuilt and that the administration must post a good record from here on in to win the 1960 presidential election.

Skirting questions about his own potential candidacy, Nixon commented:

"By concentrating on those two efforts we can win no matter who is nominated . . . I am not working or engaging in activities toward the nomination."

With aplomb and a polished delivery, he touched on a wide range of topics, including the missile program, foreign relations, Latin America, inflation and presidential qualifications.

At one point he digressed to remark on the difficulty he has with arithmetic while helping his young daughters with their homework.

"If anybody has any ideas about American education, they should try doing their children's arithmetic problems. I can do long division but I'm not so good in algebra and geometry," he confessed.

"It's a good thing Mrs. Nixon was once a teacher."

Turning to weightier subjects the vice president made the following observations:

U.S. BUDGET — This is expected to be the biggest issue during the current session of Congress. Unless the federal budget is balanced, it will be difficult to balance the family budget.

FOREIGN AID — Nothing could hurt the U.S. in the cold war more than a partisan debate on foreign aid. A vote to cut mutual security is a vote to raise defense expenditures and a vote to increase the draft of American boys.

The Story, and Meaning, of Easter

'He Is Risen'--the News That Never Grows Old

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

More than seven hundred million people around the world are celebrating Easter today.

In stately Latin and melodious Polynesian, and in virtually every other known tongue, they repeat the news that sped through the demoralized company of Christian disciples on the first Easter morning, 1,929 years ago.

"He is risen!"

Easter is the oldest and most sacred of Christian holy days for good reason. Unlike the Oriental religions which are based on mystical experiences and metaphysical speculation, Christianity is anchored in his tory to an event — the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

From its earliest days to the present, the Christian church has never hesitated to stake its whole case on the claim that this event really happened.

"If Christ be not risen," the apostle Paul told the Corinthians, "then is your faith in vain."

What is the evidence for the resurrection?

Many Christians probably would answer that question by citing the Biblical stories about the finding of the empty tomb. These stories dramatize the fact of the resurrection as nothing else can, and their devotional value has earned them the central place at most Easter worship services.

But to the rigorously objective modern scholars who have exposed the New Testament to the most searching scrutiny ever given to any book, the empty tomb is secondary evidence.

These scholars point out that there are a number of discrepancies in the various gospel narratives about the awesome discovery that greeted the devoted women who went to the tomb "early in the morning on the first day of the week."

These discrepancies do not mean that the story is untrue. On the contrary, even a newspaper reporter can discern, in the different accounts, just that variation in detail but agreement on essential fact, which is the hallmark of authentic eyewitness accounts of any momentous event.

But the discrepancies do indicate to Biblical researchers that the first Christians did not attach primary importance to the empty tomb. If they had, a greater attempt probably would have been made to pin down the precise facts, to harmonize the disparate versions that circulated freely in the oral traditions until they eventually were set down in the gospels.

What pushed the empty tomb into the background of the early apostles' thoughts? The answer is abundantly clear in all of the gospels, in the book of Acts and in Paul's letters.

The earliest account of Jesus'

Red China Abolishes Rule of Dalai Lama

Puppet Regime Set Up

TOKYO — (AP) —Red China Saturday abolished the Dalai Lama's regime in Tibet, elevated the rival Panchen Lama in his stead, and imposed military rule on the rebellious Himalayan land.

Peiping asserted the revolt that erupted March 19 was crushed in two days and 4,000 rebels were captured. But Red China admitted rebel bands fought on in varoius parts of the land of the Lamas. Peiping asserted these bands were being mopped up.

Broadcasts from the capital of Red China asserted the 23-year-old Dalai Lama was abducted by the rebels and "under duress" tore up the 1951 treaty with Red China under which he was allowed to retain nominal rule.

This tended to bear out reports from India and elsewhere that the Dalai Lama had made good his escape from Lhasa, the capital, and had joined the rebels, probably in southern Tibet.

Presumably, the Dalai Lama is with the fierce Kampa tribal warriors, who from positions in southern Tibet have been fighting the Chinese Reds for three years.

The Panchen Lama last was reported at his religious headquarters at Shigatse, southwest of Lhasa. The 21-year-old spiritual leader now may be in Lhasa. He is considered the spiritual equal of the Dalai Lama but traditionally wields no temporal power. He generally has been considered more complaisant toward the Communists than the Dalai Lama.

Peiping asserted the command center of the revolt was Kalimpong, in northern India where the trade routes wind in from Tibet.

Nationalist China airdropped supplies to the rebels in their stronghold south of the Tsangpo River, Peiping said, thus supporting Chinese Nationalists' claims that they have been aiding the rebels. The Tsangpo River flows south of Lhasa.

Peiping said "radio stations were set up there by agents sent by the imperialists and the Chiang Kai-shek (Nationalist) clique to further their intrigues."

Trouble broke out, Peiping said, after the Dalai Lama was scheduled to attend a theatrical performance in the auditorium of the Tibetan military command. Accounts from Tibetans reaching India have said the Dalai Lama was ordered by the Red Chinese to come without companions and this raised fears for his safety among his followers.

Sunny Fortune Splits $400 Prize

Sunny Fortune's personal Easter rabbit spread $200 eggs from Miami to Key West today—splitting the $400 prize for his puzzle between a pair of women in the two cities.

Mrs. R. T. May
. . . 'good for me!'

Mrs. Ollie Jenkins
. . . 'I'm so proud'

"Good for me," whooped Mrs. R. T. May of Miami. "I'm so proud I could cry," was the reaction of Mrs. Ollie Jenkins of Key West.

Ten other persons just missed a share of the eggs by a rabbit's whisker when they were one word off the correct answers.

SUNNY

They'll have another chance this week as Sunny drops a fresh $300 into the nest and starts building a fund for the next winner. You'll find the puzzle waiting for you on Page 4-B.

For both Mrs. May, of 490 NE 61st St., and Mrs. Jenkins of 912 Whitehead St., the prize money came "just at the right time."

Mrs. Jenkins, who has been working the puzzles about a year, said her part of the prize would go for bills and a spring outfit for her 10-year-old daughter, Sharon.

The $200 meant an Easter outfit for Mrs, May, too. "Now I can splurge," she said. "That shopping trip I was going on will become a real tour."

Neither woman takes time from her domestic activities to make a practice of entering contests. "But I've been working this one since it started," Mrs. May said, "and just decided I wouldn't give up."

FOREIGN RELATIONS — The bond between the U.S. and Great Britain is closer than at any time since World War II, thanks to President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The U.S. makes the mistake of thinking of Latin America as one great area, instead of in terms of individual countries with different problems. U.S. prestige generally is better than a year ago.

FIDEL CASTRO — If there is anything the U.S. wants it is friendship and cooperation with the Cuban people and government. Castro has indicated opposition to some U.S. policies, but it is based on misunderstandings which can be removed when the rebel leader visits the U.S.

Nixon added that U.S. relations with Latin America are being improved through the creation of an inter-American loan institution, studies aimed at stabilizing prices of Latin products and mounting interest in Latin America.

He noted that world peace has been maintained during the seven years of the Eisenhower administration, "but we are going to have crises in world affairs as long as international communism persists in its present tendencies."

He said that the major qualifications of presidential candidates shift with the times and their issues.

In addition to the usual prerequisites, he opined that presidential timber must have experience and understanding of international affairs, plus a working knowledge of domestic economics.

Nexon, however, begged off the question of whether he possessed those qualifications on grounds of prejudice.

Grim News Awaited Cinderella

NEW YORK — (UPI) — A pretty 13-year-old ballerina danced the role of Cinderella for the Perry Como television show Saturday, unaware that when the ball was over, she would be told her father was dead.

Sharon Lerit's father, Sanford, 43, died in a Newark, N.J., hospital Friday night. He had been ill 10 years and in a hospital for 11 weeks. But Sharon's mother, Florence, decided to bear her grief alone, until after Sharon had appeared before a nationwide television audience.

The members of the cast and others associated with Como show kept silent about Sharon's loss, so her mother could break the news to her after she returned home to Newark Saturday night.

The news was kept from Como, too. His associates said they had drawn a curtain of silence to keep Sharon's loss from him because it would upset him to know.

"He's a softy," a source close to Como said. "If he knew about it, he'd take her off the show to spare her from the possibility of being hurt."

The Como show on the National Broadcasting Co. television network, was in rehearsal throughout the day, and Sharon did not miss a step.

Everyone tried to treat her as though nothing had happened, but it was difficult with a score of reporters and photographers clamoring for photographs of the little Cinderella.

"We are sure she doesn't know her father is dead," a program official said. "She has been very excited over her chance to be a TV star. It is difficult for us to treat her as though nothing were wrong, but we have really worked at it."

Sharon, an eighth grade pupil who looks like a miniature version of the famous ballerina Maria Tallchief, wants to be a ballet dancer when she grows up.

She danced the Cinderella role in Como's Easter show last year, and was invited for a return engagement as the prima ballerina of a troupe of 12 little girls from the New York City Ballet School.

"I'm sure her father would have wanted her to go through with it," Mrs. Lerit said.

Prayer for Today

Oh, Blessed Night When Christ Rose

By JIM BISHOP

Go With God

St. Gregory, the first of 16 Popes of that name, was a patrician who held a high political post in Rome before he felt the call to religious service. He then gave his wealth to the poor and made his home into a monastery. He rose to be Pope, from 590 to 604. As Pope he sent St. Augustine to effect the conversion of Britain to Christianity. His name also is associated (perhaps incorrectly) with the arrangement of so-called Gregorian mode or chant. The following Easter prayer comes down from him.

It is very meet and right, with all powers of heart and mind, and with the service of the lips, to praise the invisible God, the Father Almighty, and His Only-Begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who paid the debt of Adam for us to the Eternal Father, and effaced the bond of the ancient guilt by the Blood poured forth in loving-kindness.

For this is the Paschal festival in which Thou first didst bring our fathers, the children of Israel, out of Egypt and madest them to pass over the Red Sea dry-shod.

This, then, is the night which cleared away the darkness of sin by a pillar of radiance.

This is the night throughout the world which now restores to Grace and unites to holiness believers in Christ, separated from worldly vices and from the gloom of sin.

This is the night in which Christ broke the bonds of death and ascended from the grave, the conqueror. For to be born had been no blessing to us, unless we could have been redeemed.

Oh, the wondrous condescension of Thy loving-kindness towards us!

Oh, the inestimable tenderness of Thy love. To redeem the servant, Thou gavest up the Son.

This holy night, then, puts to flight offenses, washes away sins, and restores innocence to the fallen and joyousness to the sad.

Oh, truly blessed night, which spoiled the Egyptians and enriched the Hebrews — the night in which Heaven and earth are reconciled!

We pray Thee, Lord, therefore, that Thou wouldst preserve Thy servants in the peaceful enjoyment of this Easter happiness; through Jesus Christ our Lord, Who Livest and Reignest with God the Father, in the Unity of the Holy Ghost, God now and forever: Amen.

resurrection appearances is given in Paul's first letter to the church at Corinth:

"For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins in accordance with the scriptures, that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day in accordance with the scriptures, and that he appeared to Peter, then to the twelve.

"Then he appeared to more than 500 brethren at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have fallen asleep. Then he appeared to James, then to all the apostles. Last of all . . . he appeared also to me."

It is sometimes said that the resurrection of Jesus is "the best-attested fact in history," because the whole Christian church bears witness to it.

Those who make this statement usually have two ideas in mind.

First, they mean that the existence of the church can hardly be explained except in terms of the resurrection. As one scholar has written, "it is easier, even for a non-believer in miracles, to accept the fact of the resurrection than to find any other adequate explanation of the change that came over the disciples within three days after they had fled Jerusalem in terror."

The second meaning is that the church, from the time of the apostles until now, has consisted at its core of men and women who are convinced — not by anything they had read or have been told, but by the irrefutable evidence of their own experience — that Christ is living still.

Nikita Is No Better Bluff Than Stalin, Poll in U.S. Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J. — Nikita Khrushchev is having no more success in threatening the American people on Berlin than his Kremlin predecessor, Josef Stalin, did 10 years ago.

Then, as now, the basic issue at stake in the beleaguered German city, as the public sees it, is the same:

"We've got to stand firm or Russia will overrun all of Europe."

If standing firm means keeping Western troops in Berlin even at the risk of war, the public is willing today — as it was over a decade ago — to take that gamble.

The Gallup Poll

The latest vote on the issue, in fact, is amazingly similar to that recorded in the late spring of 1948 when the Soviet blockade of Berlin provoked one of the first major crises in the "cold war."

At that time, Gallup Poll reporters asked voters across the nation:

"Do you think the U.S. and her Western European allies should stay in Berlin, even if it means war with Russia — or should the U.S. give up Berlin to the Russians?"

The vote:

STAY IN BERLIN?
1948

Stay in Berlin .... 80 Pct.
Give up Berlin .... 11 Pct.
No opinion .... 9 Pct.

When Gallup Poll reporters asked voters their sentiments on the same basic issue in recent days, here is how those persons familiar with the Berlin crisis replied:

"Do you think we should keep American forces in Berlin — along with British and French forces — even at the risk of war?"

STAY IN BERLIN?
1959

Yes, should .... 81 Pct.
No, should not ...... 11 Pct.
No opinion 8 Pct.

Since Khrushchev raised the Berlin issue anew in his ultimatum to the West last November, checks on public opinion have found virtually no change in voters' attitudes toward keeping U.S., British and French forces in West Berlin.

The most recent vote, for example, closely parallels that recorded immediately following Khrushchev's ultimatum on the subject as reported last December.

The vote among those familiar at that time (77 per cent):

STAY IN BERLIN?
December '58

Yes, should .... 78 Pct.
No, should not ...... 11 Pct.
No opinion .... 11 Pct.

Compared to other critical national issues of recent years, the Berlin crisis has stirred up wide interest throughout the nation and in all segments of the population — 78 out of every 100 voters nationally say they have heard or read about it.

government and the Communists.

"Socialist? Yes. But Communist? No.

"The Bible says 'You shall know them by their works.' Give Castro a chance to prove himself."

Another official admitted off-the-record that Castro "talks too much when he should be listening."

"Cuba today is in a state of shocked hero worship," said this official with surprising frankness. "Unfortunately, the most 'fidelista' of all — believer in Fidel Castro — is Castro himself. Soon he must come down from the clouds and face reality."

A prominent Cuban newspaperman, known as a longtime Castro backer, said he is fearful that while the 32-year-old prime minister talks himself hoarse on radio and television, left-wing extremists are moving into key advisory positions.

Among these are Alfredo Guevara, who directs classes in Marxist teachings to the army; Baco Alanso, head of the National Fine Arts Commission; Carlos Franqui, former proofreader on the Communist organ "Hoy" who now runs Castro's governmnet newspaper "Revolucion;" Antonia Antuna, who directs the National Institute of Culture under the Education Ministry; Casals Perez, head of "Rebel Radio," and many others.

Castro's brother, Raul heads the new army and "tolerates" communism. Another military strongman, now ill, is Argentine-born "Che" Guevara, who claims to be non-Communist although he has played ball with the Reds.

Two leftist authors, Emil Roig de Leuschenroig and Antonio Nunez Jimenez, have been reinstated to places of prominence and their works are being used in the schools and in indoctrinating the military.

Alberto Suno, assistant secretary general in the Prime Ministry, discounted the Red threat to this newsman.

"There is no question but what the Communists are trying to get into Cuba's government," he said. "They won't succeed.

Castro has lofty aims. But too many of his plans are unrealistic and dangerous. Right now he appears to be in the position of an amateur tightrope walker on a high wire for the first time without a net.

NEXT: What Castro has accomplished and where he has failed.

National Summary

A high pressure area pushing southward from Canada resulted in fair and cool weather over most of the country from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic during mid day Saturday with temperatures ranging from the 20s in the northern tier of states to the 50s in the Gulf States, except in Florida where readings reached the 80s.

Fair weather will continue over much of this area through Sunday, but frost was expected to extend as far south as the Carolinas by dawn today. Slowly rising temperatures are expected in this area by afternoon, however.

Scattered thundershowers or rain showers from eastern Texas into the lower Mississippi Valley will move into the eastern Gulf States today, while the variable cloudiness over the plains will continue through tomorrow.

Fair to partly cloudy weather will continue through Sunday over the southern portion of the Rocky Mountain States while showers or snow flurries will be scattered over the northern part accompanied by variable cloudiness during the same period.

Northern California, where snow fell Saturday, will be cloudy today, while the remainder of California will remain generally fair.

Dubs Proposals Vindictive

Key West Mayor Urges Fight On Papy's Plan

Officials Are Bitter Over Plans

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — Reaction to State Rep. Bernie C. Papy's proposed special acts clipping the money-raising powers of the Key West municipal government range from fighting mad to helpless acceptance among members of the City Commission.

Mayor Delio Cobo declared he would recommend to the commission that every "legal action possible be taken to fight these vindictive bills."

Papy has served legal notice he will seek to have the Legisture pass local bills repealing all utility taxes in Key West, forbidding the City Commission from imposing such levies, and-or attempting to float a bond issue before Jan. 31, 1960.

Cobo labeled the proposed legislation "spite bills which are not hurting us (the commission) but are hurting the city of Key West."

Referring to Papy, he declared "any man who takes that kind of power is worse than a dictator."

Cobo's sentiments were echoed by Commissioner Charles Parra, one of Papy's most outspoken political foes.

"The only thing left for the people of Key West is go and bow before the great Mr. Papy, the monarch of Monroe County," he said.

"We might as well offer him our souls, too, because he has everything else now," Parra added.

Commissioner Louis Eisner declared himself "not pleased" with the proposed chopping of the city's fiscal power, but admitted resignedly, "there's nothing I can do about it — you can't fight city hall."

Commissioner Joe Fernandez said he had not had time to study the proposed bills. He noted, however, that he "didn't expect anything from the senior representative of Monroe County that will benefit the people of Key West."

Other special acts proposed by Papy are designed to increase power of the utility board, while shearing the influence of the City Commission, in the affairs of the municipally-owned City Electric System.

Horace O'Bryant, chairman of the utility board, said he didn't "think the changes will make any difference in conducting the affairs of the system."

One change proposed will remove one of two representatives from the City Commission from the utility board.

Merville Rosam, manger of the system, could not be reached for comment Saturday. City Commissioner Bill Chappell, the member who will lose his post if the bill is approved, was not available either.

But Commissioner Parra declared: "Key West might just as well deed the City Electric system over to Papy. He owns it anyway."

Parra has been in the forefront of a move to explore the possibility of selling the system to private business, a move which, he claims, would increase revenue to the city and take the utility "out of politics."

Others here feel, however, that Papy's plan to "remove the last vestiges of control of the system from the commission" will also serve to take the utility out of politics.

Show Ready To Roll

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — Alan Scott's 59'ers expedition is mushrooming into a major project.

Bigwigs in the American Cancer Society took note of the entertainer's money-raising plan by sending their top man in Florida down here to meet Scott and discuss the trip.

CAICEDO

In case you haven't heard, Scott is the trumpet player and funnyman who's turning medicine man to raise money for the Cancer charity. He and his trio performed at the Bamboo Room here until last week.

With his wife, Dolly, an old-time medicine wagon hauled behind his station wagon and plenty of snake-oil, he'll hit the road from here around mid-week.

His goal: New York City and $59,000 for the Society fund collected wherever he puts on his show.

Scott and Dolly spent two days in Miami last week rounding up their costumes. She needed an Indian squaw's outfit. He needed a medicine man's rig.

Most of the wardrobe pieces weren't too difficult to find, except for one item — a tophat.

Scott says arrangements are being made for him to appear on three or four television shows when he makes it to NYC.

And the Casa Marina Hotel here is donating a week's holiday for the pair who win the prize trip to Key West being offered by Scott on his medicine show.

Originality

KEY WEST High School can add another feather to its entertainment cap.

Those who didn't make it to see the "Conchette Capers" Monday or tuesday, missed a show turned out with an astonishing degree of professional polish.

The three-act musical displayed originality, inventiveness and enthusiasm. Sets were imaginative, with the one for "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" creating an especially good effect.

Pass Word

MAYBE NOW that the city commission has instructed City Manager Dave King to spread the word that Key West has a semi-orphaned and under-sized golf course, we'll find out if provate enterprise is interested in adoption.

The most persistently offered solution to the golf course dilemma is "turn it over to private operation."

But until now nobody apparently had gone to the trouble of finding out if private business is interested in funneling two or three hundred thousand dollars into transforming a nine-hole range into an 18-hole dreamway.

'Southernmost'

JOE ALLEN, publisher of The Coral Tribune, chided me the other day for a newsstory in which The Key West Citizen was called "The Southernmost Newspaper in the United States."

His Tribune, which also proclaims itself the "southernmost" in its masthead, is the proper holder of the title, Joe insisted. "Check the map," he said.

Well, we did and, sure enough, The Tribune's home is farther south than the Citizen's — by exactly three blocks.

Road Work In Orlando

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — The road department said Saturday four-laning of nearly two miles of Kuhl Ave. in Orlando will get started April 6.

The $731,427 project will extend from Jennie Jewel Dr. south of Orlando, north to Gore Ave. in the city.

Work is also expected to begin April 4 on a $217,347 improvement project on State Road 828 in Miami. And the department said paving of seven miles of State Road S-278 southwest of Defuniak Springs has been completed.

'All Must Favor'

Plans Outlined For 4 Projects

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — Sub-committees of the Citizens Capital Development and Improvement Advisory Commission Saturday heard a Miami architect outline plans for four civic projects, considered for this community.

James Garland highlighted basic details of a convention hall, marina, golf course and City Hall as part of a package which would cost roughly $2,000,000. He illustrated his talk with plans and drawings of the projects.

Garland is with the firm of Garland, Connell, Pierce, Garland and Freeman, architects and engineers.

At the offset of the informal meeting, Ed Knight, chairman of the advisory commission, made it clear Garland was here at his own expense "with no obligation on the part of the board."

The architect himself urged the group not to accept his plans outright, but to continue its own study "and then compare notes."

In making a study, Garland suggested, the commission call in experts in various fields to find out exactly "what you need."

Garland's suggestion for a convention hall envisioned a circular building of 40,000 square feet, with a seating capacity of 2,500. Its location would be on N. Roosevelt Blvd. on 20 acres of land, with a 1,000-car parking area.

Such a project, Garland said, would cost between $800,000 and $900,000, complete. He noted that, depending on final selection of accessories, the cost could be increased or lowered by $100,000.

Garland cited 516 conventions slated for Florida this year. Although only 96 of the conventions numbered over 1,000 members, none was scheduled in Key West.

He noted the average conventioner spends $33 a day. In consultation with experts in the convention field, Garland said: he has concluded "Key West could expect 40 conventions a year based on the support of local business.

"But unless the entire town gets behind this sort of thing, it will be a failure," he predicted.

Garland's marina study consisted of an L-shaped pier, extending into Garrison Bight. It would be built from fill taken out of the bight to deepen it, and would accommodate 100 boats. Average monthly income from such a facility would be about $4,000, Garland estimated.

Cost of his outlined marina would be $273,000, the architect said, but that figure could be trimmed to as low as $175,000, he added.

Garland evaluated the enlargement of the golf course from nine to 18 holes as "purely a study in movement of dirt." For between $200,000 and $300,000 "we could build a fantastic course out there," he declared.

A two-story building, housing municipal offices and fire and police stations in 40,000 square feet of floor space was Garland's suggestion for a City Hall. Its cost would run around $580,000 again plus or minus $100,000.

Several of the commission members and Garland discussed pros and cons of locating a city hall on Roosevelt Blvd. or downtown at the site of the city parking lot.

Garland's four-project program, including fees and related expense would cost roughly $2,000,000, it was estimated.

The architect's ideas will be incorporated in studies being made by three committees, which will report to the improvement advisory commission.

The commission, in turn, is charged with making final recommendations to the City Commission on projects needed, and how to finance construction.

Teacher's Funeral Is Monday

Herald Service

VERO BEACH — The funeral of Leo S. Cahill, 46, Vero Beach High School teacher, will be at 9 a.m. Monday at St. Helen's Catholic Church.

Mr. Cahill, a director of the Florida Education Association, was injured in an automobile accident on March 23 while returning from an FEA meeting at Tampa. He died Friday in a Lakeland hospital.

A move for a memorial to the veteran teacher has been started. Contributions to the memorial fund may be sent to the L. S. Cahill Memorial, at the Indian River Citrus Bank, Fergus Wood, one of the memorial group, said.

The nature of the memorial has not yet been set, Wood said. Several plans are being considered.

Pension Changes Studied

By ANNE WILDER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — A warning the Fort Pierce municipal pension system is headed for financial difficulties was again sounded by City Manager Floyd Glisson when he met with city employes to discuss alternate pension plans.

The city was told by an actuary, A. G. Gabriel of Detroit, more than a year ago the pension system is underfinanced. So far, no alternate plan has been set up.

Mayor James Howe, talking to the group Friday night, said the City Commission's concern is to make sure that, when the employes retire, necessary funds are available. He added "Nothing is going to be forced on you — whatever is done will be done with the approval of the majority."

Glisson said Friday the "guesstimate" is that the present system will be in trouble in about 12 years. In his original report, Gabriel said the plan will work a "grave hardship" on younger workers, who pay into the fund for years, and then find anticipated benefits sharply reduced.

The present system provides for reduction of pensions if city and employe contributions are not sufficient to pay the benefits set up.

Glisson said Gabriel has been asked to draw several plans for employe consideration. One will be a modified pension plan, coordinated with social security.

The City Commission has approved bringing city employes under social security, if the employes so desire, but cannot finance both the pension system and the social security payments.

Glisson said he felt social security benefits would more than make up any benefits lost in changing the pension system, as far as the younger workers are concerned.

The problem, he said, is workers near the retirement age, who would not be under social security long enough to derive benefits.

As far as the city pension system soundness is concerned, Glisson said if employes wish to select an accountant or actuary to make a study for them, the city will pay the bill.

2 Brothers Will Need Introduction

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — (AP) — Robert Boling, 37, of Waterloo, Iowa, met Edwin Boling, 60, of Marion, Ind., his oldest brother, for the first time.

The introduction was made by a fourth brother, Jim Boling, 47, of St. Joseph.

The reason Robert had never met Edwin and Loren was that they left home before he was born. All except Robert were born at Barnes, Kan Robert was born here.

High-Hat Horses Prance In St. Augustine's Parade

ST. AUGUSTINE — (UPI) — Twenty high-stepping horses pulling 20 gaily decorated carriages will prance through the streets of this historic city today in one of the nation's most unusual Easter parades.

Even the horses will be decked out in their Easter finest — jaunty Easter bonnets.

In everyday life, many of the same high-hat steeds earn their daily oats by hauling tourists' carriages about the city.

This year, the annual "Parada de Los Caballos y Coches" — or parade of horses and coaches — is based on a historical theme.

Riding in each of the carriages will be members of the royal family of Spain, which had control of the city in the 17th century. In reality, they will be masquerading local citizenry.

Mrs. Jacqueline Lopez Young will "star" as Queen Mariana, Spanish ruler from 1665 to 1675 who authorized construction of the famed Castillo de San Marcos here in 1672. It is the oldest masonry fort in the U.S.

Mrs. Young and her entourage of 12 are all descendents of the Solana family which can trace its lineage to 12th century Spain. They will wear authentic royal dress of the 17th century.

Only 20 horses will have bonnets, but about 75 in all will be used in the celebration. Those with hats can thank their designer, Mrs. Victoria Broadbent, who also was responsible for the hand-decorated flowered carriages.

The Easter service actually begins with a sunrise service atop the old fort. Later pontifical mass will be observed in the nation's oldest Roman Catholic cathedral, with Protestant services two hours later.

The Eastern festival continues through April 5, featuring Saint Augustine's historical pageant Monday, Tuesday and Friday.

More than 200 costumed actors will particiapte in the pageant based on the period 1565 through 1671.

School Officials Ask Salary Hikes

Herald Service

FORT PIERCE—St. Lucie County School Board members will seek raises for themselves and a pay increase for the school superintendent, at the coming legislative session.

The board, meeting Saturday, unanimously approved submitting these bills to Rep. Rupert J. Smith for introduction. The bills did not include a referendum provision.

The board salary bill would raise members' pay from $50 a month to $150. School Superintendent Ben Bryan said St. Lucie is one of six counties paying $50 a month, lowest for board members.

A second bill would allow the board to set the school superintendent's salary at 10 per cent above top salary paid other school personnel. At present, several receive as much, or more than the superintendent.

Bryan said Saturday the bill would enable the board to set a salary scale commensurate with the responsibility of the position. School personnel have received four salary increases in recent years, while the superintendent's salary is unchanged.

Other bills requested by the school board would enable school bus drivers to have 20 days cumulative leave, instead of six and set up a division of racing tax funds, to allow 10 per cent to go to an area junior college. This plan has been approved by the St. Lucie County Commission.

Board members elected E. C. Collins chairman to succeed the late Clyde Cato. Kirby Hayes was elected vice chairman.

Student, 17, Drowned; Aunt Saved

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — A 17-year-old Melbourne High School senior drowned Saturday in the Indian River off the Melbourne-Indialantic Causeway when he swam out to retrieve a loose fishline cork.

Police identified the victim as Donald Mays who came here six weeks ago from Alabama. He had been fishing with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Holmes of Melbourne.

Mrs. Holmes also figured in the mishap and quick action by an off-duty Melbourne policeman, Eldon E. Fry, who was fishing nearby, saved her from drowning. Mrs. Holmes was taken to Brevard Hospital here, where her condition was reported as good.

Police said Mays, reportedly a good swimmer, apparently suffered a cramp when he swam after the cork. He called for help and his aunt and Fry swam out to him. Mrs. Holmes reached the boy first and, when he started to pull her under, Fry grabbed her and brought her to shore.

Mays' body was found in seven feet of water, about 50 feet from shore.

Illness, Starvation Stalk Northwest Haiti

Drought Brings Death

Agriculture is the backbone of the northwestern area of Haiti. Farm products need rain and this area has had no rain for many months. One brief shower caused the desperate farmers to plant the last of their seed. Now, even if it should rain, there can be no planting.

On the footsteps of the drought have followed the grim spectres of starvation and disease. Evelyn DeTardo of The Herald staff recently visited Haiti and here tells the grim story of what she found there.

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

PORT-DE-PAIX, Haiti — For the last 13 months northwest Haiti has been slowly drying up.

Illness and death are now taking its toll of the starvation-weak people.

A farming region, northwest Haiti exists on its production of bananas, coffee, beans, peanuts and grain. Normal rainfall in May varies from five to seven inches in this area. Last May not a single drop of rain fell.

Except for a brief shower in December, which encouraged farmers to mortgage their homes or borrow money for seed, they have had no rain for more than a year. The seed now lies dried and rotting in the ground.

Heads of families, already weak from starvation, have left the area in search of jobs, walking as far as 100 miles. Most do not find jobs and on their return find their wives or some of the children have died in their absence.

ONE FATHER, who left to sell charcoal for his starved wife, fell from weakness on the way. After resting a day and making the sale, he returned home to find his wife dead.

A WOMAN in the area took her youngest child and set off to beg, leaving two older ones with neighbors. The children left behind are not expected to live and the father, who went in search of work and food about two months ago, has not been heard from.

The Haitians' woes began with hurricane Hazel, which battered the area in 1954. The people have not been able to recover from the economic losses of the big wind.

Animals have been holding up better than people, but they are not expected to last much longer.

Donkeys' which used to sell for $12 to $14 are now being offered for $1 and $2. There are no buyers. No one has food for animals.

Farmers are starving and in debt. Merchants can no longer give credit as their customers are penniless and not buying or paying back.

A number of residents are too ashamed to leave their homes because their clothes have worn completely away and they have no money to buy new ones.

Marcel Cornet, French priest in the Jean Rabel parrish, fears a typhoid epidemic may decimate the famine stricken area. More than 200 have died already from lack of food and typhoid in that region, which has about 45,000 population. There is no estimate of the entire population in the northwest.

Father Cornet, touring the medical dispensaries in the hunger areas, said the medicine which exists is too expensive for the populace at cost, and many dispensaries even are out of aspirin.

At one dispensary they did not even have tea to give a young woman who had just given birth to a child. Instead they sent her out into the market to beg for food so she could come back and nurse her baby.

More than 2,000 persons are believed fled to the Bahama Islands from the drought stricken coastal areas in the northwest and from the island of Tortuga.

A Baptist Church in La Belle, which used to have a congregation of about 260 had an attendance of two on a recent Sunday.

One family visited near Jean Rabel, is typical of the famine infested area of the northwest.

A young boy, arms and legs like thin twigs sat shelling a handful of peas for lunch. His stomach was swollen like a balloon and his cheeks puffed from fever.

His father, Estilen Vital, was boiling green mangoes in a tin can. For a change of diet they sometimes bake the mangoes.

Vital's 15-year old son recently died of starvation. The only animal they have left is a pig, which, if there were any buyers, he would have sold for his son's funeral.

Haitian funerals generally require elaborate ceremonies. Without money, the dead are now being buried under the cover of night, without coffins.

The hopeless attitude of the people is appalling.

Some have written to the president, and have received no reply. "Only God can save us now," they say.

One farming family in Fond-La-Loi works all day Sunday weaving baskets. They are able to weave about five or six a day which once sold for one cent, or two for a penny.

They then walk to the market or 30 miles to Port de Paix without hope for a sale. "But it is something to do."

Everyone left in the area seems to have the same resignation. "If rain does not come we're all going to die. If it does come we'll just have to look at it because we have no more seed to plant."

Church World Service and Catholic Welfare Organization will have sent about 6,000 tons of food into the northwest by the end of the fiscal year in July.

Mrs. Charles Zellermayer, liason between the Episcopal Deanery of Women of South Florida and Haiti's Episcopal Church, said they plan to get together about 600 pounds of food at the minimum to send in. But even at this most families are lucky if they get one meal in a month.

And, if you don't happen to be a member of the congregation, you go without.

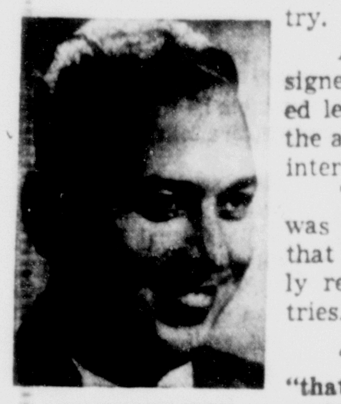
NEWS FROM AROUND LATIN AMERICA

Somoza Foes Active

Nicaraguan Group Wants Envoy's Scalp

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

POLITICAL enemies of the Somoza brothers who rule Nicaragua are demanding that U.S. Ambassador Thomas Whelan get out of their country.



SOUTHWORTH

A letter mailed to Whelan and signed by more than 50 distinguished leaders of the opposition accuses the ambassador of intervening in the internal affairs of Nicaragua.

The letter — a copy of which was mailed to The Herald—charges that Whelan has damaged the friendly relations between the two countries.

"It is sad," the letter states, "that the political forces of the opposition parties in Nicaragua to which we belong have lost all contact with the American Embassy. . .

"We believe that this change and the cold relations are due principally to your attitude for years, by words and deeds . . . of being too friendly with the dictatorship that oppresses Nicaragua . . . and by taking part in internal political matters."

WHELAN

LUIS

* * *

'Would Be in Best Interest'

THE LETTER adds that the interests of both countries would be served "if you will decide to step down from your high post."

A blue-eyed Irishman, Whelan was a wholesale potato buyer in the Dakotas before he became ambassador to Nicaragua eight years ago.

The Somoza family has ruled Nicaragua for more than 20 years. After the old soldier, Anastasio, was assassinated in 1956 his sons took over. Luis was educated in the U.S. and groomed to replace his father. Anastasio Jr. went to West Point and now runs the army.

Young Gen. Anastasio is spending his Easter vacation outside the country and President Luis scoffs at rumors that his land may soon be invaded by revolutionaries.

Nicaragua on the List

BUT THE SOMOZA BOYS know that dictatorship foes in Cuba, Venezuela and other Latin American countries have listed Nicaragua, the Dominican Republic and Paraguay as the only three dictatorships remaining in Latin America and have vowed their support of any attempt to overthrow them.

Last month Honduras and Nicaragua signed an agreement in Washington to prevent their territories from being used as bases for mounting revolutions against each other. Strong bands of rebels have been reported to be gathering on the border.

President Somoza says his government is in a position to "repel any armed attempt against it, whether it comes from inside or outside the country."

Two Already Have Resigned

LAST WEEK, Nicaraguan Ambassador Leonte Herdocia and Nicaraguan Minister-Counseller Otto Somarriba resigned their posts and were given diplomatic asylum by the Costa Rican government.

Herdocia and Somarriba said they could not continue to serve the government of Somoza because of its "outrages and excesses."

An expert political observer from Nicaragua visiting in Miami said the political opposition in Nicaragua is trying to find a peaceful way of easing the Somoza family out of power and conducting free elections.

Argentina Costs Mount

BUENOS AIRES — The cost of living went up 9.1 per cent in the month of February, mostly in higher food prices. It was necessary to set higher prices in March for the financing of a gigantic dam and hydroelectric power plant at Chocon in northern Patagonia.

'Disease' Pointed Out

'Sick' Silver Dollars Used In Campaign on Inflation

HARTSVILLE, S.C.—(AP)—A. Lee M. Wiggins, former undersecretary of the Treasury, is dramatizing a personal fight against inflation by sending "sick" silver dollars to congressmen, financial writers, editors and others.

The 67-year-old, one-time president of the American Bankers Association said he is getting some results.

He said he has received replies from almost all the personal friends in House and Senate to whom he sent uncirculated 1923 silver dollars. And "all showed keen interest," he added.

The silver dollars were accompanied by notes which said:

"Although it has done no work in the 30-odd years of its existence, it has lost about one-half of its ability to do a day's work, or to buy goods and services.

"This dollar is ill from a disease called inflation. The further spread of this disease may destroy it. Effective remedies are well known. They can be administered by the American people."

Housewife Puts Colombia In the Know

By GIL SLOAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia — As the U. S. becomes more conscious of Latin America, these southern neighbors are discovering more and more about the country to the north.

Now, any native of Barranquilla (who reads the papers) not only knows, for example, that there are such places as Richmond, Ind.

They also are acquainted with the type of family life in such a smallish, quiet town.

They found that out here the other day when one of the local dailies published a letter from a Richmond (Ind.) housewife.

It was addressed simply to "Barranquilla newspaper, Barranquilla, Colombia, South America." It appropriately was delivered to the paper whose editor has a good command of the English language.

It reads: Dear Sirs:—

"I have been reading an article written by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service. It tells about some of the things your people have learned about the life of an American in the U. S. I think maybe you have not heard enough of the average American Norte Americano).

"First of all, my husband is a World War II vet. He took advantage of G. I. schooling and became a teacher. He graduated with a B. S. degree from Ball State at Muncie, Ind.

We have a 1949 Pontiac and a 1950 Pontiac wagon for transporting the children to school.

"My husband has to drive rough country roads to teach in a country school that is 20 miles away. That is the reason for the second one.

"We have several radios, one working TV set, eight room house, full basement, oil furnace, two bathrooms, automatic washer and dryer and a nice small library.

"I do not dye my graying hair, my husband does not wear a toupee on his receding hair line. Our love is wonderful.

"Thank you for listening.

"Now in France . . . Bah! Yours truly,

Mrs. Wm. E. Williams
202 Northwest

"P. S. Hasta luega. We hope to visit South America when the children grow up. Maybe we might meet then."

Miss Parmelee to Be Bride Of Emery J. Newell in July

Miss Parmelee
. . . FSU student

WEST PALM BEACH—Jane Graham Parmelee and Emery J. Newell, son of Judge and Mrs. Edward G. Newell, 132 Greenbriar Dr., Lake Park, plan a July wedding.

Her engagement is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Parmelee, 2 Currie Crescent.

An alumna of Palm Beach High School, where she was a cheerleader, president of the Keyettes and a member of the mixed choir, she is now attending Florida State University and is a member of the FSU Circus and Pi Beta Phi social sorority.

Mr. Newell was graduated from Palm Beach High School and the University of Florida, where he received BSBA and LLB degrees.

He was a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Phi Delta Phi and commander of Sigma Nu.

He is a practicing attorney, director of the Kiwanis Club, exalted ruler of the Elks Lodge and a past president of the Palm Beach County Bar Association.

WHICH BLOOM IS PHONY?

Artificial Flowers Are Hard to Detect

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

THE PALM BEACHES — This is a story about the flowers that bloom in the stores, tra la. Moonlight and roses may bring memories of you, but future moons may well be synthetic, and the roses not for real.

There's a tidal wave vogue for artificial flowers. They look so like the McCoy that you have to touch them, or sniff them, to know whether they're genuine or man-made. And pinching the flowers is not considered good manners when you're a guest in someone's home.

DON'T TOUCH, OSGOOD, BUT ARE THEY REAL OR FALSE?
SNIFF

A shop off Worth Ave. sells nothing but ersatz blooms in stylized and sophisticated arrangements. They do not pretend to be anything but gay counterfeits.

Department stores in West Palm Beach, though, are a bower of spring blossoms. Counter-parts.

Wearing a tulip, a big yellow tulip, or even a red, red, rose is no problem. Just don't do anything drastic when you find out it's plastic. Your home can glow with lilacs and smilax. Was that "sweet bunch of daisies" ever "plucked from the dell," as the gay 90's song said. Daisies won't tell, but you and I know they're straight from the lab. The yellow rose of Texas, the blue bells of Scotland, and the African violet are also beautiful, but false.

There's hocus pocus about the crocus that comes into focus in Florida.

White hyacinths to feed the soul are available but you must sell more than half a loaf of bread (better than none) to buy one of these created creations. They're expensive. So are the heavenly orchids, but after all they need no slathouse.

Anything like blooms in conservatory, garden, or orchard can be duplicated. You buy them by the spray, bouquet, or single romantic blossom.

When the springtime comes, gentle Annie, all those wildflowers scattered on the lea are yours without bending your back. Just open your purse.

Rosey, you are my posy, and a rose is a rose is a rose, and only your nose knows whether the petals are pure but passing, or plastic but permanent.

Heart Doctor Visiting at Palm Beach

PALM BEACH —Dr. and Mrs. Leo Loewe of New York City are vacationing at Whitehall. Dr. Loewe is on the staff of Jewish Hospital of Brooklyn and on the faculty of the New York State Medical College Down-State Division.

He has been identified for several years in the field of cardio-vascular disease, and is the discoverer of the cure for sub-acute bacterial endocarditis, heretofore uniformly fatal.

The doctor is one of the founders of the American College of Angiology, which sponsors research and scientific forums on diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

He is also one of the editors of the journal, "Angiology."

He will be one of the speakers at an International Conference on Angiology to be held at Atlantic City in June.

Miss Parker To Marry

STUART — An April 4 wedding is planned by Jean Parker, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Parker, and Joseph C. Crankshaw. He is the son of Mrs. Mary Crankshaw, Jacksonville.

The double ring ceremony will be held at First Baptist Church. No formal invitations are being sent locally; but friends of the couple are invited to attend the wedding and reception.

Iraq Loan OKd

MOSCOW — (AP) — The Supreme Soviet has ratified the 550 million ruble aid loan recently signed with Iraq. The ruble is officially rated at four to the dollar.

Heart Fund Tea

STUART — A dessert tea will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Stuart Woman's Club building to honor workers in the recent Heart Fund drive, said Mrs. John W. Wolf, Heart Sunday chairman. The Heart Association of Palm Beach and Martin Counties is sponsoring the tea.

'Zhivago' Review

PALM BEACH — Mrs. Drexel J. Sibbersen, president of the Women's Auxiliary of Bethesda-by-the-Sea Episcopal Church will review Boris Pasternak's "Dr. Zhivago," on Thursday, April 2 at 1 p.m. The meeting will be held in the church guild hall.

BROADWAY STAR Julie Wilson will grace "Babes in Arms" with her talents March 30-April 4 at the Royal Poinciana Playhouse in Palm Beach. Show is rewritten (by George Oppenheimer) version of the 1937 Rodgers and Hart musical.

Rep. Bolton To Talk of History

Herald Bureau

PALM BEACH — Frances P. (Mrs. Chester O.) Bolton U.S. Representative from Ohio, will address the Palm Beach County Historical Society at 8 p.m. next Friday.

Rep. Bolton, a ranking member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, will speak on "The U.S. in Current History."

A member of a family which has maintained a winter home in Palm Beach since 1893, the speaker will also reminisce on the Palm Beach of earlier days.

Mrs. Bolton is the holder of 11 honorary degrees from colleges.

She occupies a unique position in public life as the granddaughter of a congressman and U.S. senator, the widow of a congressman to whose post she was elected 11 years ago, and the mother of still another congressman with whom she served beginning in 1952.

The program will be held in the guild hall of Bethesda Church.

Rep. Rogers To Speak

PALM BEACH — Congressman Paul G. Rogers will speak at the dedication of Matthews Auditorium, largest step in Palm Beach private school's five-year expansion program, Monday at 11 a.m.

The building is a gift of Mrs. Ricardo C. Gonzales, the former Jean Flagler, granddaughter of the late Henry M. Flagler, pioneer developer of South Florida.

Mrs. Gonzales, a member of the board of trustees since 1945, will be on the platform with two of her sons, George and Robert Matthews.

Parents, friends, and patrons have been invited to the ceremony. The Rev. Tage Tiesen, rector of Church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea, will give the invocation and benediction.

Miss Odom
. . . plights troth

Miss Odom To Marry In April

WEST PALM BEACH — An April wedding is planned by Martha Rebecca Odom and James W. MacAlpine. Their engagement is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Milton Odom, the bride-elect's parents.

Mr. MacAlpine is the son of Mrs. Marian MacAlpine of St. Petersburg.

A graduate of Palm Beach High School, Miss Odom is now attending Palm Beach Junior College, where she is a member of the Philo Social Club.

Her fiance attended Palm Beach Junior College and the University of Florida, Gainesville. He is now in the Army, stationed at Fort Jackson, S.C.

Club Hears M.D. From Germany

WEST PALM BEACH — Dr. Eva Herlinger of Berlin was honor guest at a reception which the Palm Beach and Gulf Stream branches of the American Association of University Women gave recently at the George Washington Hotel.

The AAUW awards International Fellowship grants to outstanding graduate students from the countries. About one fourth of the 1958-59 grantees were, like Dr. Herlinger, physicians.

Dr. Herlinger is in the U. S. to study maternal and child health and to observe American prenatal clinical techniques.

She gave a brief talk on her work at the University of North Carolina.

'Hole in Head' Is Slated By Norton

WEST PALM BEACH — Norton Gallery Players will present the Broadway hit, 'A Hole in the Head," April 7-11.

This is a comedy of Florida resort hotel business. In the leads will be Ray Galambos, Jim Cochran, Leah Edlin, Stella Monchick, and as a 10-year-old, Young Dennis Cooley of Boca Raton.

The play was written by former Miamian Arnold Shulman.

Junior Women Elect Mrs. Cook

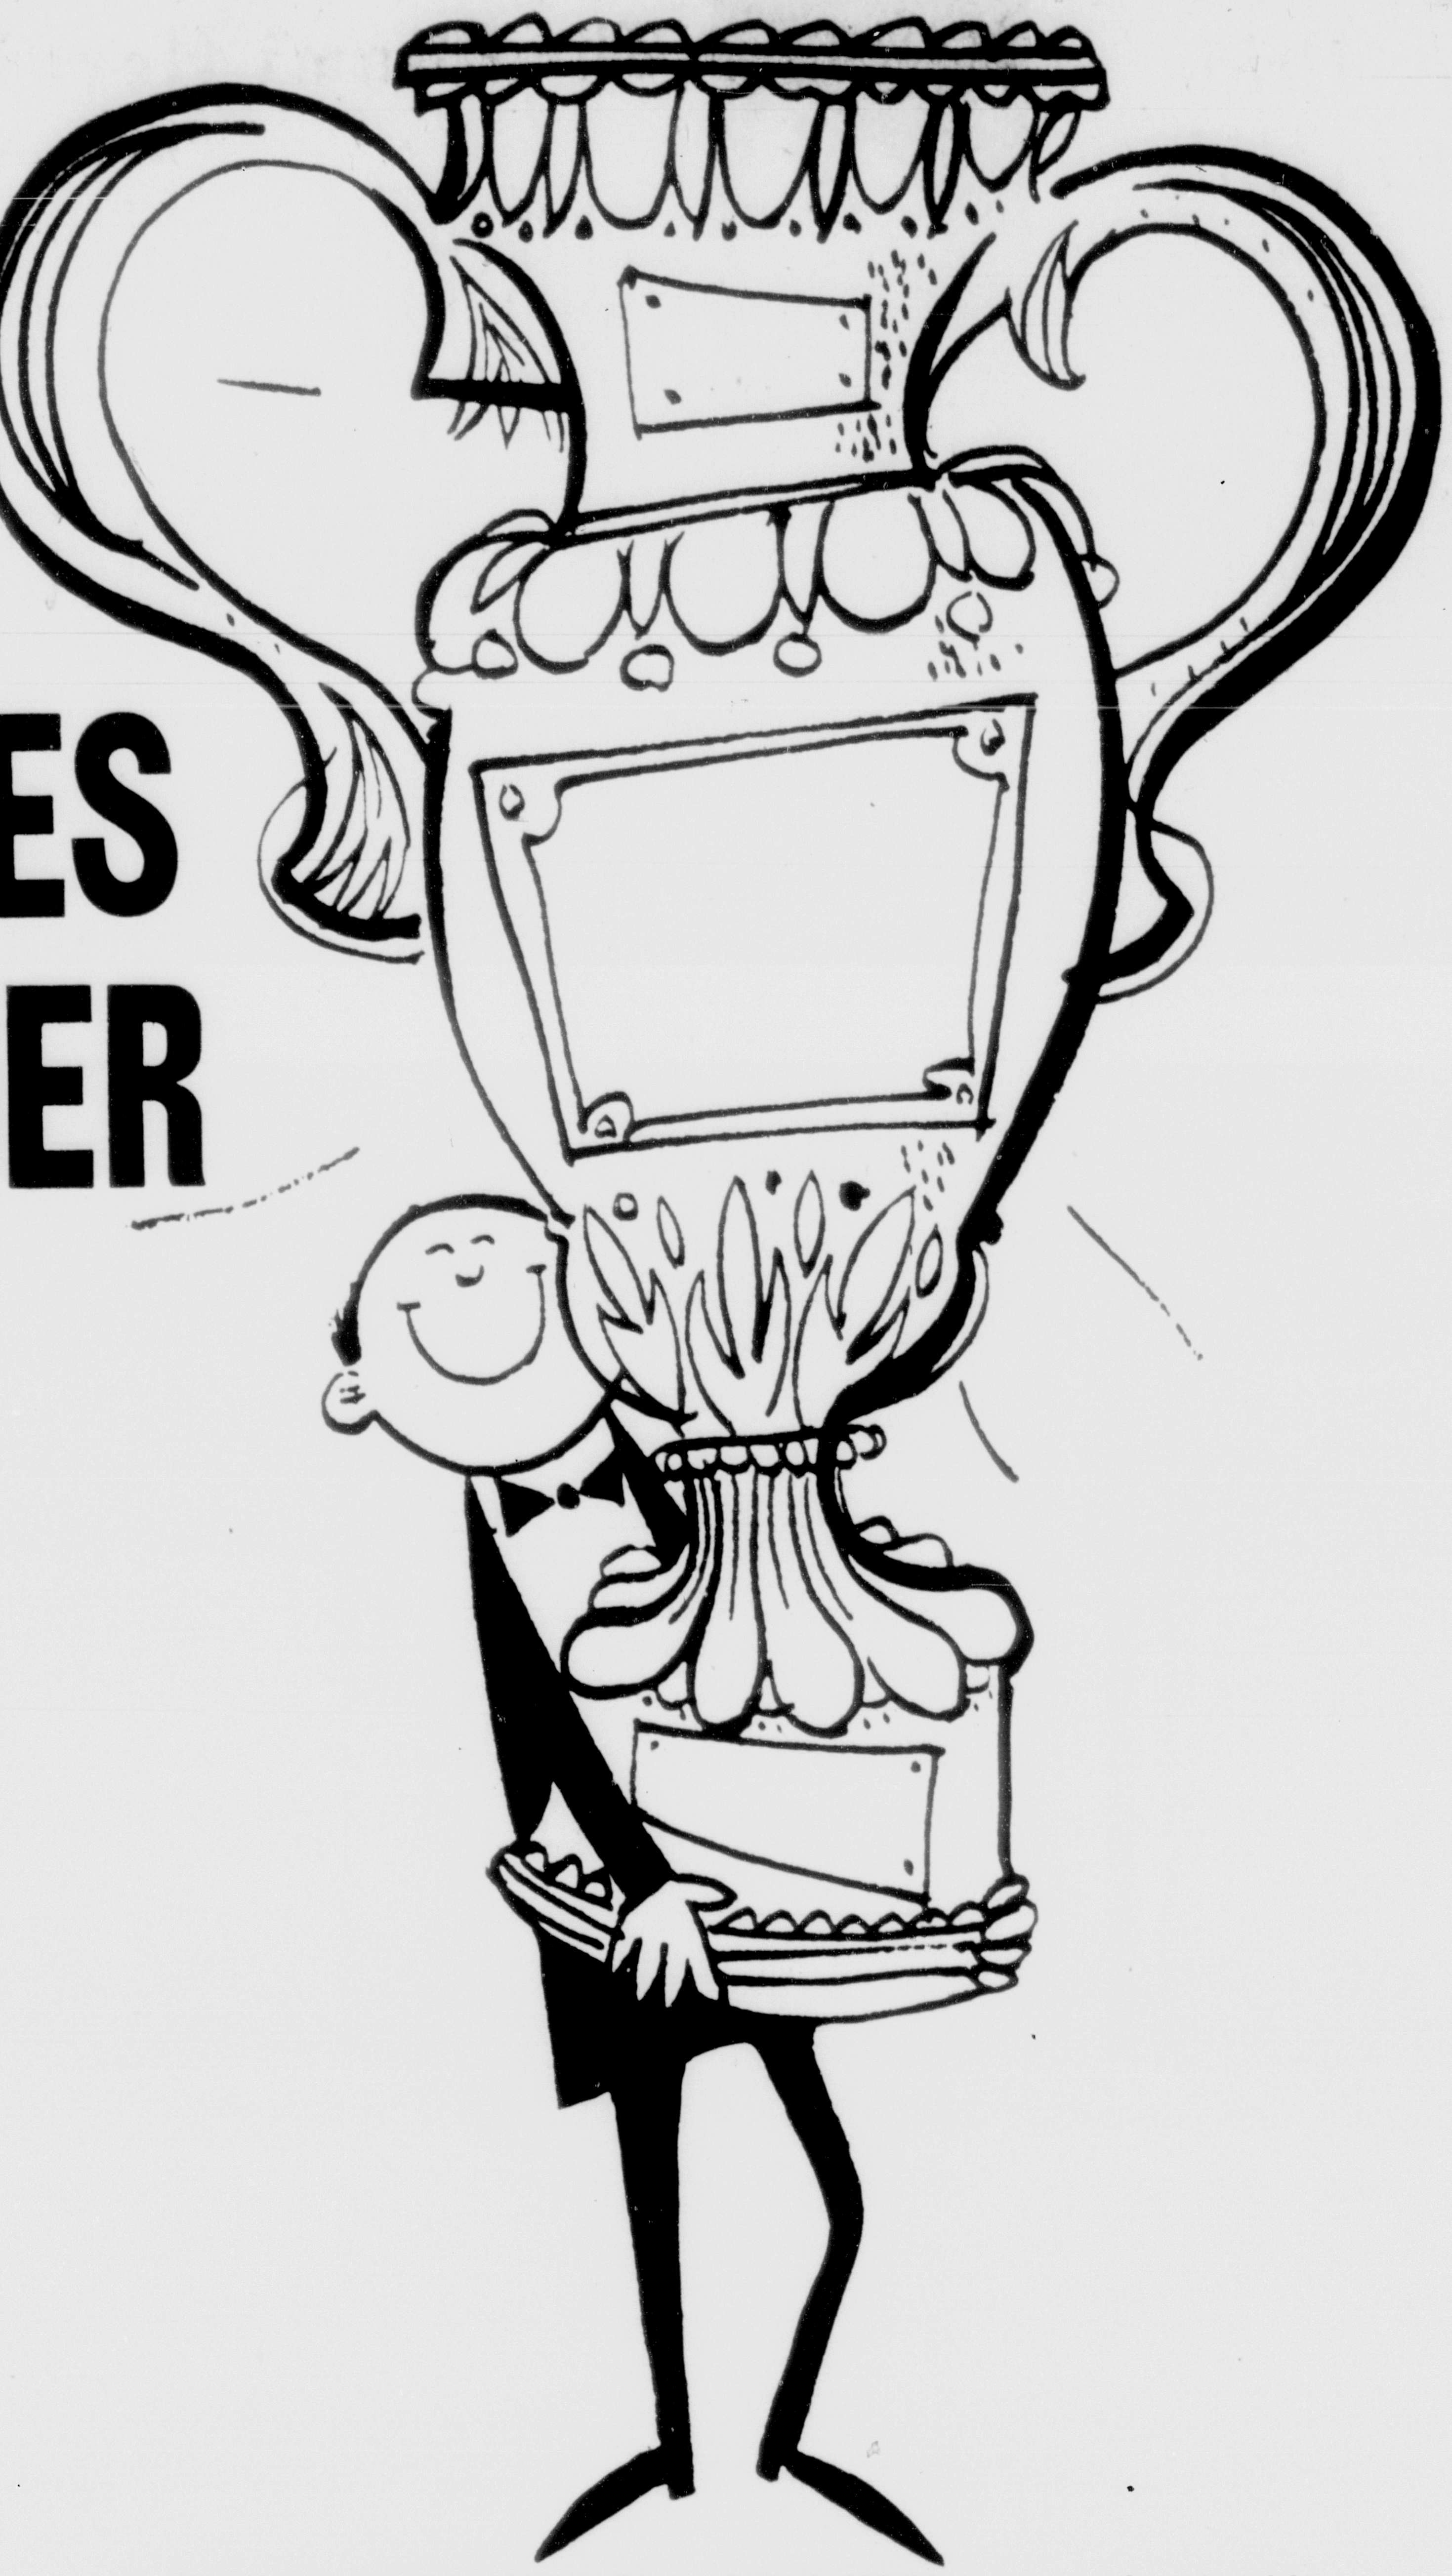
69 TIMES A WINNER



In winning the coveted FIRST PRIZE for PUBLIC SERVICE* for a series of articles on the Insurance Lawsuit Racket, The Herald for the 69th time in the past 12 years has carried off high honors in state-wide competition . . . with more citations than any other Florida newspaper has ever received.

The widely-read articles exposed a primary cause for the rising cost of automobile insurance. They were written by Joy Reese Shaw.

Other awards that added to The Herald's total were:

FIRST PRIZE for the best Page One newspaper makeup, awarded to Charles Ward. The contest judge called it "an easy, light, well-balanced page that's almost impossible to fault." It was the fifth time in the last six years that The Herald has been cited for the most effective Front Page in the state.

FIRST PRIZE for the best spot news reporting, awarded to Larry Thompson, James Buchanan and Gene Miller who worked as a team in reporting the Braniff Airline crash in Miami in 1958.

SECOND PLACE in the Feature Writing competition, won by James Buchanan for a series of on-the-spot stories with Raul Castro's rebel forces in the mountains of Cuba.

THIRD PLACE in the Sports Writing competition, won by Mel Derrick for his colorful story about the late Willie Hoppe, longtime billiard king.

On The Herald's staff are many men and women who have earned outstanding recognition. Their combined talents and capacities make The Herald the completely satisfying and influential newspaper that it is.

Silberman Is Dreaming Of Lighted Tropical Park

PRESIDENT SAUL SILBERMAN of Tropical Park must be allergic to daylight. Squinting at the sunshine flooding Gulfstream Park's infield, Silberman allowed he still thinks night flat racing would be a good thing for his track.

"They're talking about harness racing," Silberman snapped with the disguest of a thoroughbred addict for trotters. "If they want racing at night, why not let me light up Tropical? It wouldn't cost over $300,000."

Actually the desire for harness racing appears to be limited to an out-of-state group which will try to open the gates by having a Pompano track legalized by the legislature.

A couple of weeks back the talk was the boys would succeed. The latest dope is they'll be tossed for a loss. Many people agree with President Jimmy Donn of Gulfstream that Florida has enough racing.

It was last year that Silberman said he would approach the State Racing Commission, which sets the time—now limited to daylight hours—for horse racing. For reasons of his own Silberman has not made the pitch.

"You can say that I'm toying with the idea," said Silberman. "Actually the state, which appears to be interested in more revenue, should tell me to go ahead with the idea. It would increase our betting 25 per cent and mean that much more in state revenue.

"I'd be willing to guarantee the state $1,000 a night more, or the eight per cent, whichever was the largest," Silberman concluded.

Night horse racing may come, but not without a fight which no one—including Silberman—appears willing at the moment to undertake.

Beware of Fat Friends

IT WAS a pleasant Friday afternoon at Gulfstream—mainly because of resisting a fat friend's insistence that I wager $20 on Deer Crossing in the third race.

"You never bet over $2, but just once lay 20 bucks on this colt," the fellow said. "He can't lose."

After Deer Crossing finished fourth, I was telling another acquaintance about the fat guy's tip, and he said, "Why, the soandso didn't even bet on Deer Crossing himself. He lost on another horse."

Dodgers Making Progress

DRESSEN

"There was no game, so Manager Walt Alston gave us the day off," said Dressen. "I played golf at the Hollywood Beach Country club and then came over here."

Dressen agrees the Dodgers will be much improved this season, allowing, "If we can get two more pitchers to go with our other three, we may do right well."

The starting trio (when last I talked with Manager Alston) was Johnny Podres (13-15), Sandy Koufax (11-11) and Don Drysdale (12-13).

Tip on the Masters

ANOTHER ON hand to contribute towards improvement of the breed was Toney Penna, the smiling McGregor executive. It was easy to get Toney to talk about The Masters golf tournament starting at Augusta next Thursday.

LITTLER

I plan to be on hand for the colorful event, but meeting Penna provided an opportunity to get early dope.

"Gene Littler is the most improved pro on the PGA tour," Penna volunteered. "I think he can win at Augusta. He has changed his grip from hooking to a more orthodox and versatile one. He has his right hand on the shaft more."

PENNA

If Littler fails, Penna still thinks the upcoming Masters will be bagged by a younger player. It is about time for youth to be served, Toney allowed.

How Golfers Missed $11,900

ENROUTE BACK to town, I stopped to see Jim MacLaughlin's new pro shop. It's a dandy, located in an attractive building between the ninth green and new No. 1 tee, and modern in its design. It embraces the ideas of Jim's assistant, Joe Benner.

MacLaughlin

Jim revealed that he and six other Miami Shores members sent $700 to Augusta last spring to be wagered on Palmer. The messenger did not arrive in time to get the money down at the prevailing odds of 17-1, which would have meant a payoff of $11,900.

McCALL

Benner assured me that Miami Shores Village Manager Lawton C. McCall deserves credit for the new and modern pro shop. He okayed the project and pushed for its completion, plus clubhouse and course improvements. The Shores has a good golf staff in Bob Patrick, starter; Martha Benner, registrar; Maynard Gustafson and Tom O'Neill, Russell Kerns, new greenskeeper, has the course in excellent condition.

Suggestions 'Good and Bad'

'Speeding Up' Baseball Experiment At Rollins Draws Mixed Reactions

WINTER PARK, Fla. —(AP)— Rollins' baseball week has produced some mixed opinions about speeding up the game — but the idea is going to the American Assn. of College Baseball Coaches anyway.

Joe Justice, athletic director at Rollins College, feels the game is too slow and has made a number of suggestions which were tried this week in a program of doubleheaders among New York University, Wake Forest, Ohio State and Rollins.

Mark Karow, Ohio State coach, said he would support the idea and submit it to the association. He said he would also take the matter up with George Trautman, president of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Justice made these suggestions:

No warmup pitches between innings although pitchers may warm up on the sidelines.

The team at bat may have a courtesy runner for the pitcher so he can take sideline warmup tosses.

Courtesy runners are allowed for catchers after two men are out so he will have time to adjust his gear.

Intentional passes to first base may be given without pitching to the batter.

Karow said "the possibilities of this streamlined baseball are virtually unlimited, but no time limit should be put on pitches."

Jack O'Connor, scout for the Philadelphia Phillies, said warmups should be kept because "they are needed up North where the weather is unpredictable."

Bill McCarthy, NYU coach, said he felt the rules would take the team out of the hands of the coach because "before I could decide what to do they were off in all directions. Also I think there should be at least three warmup pitches. Sideline warming doesn't do the job. And throwing the ball around the infield isn't necessary."

Al Klausman, NYU captain and outfielder, said "moving the teams on and off the field is good but elimination of warmups and peppering removes a lot of color."

Walter Peters, Ohio State catcher, said because of the warm weather here "not as much time is needed for warmups." The hustling of the players also helps the game, he believes.

George Weber, a spectator, doesn't "believe in having a runner for the pitcher or catcher. The rules, however, have speeded up the game."

W. S. Rooney, another fan, feels the rules are good if umpires are strict and follow them.

Zach Taylor, Chicago White Sox scout, says the speedup idea is good but the whole thing is in the hands of two persons — pitcher and catcher — and they seem to be cooperating in this experiment.

In spite of the speedup measures, few of the games during the week went nine innings in the two hours allotted. Most lasted seven or eight innings. One, however, when Rollins beat Wake Forest 4-1 on Friday, was hustled through in 1 hour and 36 minutes.

Six Days Of 'Glory' Open Up

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Gulfstream Park swings into "Blaze O' Glory Week" Monday with a six-day span of racing climaxed by the $100,000 added Florida Derby on Saturday.

Five Derby nominees clash in Monday's feature at a mile and 70 yards. The final test for sophomore candidates for the "Run For the Orchids" will have revolutionist, Rico Tesio, Puneves, Lake Erie and Wheatley Road in the lineup.

Tuesday's attraction will be the dinner stakes for two-year-olds, followed by a dinder-dance in the Turf Club.

The Suwanee River handicap for fillies and mares highlights Wednesday's card.

The unique Grey Ghost purse, fashioned exclusively for grey horses, will be presented Friday.

On Derby eve, the annual Fiesta Tropicale Parade will be staged at Hollywood.

A special Dixieland group will be among the bands which start entertaining at 10 a.m. Derby day. The University of Miami's "Band of the Hour" will perform in a special show.

Eighteen stars from the Cypress Gardens will join in the program, with a water-skiing exhibition.

The field for the Derby is still shaping up. The big three in the lineup — Easy Spur, Troilus and Sword Dancer — are regarded as certain starters.

Atoll Grabs Big One

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Elkcam Stable of Miami unveiled its big Kentucky Derby hope Saturday in the $27,700 Swift Stakes and Atoll ran like he was worth his $100,000 purchase price as he romped home by six lengths in the slop at Jamaica.

Brookfield Farms scratched the favored Intentionally.

Atoll made it look easy as he gave the Mackle Brothers their second straight Swift Stakes victory and third in a row for a Florida-owned colt. Hubcap won for Elkcam Stable last year and King Hairan won it for Leo Edwards in 1957.

Inescapable was a length and a half in front of Jules Chambrun's Dandy Ron. It was the same distance back to the fourth horse, Reginald N. Webster's Royal Anthem.

However, stewards disqualified Dandy Ron from third for interfering with Inescapable on the turn for home. They placed him last and moved Royal Anthem into third money, moving up Orren P. Guy's Pointer to fourth.

FSU Adds McGowan As Coach

By BILL McGROTHA
Herald Correspondent

TALLAHASSEE — Bubba McGowan, a backfield coach at Gainesville High the last four years, has been named an assistant coach on Perry Moss' Florida State football staff.

McGowan is the second Gainesville High coach to join Moss. Earlier Dick Flowers, the school's head coach, was hired.

He served as Florida's freshman backfield coach in '52—the same role he's scheduled for at Florida State. He coached Service teams at Fort Jackson in '53 and '54.

Leon Sikes Wins Senior Golf Crown

ST. AUGUSTINE — (AP) — Leon Sikes of West Palm Beach Saturday won the American Seniors Golf Association tourney for the second time.

He won it in 1957 and Saturday had an easy time, ousting Bruce Coffin of Marblehead, Mass., 5-4.

It was his easiest match of the tourney which started Sunday and had 220 entries. Earlier Sikes had to go extra holes to beat Jud Brumley of Greenville, Tenn., and J. T. Kirkpatrick of Manchester, Conn.

After halving the first hole Saturday, Sikes won the second through the sixth to take a 5-up lead.

Coffin got birdies on the eighth and ninth to reduce the lead to 3-up at the turn but on the back nine Sikes won the 11th and 13th. The match ended on the 14th where both took 5s.

Half-Million Fans See Race

Oxford Survives Mutiny, Whips Cambridge Crew

LONDON — (AP) — Oxford won the 105th boat race from Cambridge Saturday despite an American inspired mutiny among its oarsmen.

The victory was an upset and the winning margin of six lengths vindicated Oxford Captain Ronnie Howard, who resisted criticisms of his training and coaching methods.

The winning time for the four and a quarter mile row up the rough and windy River Thames was 18 minutes, 52 seconds — well off the record of 17:50 set by Cambridge in 1947. Cambridge's time was 19:10.

Considering the tide, currents and wind, however, it was fairly fast going.

J. G. Rowbotham, the Oxford cox, called an almost perfect race. He steered his crew to the front in the first 300 yards and he never let Cambridge gain a speck of it back.

Last winter Reed Rubin of New York City, No. 6 for Oxford last year and a former Yale varsityman, formed a rebel crew.

He said he did not like the way Oxford went about getting ready. Oxford had lost the last four races to Cambridge and Rubin wanted a new training program. Many top Oxford rowers supported him.

His mutiny failed when Howard insisted on Oxford preparing much the same way it had for years.

Another American also ran against Oxford rowing tradition. Chris Grimes of Locust Valley, N.Y., who rowed in Yale's 1956 Olympic champion crew, wore his favorite railwayman's cap in training.

The result left the count 58 for Cambridge, 46 for Oxford and one dead heat.

Chisox Bounce Burdette

BRADENTON—(AP)—A three-run rally in the seventh inning ruined Lew Burdette's bid to go the distance Saturday and handed the Chicago White Sox a 5-2 exhibition victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Turk Lown, Rookie Don Rudolph and Gerry Staley held the National League champions to six hits. Rudolph got credit for the victory.

Burdette showed his best form of the spring for the first six innings, but faded in the seventh. He made way for a pinch hitter in the home half of the seventh, and Jerry Nelson finished up.

Tigers Topple Cardinals, 8-4

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — Bill White homered for the St. Louis Cardinals in his first game since he was acquired from San Francisco, but a former Giant teammate, southpaw Pete Burnside, pitched the Detroit Tigers to an 8-4 victory Saturday.

Burnside, striking out seven, went the distance as the Tigers posted their 10th triumph in 16 games. Joe Cunningham homered for the Cardinals.

Lefty George Brunet went all the way for the A's, giving up only four hits. Kansas City collected 10 safeties.

Nuxhall reeled off the first seven innings in mid-season form, giving up only two hits, one a double by Don Demeter. Acker finished up in style. It marked his first appearance since suffering a groin injury two weeks ago.

Pirates Beat Senators, 1-0

ORLANDO —(AP)— A triple by Harry Bright followed by Bill Mazeroski's single in the fifth inning gave Pittsburgh a 1-0 victory over Washington Saturday. The Pirates received six-hit pitching from Laurin Pepper, Fred Green and George Perez.

The Pirates collected all four hits off Washington Starter Hal Griggs, who took the loss. John Romonosky, finishing up for the Senators, pitched four hitless innings.

Thomson-Led Cubs Win, 10-3

MESA, Ariz. — (AP) — Bobby Thomson's fourth spring homer, good for three first-inning runs, paced the Chicago Cubs to a 10-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants before 3,537 Saturday.

Score, Rookie Stop Bosox, 5-2

TUCSON, Ariz. —(AP)— Herb Score and Rookie Jim Perry limited Boston to seven hits Saturday as the Cleveland Indians posted a 5-2 victory over the Red Sox before 3,346.

Score, pitching for the first time in eight days, allowed one run on five hits in five innings, walked five and struck out the same number.

Perry, a gangling righthander who had a 16-8 record in the Eastern League last year, was even better than the celebrated Score. He retired 11 batters in a row after Sammy White and Marty Keough greeted him with singles.

Worried Art Wall Moves Up

WILMINGTON, N.C. —(AP)— Family man Art Wall, worried over his young son's measles attack, broke out in a rash of his own Saturday — eight birdies — to charge into a four-stroke lead after 36 holes in the Azalea Open golf tournament.

The 35-year-old Pocono Manor, Pa., pro scored a six-under-par 35-31 — 66 for a halfway total of 138 in the $15,000 tournament which ends Monday.

First-round leader Bob Goalby of Belleville, Ill., dropped to a second-place tie at 142 after a second round 72. Don Whitt of Borrego Spring, Calif., scored a second 71 to tie Goalby.

Four players shared fourth place at 144, six shots off the lead. They were Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y.; Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N.C.; Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and Bert Weaver of Beaumont, Tex.

Claude King of Virginia Beach, Va., led the amateurs with 148 after 77 today. Jack Nicklaus, young Walker cupper from Columbus, Ohio, tied him with a second 74 but withdrew in favor of some on-the-scene Masters practice at Augusta.

'Well-Heeled' After Bowie Win

Sizzling Vertex Triumphs by Six

BOWIE, Md. —(AP)— Vertex, a fragile-legged horse, turned into a well-heeled one by easily winning the John B. Campbell Handicap for his second Saturday $100,000 victory in a week.

His profit of $74,595, added to last Saturday's fist prize in the Gulfstream Park Handicap, gave the 5-year-old chestnut total paychecks of $153,743 in eight days.

Vertex, owned by J. J. Brunetti and F. A. Piarulli, is only the second thoroughbred in history to win two hundred-grand races in such a short span. The first was Round Table in 1957, who won the Hollywood Gold Cup and Westerner.

Only doubt cast on Vertex Saturday was at the end, when Jockey Walter Blum on runner-up Backbone claimed he was fouled by Vertex as they raced head and head entering the backstretch.

Vertex subsequently pulled away to win by six lengths, and the judges disallowed Blum's foul claim.

The crowd of 18,320 bet heavily on Vertex, a home-born horse ridden by Baltimorean Sammy Boulmetis.

As a result, Vertex rewarded them at only $3.80, $3.20 and $2.20. Boncrist Farm's Backbone returned $6.60 and $4.20, while third place Talent Show, owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice, paid $5.60.

Vertex, who has had frequent leg trouble including loss of part of a hoof, ran as sound as an old dollar in covering the mile and a sixteenth in 1:43 1-5.

He was carrying 124 pounds, ranging from seven to 14 more than any of his nine rivals. A week ago he won at Gulfstream carrying 125 pounds for a mile and a quarter.

It was the third victory in four races for Vertex this year. He would up his 1958 campaign with a triumph in the Pimlico Special the day before his sire, The Rhymer, was burned to death.

"This is by far his best race," said Jockey Boulmetis. Trainer J. F. Piarulli, son of one of the owning partners, agreed. "He was better than he's ever been," said Piarulli.

Vertex was an undistinguished 2-year-old, starting only three times and earning but $3,330. He rounded into form last year with five victories in eight races for $134,757.

With $156,170 to his credit already this year, his next target is the $50,000 Lincoln special April 18 in Rhode Island.

Backbone was able to make a race of the Campbell for only the first half-mile. Going into the backstretch, Vertex gradually opened up daylight until he was four lengths to the good turning into the home stretch.

Down the last 1,150 feet, Jockey Boulmetis did little beyond encourage him, and Vertex continued to pull away from Backbone, who held on for second by a nose over Talent Show.

Michigan Nine Beats Duke, 6-2

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The University of Michigan opened its baseball season Saturday with a 6-2 win over Duke in the Florida State University baseball tournament.

Earlier, the University of Illinois beat North Carolina, 11-3. It was the last tournament game for North Carolina but the round-robin meet, entered by eight teams, continues through next week.

Michigan's Denny McGinn held Duke scoreless over the first five innings for the victory. Allan Koch finished up for Michigan.

'King' Aces Gulfstream Turf Field

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Jockey John Sellers rode Cain Hoy Stable's One-Eyed King to a rousing victory in Gulfstream Park's $28,450 Donn Handicap Saturday, missing the world's record for a mile and a half on the turf by only two-fifths of a second.

Five-year-old One-Eyed King, who broke the world mark for a mile and one-sixteenth in his last grass start at Gulfstream, outfinished Hasty House Farms' Ekaba by three parts of a length in 2:25.4.

The world standard is 2:25.2, set by St. Vincent at Santa Anita where about half a mile of the grass course is downgrade.

The favored General Arthur was third, two lengths behind Ekaba.

One-Eyed King returned $7., $3.50 and $2.50. Ekaba, coupled in the wagering with Aysha, paid $3.50 and $2.40, while General Arthur was $2.50 to show.

Captain Harry Guggenheim, former U.S. ambassador to Cuba who owns Cain Hoy Stable, received $17,925 as One-Eyed King's share of the purse.

The Donn Handicap was the first mile and a half race run over the new Gulfstream turf course.

The program was viewed by 16,793 fans in overcast but comfortable weather.

Bill Harmatz broke Ekaba on top in the eight-horse field but let his stablemate, Aysha, pass him and set the early pace. As the field thundered by the stands the first time, Aysha led with Ekaba, General Arthur and One-Eyed King following in that order.

Mariners Guide, Firesickle, Trasgo and Point of Order were strung out well to the rear.

Going down the backstretch, Aysha began to fade under Lois Cook and Harmatz made his move with Ekaba. At the same time Sellers gave the go sign to One-Eyed King, and the Cain Hoy horse moved past General Arthur into second position.

On the outside of horses most of the way, One-Eyed King passed Ekaba on the turn for home as Bill Hartack saved ground along the hedge with General Arthur.

The trio straightened for home in that order, and neither Ekaba nor General Arthur was able to gain on the victor in the drive.

After dismounting, Sellers said, "My horse tried to loaf when he made the lead, but I got into him and he responded. He could have gone further."

One-Eyed King won under an impost of 116 pounds. Ekaba was covering 117, and General Arthur packed 126. The General was Hartack's fourth losing favorite of the day.

FAVORITES had tough sledding in the early events.

Gayle Smith guided Tiller Ep to an upset score in the first half of the daily double. The winner, who held a half-length edge on Biscayne at the finish, refunded $18.80. The favored Risk Again wound up last in the 12-horse field.

Song and Dance, ridden by Apprentice Jockey Richard Hurley, was a five-length victor in the second heat with the favored Beau Amour finishing fifth. The 6-12 combination returned $134.20.

Larry Wolf, who turned up a good thing in the betting, scored by two lengths in the third to pay $16.70. The winner was 20-1 on the track program, but closed at 7-1. The favored Shrewsbury Rocks ended up a distant seventh.

Cripples Grounded

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — (UPI) — A wheelchair basketball team of crippled veterans, cast as "Junketeers" in an Air Force directive, Saturday sat out the confusion over their proposed flight to California.

The University of Illinois team had planned to fly to El Toro Marine Base, Calif., to join five other teams of handicapped cagers in a national tournament April 2.

But that was before Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.), arose in the Senate Thursday to criticize "plush junkets" by civilians in Air Force planes.

Floyd-Swede Fight Reset For June 25

GOTEBORG, Sweden — (AP) — Floyd Patterson will defend his world heavyweight boxing title against Ingemar Johansson of Sweden in New York on Thursday June 25, promoter Bill Rosensohn said Saturday.

He made the announcement shortly after arrival from New York. The decision was reached following a conference with Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's advisor. Previously, June 23 had been the suggested date.

Rosensohn did not specify the exact site of the bout except to say that it would be in New York. Yankee Stadium is available from June 21 until July 3. He also has an option on the Polo Grounds.

Johansson, European heavyweight champion, plans to come to the United States in mid-April for his final training sessions. He has not yet picked his camp.

Rosensohn said that Patterson first would defend his title against Brian London, former British Empire champ, in Las Vegas, Nev., probably on May 1 and rated the match "an ideal tuneup for Patterson's bigger bout."

Dick Rathman Hits Record 173.21 in Daytona Trials

DAYTONA BEACH — (AP) — Dick Rathman pushed his red Sumar Special up to 173.21 miles-an-hour Saturday in qualifying trials for the 100-mile speedway car race April 4.

His average, which clinched the pole position, was slightly faster than the 173.01 practice run Friday around the 2½-mile banked Daytona International Speedway.

Rathman's qualifying time set a record, bettering the 171.82 by Marshall Teague of Daytona Beach on Feb. 9—two days before he was killed in a Sumar Special.

Jim Rathman, Dick's younger brother from Miami, turned in the second best speed Saturday in a Simonz Special at 172.01. Roger Ward of Los Angeles, in a Leader Card Special was third at 171.03.

In all, eight drivers qualified Saturday out of an entry list of 26. Strong gusts of wind kept down the speeds.

Qualifying runs will continue today and Thursday for the 100-mile event sanctioned by the U.S. Auto Club and FIA.

Yankees Stage 'Off Day,' 7-2

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — The World Champion New York Yankees had an off-day scheduled Saturday, but Manager Casey Stengel used the occasion for a 10-inning intra-squad game won by the Gaynors, 7-2, over the Mauches.

Catcher Elston Howard's three-run inside-the-park homer in the second inning was the margin of victory.

Outfielder Ken Hunt also hit an inside-the-park homer, and 18-year-old outfielder Dick Barry garnered four hits.

Zack Monroe pitched the first six innings to gain credit for the win, but Bob Wiesler's four-inning, one-hit performance was the hurling highlight.

Summer Dog Races In Works?

By the Associated Press

Summer dog racing in the Dade-Broward and Tampa-St. Petersburg areas will be among the problems facing the 1959 Florida Legislature.

Several minor changes in State Racing Commission rules will be proposed, and there may be renewed efforts to establish a harness track at Pompano Beach.

But the knotty problem will be whether to extend greyhound racing into the summer months in the Greater Miami area and in the Tampa Bay section.

The Racing Commission has said it will not oppose summer dates, but it will oppose extending the number of racing days. It will be up to the four greyhound tracks — Flagler, Broward County, Miami Beach and Biscayne — as to which will operate on summer dates, and when, in the Dade-Broward area.

But Top Aides May Pull Cuba Out

Million Jobless as Castro Orates, Fumbles

Fidel Castro
. . . words, words, words

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — More than one million persons — one-sixth of Cuba's population —are out of jobs.

The government is operating in a state of disorganized confusion.

Business paralysis is setting in as industry waits to see how far Cuba's socialistic-minded savior, Fidel Castro, will go.

Yet despite the business collapse and the Communists' hopes of moving in when the hero-worship of Castro wears off, there is still a hope for recovery.

It hinges on the efforts of two Castro aides, Dr. Regino Boti, minister of the National Economy Board, and Dr. Felipe Pazos, head of The National Bank. Both are extremely able. If Castro gives them a chance, they may be able to reverse the trend which Castro has initiated.

Castro, as self-appointed prime minister of the revolutionary government, calls the shots and outlines policy as he goes. Frequently policy seems to be made on the spur of the moment, without rationalization, in the middle of one of his hours-long speeches.

If he keeps it up, observers here feel the Russians and their Red party leaders need move hardly a finger toward eventual capture of this sugar republic and a strategic North American beachhead.

Yet, the Cuban people—90 per cent Catholic—are instinctively anti-Communist and pro-capitalist.

What is happening here is reminiscent of Guatemala four years ago when the Communists were able to push Jacobo Arbenz into power. But then it took long months of careful, crafty planning — of infiltration and manipulation.

In Cuba, it is being accomplished by the national hero, a man who is not a Communist but rather is an inept administrator, idealist and demagogue.

Some alarmed Cubans have suggested that Nikita Kruschchev's secret agents and organizers aren't needed in Cuba — that Castro himself is unwittingly "talking" Cuba into the Communist orbit.

In fairness to Castro, it must be emphasized that he appears completely sincere. And he has achieved, for the moment at least, honesty in government, a quality hitherto unknown in Cuban politics.

Despite his sincerity, he gives every indication of doing a beautiful job of fouling up this island-nation's economy, driving it toward bankruptcy, upsetting traditional social customs and creating an atmosphere of "government by confusion."

He may know where he is ers who are government officials.

An Outsider Looks In

This, in part, is the conclusion of The Herald's foreign-analyst, John B. McDermott, as he revisits Cuba for a look at the sugar republic's stormy rebirth under the banner of the rebel hero Castro.

In recent years McDermott has traveled to trouble spots of the world—Russia, Africa, Germany, the Near East — to look at politics in terms of people and their leaders.

Too Contradictory

Cuban Business Future Is Dark

By WILLIAM GAUDET
Special To The Herald

HAVANA, Cuba — The cooler heads of businessmen see the answer to Cuba's future in plain everyday economics.

And they are disturbed by what Fidel Castro's government has done, or failed to do.

They cite paradoxes — the government doing one thing with one hand and the opposite with the other — which they believe could spell serious trouble for the island unless there is better coordination.

They cite instances of too much idealism and not enough realism:

* * *

CASTRO'S REDUCING RENTS all over the island — and the stress at the same time is on the need for new housing construction.

* * *

THE government order to the Cuban Telephone Co. to sharply reduce monthly charges — and the announcement that followed it closely that there was going to be a vast expansion program.

GAUDET

* * *

MUCH TALK about the importance of private enterprise aided by foreign capital and know-how — and not one law so far to help expansion by private enterprise already here, or to attract new foreign capital.

It is not that the businessmen are against the announced Castro policies of reform to help the little men. Many of them are little men themselves. But they believe the reforms should come side-by-side with laws which help rather than hinder the role of capital.

Many businessmen will tell you they are deeply concerned over how to protect capital they have already invested. Property values in Havana and elsewhere, for instance, already have dropped — some say as much as 40 to 60 per cent — as a result of the rent reduction decree.

Another incongruity, observers say, is the much-talked-of drive to produce in Cuba, by Cubans, the things which Cubans need and use.

But, asks the businessman, how can this sort of nationalism work in a country which itself depends more than anything else on the export of sugar? And whose largest market, the U.S., is maintained through a system of quotas — the U.S. imports so much sugar in return for export rights of its own goods to Cuba?

Take away the U.S. as a sugar market, and the entire economy of Cuba will crumble, the businessmen say.

Government officials say the government controls over foreign exchange will be lifted when sale of the sugar crop — expected to bring between 500 and 600 million dollars to the island — begins. But some capitalists doubt it. They believe the government will not allow many of the dollars to get out of Cuba.

Already, practical businessmen say, there are many working quietly to find a way of getting their capital out of Cuba.

But this unrest is not obvious.

To the visitor, the thousands who jam into the Plaza whenever Castro speaks are the obvious sign that he is the Cuban hero and that the huge mass of people is willing to believe — for awhile, anyway — his idealistic optimism and accept his actions.

Nicaragua Invasion Held Near

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — (UPI) — The Dominican military intelligence service said Saturday that former President Jose Figueres of Costa Rica is massing men and weapons for an invasion of Nicaragua.

An official communique said that 35 Cuban "barbudos" (bearded followers of Fidel Castro) landed on the Costa Rican coast near the Nicaraguan frontier March 19 from the Panamanian ship White Shadow. It said arms for 500 men also were put ashore.

According to the communique, the band is now in the mountains where it is being "directed" by Figueres from his ranch La Lucha.

The invasion of Nicaragua from Costa Rica, the communique said, would be combined with similar operation from Honduras.

"The Dominican intelligence service knows that a network of conspirators exists in the Caribbean which has violated all international rules by using ham-wave bands to maneuver against countries to foment armed revolt," the communique said.

Cloudy But Dry Forecast

There may be some clouds but there shouldn't be much rain to spoil Easter in Florida, weathermen predicted Saturday.

Fair, mild weather was forecast for most of the rest of the nation, except for showers expected in the Rockies and a few snow flurries in the Northwest.

Florida's skies should be a bit more cloudy than expected, weathermen said, because of a stationary weather front hanging over most of the state.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower, spending the long Easter weekend in Gettysburg, Pa., planned to lead the nation in worship by attending services at the Presbyterian church near their farm. They planned a "very quiet weekend."

And New York's Fifth Avenue will be bright with the annual parade of latest fashions past St. Patrick's Cathedral. The picture will be the same on Chicago's "Magnificent Mile," and on main streets throughout the nation.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., 100 motion picture stars will accompany 100 crippled children in a parade dedicated to Easter Seals, and at the Hollywood Bowl more than 20,000 are expected to hear Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, a prominent Mormon, deliver his Easter message.

Before day broke on Easter, the Roman Catholic world had its message from Pope John. Departing from the custom of delivering Papal Easter messages on Sunday, Pope John spoke to the world from Vatican City Saturday night.

In a broadcast heard around the world in many languages, the Pope offered prayers for the rulers of the earth and for peace.

Hundreds of Christians gathered within the walls of the old city of Jerusalem for midnight services in the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre. Scores of pilgrims and tourists remained for Catholic masses offered in the three chapels of the ancient basilica shortly after midnight.

Outside, the narrow streets of the old city were dimly lit and largely deserted after a bustling day. The stars shone in a clear sky.

Blockade Of Russia Our Tack?

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Washington Evening Star said Saturday the U.S. is considering a naval blockade of Russia in the Baltic and Black Sea areas if the Soviet Union cuts off the West's access to Berlin.

"This is one of the measures short of nuclear war this country recognizes it has at its disposal, officials here confirm, if the Soviet Union goes through with its threats to oust the West from Berlin," The Star said.

It added that no decision has been reached on the point at which such a serious counter-measure would be ordered. The newspaper said the plan may be discussed here this week at the secret sessions of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers meeting.

At the State Department, Press Officer Francis Tully said of The Star's report:

"We are considering many different possibilities from time to time of things that might or could be done (about the Berlin situation) but as to any military decisions that might be made, I can't comment."

Privately officials said a naval blockade of a major power would have to be considered an act of war which could be used if hostilities actually started. But they noted that President Eisenhower has emphasized at news conferences in recent weeks that if there is to be any shooting it will be done by the other side.

Pointing out that Turkey controls the Bosphorus and Dardanelles outlets from the Black Sea, and Denmark controls the Kattegat at the mouth of the Baltic Sea, The Star said both nations could become key nations in the Berlin crisis.

Our Power Greater, He Claims

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Vice President Richard Nixon said in Miami Saturday that the U.S. has enough military muscle to stand up at a summit conference without fear of submitting to Russian blackmail.

He conceded the Russians have more long-range missiles and submarines.

"But in over-all military power, we, with our allies, have greater strength."

Here with his wife and two daughters for the Easter holidays, the vice president also maintained that the Republican Party must be rebuilt and that the administration must post a good record from here on in to win the 1960 presidential election.

Skirting questions about his own potential candidacy, Nixon commented:

"By concentrating on those two efforts we can win no matter who is nominated . . . I am not working or engaging in activities toward the nomination."

With aplomb and a polished delivery, he touched on a wide range of topics, including the missile program, foreign relations, Latin America, inflation and presidential qualifications.

At one point he digressed to remark on the difficulty he has with arithmetic while helping his young daughters with their homework.

"If anybody has any ideas about American education, they should try doing their children's arithmetic problems. I can do long division but I'm not so good in algebra and geometry," he confessed.

"It's a good thing Mrs. Nixon was once a teacher."

Turning to weightier subjects the vice president made the following observations:

U.S. BUDGET — This is expected to be the biggest issue during the current session of Congress. Unless the federal budget is balanced, it will be difficult to balance the family budget.

FOREIGN AID — Nothing could hurt the U.S. in the cold war more than a partisan debate on foreign aid. A vote to cut mutual security is a vote to raise defense expenditures and a vote to increase the draft of American boys.

MISSILE RACE — The Russians are ahead of the U.S. in some areas, such as the pro-

As Demo Senators Rally to Ike

Hike in Foreign Aid Looms

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Eisenhower has enlisted bipartisan Senate support for an effort to boost the 100 million dollars voted by the House for foreign aid development loans.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader, predicted the Senate will add at least 75 million dollars to the loan fund. The fund provides low-interest loans to assist public works in underdeveloped countries friendly to the West.

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said in a separate interview he will urge the appropriations committee to raise the House-approved total to 200 million dollars.

This still would leave the fund 25 million dollars short of Eisenhower's request for 225 million dollars in emergency money for the remainder of this fiscal year, ending June 30. A compromise between Senate and House figures would be likely to leave the total even lower.

When the House Appropriations Committee cut out all of Eisenhower's request the President termed the action irresponsible.

The Story, and Meaning, of Easter

'He Is Risen'--the News That Never Grows Old

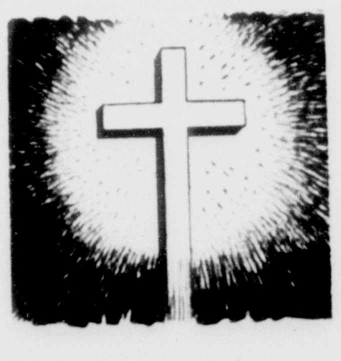
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

More than seven hundred million people around the world are celebrating Easter today.

In stately Latin and melodious Polynesian, and in virtually every other known tongue, they repeat the news that sped through the demoralized company of Christian disciples on the first Easter morning, 1,929 years ago.

"He is risen!"

Easter is the oldest and most sacred of Christian holy days for good reason. Unlike the Oriental religions which are based on mystical experiences and metaphysical speculation, Christianity is anchored in history to an event — the resurrection of Jesus Christ.



From its earliest days to the present, the Christian church has never hesitated to stake its whole case on the claim that this event really happened.

"If Christ be not risen," the apostle Paul told the Corinthians, "then is your faith in vain."

What is the evidence for the resurrection?

Many Christians probably would answer that question by citing the Biblical stories about the finding of the empty tomb. These stories dramatize the fact of the resurrection as nothing else can, and their devotional value has earned them the central place at most Easter worship services.

But to the rigorously objective modern scholars who have exposed the New Testament to the most searching scrutiny ever given to any book, the empty tomb is secondary evidence.

These scholars point out that there are a number of discrepancies in the various gospel narratives about the awesome discovery that greeted the devoted women who went to the tomb "early in the morning on the first day of the week."

These discrepancies do not mean that the story is untrue. On the contrary, even a newspaper reporter can discern, in the different accounts, just that variation in detail but agreement on essential fact, which is the hallmark of authentic eyewitness accounts of any momentous event.

But the discrepancies do indicate to Biblical researchers that the first Christians did not attach primary importance to the empty tomb. If they had, a greater attempt probably would have been made to pin down the precise facts, to harmonize the disparate versions that circulated freely in the oral traditions until they eventually were set down in the gospels.

What pushed the empty tomb into the background of the early apostles' thoughts? The answer is abundantly clear in all of the gospels, in the book of Acts and in Paul's letters.

Red China Abolishes Rule of Dalai Lama

Puppet Regime Set Up

TOKYO — (AP) —Red China Saturday abolished the Dalai Lama's regime in Tibet, elevated the rival Panchen Lama in his stead, and imposed military rule on the rebellious Himalayan land.

Peiping asserted the revolt that erupted March 19 was crushed in two days and 4,000 rebels were captured. But Red China admitted rebel bands fought on in varoius parts of the land of the Lamas. Peiping asserted these bands were being mopped up.

Broadcasts from the capital of Red China asserted the 23-year-old Dalai Lama was abducted by the rebels and "under duress" tore up the 1951 treaty with Red China under which he was allowed to retain nominal rule.

This tended to bear out reports from India and elsewhere that the Dalai Lama had made good his escape from Lhasa, the capital, and had joined the rebels, probably in southern Tibet.

Presumably, the Dalai Lama is with the fierce Kampa tribal warriors, who from positions in southern Tibet have been fighting the Chinese Reds for three years.

The Panchen Lama last was reported at his religious headquarters at Shigatse, southwest of Lhasa. The 21-year-old spiritual leader now may be in Lhasa. He is considered the spiritual equal of the Dalai Lama but traditionally wields no temporal power. He generally has been considered more complaisant toward the Communists than the Dalai Lama.

Peiping asserted the command center of the revolt was Kalimpong, in northern India where the trade routes wind in from Tibet.

Nationalist China airdropped supplies to the rebels in their stronghold south of the Tsangpo River, Peiping said, thus supporting Chinese Nationalists' claims that they have been aiding the rebels. The Tsangpo River flows south of Lhasa.

Peiping said "radio stations were set up there by agents sent by the imperialists and the Chiang Kai-shek (Nationalist) clique to further their intrigues."

Trouble broke out, Peiping said, after the Dalai Lama was scheduled to attend a theatrical performance in the auditorium of the Tibetan military command. Accounts from Tibetans reaching India have said the Dalai Lama was ordered by the Red Chinese to come without companions and this raised fears for his safety among his followers.

Sunny Fortune Splits $400 Prize

By SUNNY FORTUNE
Herald Puzzle Editor

Sunny Fortune's personal Easter rabbit spread $200 eggs from Miami to Key West today—splitting the $400 prize for his puzzle between a pair of women in the two cities.

"Good for me," whooped Mrs. R. T. May of Miami. "I'm so proud I could cry," was the reaction of Mrs. Ollie Jenkins of Key West.

SUNNY

Ten other persons just missed a share of the eggs by a rabbit's whisker when they were one word off the correct answers.

They'll have another chance this week as Sunny drops a fresh $300 into the nest and starts building a fund for the next winner. You'll find the puzzle waiting for you on Page 4-B.

For both Mrs. May, of 490 NE 61st St., and Mrs. Jenkins of 912 Whitehead St., the prize money came "just at the right time."

Mrs. Jenkins, who has been working the puzzles about a year, said her part of the prize would go for bills and a spring outfit for her 10-year-old daughter, Sharon.

The $200 meant an Easter outfit for Mrs. May, too. "Now I can splurge," she said. "That shopping trip I was going on will become a real tour."

Neither woman takes time from her domestic activities to make a practice of entering contests. "But I've been working this one since it started," Mrs. May said, "and just decided I wouldn't give up."

FOREIGN RELATIONS — The bond between the U.S. and Great Britain is closer than at any time since World War II, thanks to President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The U.S. makes the mistake of thinking of Latin America as one great area, instead of in terms of individual countries with different problems. U.S. prestige generally is better than a year ago.

FIDEL CASTRO — If there is anything the U.S. wants it is friendship and cooperation with the Cuban people and government. Castro has indicated opposition to some U.S. policies, but it is based on misunderstandings which can be removed when the rebel leader visits the U.S.

Nixon added that U.S. relations with Latin America are being improved through the creation of an inter-American loan institution, studies aimed at stabilizing prices of Latin products and mounting interest in Latin America.

He noted that world peace has been maintained during the seven years of the Eisenhower administration, "but we are going to have crises in world affairs as long as international communism persists in its present tendencies."

He said that the major qualifications of presidential candidates shift with the times and their issues.

In addition to the usual prerequisites, he opined that presidential timber must have experience and understanding of international affairs, plus a working knowledge of domestic economics.

Nexon, however, begged off the question of whether he possessed those qualifications on grounds of prejudice.

Grim News Awaited Cinderella

NEW YORK — (UPI) — A pretty 13-year-old ballerina danced the role of Cinderella for the Perry Como television show Saturday, unaware that when the ball was over, she would be told her father was dead.

Sharon Lerit's father, Sanford, 43, died in a Newark, N.J., hospital Friday night. He had been ill 10 years and in a hospital for 11 weeks. But Sharon's mother, Florence, decided to bear her grief alone, until after Sharon had appeared before a nationwide television audience.

The members of the cast and others associated with Como show kept silent about Sharon's loss, so her mother could break the news to her after she returned home to Newark Saturday night.

The news was kept from Como, too. His associates said they had drawn a curtain of silence to keep Sharon's loss from him because it would upset him to know.

"He's a softy," a source close to Como said. "If he knew about it, he'd take her off the show to spare her from the possibility of being hurt."

The Como show on the National Broadcasting Co. television network, was in rehearsal throughout the day, and Sharon did not miss a step.

Everyone tried to treat her as though nothing had happened, but it was difficult with a score of reporters and photographers clamoring for photographs of the little Cinderella.

"We are sure she doesn't know her father is dead," a program official said. "She has been very excited over her chance to be a TV star. It is difficult for us to treat her as though nothing were wrong, but we have really worked at it."

Sharon, an eighth grade pupil who looks like a miniature version of the famous ballerina Maria Tallchief, wants to be a ballet dancer when she grows up.

She danced the Cinderella role in Como's Easter show last year, and was invited for a return engagement as the prima ballerina of a troupe of 12 little girls from the New York City Ballet School.

"I'm sure her father would have wanted her to go through with it," Mrs. Lerit said.

Prayer for Today

Oh, Blessed Night When Christ Rose

By JIM BISHOP

Go With God

St. Gregory, the first of 16 Popes of that name, was a patrician who held a high political post in Rome before he felt the call to religious service. He then gave his wealth to the poor and made his home into a monastery. He rose to be Pope, from 590 to 604. As Pope he sent St. Augustine to effect the conversion of Britain to Christianity. His name also is associated (perhaps incorrectly) with the arrangement of so-called Gregorian mode or chant. The following Easter prayer comes down from him.

It is very meet and right, with all powers of heart and mind, and with the service of the lips, to praise the invisible God, the Father Almighty, and His Only-Begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who paid the debt of Adam for us to the Eternal Father, and effaced the bond of the ancient guilt by the Blood poured forth in loving-kindness.

For this is the Paschal festival in which Thou first didst bring our fathers, the children of Israel, out of Egypt and madest them to pass over the Red Sea dry-shod.

This, then, is the night which cleared away the darkness of sin by a pillar of radiance.

This is the night throughout the world which now restores to Grace and unites to holiness believers in Christ, separated from worldly vices and from the gloom of sin.

This is the night in which Christ broke the bonds of death and ascended from the grave, the conqueror. For to be born had been no blessing to us, unless we could have been redeemed.

Oh, the wondrous condescension of Thy loving-kindness towards us!

Oh, the inestimable tenderness of Thy love. To redeem the servant, Thou gavest up the Son.

This holy night, then, puts to flight offenses, washes away sins, and restores innocence to the fallen and joyousness to the sad.

Oh, truly blessed night, which spoiled the Egyptians and enriched the Hebrews — the night in which Heaven and earth are reconciled!

We pray Thee, Lord, therefore, that Thou wouldst preserve Thy servants in the peaceful enjoyment of this Easter happiness; through Jesus Christ our Lord, Who Livest and Reignest with God the Father, in the Unity of the Holy Ghost, God now and forever: Amen.

resurrection appearances is given in Paul's first letter to the church at Corinth:

"For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins in accordance with the scriptures, that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day in accordance with the scriptures, and that he appeared to Peter, then to the twelve.

"Then he appeared to more than 500 brethren at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have fallen asleep. Then he appeared to James, then to all the apostles. Last of all . . . he appeared also to me."

It is sometimes said that the resurrection of Jesus is "the best-attested fact in history," because the whole Christian church bears witness to it.

Those who make this statement usually have two ideas in mind.

First, they mean that the existence of the church can hardly be explained except in terms of the resurrection. As one scholar has written, "it is easier, even for a non-believer in miracles, to accept the fact of the resurrection than to find any other adequate explanation of the change that came over the disciples within three days after they had fled Jerusalem in terror."

The second meaning is that the church, from the time of the apostles until now, has consisted at its core of men and women who are convinced — not by anything they had read or have been told, but by the irrefutable evidence of their own experience — that Christ is living still.

Stay in Berlin, Most Say

Nikita Is No Better Bluff Than Stalin, Poll in U.S. Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J. — Nikita Khrushchev is having no more success in threatening the American people on Berlin than his Kremlin predecessor, Josef Stalin, did 10 years ago.

Then, as now, the basic issue at stake in the beleaguered German city, as the public sees it, is the same:

"We've got to stand firm or Russia will overrun all of Europe."

If standing firm means keeping Western troops in Berlin even at the risk of war, the public is willing today — as it was over a decade ago — to take that gamble.

The latest vote on the issue, in fact, is amazingly similar to that recorded in the late spring of 1948 when the Soviet blockade of Berlin provoked one of the first major crises in the "cold war."

The Gallup Poll

At that time, Gallup Poll reporters asked voters across the nation:

"Do you think the U.S. and her Western European allies should stay in Berlin, even if it means war with Russia — or should the U.S. give up Berlin to the Russians?"

The vote:

STAY IN BERLIN?
1948

Stay in Berlin	80 Pct.
Give up Berlin	11 Pct.
No opinion	9 Pct.

When Gallup Poll reporters asked voters their sentiments on the same basic issue in recent days, here is how those persons familiar with the Berlin crisis replied:

"Do you think we should keep American forces in Berlin — along with British and French forces — even at the risk of war?"

STAY IN BERLIN?
1959

Yes, should	81 Pct.
No, should not	11 Pct.
No opinion	8 Pct.

Since Khrushchev raised the Berlin issue anew in his ultimatum to the West last November, checks on public opinion have found virtually no change in voters' attitudes toward keeping U.S., British and French forces in West Berlin.

The most recent vote, for example, closely parallels that recorded immediately following Khrushchev's ultimatum on the subject as reported last December.

The vote among those familiar at that time (77 per cent):

STAY IN BERLIN?
December '58

Yes, should	78 Pct.
No, should not	11 Pct.
No opinion	11 Pct.

Compared to other critical national issues of recent years, the Berlin crisis has stirred up wide interest throughout the nation and in all segments of the population — 78 out of every 100 voters nationally say they have heard or read about it.

"Socialist? Yes. But Communist? No.

"The Bible says 'You shall know them by their works.' Give Castro a chance to prove himself."

Another official admitted off-the-record that Castro "talks too much when he should be listening."

"Cuba today is in a state of shocked hero worship," said this official with surprising frankness. "Unfortunately, the most 'fidelista' of all — believer in Fidel Castro — is Castro himself. Soon he must come down from the clouds and face reality."

A prominent Cuban newspaperman, known as a longtime Castro backer, said he is fearful that while the 32-year-old prime minister talks himself hoarse on radio and television, left-wing extremists are moving into key advisory positions.

Among these are Alfredo Guevara, who directs classes in Marxist teachings to the army; Baco Alanso, head of the National Fine Arts Commission, Carlos Franqui, former prooireader on the Communist organ "Hoy" who now runs Castro's governmnet newspaper "Revolucion;" Antonia Antuna, who directs the National Institute of Culture under the Education Ministry; Casals Perez, head of "Rebel Radio," and many others.

National Summary

A high pressure area pushing southward from Canada resulted in fair and cool weather over most of the country from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic during mid day Saturday with temperatures ranging from the 20s in the northern tier of states to the 50s in the Gulf States, except in Florida where readings reached the 80s.

Fair weather will continue over much of this area through Sunday, but frost was expected to extend as far south as the Carolinas by dawn today. Slowly rising temperatures are expected in this area by afternoon, however.

Scattered thundershowers or rain showers from eastern Texas into the lower Mississippi Valley will move into the eastern Gulf States today, while the variable cloudiness over the plains will continue through tomorrow.

Fair to partly cloudy weather will continue through Sunday over the southern portion of the Rocky Mountain States while showers or snow flurries will be scattered over the northern part accompanied by variable cloudiness during the same period.

Northern California, where snow fell Saturday, will be cloudy today, while the remainder of California will remain generally fair.

'Management Wouldn't Negotiate,' Says Local

Pier 66 Strike Called On Resort Restaurant

Organizing Rift Called A Violation

By GREG TAYLOR
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — A union drive to organize Broward hotel and restaurant workers erupted into a strike Saturday night at a plush resort restaurant here.

No major trouble was reported as five employes picketed the classy Pier 66 Restaurant and Lounge on the Intercostal Waterway at 17th Street Causeway.

But the restaurant reported employes tried to block off the parking lot and threw stones at one car.

A union organizer said the strike was called because restaurant management refused to negotiate a contract.

But a restaurant spokesman charged the strike was in violation of a union-management agreement made before the National Labor Relations Board.

Paul Mahoney, organizer for Local 339 of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders Union (AFL-CIO) said:

"At a meeting at 4 p.m. Saturday 60 out of the 90 workers attended and voted to strike so we can get a contract.

"Management refuses to negotiate. We've given them ample time in the past few months to sit down and talk."

Mahoney acknowledged that organizing efforts at Pier 66 are part of a move by his union to represent all Broward hotel and restaurant employes.

"We have contracts now at Hollywood Beach Hotel and the Diplomat Hotel," he said. The local is the same one which organized a strike recently at Creighton's restaurant here in an effort to get a contract.

John B. Allen, manager of Pier 66, said that on March 20 management and union representatives met with the NLRB.

"The board certified the union and we agreed to work through channels to negotiate a contract. That normally takes from 30 to 60 days.

"Then on Thursday I got a letter from the union saying they wanted a contract signed before March 31.

"We can't and won't sign it. We'll probably meet later to decide what action to take."

The restaurant will remain open, Allen said.

Space OK with Bookworms But—

Dinosaurs Having Day

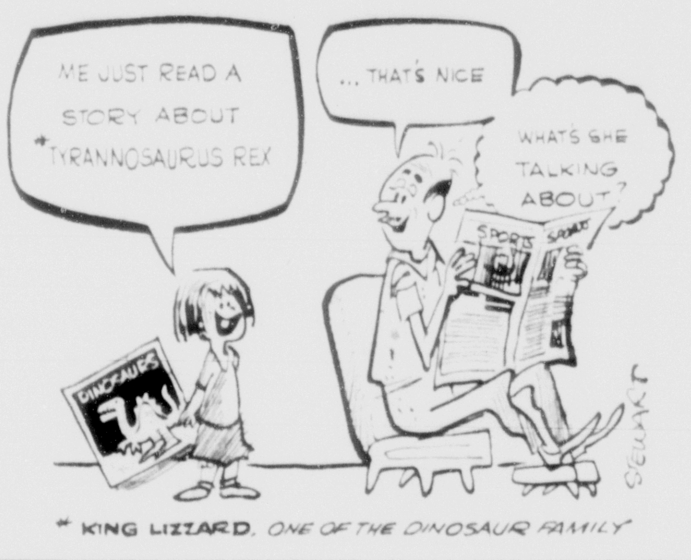
By ROSE ALLIGATO
Herald Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — The younger generation is going backward—way back, in fact, to the prehistoric.

Here in this era of space, atoms and jets, youngsters are keen on the stone age. That is if you judge a child by the books he reads.

"Ever child goes through the horse and dog book stage," says Mrs. Doris Skidmore, children's librarian at Memorial Public Library.

But now something new, or rather very old, has been added — the dinosaur.



ME JUST READ A STORY ABOUT *TYRANNOSAURUS REX

WHAT'S SHE TALKING ABOUT?
DINOSAURS

* KING LIZZARD, ONE OF THE DINOSAUR FAMILY

"From kindergarten up, the children want to know about wildlife way back. They ask about dinosaurs and other things adults can't even pronounce much less be interested in."

But latter day science, in all its forms, isn't being neglected in the wake of the new rage for dinosaurs.

"They are interested in space also. They go from one extreme to the other," the librarian said.

In fact, the entire reading scope is broader these days. TV can take some credit for it, too. The "idiot box" is no bugaboo for bookworms in Mrs. Skidmore's view.

"It widens the scope of ideas," she explained with examples.

Remember the Shirley Temple series? Youngsters came to the library to read the stories. Let TV put on a good West Point drama or a spy and FBI thriller, and the library has a run on books about West Pointers, spies and FBI men.

"The same is true on biographies," says Mrs. Skidmore.

Then there are some books which captivate the younger generation year in and year out.

"Interest in fairy tales, legend and folk tales is not dead," the librarian said emphatically. "And boys will never get enough of the Civil War and World War I."

The best send-off any book can get is a recommendation from another child. The adjectives 'keen' or 'super' are a mark of distinction for any children's book.

"Children like to be one of the crowd," says Mrs. Skidmore.

Witness Disappears

Jury May Ignore Inspections Probe

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — The fall term Grand Jury is expected to adjourn this week without further reference to its investigation of the county building department.

"It will be a very brief meeting," Assistant State Attorney Quentin Long said Saturday. "I doubt there will be a final report. It would only be a recapitulation."

Long learned from a reporter by phone that charges had been dropped against two inspectors indicted by the jury.

There was a lengthy, expressive silence. Then he said: "I didn't know about it. I have no comment."

"I don't think there will be any further investigation," he said.

The charges against Robert Power and Vincent Mount were quashed March 18. County Solicitor Tom Coker was given until April 1 to refile.

The jury's final meeting was set for March 24, but was put off until April.

The postponement was not connected with the court proceedings, Long said. Meanwhile, Coker announced he was dropping charges.

The witness, Glenn Mercer, whose testimony led to the indictments has since disappeared, Coker explained.

Mercer was also the alleged key witness against Charles Vermorel, chief inspector who was suspended when Long started the probe. Vermorel returned to work after the charges against him were dropped.

The employes were accused of getting money illegally from contractors whose jobs they inspected. They claimed they were caught in a political power play.

Long said Saturday that Mercer originally was a cooperative witness.

"He had no reluctance. I got the definite impression he would be here for the trials. I had no idea he would change his mind," Long said.

The new spring term jury will be empaneled whenever there is something to present, Long added.

The outgoing jury's other major inquiry was into methods of awarding contracts at Port Everglades. Its interim report was highly critical of Port procedures.

'Broward on Short End'

Bond Transfusion For Road Needs Studied by County

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE—The county commission may replenish its exhausted secondary-road bond issue by boosting the original six million dollar sum to 15-million dollars.

Commissioner Herbert Burke, chairman of the county roads committee, said Saturday that the board has informally discussed a nine million dollar addition to the open-end issue.

Commission Chairman George Petersen commented: "If it's not an undue burden, we will float more bonds rather than wait for a reapportionment of state road money."

Petersen, who attended a state meeting of county officials in Jacksonville last week, reported: "It was obvious that the northern counties—with a majority in the legislature—are not about to let us have more road money.

"Broward County is on the short end," he declared.

The amount of the additional financing will depend on the county's ability to repay, he added.

The six million dollar issue was negotiated for six bridges in the county. Only the Sheridan St. bridge in Hollywood remains to be built.

"The money's in the bank for that," Petersen said, "but the rest of the fund is cleaned out."

Its net worth last week was reported at $3,000.

The issue is being retired by a fraction of the state gasoline tax distributed to counties on a population basis. Local officials complain that fast-growing counties receive too little too late.

The 1960 federal census is expected to increase Broward's share. The county will also benefit soon from the retirement of its boomtime bond issue.

A State Road Department survey of longrange traffic needs here is nearing completion, but commissioners already have their own list of vitally-needed improvements.

Among those noted by Burke and Petersen are widening State Rd. 84 from the Federal Hwy. to the Sunshine State Parkway; widening State Rd. 7 from Broward Blvd. to Pompano Beach; buying right of way for the extension of State Rd. 9 through Pompano Beach; bridging the Intracoastal Waterway at Lauderdale-by-the-Sea; widening the Federal Hwy. through Fort Lauderdale; and improving sections of Sunrise Blvd. and state Rd. A1A. Some projects may be undertaken by the state.

"But there will be more for us to do than we can pay for," Petersen said. "Costs are going up all the time."

FEC's Low Farm Rate Extended

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
Herald Staff Writer

POMPANO BEACH — A rate-reduction experiment started last spring by railroads to woo back some of the vegetable shipping business taken over by trucks, has been extended for another year by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Some 72 per cent of the produce moving out of the Pompano State farmers market goes by truck. The railroads are getting only 28 per cent of the business, and seem to be losing more each year.

The rate reductions, tested for one year and now extended to July 1960, permit some shippers to save as much as $300 per carload of vegetables.

What the railroads have done is peg their prices on a boxcar rate, ragardless of quantity. Previously, everything was charged at a hundred-pound rate.

Where it used to cost 72 cents a bushel to send peppers to Cincinnati, a shipper can reduce that to 47 cents, if he will load 800 bushels to the car. He can save even more money on beans, because it used to cost 84 cents to ship a bushel of them, but by loading heavier, the cost drops to 47 cents.

S. J. Kelly, traffic service agent here for the Florida East Coast railroad, estimates that when the rate reductions went into effect last Spring, shippers saved from $100 to $300 a car, or an average of $200.

"The reduction was on an experimental basis," Kelly explained, "but last season was so poor, it didn't provide much of an experiment. Now the reductions have been continued another year."

Kelly says the main reason for the new extension is that this season hasn't produced the volume of normal years, and prices have fluctuated too greatly through the season.

"Volume and prices have to be good to give this experiment a real test," he observed.

'It Could be Done' Says Educator
...Eugene E. Patton would cut down

Half-Day Schools: Educational Cure?

By DUANE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

WEST HOLLYWOOD — All public schools would operate on half-day schedules if a man who spent 50 years in the field of education had his way.

"It could be done," said 84-year-old Eugene E. Patton, a former college professor who also served a term in the Tennessee Legislature and was mayor of Knoxville two years.

An authority on American history and government, Patton is visiting a daughter and son-in-law who live at 4300 SW 30th St.

Patton says his plan would cut school costs in half and would enable youngsters to help finance their own college educations.

"By going to school half-days, youngsters could get a part-time job and use their earnings to further their educations," he said.

Patton said the number of teachers needed would be cut in half and that classroom shortages could be eliminated for another 20 years.

"It would throw a lot of teachers out of work, but they could be used in secretarial and other fields where shortages exist," he continued.

"By cutting down on the number of teachers needed, those remaining in the field could be paid better salaries."

Patton suggested a curriculum that would be confined to "basic courses."

A staunch Republican, the visitor said he started teaching in a one-room schoolhouse outside Knoxville in 1895. His salary was $25 a month.

He later taught in Knoxville, became a school principal there and, after serving in the Legislature in 1919-21, taught English, history and government at several colleges in Tennessee and Georgia.

By attending night school a year, Patton passed the Tennessee Bar examination and became an attorney when he was 50.

"I handled a few divorce cases, but that's about all," he smiled. "I got started too late in life."

Patton doesn't consider himself an expert on economic matters, but believes "we'd all be better off if we'd limit our spending to essential needs."

Electronics Class Need Is 'Definite'

By GREG TAYLOR
Herald Staff Writer

(Another Education Story On Page 1BR)

FORT LAUDERDALE — Will Broward be able to grow as an electronics center in Florida?

It may be handicapped by a lack of state or federal funds to begin a needed program in technical training.

MAXWELL

The school board was asked last week to consider a request for $22,000 in federal funds for the purchase of electronic equipment. No action was taken pending a report from Superintendent Raymond Maxwell.

He said Saturday: "The money would come from the National Defense Act fund. It would require us to set up a post high school electronics course we do not now have."

In February the board turned down a similar offer of federal aid to education.

"We have a definite need for an electronics program and I'm in favor of it," Maxwell added. "But with so many needs in our regular program that are as fully important, and talk of cutting state funds to the vocational program, I'm not sure this is the time to start it."

But Maxwell said he will ask the board to "put something in the budget" to start a comprehensive high school program. These are primarily vocational schools which include general courses and trade instruction.

Fred Murray, evening trade extension coordinator, said there is a need for an electronic training program.

A survey was taken about a month ago of the seven largest firms in the county which manufacture electrical equipment. "All reported there is a need for more electrical technicians," Murray said.

"They want a training program.

"Broward is one of the top electrical centers in Florida. It's near Brevard, which leads the industry.

"We feel a training program would lure other electronic plants here," Murray added.

WEST PALM BEACH — Army Engineers at Jacksonville will open bids April 16 for maintenance dredging in three areas of the Okeechobee and Intra-coastal Waterways, U. S. Rep. Paul G. Rogers announced Saturday.

Shoals to be removed in the Okeechobee Waterway are in the St. Lucie River, and dredging will take place between the St. Lucie locks and the Intracoastal Waterway at Stuart.

Two shoals will be removed in the Intracoastal Waterway.

One is in the vicinity of the St. Lucie Inlet at a point close to where the two waterways intersect. The other is near Fort Pierce, between State Rd. A1A bridge and the Fort Pierce turning basin.

Illness, Starvation Stalk Northwest Haiti

Drought Brings Death

Agriculture is the backbone of the northwestern area of Haiti. Farm products need rain and this area has had no rain for many months. One brief shower caused the desperate farmers to plant the last of their seed. Now, even if it should rain, there can be no planting.

On the footsteps of the drought have followed the grim spectres of starvation and disease. Evelyn DeTardo of The Herald staff recently visited Haiti and here tells the grim story of what she found there.

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

PORT-DE-PAIX, Haiti — For the last 13 months northwest Haiti has been slowly drying up.

Illness and death are now taking its toll of the starvation-weak people.

A farming region, northwest Haiti exists on its production of bananas, coffee, beans, peanuts and grain. Normal rainfall in May varies from five to seven inches in this area. Last May not a single drop of rain fell.

Except for a brief shower in December, which encouraged farmers to mortgage their homes or borrow money for seed, they have had no rain for more than a year. The seed now lies dried and rotting in the ground.

Heads of families, already weak from starvation, have left the area in search of jobs, walking as far as 100 miles. Most do not find jobs and on their return find their wives or some of the children have died in their absence.

ONE FATHER, who left to sell charcoal for his starved wife, fell from weakness on the way. After resting a day and making the sale, he returned home to find his wife dead.

A WOMAN in the area took her youngest child and set off to beg, leaving two older ones with neighbors. The children left behind are not expected to live and the father, who went in search of work and food about two months ago, has not been heard from.

The Haitians' woes began with hurricane Hazel, which battered the area in 1954. The people have not been able to recover from the economic losses of the big wind.

Animals have been holding up better than people, but they are not expected to last much longer.

Donkeys' which used to sell for $12 to $14 are now being offered for $1 and $2. There are no buyers. No one has food for animals.

Farmers are starving and in debt. Merchants can no longer give credit as their customers are penniless and not buying or paying back.

A number of residents are too ashamed to leave their homes because their clothes have worn completely away and they have no money to buy new ones.

Marcel Cornet, French priest in the Jean Rabel parrish, fears a typhoid epidemic may decimate the famine stricken area. More than 200 have died already from lack of food and typhoid in that region, which has about 45,000 population. There is no estimate of the entire population in the northwest.

Father Cornet, touring the medical dispensaries in the hunger areas, said the medicine which exists is too expensive for the populace at cost, and many dispensaries even are out of aspirin.

At one dispensary they did not even have tea to give a young woman who had just given birth to a child. Instead they sent her out into the market to beg for food so she could come back and nurse her baby.

More than 2,000 persons are believed fled to the Bahama Islands from the drought stricken coastal areas in the northwest and from the island of Tortuga.

A Baptist Church in La Belle, which used to have a congregation of about 260 had an attendance of two on a recent Sunday.

One family visited near Jean Rabel, is typical of the famine infested area of the northwest.

A young boy, arms and legs like thin twigs sat shelling a handful of peas for lunch. His stomach was swollen like a balloon and his cheeks puffed from fever.

His father, Estilen Vital, was boiling green mangoes in a tin can. For a change of diet they sometimes bake the mangoes.

Vital's 15-year old son recently died of starvation. The only animal they have left is a pig, which, if there were any buyers, he would have sold for his son's funeral.

Haitian funerals generally require elaborate ceremonies. Without money, the dead are now being buried under the cover of night, without coffins.

The hopeless attitude of the people is appalling.

Some have written to the president, and have received no reply. "Only God can save us now," they say.

One farming family in Fond-La-Loi works all day Sunday weaving baskets. They are able to weave about five or six a day which once sold for one cent, or two for a penny.

They then walk to the market or 30 miles to Port de Paix without hope for a sale. "But it is something to do."

Everyone left in the area seems to have the same resignation. "If rain does not come we're all going to die. If it does come we'll just have to look at it because we have no more seed to plant."

Church World Service and Catholic Welfare Organization will have sent about 6,000 tons of food into the northwest by the end of the fiscal year in July.

Mrs. Charles Zellermayer, liason between the Episcopal Deanery of Women of South Florida and Haiti's Episcopal Church, said they plan to get together about 600 pounds of food at the minimum to send in. But even at this most families are lucky if they get one meal in a month.

And, if you don't happen to be a member of the congregation, you go without.

Somoza Foes Active

Nicaraguan Group Wants Envoy's Scalp

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

POLITICAL enemies of the Somoza brothers who rule Nicaragua are demanding that U.S. Ambassador Thomas Whelan get out of their country.

SOUTHWORTH

A letter mailed to Whelan and signed by more than 50 distinguished leaders of the opposition accuses the ambassador of intervening in the internal affairs of Nicaragua.

The letter — a copy of which was mailed to The Herald—charges that Whelan has damaged the friendly relations between the two countries.

"It is sad," the letter states, "that the political forces of the opposition parties in Nicaragua to which we belong have lost all contact with the American Embassy. . .

WHELAN

LUIS

ANASTASIO

"We believe that this change and the cold relations are due principally to your attitude for years, by words and deeds . . . of being too friendly with the dictatorship that oppresses Nicaragua . . . and by taking part in internal political matters."

* * *

'Would Be in Best Interest'

THE LETTER adds that the interests of both countries would be served "if you will decide to step down from your high post."

A blue-eyed Irishman, Whelan was a wholesale potato buyer in the Dakotas before he became ambassador to Nicaragua eight years ago.

The Somoza family has ruled Nicaragua for more than 20 years. After the old soldier, Anastasio, was assassinated in 1956 his sons took over. Luis was educated in the U.S. and groomed to replace his father. Anastasio Jr. went to West Point and now runs the army.

Young Gen. Anastasio is spending his Easter vacation outside the country and President Luis scoffs at rumors that his land may soon be invaded by revolutionaries.

* * *

Nicaragua on the List

BUT THE SOMOZA BOYS know that dictatorship foes in Cuba, Venezuela and other Latin American countries have listed Nicaragua, the Dominican Republic and Paraguay as the only three dictatorships remaining in Latin America and have vowed their support of any attempt to overthrow them.

Last month Honduras and Nicaragua signed an agreement in Washington to prevent their territories from being used as bases for mounting revolutions against each other. Strong bands of rebels have been reported to be gathering on the border.

President Somoza says his government is in a position to "repel any armed attempt against it, whether it comes from inside or outside the country."

* * *

Two Already Have Resigned

LAST WEEK, Nicaraguan Ambassador Leonte Herdocia and Nicaraguan Minister-Counseller Otto Somarriba resigned their posts and were given diplomatic asylum by the Costa Rican government.

Herdocia and Somarriba said they could not continue to serve the government of Somoza because of its "outrages and excesses."

An expert political observer from Nicaragua visiting in Miami said the political opposition in Nicaragua is trying to find a peaceful way of easing the Somoza family out of power and conducting free elections.

Argentina Costs Mount

BUENOS AIRES — The cost of living went up 9.1 per cent in the month of February, mostly in higher food prices. It was necessary to set higher prices in March for the financing of a gigantic dam and hydroelectric power plant at Chocon in northern Patagonia.

'Disease' Pointed Out

'Sick' Silver Dollars Used In Campaign on Inflation

HARTSVILLE, S.C.—(AP)—A. Lee M. Wiggins, former undersecretary of the Treasury, is dramatizing a personal fight against inflation by sending "sick" silver dollars to congressmen, financial writers, editors and others.

The 67-year-old, one-time president of the American Bankers Association said he is getting some results.

He said he has received replies from almost all the personal friends in House and Senate to whom he sent uncirculated 1923 silver dollars. And "all showed keen interest," he added.

The silver dollars were accompanied by notes which said:

"Although it has done no work in the 30-odd years of its existence, it has lost about one-half of its ability to do a day's work, or to buy goods and services.

"This dollar is ill from a disease called inflation. The further spread of this disease may destroy it. Effective remedies are well known. They can be administered by the American people."

Housewife Puts Colombia In the Know

By GIL SLOAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia — As the U. S. becomes more conscious of Latin America, these southern neighbors are discovering more and more about the country to the north.

Now, any native of Barranquilla (who reads the papers) not only knows, for example, that there are such places as Richmond, Ind.

They also are acquainted with the type of family life in such a smallish, quiet town.

They found that out here the other day when one of the local dailies published a letter from a Richmond (Ind.) housewife.

It was addressed simply to "Barranquilla newspaper, Barranquilla, Colombia, South America." It appropriately was delivered to the paper whose editor has a good command of the English language.

It reads: Dear Sirs:—

"I have been reading an article written by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service. It tells about some of the things your people have learned about the life of an American in the U. S. I think maybe you have not heard enough of the average American Norte Americano).

"First of all, my husband is a World War II vet. He took advantage of G. I. schooling and became a teacher. He graduated with a B. S. degree from Ball State at Muncie, Ind.

We have a 1949 Pontiac and a 1950 Pontiac wagon for transporting the children to school.

"My husband has to drive rough country roads to teach in a country school that is 20 miles away. That is the reason for the second one.

"We have several radios, one working TV set, eight room house, full basement, oil furnace, two bathrooms, automatic washer and dryer and a nice small library.

"I do not dye my graying hair, my husband does not wear a toupee on his receding hair line. Our love is wonderful.

"Thank you for listening.

"Now in France . . . Bah!
Yours truly,
Mrs. Wm. E. Williams
202 Northwest

"P. S. Hasta luega. We hope to visit South America when the children grow up. Maybe we might meet then."

Miss Parmelee to Be Bride Of Emery J. Newell in July

Miss Parmelee
. . . FSU student

WEST PALM BEACH—Jane Graham Parmelee and Emery J. Newell, son of Judge and Mrs. Edward G. Newell, 132 Greenbriar Dr., Lake Park, plan a July wedding.

Her engagement is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Parmelee, 2 Currie Crescent.

An alumna of Palm Beach High School, where she was a cheerleader, president of the Keyettes and a member of the mixed choir, she is now attending Florida State University and is a member of the FSU Circus and Pi Beta Phi social sorority.

Mr. Newell was graduated from Palm Beach High School and the University of Florida, where he received BSBA and LLB degrees.

He was a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Phi Delta Phi and commander of Sigma Nu.

He is a practicing attorney, director of the Kiwanis Club, exalted ruler of the Elks Lodge and a past president of the Palm Beach County Bar Association.

WHICH BLOOM IS PHONY?

Artificial Flowers Are Hard to Detect

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

THE PALM BEACHES — This is a story about the flowers that bloom in the stores, tra la. Moonlight and roses may bring memories of you, but future moons may well be synthetic, and the roses not for real.

There's a tidal wave vogue for artificial flowers. They look so like the McCoy that you have to touch them, or sniff them, to know whether they're genuine or man-made. And pinching the flowers is not considered good manners when you're a guest in someone's home.

DON'T TOUCH, OSGOOD, BUT ARE THEY REAL OR FALSE?
SNIFF

A shop off Worth Ave. sells nothing but ersatz blooms in stylized and sophisticated arrangements. They do not pretend to be anything but gay counterfeits.

Department stores in West Palm Beach, though, are a bower of spring blossoms. Counter-parts.

Wearing a tulip, a big yellow tulip, or even a red, red, rose is no problem. Just don't do anything drastic when you find out it's plastic. Your home can glow with lilacs and smilax. Was that "sweet bunch of daisies" ever "plucked from the dell," as the gay 90's song said. Daisies won't tell, but you and I know they're straight from the lab. The yellow rose of Texas, the blue bells of Scotland, and the African violet are also beautiful, but false.

There's hocus pocus about the crocus that comes into focus in Florida.

White hyacinths to feed the soul are available but you must sell more than half a loaf of bread (better than none) to buy one of these created creations. They're expensive. So are the heavenly orchids, but after all they need no slathouse.

Anything like blooms in conservatory, garden, or orchard can be duplicated. You buy them by the spray, bouquet, or single romantic blossom.

When the springtime comes, gentle Annie, all those wildflowers scattered on the lea are yours without bending your back. Just open your purse.

Rosey, you are my posy, and a rose is a rose is a rose, and only your nose knows whether the petals are pure but passing, or plastic but permanent.

Heart Doctor Visiting at Palm Beach

PALM BEACH —Dr. and Mrs. Leo Loewe of New York City are vacationing at Whitehall. Dr. Loewe is on the staff of Jewish Hospital of Brooklyn and on the faculty of the New York State Medical College Down-State Division.

He has been identified for several years in the field of cardio-vascular disease, and is the discoverer of the cure for sub-acute bacterial endocarditis, heretofore uniformly fatal.

The doctor is one of the founders of the American College of Angiology, which sponsors research and scientific forums on diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

He is also one of the editors of the journal, "Angiology."

He will be one of the speakers at an International Conference on Angiology to be held at Atlantic City in June.

Miss Parker To Marry

STUART — An April 4 wedding is planned by Jean Parker, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Parker, and Joseph C. Crankshaw. He is the son of Mrs. Mary Crankshaw, Jacksonville.

The double ring ceremony will be held at First Baptist Church. No formal invitations are being sent locally, but friends of the couple are invited to attend the wedding and reception.

Iraq Loan OKd

MOSCOW — (AP) — The Supreme Soviet has ratified the 550 million ruble aid loan recently signed with Iraq. The ruble is officially rated at four to the dollar.

Heart Fund Tea

STUART — A dessert tea will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Stuart Woman's Club building to honor workers in the recent Heart Fund drive, said Mrs. John W. Wolf, Heart Sunday chairman. The Heart Association of Palm Beach and Martin Counties is sponsoring the tea.

'Zhivago' Review

PALM BEACH — Mrs. Drexel J. Sibbersen, president of the Women's Auxiliary of Bethesda-by-the-Sea Episcopal Church will review Boris Pasternak's "Dr. Zhivago," on Thursday, April 2 at 1 p.m. The meeting will be held in the church guild hall.

BROADWAY STAR Julie Wilson will grace "Babes in Arms" with her talents March 30-April 4 at the Royal Poinciana Playhouse in Palm Beach. Show is rewritten (by George Oppenheimer) version of the 1937 Rodgers and Hart musical.

Rep. Bolton To Talk of History

Herald Bureau

PALM BEACH — Frances P. (Mrs. Chester O.) Bolton U.S. Representative from Ohio, will address the Palm Beach County Historical Society at 8 p.m. next Friday.

Rep. Bolton, a ranking member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, will speak on "The U.S. in Current History."

A member of a family which has maintained a winter home in Palm Beach since 1893, the speaker will also reminisce on the Palm Beach of earlier days.

Mrs. Bolton is the holder of 11 honorary degrees from colleges.

She occupies a unique position in public life as the granddaughter of a congressman and U.S. senator, the widow of a congressman to whose post she was elected 11 years ago, and the mother of still another congressman with whom she served beginning in 1952.

The program will be held in the guild hall of Bethesda Church.

Rep. Rogers To Speak

PALM BEACH — Congressman Paul G. Rogers will speak at the dedication of Matthews Auditorium, largest step in Palm Beach private school's five-year expansion program, Monday at 11 a.m.

The building is a gift of Mrs. Ricardo C. Gonzales, the former Jean Flagler, granddaughter of the late Henry M. Flagler, pioneer developer of South Florida.

Mrs. Gonzales, a member of the board of trustees since 1945, will be on the platform with two of her sons, George and Robert Matthews.

Parents, friends, and patrons have been invited to the ceremony. The Rev. Tage Tiesen, rector of Church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea, will give the invocation and benediction.

Miss Odom
. . . plights troth

Miss Odom To Marry In April

WEST PALM BEACH — An April wedding is planned by Martha Rebecca Odom and James W. MacAlpine. Their engagement is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Milton Odom, the bride-elect's parents.

Mr. MacAlpine is the son of Mrs. Marian MacAlpine of St. Petersburg.

A graduate of Palm Beach High School, Miss Odom is now attending Palm Beach Junior College, where she is a member of the Philo Social Club.

Her fiance attended Palm Beach Junior College and the University of Florida, Gainesville. He is now in the Army, stationed at Fort Jackson, S.C.

Club Hears M.D. From Germany

WEST PALM BEACH — Dr. Eva Herlinger of Berlin was honor guest at a reception which the Palm Beach and Gulf Stream branches of the American Association of University Women gave recently at the George Washington Hotel.

The AAUW awards International Fellowship grants to outstanding graduate students from the countries. About one fourth of the 1958-59 grantees were, like Dr. Herlinger, physicians.

Dr. Herlinger is in the U. S. to study maternal and child health and to observe American prenatal clinical techniques.

She gave a brief talk on her work at the University of North Carolina.

'Hole in Head' Is Slated By Norton

WEST PALM BEACH — Norton Gallery Players will present the Broadway hit, "A Hole in the Head," April 7-11.

This is a comedy of Florida resort hotel business. In the leads will be Ray Galambos, Jim Cochran, Leah Edlin, Stella Monchick, and as a 10-year-old, Young Dennis Cooley of Boca Raton.

The play was written by former Miamian Arnold Shulman.

Junior Women Elect Mrs. Cook

New senior sponsor is Mrs. Howard M. Wheeler.

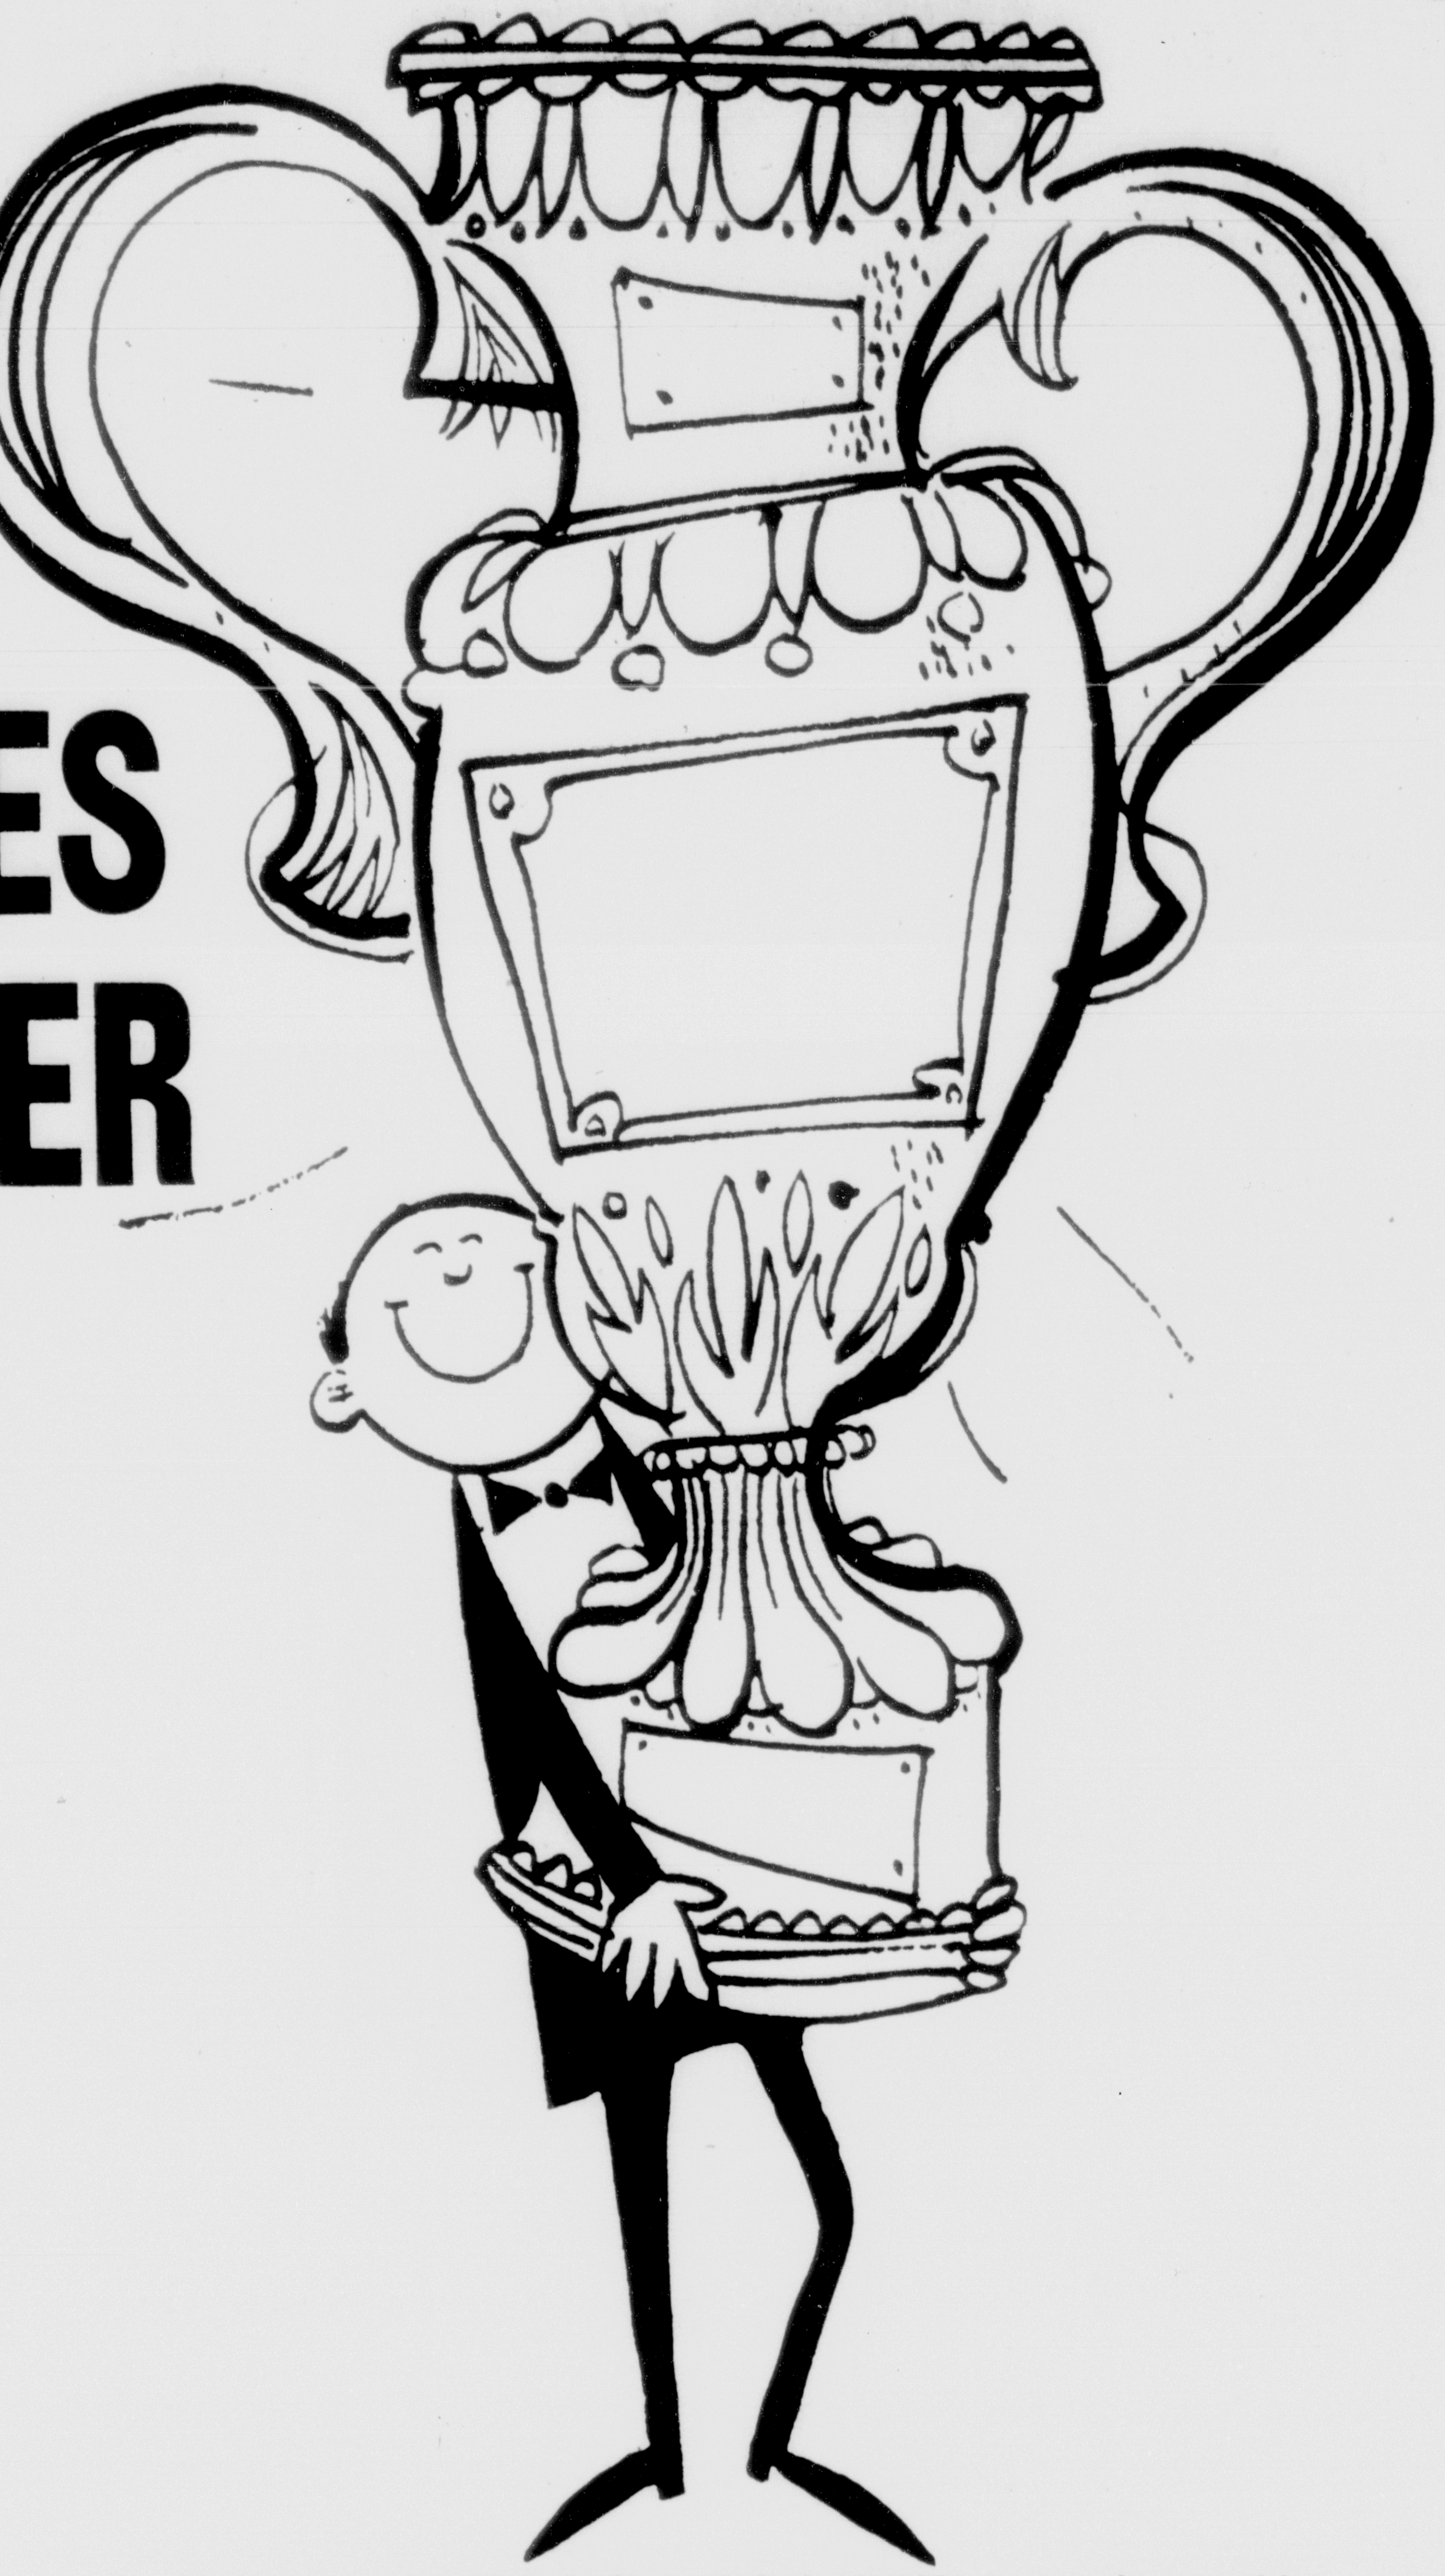
69 TIMES A WINNER



In winning the coveted FIRST PRIZE for PUBLIC SERVICE* for a series of articles on the Insurance Lawsuit Racket, The Herald for the 69th time in the past 12 years has carried off high honors in state-wide competition . . . with more citations than any other Florida newspaper has ever received.

The widely-read articles exposed a primary cause for the rising cost of automobile insurance. They were written by Joy Reese Shaw.

Other awards that added to The Herald's total were:

FIRST PRIZE for the best Page One newspaper makeup, awarded to Charles Ward. The contest judge called it "an easy, light, well-balanced page that's almost impossible to fault." It was the fifth time in the last six years that The Herald has been cited for the most effective Front Page in the state.

FIRST PRIZE for the best spot news reporting, awarded to Larry Thompson, James Buchanan and Gene Miller who worked as a team in reporting the Braniff Airline crash in Miami in 1958.

SECOND PLACE in the Feature Writing competition, won by James Buchanan for a series of on-the-spot stories with Raul Castro's rebel forces in the mountains of Cuba.

THIRD PLACE in the Sports Writing competition, won by Mel Derrick for his colorful story about the late Willie Hoppe, longtime billiard king.

On The Herald's staff are many men and women who have earned outstanding recognition. Their combined talents and capacities make The Herald the completely satisfying and influential newspaper that it is.

Medicine? 'King's Romp the Greatest'

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

One-Eyed King came from behind Saturday to win Gulfstream's $28,450 Donn Handicap and help speed the recovery of Cain Hoy Stable Trainer Woody Stephens from a virus attack.

"That's the best medicine I've had," said Stephens, who was released from a hospital just last Thursday after five days of treatment.

Owner Harry Guggenheim was pleased, too. He had flown down from New York just to see the race and he cheerfully agreed that "this victory made the trip worthwhile."

Third — but not least — among Saturday's satisfied people was winning Jockey John Sellers.

"I never rode with more confidence," he said. "One-Eyed King was a beautifully trained horse. When we got to the front, he tried to loaf, but I hit him once and we kept going. Except for that loafing we might have set a record."

"This was one of One-Eyed King's best efforts," said Stephens, hurrying to the winner's circle to take the blinkers off his horse.

"The blinker helps keep the dirt out of his eye," Stephens explained. One-Eyed King was foaled with only one eye.

"He was a tough luck colt and we doubted if we'd ever get him to the races," added Guggenheim. "When he was a two-year-old, One-Eyed King ran into a fence and injured his knee. Fortunately, he didn't break anything."

One-Eyed King Demotes 'General'

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Cain Hoy Stable's One-Eyed King, given expert guidance by Johnny Sellers, won Gulfstream Park's $28,450 Donn Handicap on the turf by three widening lengths over Hasty House Farm's Ekaba Saturday.

Brae Burn Farm's General Arthur, favored at 7-5, finished third, two lengths behind Ekaba in the eight-horse field.

One-Eyed King covered the mile and a half on the grass in 2:25.4, only two-fifths of a second off the world record. St. Vincent set the world mark in 1955 at Santa Anita on a course which is downgrade for about half a mile.

The winner paid $7, $3.50 and $2.50. Ekaba, coupled in the Hasty House entry with Aysha, returned $3.50 and $2.40. General Arthur was $2.40 to show.

A crowd of 16,793 witnessed the proceedings in overcast but comfortable weather. They wagered a total of $1,528,029.

As expected, Aysha set the pace with her stablemate, Ekaba, leading General Arthur and One-Eyed King in that order for the first mile. Mariners Guide, Trasgo, Point of Order and Firesickle were well to the rear,

As Aysha began to weaken under Lois Cook, Bill Harmatz sent Ekaba to the lead. At the same time, Sellers moved with One-Eyed King. The Cain Hoy horse went up on the outside to pass General Arthur and took command from Ekaba on the turn for home.

Bill Hartack sent General Arthur along the hedge in the drive, but the General couldn't gain ground under his burden of 126 pounds. One-Eyed King was carrying 116; Ekaba 117.

Trasgo was a distant fourth and none of the others threatened.

It was an unrewarding afternoon for Hartack's followers. The 27-year-old jockey rode eight horses, but failed to reach the winner's circle. Five of his mounts were favored.

For Sellers, it was a most happy day. The Oklahoma lad banged home Long Sword ($8.20) and Day Court ($6.40) in addition to One-Eyed King. Long Sword had the distinction of being Saturday's lone public favorite to reach home on the front end.

Floyd's Match Reset

GOTEBORG, Sweden —(AP)— Floyd Patterson will defend his world heavyweight boxing title against Ingemar Johansson of Sweden in New York on Thursday, June 25, promoter Bill Rosensohn said Saturday.

He made the announcement shortly after arrival from New York. The decision was reached following a conference with Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's advisor. Previously, June 23 had been the suggested date.

Rosensohn did not specify the exact site of the bout except to say that it would be in New York. Yankee Stadium is available from June 21 until July 3. He also has an option on the Polo Grounds.

Johansson, European heavyweight champion, plans to come to the United States in mid-April for his final training sessions. He has not yet picked his camp.

Rosensohn said that Patterson first would defend his title against Brian London, former British Empire champ, in Las Vegas, Nev., probably on May and rated the match "an ideal tuneup for Patterson's bigger bout."

250 Fans Brave Drizzle

Marlins Whip Pappas, O's, 8-3

By LUTHER EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

Miami's Marlins, who can't win against minor league opposition, defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 8-3, before an optimistic "crowd" of 250 fans Saturday night at Miami Stadium.

Righthander George Bamberger, borrowed from the parent Orioles, outpitched golden-armed Milt Pappas during a seven-inning stay which saw the Marlins earned a 5-3 lead.

Each team scored once in the first inning after taking the field in a drizzle that continued through the fourth.

With two away in Miami's half, Fred Valentine got a triple at the expense of Pappas when Right Fielder Leo Burke failed with a shoe string catch attempt. Valentine promptly romped home when Pappas uncorked a wild pitch.

Willie Tasby's leadoff double against Bamberger and Bobby Boyd's dying quail single to short center quickly enabled the Orioles to pull even.

Baltimore got two more runs and the Marlins got another tough break in the third.

Trying to scoop Tasby's single, Right Fielder Burt Hamric flubbed it for a two-base error and at the same time apparently twisted an ankle, forcing his retirement.

Tasby scored on Billy Klaus' single to right. After stealing second, Klaus came around on Lenny Green's single.

The Marlins surprised the smattering of fans, the Orioles and probably themselves by getting to Pappas for four runs and a 5-3 lead in the sixth.

Bamberger waited out a base on balls, Knobby Rosa singled and Bill Lajoie doubled to the left corner for the first run.

Valentine's single through the middle cashed in two more Marlins. Then Orioles second baseman Bobby Avila pegged wild on a force play, enabling Valentine to take third. From there he scored as Pappas handled Frank Zupro's slow roller.

With Baltimore's Jerry Walker working in relief of Pappas, Miami made it 6-3 in the eighth. Leonard Tucker, left fielder newly acquired from Washington, walked, stole second and sped across on Chuck Oertel's single to center.

Walker needed help from Rolf Scheel, officially on Miami's roster, in the ninth when the Marlins scored twice more. Scoring ingredients were singles by George Wehmeyer and Rosa, a sacrifice, walk and hit batter.

'Score' One For Colavito

TUCSON, Ariz. —(AP)— The Cleveland Indians' two brightest stars and, incidentally, roommates, are predicting banner seasons for each other.

Says Pitcher Herb Score of slugger Rocky Colavito:

"Rocky will be better than he was last year in every way. I think he will hit more than 40 homers, bat between .300 and .310 and drive in over 115 runs."

Says Outfielder Colavito of Southpaw Score:

"Herb will win between 20 and 25 games. I have the feeling he's going to have an injury-free season. He's due. He's had his share of bad luck."

D. Rathman Hits 173.21 At Daytona

His average, which clinched the pole position, was slightly faster than the 173.01 practice run Friday around the 2½-mile banked Daytona International Speedway.

Rathman's qualifying time set a record, bettering the 171.82 by Marshall Teague of Daytona Beach on Feb. 9—two days before he was killed in a Sumar Special.

Jim Rathman, Dick's younger brother from Miami, turned in the second best speed Saturday in a Simonz Special at 172.01. Roger Ward of Los Angeles, in a Leader Card Special was third at 171.03.

In all, eight drivers qualified Saturday out of an entry list of 26. Strong gusts of wind kept down the speeds.

Qualifying runs will continue today and Thursday for the 100-mile event sanctioned by the U.S. Auto Club and FIA.

Vertex Breezes Home In Hundred-Grander

BOWIE, Md. —(AP)— Vertex, a fragile-legged horse, turned into a well-heeled one by easily winning the John B. Campbell Handicap for his second Saturday $100,000 victory in a week.

His profit of $74,595, added to last Saturday's fist prize in the Gulfstream Park Handicap, gave the 5-year-old chestnut total paychecks of $153,743 in eight days.

Vertex, owned by J. J. Brunetti and F. A. Piarulli, is only the second thoroughbred in history to win two hundred-grand races in such a short span. The first was Round Table in 1957, who won the Hollywood Gold Cup and Westerner.

Only doubt cast on Vertex Saturday was at the end, when Jockey Walter Blum on runner-up Backbone claimed he was fouled by Vertex as they raced head and head entering the backstretch.

Vertex subsequently pulled away to win by six lengths, and the judges disallowed Blum's foul claim.

The crowd of 18,320 bet heavily on Vertex, a home-born horse ridden by Baltimorean Sammy Boulmetis.

As a result, Vertex rewarded them at only $3.80, $3.20 and $2.20. Boncrist Farm's Backbone returned $6.60 and $4.20, while third place Talent Show, owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice, paid $5.60.

Vertex, who has had frequent leg trouble including loss of part of a hoof, ran as sound as an old dollar in covering the mile and a sixteenth in 1:43 1-5.

He was carrying 124 pounds, ranging from seven to 14 more than any of his nine rivals. A week ago he won at Gulfstream carrying 125 pounds for a mile and a quarter.

It was the third victory in four races for Vertex this year. He would up his 1958 campaign with a triumph in the Pimlico Special the day before his sire, The Rhymer, was burned to death.

Leon Sikes Wins Senior Golf Crown

ST. AUGUSTINE — (AP) — Leon Sikes of West Palm Beach Saturday won the American Seniors Golf Association tourney for the second time.

He won it in 1957 and Saturday had an easy time, ousting Bruce Coffin of Marblehead, Mass., 5-4.

It was his easiest match of the tourney which started Sunday and had 220 entries. Earlier Sikes had to go extra holes to beat Jud Brumley of Greenville, Tenn., and J. T. Kirkpatrick of Manchester, Conn.

After halving the first hole Saturday, Sikes won the second through the sixth to take a 5-up lead.

Coffin got birdies on the eighth and ninth to reduce the lead to 3-up at the turn but on the back nine Sikes won the 11th and 13th. The match ended on the 14th where both took 5s.

Young Californian Equals World Shot Put Record

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—(AP) — Dallas Long, blond giant from the University of Southern California, Saturday equaled the world shot put record as record holder Parry O'Brien finished third in the Easter Relays.

Long, O'Brien and ex-Kansas star Bill Nieder all threw the 16-pound iron ball over 62 feet.

O'Brien, ex-USC star, hurled the shot 62¼. It was his first defeat since Ken Bantum of Manhattan College bested him in the 1956 National AAU meet.

Nieder did 62 feet, 9 inches.

Meet officials said Long's toss will be submitted for a world record.

Silberman Dreaming Of Lighted Tropical Park

PRESIDENT SAUL SILBERMAN of Tropical Park must be allergic to daylight. Squinting at the sunshine flooding Gulfstream Park's infield Friday; Silberman allowed he still thinks night flat racing would be a good thing for his track.

"They're talking about harness racing," Silberman snapped with the disgust of a thoroughbred addict for trotters. "If they want racing at night, why not let me light up Tropical? It wouldn't cost over $300,000."

Actually the desire for harness racing appears to be limited to an out-of-state group which will try to open the gates by having a Pompano track legalized by the legislature.

A couple of weeks back the talk was the boys would succeed. The latest dope is they'll be tossed for a loss. Many people agree with President Jimmy Donn of Gulfstream that Florida has enough racing.

It was last year that Silberman said he would approach the State Racing Commission, which sets the time—now limited to daylight hours—for horse racing. For reasons of his own Silberman has not made the pitch.

"You can say that I'm toying with the idea," said Silberman. "Actually the state, which appears to be interested in more revenue, should tell me to go ahead with the idea. It would increase our betting 25 per cent and mean that much more in state revenue.

Night horse racing may come, but not without a fight which no one—including Silberman—appears willing at the moment to undertake.

Dodgers Making Progress

DRESSEN

"There was no game, so Manager Walt Alston gave us the day off," said Dressen. "I played golf at the Hollywood Beach Country Club and then came over here."

Dressen agrees the Dodgers will be much improved this season, allowing, "If we can get two more pitchers to go with our other three, we may do right well."

The starting trio (when last I talked with Manager Alston) was Johnny Podres (13-15), Sandy Koufax (11-11) and Don Drysdale (12-13).

Tip on the Masters

ANOTHER ON hand to contribute towards improvement of the breed was Toney Penna, the smiling McGregor executive. It was easy to get Toney to talk about The Masters golf tournament starting at Augusta next Thursday.

LITTLER

I plan to be on hand for the colorful event, but meeting Penna provided an opportunity to get early dope.

"Gene Littler is the most improved pro on the PGA tour," Penna volunteered. "I think he can win at Augusta. He has changed his grip from hooking to a more orthodox and versatile one. He has his right hand on the shaft more."

PENNA

If Littler fails, Penna still thinks the upcoming Masters will be bagged by a younger player. It is about time for youth to be served, Toney allowed.

How Golfers Missed $11,900

ENROUTE BACK to town, I stopped to see Jim MacLaughlin's new Miami Shores Country Club pro shop. It's a dandy, located in an attractive building between the ninth green and new No. 1 tee, and modern in its design. It embraces the ideas of Jim's assistant, Joe Benner.

MacLaughlin

Jim revealed that he and six other Miami Shores members sent $700 to Augusta last spring to be wagered on Palmer. The messenger did not arrive in time to get the money down at the prevailing odds of 17-1, which would have meant a payoff of $11,900.

McCALL

Benner assured me that Miami Shores Village Manager Lawton C. McCall deserves credit for the new and modern pro shop. He okayed the project and pushed for its completion, plus clubhouse and course improvements. The Shores has a good golf staff in Bob Patrick, starter; Martha Benner, registrar; Maynard Gustafson and Tom O'Neill. Russell Kerns, new greenskeeper, has the course in excellent condition.

'Swift' Atoll Romps

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Elkcam Stable of Miami unveiled its big Kentucky Derby hope Saturday in the $27,700 Swift Stakes and Atoll ran like he was worth his $100,000 purchase price as he romped home by six lengths in the slop at Jamaica.

Brookfield Farms scratched the favored Intentionally.

Atoll made it look easy as he gave the Mackle Brothers their second straight Swift Stakes victory and third in a row for a Florida-owned colt. Hubcap won for Elkcam Stable last year and King Hairan won it for Leo Edwards in 1957.

Inescapable was a length and a half in front of Jules Chambrun's Dandy Ron. It was the same distance back to the fourth horse, Reginald N. Webster's Royal Anthem.

However, stewards disqualified Dandy Ron from third for interfering with Inescapable on the turn for home. They placed him last and moved Royal Anthem into third money, moving up Orren P. Guy's Pointer to fourth.

Time was 1:11 3-5. All starters carried 126 pounds. Atoll paid $4.60, $2.80, $2.20. Inescapable, ridden by Willie Shoemaker, returned $3.80 and $2.70, and Royal Anthem, the second choice, was $2.50 to show.

Lou Chesler, a Toronto financier, said he had a tip that Atoll could be purchased, and he put up $50,000 and the Mackles made up the rest. With the $17,705 purse, Atoll is now $82,295 from paying himself out.

Sore-Necked Williams May Miss Opening Day

TUCSON, Ariz. — (AP) — Boston Red Sox Slugger Ted Williams will fly to Boston today for a Monday apointment at Lahey Clinic and may miss the opening of the baseball season in New York on April 10.

The decision to send the 40-year-old veteran home for further examination followed X-rays of his ailing neck and shoulder in Phoenix by Dr. Alvin Swenson.

Although the X-rays were negative, Dr. Swenson said Williams definitely is suffering from an "irritation of the cervical neck." He recommended placing Williams in a cervical traction collar.

The purpose of the collar is to immobilize the neck completely to give relief and speed the healing process.

According to Red Sox Trainer Jack Fadden, this would keep Williams idle from 10 days to two weeks.

"I don't know whether the Lahey Clinic will concur with Dr. Swenson's suggestion, said Fadden but I believe they will."

Williams will leave here some time today. An appointment has been arranged with Dr. Charles Fager Monday morning.

The slugger has been idle ever since he had to cancel out of last Sunday's game with the Cleveland Indians here.

He had been bothered by pain in the muscle just below the right shoulder blade since playing the second game of a week-end series with the Indians at San Diego two weeks ago Saturday.

He has received two cortisone injections for the ailment, and daily heat treatment from Fadden. But there has been little improvement in the condition.

Climaxed by Florida Derby

Gulfstream In Its Glory This Week

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Gulfstream Park swings into "Blaze O' Glory Week" Monday with a six-day span of racing climaxed by the $100,000-added Florida Derby on Saturday.

Five Derby nominees clash in Monday's feature at a mile and 70 yards. The final test for sophomore candidates for the "Run For the Orchids" will have revolutionist, Rico Tesio, Puneves, Lake Erie and Wheatley Road in the lineup.

Tuesday's attraction will be the dinner stakes for two-year-olds, followed by a dinder-dance in the Turf Club.

The Suwanee River handicap for fillies and mares highlights Wednesday's card.

The unique Grey Ghost purse, fashioned exclusively for grey horses, will be presented Friday.

On Derby eve, the annual Fiesta Tropicale Parade will be staged at Hollywood.

A special Dixieland group will be among the bands which start entertaining at 10 a.m. Derby day. The University of Miami's "Band of the Hour" will perform in a special show.

Eighteen stars from the Cypress Gardens will join in the program, with a water-skiing exhibition.

The field for the Derby is still shaping up. The big three in the lineup — Easy Spur, Troilus and Sword Dancer — are regarded as certain starters.

Robinson Rejoins O's

Infielder Brooks Robinson is getting out of the Army and will report to the Baltimore Orioles' spring training camp at Miami Stadium Tuesday.

It was thought that the young third baseman would not be discharged until April 5, but General Manager Lee MacPhail said Robinson contacted him Saturday and said he would be on hand Tuesday.

"Robby said he has been working out at Camp Hood," MacPhail added, "But apparently most of his work has been confined to throwing and running. He says he hasn't had too much batting practice."

White Sox Bounce Braves' Burdette

BRADENTON—(AP)—A three-run rally in the seventh inning ruined Lew Burdette's bid to go the distance Saturday and handed the Chicago White Sox a 5-2 exhibition victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Turk Lown, Rookie Don Rudolph and Gerry Staley held the National League champions to six hits. Rudolph got credit for the victory.

Burdette showed his best form of the spring for the first six innings, but faded in the seventh.

Tigers Topple Cardinals, 8-4

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — Bill White homered for the St. Louis Cardinals in his first game since he was acquired from San Francisco, but a former Giant teammate, southpaw Pete Burnside, pitched the Detroit Tigers to an 8-4 victory Saturday.

Burnside, striking out seven, went the distance as the Tigers posted their 10th triumph in 16 games. Joe Cunningham homered for the Cardinals.

Redlegs Top Dodgers, 5-0

TAMPA — (AP) — Three-hit pitching by Joe Nuxhall and Tom Acker enabled Cincinnati to defeat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-0 Saturday.

Nuxhall reeled off the first seven innings in mid-season form, giving up only two hits, one a double by Don Demeter.

Thomson-Led Cubs Win, 10-3

MESA, Ariz. — (AP) — Bobby Thomson's fourth spring homer, good for three first-inning runs, paced the Chicago Cubs to a 10-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants before 3,537 Saturday.

Summertime Dog Racing Out for 1959

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Even if summer dog racing in this area is legalized by the Florida Legislature, which convenes next month, it would be 1960 before the new season could be inaugurated.

The Miami Beach and Hollywood Kennel Clubs, which were to have alternated in operating 45-night July-August meetings, are now more interested in making elaborate improvements in their plants. This will make it impossible for them to start summer racing this year, track officials told The Herald.

Local greyhound operators, who a year ago were enthusiastic about the two tracks alternating summer meetings, now are colder than northern weather towards the project. It appears any push for summer dog racing at the legislative session will have to be made by hotel, motel and restaurant owners.

Little public opposition, however, has developed to the idea, which called for the summer time track giving up 45 days of its regular winter meeting. This plan would have eliminated addition of any racing dates.

"When our current meeting ends, we will start a grandstand improvement program costing around $2,000,000," said President William Johnston of the Miami Beach Kennel club. "It would be impossible for us to operate this summer."

A similar report was made by Vice-President and General Manager Tommy Lynch of the Hollywood track, who revealed President William B. Syms Jr., plans an extensive renovation program starting immediately. Hollywood closes its most successful season Wednesday night.

Under the original agreement, the Beach would have run the first summer meeting, with Hollywood operating the second.

Demolition of the Flagler grandstand has started, with the old structure to be replaced by ultra modern stands. Biscayne, which rebuilt its entire plant two years ago, continues its regular season until June.

Groza Just Got Tired Of Running

By JOHN UNDERWOOD
Herald Sports Writer

When Frank Groza of the Ohio Grozas was place kicking footballs for Martin's Ferry High in the mid-1930's, a most convenient device to save practice steps was Lou Groza, his 11-year-old brother. Frank posted Little Lou in that area normally occupied by end zone seats and bombarded him daily with placements.

As the novelty wore off, Little Lou, frazzled from the chase but thinking clearly, concluded it was more blessed to kick than retrieve.

Underwood

So on the sandlots of Martin's Ferry, sitting snugly on the western banks of the Ohio River 60 miles south of Pittsburgh, Lou set about the practical application of brother Frank's psychology.

In retrospect, he snickers at his cleverness. "When I played with guys my age, there wasn't much argument. I wanted to be the kicker. I owned the football. I got lots of practice."

Now, 482 pro-game extra points and 142 field goals later, Lou Groza is grateful for the brother Franks in his life. They chased him into becoming the greatest toe-to-ball specialist of all time.

Groza's in town for just that reason. Coach Andy Gustafson of the University of Miami, with a hungry eye toward this year's more widely separated (19 to 24 feet) posts, imported Lou for three days' instruction of his Hurricane kickers. "He's the best in the business," Gus figures. "If he can't help us, who can?"

The same sort of logic was employed by Paul Brown in 1946 when Arthur (Mickey) McBride came to him with the proposal of coaching a new professional football team. The team would play out of Cleveland and be known as the Browns, in Paul's honor.

"I'll take the job," said Brown, "if you'll get me two players — Otto Graham and Lou Groza. We'll build from there."

A Knock on Brown's Door

NEVER WAS THERE a more binding association. Lou, last of the original Browns cast, has labored 13 years with the club.

"No problem working for Paul Brown," he says. "You're expected to give 100 per cent. If you do, you're all right. If you don't, you're out of a job. It's sound business."

Lou knocked on Brown's door late in the season of 1947. He had tired of being summoned to action only when the situation dictated a placement kick. He had been an all-Ohio tackle at Martin's Ferry High and though he had played only freshman ball at Ohio State (under Brown) prior to three years army service, he felt he could be of value in the line.

A Sport In Our Town

"I started the playoff game of the All-America Conference in 1947. I must have done all right. I've been his offensive left tackle ever since."

In the championship game with Los Angeles in 1950, he kicked the winning field goal with seconds to play, "my biggest thrill." In 1953, he set a record for one season with 23 field goals. Counting his days in the AAC, he is the game's all-time high scorer.

* * *

Still a Full Set of Teeth

LOUIS ROY GROZA is now 35 years old. As a high school basketball-football sensation, he was 6-2, 220 pounds. He's now 6-2, 247 pounds, and "it's getting pretty tough working that flab into shape."

He is a ruggedly handsome man, of Hungarian-Rumanian decent, with an olive skin and a lumpy nose and a full set of front teeth. He is not particularly glib, nor colorful, but a gentleman of a high cut and notable intelligence.

A National Honor Society student in high school, he maintained a B average while working toward a degree in marketing at Ohio State. He finished his war-stalled education in 1949.

With Ernie Godfrey, he recently wrote a book on the art of place kicking and already has worked his Cleveland insurance firm through the lean years.

"I enjoy coaching, but it's strictly a part-time operation. I've got too much at stake elsewhere. This change in the goal posts has brought on more requests to instruct than ever, but I can't let them interfere with my business."

Helpful Virus

THE GROZAS are now five, including sons Jeff, 6, and Jon, 4, and daughter Jill, 5. Lou thanks another brother, Alex, All-America basketballer while at Kentucky, for wife Jackie.

It was in New York and the younger Groza had a date he couldn't keep. "While Alex fought virus X, I won myself a bride."

"The Toe" has no vital message to impart concerning the clobbering of a football.

He stresses fundamentals and follow-through "similar to golf," and religious practicing. To prevent slippage, he wears a size smaller shoe on his kicking foot, with a high top and a blunt toe.

"There's no secret to my success. All my life I've been very lucky. It's easy when you're on the winning side. I've had some wonderful friends . . . and some pretty helpful brothers."

Derby To Drop Lid On Big Hollywood Meet

By JOE BROWN
Herald Greyhound Writer

An all-marathon racing card and the 25th annual running of the Derby Wednesday night will close one of the most successful meets in Hollywood Kennel Club history.

Every race will be 3-8 mile.

Hollywood expects to wind up with its largest increase in betting in a quarter of a century. The parimutuel-handle boost over last season handle will register nearly $16,000,000 — some $3,000,000 more than last year.

Attendance also is up, and should run about 75,000.

BROWN

Bud Jack, which ran in Saturday night's Derby elimination, has been Hollywood's top dog. He will run again closing night.

And Bud Jack's owner — Mrs. Lillian A. Ryan — is a cinch to finish as Hollywood's first women owner winner. Her greyhounds have knocked down purses of more than $28,000.

"WEEDING OUT" for the two Tex Rickard Memorial elimination races start this week at Miami Beach Kennel Club.

Nominations for qualifying — scheduled Thursday — include 20 Rickard Course runners.

The Rickard Memorial and the companion Rickard Consolation are scheduled April 6.

Two stakes winners are among eligibles. They are Jarmaine, winner of the O. P. Smith Memorial, and Canadian Pacific, winner of the Gold Collar Classic last month and the Rickard Memorial last year.

Kuharich will lecture on new offensive and defensive wrinkles in the pro game. He formerly coached the Washington Redskins and was named pro coach of the year after the 1955 campaign.

Eliot will discuss "psychology of coaching." Head coach of the Illini since 1942 and dean of the Big Ten coaches, Eliot will step down at Illinois after the '59 season.

600 Golfers Eye State Test

SARASOTA —(AP)— Bill Carey, executive secretary of the Florida State Golf Association, said Saturday 600 of the state's top golfers have been invited to compete in the 42nd annual Florida Men's Amateur tournament at the Pompano Beach Country Club April 22-26.

Pawlowski to Coach

DAYTON, Ohio — (UPI) — Ron Pawlowski, former Miami of Ohio center, has been named line coach at Dayton University. Pawlowski played professional football with the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Big Four Conference.

Billy Cannon Booms as LSU Paces Florida Relays Field

Cannon won the 100 yard dash in 9.5 (record tying time which will not be allowed because of a strong tailwind) and anchored LSU's quarter mile relay team to victory in record time (41.9). Cannon also tied for fourth in the shot put.

LSU was the unofficial winner with 42 1-3 points. Maryland was second with 24 and FSU third with 23.

Alabama's Tony Hogan, former Miami Edison High star, finished fourth in the high hurdles.

Miami Edison placed in two relay events and had three other runners finish in the money in the high school division. Fort Lauderdale's Jeff Little was the only South Florida winner with a 6-1 effort in the high jump.

NOT SO GOOD!!

was the rejoinder from a golfer on the range when asked how he was doing. It was time he had a lesson from Pro Willie Macfarlane. It takes a teacher to drill you in the proper habits of golfing. This golfer had been given free instruction on his previous visit and most likely could not remember all he had learned. Be sure you ask for a lesson or lessons to make what you have learned that 'good golf habit'. Lessons: $5; Balls $1.50. STOP 'N' SOCK at Houghtaling Properties, 1090 N.W. 95th St. Closed Fri. Say, Teacher, What's Good In the Third?

Looking to be a sports big shot? Teach a little history. Both the trainer of handicap racing ace Vertex (Joe Piarulli) and the general manager of the Baltimore Orioles (Lee MacPhail) taught history before they decided to try to make it instead . . . Busy boy, that Bobby Ussery, leading rider at Gulfstream and standing high at Jamaica at the same time. (He left Gulfstream a week ago for Jamaica, and no Gulfstream jockey has caught up in the standings yet.) . . . Sports idea of the year belongs to the basketball coach who suggested that baskets be reduced in size to chop scoring. The field goal already has been devaluated to a nauseating degree, and scores keep going up . . . Telecaster Jack Drees was talking about tough featherweights, and recalled Willie Pep's serious injury when a Miami-departing airliner crashed one night. One of Drees' friends visited Pep in the hospital and said, "Well, Willie, I guess you're through flying now." Pep nodded gravely. "You bet," he said. "I'll never take a night flight again."

Double Trouble

FOR a mixture of sustained misfortune and good fortune, check Miami Jai Alai's Echeverria. Within three months he was hit between the eyes by a pelota going 150 miles an hour, and crash-landed in an airplane going 300 miles an hour between two mountains in Mexico. Echeverria thought a mountain had fallen on him when the pelota connected, but he didn't get a scratch when the plane went down . . . Jack Harding offers strong support for the theory that no matter how bad things look, they can always get worse. The University of Miami athletic director decided a few weeks ago to double as baseball coach. He looked at the schedule he had made up himself—19 games in 17 days — and groaned. Then, the other day, he got a letter from Amherst College saying yes, they'd be simply delighted to play UM next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—one of the Hurricanes' rare recesses. Lamented Harding: "I'd forgotten I even asked them!"

'King' is Right

PAPAS with sons in sandlot baseball programs might bend an ear to the pitching advice of slugger Ted Williams. "I like to see young pitchers throwing overhand," says Terrible Ted. "If they are overhand pitchers and hurt their arms, they can develop a sidearm motion and prolong their careers. But a sidearm pitcher is finished if he runs into arm trouble" . . . South Carolina's King Dixon did not make an awfully large splash in our North-South Shrine football game last December but the lad stands in right well up his own way. Home folks in Laurens, S.C., named a street after him . . . Famous last words, noted while thumbing through a 1944 edition of the Encyclopedia of Sports: "Professional wrestlers are forgotten men, while amateur wrestling attracts much attention and large crowds."

Baseball Skids

BASEBALL, our so-called national game, plays second fiddle to horse racing in attendance figures replaced by the Thoroughbred Racing Association. Thoroughbreds and trotters drew 53½ million spectators last year. Baseball attracted 31 million, and football did 22½ million. The way pro football is moving, it may be in second place soon . . . You'd never know it to look at Harry Roble, Jockey Bill Hartack's tackroom valet, but he led U.S. riders in 1931 when he was 13 years old. Roble weighed 97 pounds, was making $350 a week, "and I was always hungry." Eventually he asked himself, "What good's all this money if I can't eat?" So he ate, and ate, and ate. Now, at 41, he's six feet tall and weighs 165 pounds — a trifle large to ride anything but elephants.

THE American Athletic Assn. of the Deaf will stage its 15th national basketball tournament in Atlanta on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Washington is seeded No. 1, Chicago No. 2.

Howie Grant Boots In 4 At Bowie

BOWIE, Md. — (AP) — Howard Grant, 20-year-old Cincinnati jockey who has been averaging better than a winner a day at Bowie, booted home four Saturday — three of them in succession.

The four winners gave Grant 47 out of 122 mounts for 42 days of the Bowie meeting which ends Tuesday.

He started his day's work in the second race and hustled home first with Turkish Gold at a winning price of $5. He then took the fifth, sixth and seventh races with two providing sizeable returns. In between, the bettors jumped on his Dance Card and drove her winning payoff down to $3.40.

Drivers Compete In Gymkhana Today

The Miami Sports Car Club will present a "gymkhana" meet today at Masters Air Field starting at 1 p.m.

Drivers are invited to participate in the event which tests skill and speed. Six obstacle events are on tap. The Gold Coast "gymkhana" championship will be held next month.

Hialeah Cager 'Thrilled'

All-American Butts Pursued By 'Everybody'

By RAY CRAWFORD
Herald Sports Writer

Bernie Butts should learn a lot of geography in the next few months.

Already sought by most big Southern and Eastern colleges, the Hialeah High basketball hotshot can expect to hear from the rest of the nation after today.

Butts is a member of Parade Magazine's All-America high school basketball team announced today in The Herald.

"I guess more letters and phone calls will start pouring in," laughed Bernie Sr., after learning of his son's latest honor. "It seems like all the coaches are after him. He's heard from at least 50 schools."

Where is he going?

"I don't know," confesses young Bernie. "When I first moved to Miami from Syracuse (two years ago) I planned to return to an Eastern school. Now, I'm not sure."

Making All-America was a surprise and the biggest thrill in Bernie's action-packed life.

He wants to develop into an outstanding college player and then play professional basketball.

"He should do well in college," said Hialeah Coach Roy Brawner. "He has all the shots, is fast and aggressive. Bernie is the best player I ever coached."

Butts, a lefthander, is deadly with a one-hand jump shot from the top of the circle. He also drives in tremendously fast from either side of the basket and, if necessary, takes a behind-the-back dribble just before laying the ball up.

Besides pacing Hialeah in scoring, Butts also led in assists and rebounds.

His average, 29.6 for the regular season (621 in 21 games), is a Dade County record.

Butts' biggest disappointment last season was not making the state basketball tournament at Gainesville. A shoulder injury cut Butts' scoring down to only 25 points for the two district games and Hialeah lost to Miami High in the finals.

Although Butts was recognized as "one-man team" by most Hialeah followers, there was no dissension among other players.

"Our boys always felt Bernie was giving his all for the team," Brawner said. "I never heard anybody on the squad say anything against him."

Butts visited the University of Tennessee over the weekend, arriving back in Miami Saturday afternoon just in time to catch a plane to New York where he will appear on the Dave Garroway show Monday morning with the other prep All-Americas.

While basketball is his first love, Butts also is a good baseball player.

"He hit a 400-foot home run the other day," said Butts Sr., "and I hope there were no college scouts in the stands. That's all we'd need — for baseball scouts to get on his trail."

An outfielder, Butts twice was named Babe Ruth League player of the year in Syracuse.

High School Honor Roll

St. Pete, Edison Pace State Prep Track Times

St. Petersburg High has gained an early advantage in the state's top high school track times.

Through Thursday, St. Pete runners lead the state in the discus (150-11), low hurdles (19.9) and broad jump (21.4) and share the pole vault (12-6).

South Florida teams, however, lead in the all-important ten-point relay events. Miami Edison has turned in the best times for both the sprint medley (2:04.2) and 880 (1:32.4). North Miami's mile relay (3:32.8) also is the states best.

Other South Florida leaders include South Broward's Alan Wright in the 100 (9.9), Coral Gables' Frank Lasky in the shot put (55-4), Fort Lauderdale's Mike Little in the high jump and Southwest's Bob Peeples with a tie in the pole vault.

Jax Awaits Race Ruling

JACKSONVILLE —(UPI)— A federal court ruling is expected Monday on a petition that would open this city's two municipal golf courses to Negroes on a daily basis.

However, Mayor Haydon Burns declared Friday the city would sell or lease it courses before it would permit integration of the links.

"If the court rules for integration on Monday," Burns said, "on Tuesday five men on the city commission will vote for closing the course. We'll either work on lease arrangements or sell the courses."

Stobs' Swim Title Hopes Get 'Boost'

Shirley Stobs moved into position to win the National AAU Women's 100-yard freestyle championship Saturday without taking a stroke.

The boost came in an announcement from West Palm Beach, where the meet is scheduled next weekend, that defending champion Chris Von Saltza will not compete.

"Von Saltza is suffering from virus monocleosis, upon her return from Australia," wired George F. Haines, coach of the Santa Clara Swimming Club. "While she is coming along all right, she is in no shape to swim at this time."

Mesa Keeps Cubs

MESA, Ariz. — (AP) — The Chicago Cubs disclosed Saturday they are returning to Mesa for spring training in 1960. The Cubs, working on a year to year option here, have trained in Mesa for the past eight springs.

Horse Show Seats Start Rising Today

Installation of 7,500 seats for the All-Florida championship horse show April 12 will begin at Spring Hill Farm today. Courses will be set up immediately afterward, and hunters and jumpers will begin workouts there by mid-week.

The show, for benefit of the Police Athletic League, is jointly sponsored by James D. Norris' Spring Hill Farm and the Hunters and Jumpers Association of Florida.

First performance on April 12 begins at 1 o'clock. The first three placers in each afternoon division will compete starting at 7 p.m. for the All-Florida titles. Fourth, fifth and sixth placers will have runoffs for Spring Hill championships.

Entries may be sent to Spring Hill Farm, Rt. 4, Box 2224, South Miami.

But Top Aides May Pull Cuba Out

Million Jobless as Castro Orates, Fumbles

Fidel Castro
. . . words, words, words

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

HAVANA, Cuba More than one million persons one-sixth of Cuba's population —are out of jobs.

The government is operating in a state of disorganized confusion.

Business paralysis is setting in as industry waits to see how far Cuba's socialistic-minded savior, Fidel Castro, will go.

Yet despite the business collapse and the Communists' hopes of moving in when the hero-worship of Castro wears off, there is still a hope for recovery.

It hinges on the efforts of two Castro aides, Dr. Regino Boti, minister of the National Economy Board, and Dr. Felipe Pazos, head of The National Bank. Both are extremely able. If Castro gives them a chance, they may be able to reverse the trend which Castro has initiated.

Castro, as self-appointed prime minister of the revolutionary government, calls the shots and outlines policy as he goes. Frequently policy seems to be made on the spur of the moment, without rationalization, in the middle of one of his hours-long speeches.

If he keeps it up, observers here feel the Russians and their Red party leaders need move hardly a finger toward eventual capture of this sugar republic and a strategic North American beachhead.

Yet, the Cuban people—90 per cent Catholic—are instinctively anti-Communist and pro-capitalist.

What is happening here is reminiscent of Guatemala four years ago when the Communists were able to push Jacobo Arbenz into power. But then it took long months of careful, crafty planning — of infiltration and manipulation.

In Cuba, it is being accomplished by the national hero, a man who is not a Communist but rather is an inept administrator, idealist and demagogue.

Some alarmed Cubans have suggested that Nikita Kruschchev's secret agents and organizers aren't needed in Cuba — that Castro himself is unwittingly "talking" Cuba into the Communist orbit.

In fairness to Castro, it must be emphasized that he appears completely sincere. And he has achieved, for the moment at least, honesty in government, a quality hitherto unknown in Cuban politics.

Despite his sincerity, he gives every indication of doing a beautiful job of fouling up this island-nation's economy, driving it toward bankruptcy, upsetting traditional social customs and creating an atmosphere of "government by confusion."

He may know where he is ers who are government officials.

Several whom I talked to admitted they are baffled. Others maintain all is well, that this is simply a transitory period.

All swear blindly by the leader who directed the revolution which overthrew the seven-year regime of Dictator Fulgencio Batista last New Year's Day.

"Don't condemn Castro," pleaded youthful looking J. A. Ossorio, American affairs officer in the Prime Ministry. "There is absolutely no connection between the Castro heading, but that's more than do some of his closest support-

McDermott

This, in part, is the conclusion of The Herald's foreign-analyst, John B. McDermott, as he revisits Cuba for a look at the sugar republic's stormy rebirth under the banner of the rebel hero Castro.

In recent years McDermott has traveled to trouble spots of the world—Russia, Africa, Germany, the Near East — to look at politics in terms of people and their leaders.

Too Contradictory

Cuban Business Future Is Dark

By WILLIAM GAUDET
Special To The Herald

HAVANA, Cuba — The cooler heads of businessmen see the answer to Cuba's future in plain everyday economics.

And they are disturbed by what Fidel Castro's government has done, or failed to do.

They cite paradoxes — the government doing one thing with one hand and the opposite with the other — which they believe could spell serious trouble for the island unless there is better coordination.

They cite instances of too much idealism and not enough realism:

* * *

CASTRO'S REDUCING RENTS all over the island — and the stress at the same time is on the need for new housing construction.

* * *

GAUDET

THE government order to the Cuban Telephone Co. to sharply reduce monthly charges — and the announcement that followed it closely that there was going to be a vast expansion program.

* * *

MUCH TALK about the importance of private enterprise aided by foreign capital and know-how — and not one law so far to help expansion by private enterprise already here, or to attract new foreign capital.

It is not that the businessmen are against the announced Castro policies of reform to help the little men. Many of them are little men themselves. But they believe the reforms should come side-by-side with laws which help rather than hinder the role of capital.

Many businessmen will tell you they are deeply concerned over how to protect capital they have already invested. Property values in Havana and elsewhere, for instance, already have dropped — some say as much as 40 to 60 per cent — as a result of the rent reduction decree.

Another incongruity, observers say, is the much-talked-of drive to produce in Cuba, by Cubans, the things which Cubans need and use.

But, asks the businessman, how can this sort of nationalism work in a country which itself depends more than anything else on the export of sugar? And whose largest market, the U.S., is maintained through a system of quotas — the U.S. imports so much sugar in return for export rights of its own goods to Cuba?

Take away the U.S. as a sugar market, and the entire economy of Cuba will crumble, the businessmen say.

Government officials say the government controls over foreign exchange will be lifted when sale of the sugar crop — expected to bring between 500 and 600 million dollars to the island — begins. But some capitalists doubt it. They believe the government will not allow many of the dollars to get out of Cuba.

Already, practical businessmen say, there are many working quietly to find a way of getting their capital out of Cuba.

But this unrest is not obvious.

To the visitor, the thousands who jam into the Plaza whenever Castro speaks are the obvious sign that he is the Cuban hero and that the huge mass of people is willing to believe — for awhile, anyway — his idealistic optimism and accept his actions.

Nicaragua Invasion Held Near

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — (UPI) — The Dominican military intelligence service said Saturday that former President Jose Figueres of Costa Rica is massing men and weapons for an invasion of Nicaragua.

An official communique said that 35 Cuban "barbudos" (bearded followers of Fidel Castro) landed on the Costa Rican coast near the Nicaraguan frontier March 19 from the Panamanian ship White Shadow. It said arms for 500 men also were put ashore.

According to the communique, the band is now in the mountains where it is being "directed" by Figueres from his ranch La Lucha.

The invasion of Nicaragua from Costa Rica, the communique said, would be combined with similar operation from Honduras.

"The Dominican intelligence service knows that a network of conspirators exists in the Caribbean which has violated all international rules by using ham-wave bands to maneuver against countries to foment armed revolt," the communique said.

Cloudy But Dry Forecast

There may be some clouds but there shouldn't be much rain to spoil Easter in Florida, weathermen predicted Saturday.

Fair, mild weather was forecast for most of the rest of the nation, except for showers expected in the Rockies and a few snow flurries in the Northwest.

Florida's skies should be a bit more cloudy than expected, weathermen said, because of a stationary weather front hanging over most of the state.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower, spending the long Easter weekend in Gettysburg, pa., planned to lead the nation in worship by attending services at the Presbyterian church near their farm. They planned a "very quiet weekend."

And New York's Fifth Avenue will be bright with the annual parade of latest fashions past St. Patrick's Cathedral. The picture will be the same on Chicago's "Magnificent Mile," and on main streets throughout the nation.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., 100 motion picture stars will accompany 100 crippled children in a parade dedicated to Easter Seals, and at the Hollywood Bowl more than 20,000 are expected to hear Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, a prominent Mormon, deliver his Easter message.

Before day broke on Easter, the Roman Catholic world had its message from Pope John. Departing from the custom of delivering Papal Easter messages on Sunday, Pope John spoke to the world from Vatican City Saturday night.

In a broadcast heard around the world in many languages, the Pope offered prayers for the rulers of the earth and for peace.

Hundreds of Christians gathered within the walls of the old city of Jerusalem for midnight services in the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre. Scores of pilgrims and tourists remained for Catholic masses offered in the three chapels of the ancient basilica shortly after midnight.

Outside, the narrow streets of the old city were dimly lit and largely deserted after a bustling day. The stars shone in a clear sky.

Blockade Of Russia Our Tack?

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Washington Evening Star said Saturday the U.S. is considering a naval blockade of Russia in the Baltic and Black Sea areas if the Soviet Union cuts off the West's access to Berlin.

"This is one of the measures short of nuclear war this country recognizes it has at its disposal, officials here confirm, if the Soviet Union goes through with its threats to oust the West from Berlin," The Star said.

It added that no decision has been reached on the point at which such a serious counter-measure would be ordered. The newspaper said the plan may be discussed here this week at the secret sessions of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers meeting.

At the State Department, Press Officer Francis Tully said of The Star's report:

"We are considering many different possibilities from time to time of things that might or could be done (about the Berlin situation) but as to any military decisions that might be made, I can't comment."

Privately officials said a naval blockade of a major power would have to be considered an act of war which could be used if hostilities actually started. But they noted that President Eisenhower has emphasized at news conferences in recent weeks that if there is to be any shooting it will be done by the other side.

Pointing out that Turkey controls the Bosphorus and Dardanelles outlets from the Black Sea, and Denmark controls the Kattegat at the mouth of the Baltic Sea, The Star said both nations could become key nations in the Berlin crisis.

A Walk in the Florida Sun—in a Business Suit

Our Power Greater, He Claims

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Vice President Richard Nixon said in Miami Saturday that the U.S. has enough military muscle to stand up at a summit conference without fear of submitting to Russian blackmail.

He conceded the Russians have more long-range missiles and submarines.

"But in over-all military power, we, with our allies, have greater strength."

Here with his wife and two daughters for the Easter holidays, the vice president also maintained that the Republican Party must be rebuilt and that the administration must post a good record from here on in to win the 1960 presidential election.

Skirting questions about his own potential candidacy, Nixon commented:

"By concentrating on those two efforts we can win no matter who is nominated . . . I am not working or engaging in activities toward the nomination."

With aplomb and a polished delivery, he touched on a wide range of topics, including the missile program, foreign relations, Latin America, inflation and presidential qualifications.

"If anybody has any ideas about American education, they should try doing their children's arithmetic problems. I can do long division but I'm not so good in algebra and geometry," he confessed.

Turning to weightier subjects the vice president made the following observations:

U.S. BUDGET — This is expected to be the biggest issue during the current session of Congress. Unless the federal budget is balanced, it will be difficult to balance the family budget.

FOREIGN AID — Nothing could hurt the U.S. in the cold war more than a partisan debate on foreign aid. A vote to cut mutual security is a vote to raise defense expenditures and a vote to increase the draft of American boys.

MISSILE RACE — The Russians are ahead of the U.S. in some areas, such as the pro-

Hike in Foreign Aid Looms

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Eisenhower has enlisted bipartisan Senate support for an effort to boost the 100 million dollars voted by the House for foreign aid development loans.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader, predicted the Senate will add at least 75 million dollars to the loan fund. The fund provides low-interest loans to assist public works in underdeveloped countries friendly to the West.

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said in a separate interview he will urge the appropriations committee to raise the House-approved total to 200 million dollars.

This still would leave the fund 25 million dollars short of Eisenhower's request for 225 million dollars in emergency money for the remainder of this fiscal year, ending June 30. A compromise between Senate and House figures would be likely to leave the total even lower.

When the House Appropriations Committee cut out all of Eisenhower's request the President termed the action irresponsible.

The Story, and Meaning, of Easter

'He Is Risen'--the News That Never Grows Old

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

More than seven hundred million people around the world are celebrating Easter today.

In stately Latin and melodious Polynesian, and in virtually every other known tongue, they repeat the news that sped through the demoralized company of Christian disciples on the first Easter morning, 1,929 years ago.

"He is risen!"

Easter is the oldest and most sacred of Christian holy days for good reason. Unlike the Oriental religions which are based on mystical experiences and metaphysical speculation, Christianity is anchored in his tory to an event — the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

From its earliest days to the present, the Christian church has never hesitated to stake its whole case on the claim that this event really happened.

"If Christ be not risen," the apostle Paul told the Corinthians, "then is your faith in vain."

What is the evidence for the resurrection?

Many Christians probably would answer that question by citing the Biblical stories about the finding of the empty tomb. These stories dramatize the fact of the resurrection as nothing else can, and their devotional value has earned them the central place at most Easter worship services.

But to the rigorously objective modern scholars who have exposed the New Testament to the most searching scrutiny ever given to any book, the empty tomb is secondary evidence.

These scholars point out that there are a number of discrepancies in the various gospel narratives about the awesome discovery that greeted the devoted women who went to the tomb "early in the morning on the first day of the week."

These discrepancies do not mean that the story is untrue. On the contrary, even a newspaper reporter can discern, in the different accounts, just that variation in detail but agreement on essential fact, which is the hallmark of authentic eyewitness accounts of any momentous event.

But the discrepancies do indicate to Biblical researchers that the first Christians did not attach primary importance to the empty tomb. If they had, a greater attempt probably would have been made to pin down the precise facts, to harmonize the disparate versions that circulated freely in the oral traditions until they eventually were set down in the gospels.

What pushed the empty tomb into the background of the early apostles' thoughts? The answer is abundantly clear in all of the gospels, in the book of Acts and in Paul's letters.

The earliest account of Jesus'

Red China Abolishes Rule of Dalai Lama

Puppet Regime Set Up

TOKYO — (AP) —Red China Saturday abolished the Dalai Lama's regime in Tibet, elevated the rival Panchen Lama in his stead, and imposed military rule on the rebellious Himalayan land.

Peiping asserted the revolt that erupted March 19 was crushed in two days and 4,000 rebels were captured. But Red China admitted rebel bands fought on in varoius parts of the land of the Lamas. Peiping asserted these bands were being mopped up.

Broadcasts from the capital of Red China asserted the 23-year-old Dalai Lama was abducted by the rebels and "under duress" tore up the 1951 treaty with Red China under which he was allowed to retain nominal rule.

This tended to bear out reports from India and elsewhere that the Dalai Lama had made good his escape from Lhasa, the capital, and had joined the rebels, probably in southern Tibet.

Presumably, the Dalai Lama is with the fierce Kampa tribal warriors, who from positions in southern Tibet have been fighting the Chinese Reds for three years.

The Panchen Lama last was reported at his religious headquarters at Shigatse, southwest of Lhasa. The 21-year-old spiritual leader now may be in Lhasa. He is considered the spiritual equal of the Dalai Lama but traditionally wields no temporal power. He generally has been considered more complaisant toward the Communists than the Dalai Lama.

Peiping asserted the command center of the revolt was Kalimpong, in northern India where the trade routes wind in from Tibet.

Nationalist China airdropped supplies to the rebels in their stronghold south of the Tsangpo River, Peiping said, thus supporting Chinese Nationalists' claims that they have been aiding the rebels. The Tsangpo River flows south of Lhasa.

Peiping said "radio stations were set up there by agents sent by the imperialists and the Chiang Kai-shek (Nationalist) clique to further their intrigues."

Trouble broke out, Peiping said, after the Dalai Lama was scheduled to attend a theatrical performance in the auditorium of the Tibetan military command. Accounts from Tibetans reaching India have said the Dalai Lama was ordered by the Red Chinese to come without companions and this raised fears for his safety among his followers.

Sunny Fortune Splits $400 Prize

By SUNNY FORTUNE

Sunny Fortune's personal Easter rabbit spread $200 eggs from Miami to Key West today—splitting the $400 prize for his puzzle between a pair of women in the two cities.

"Good for me," whooped Mrs. R. T. May of Miami. "I'm so proud I could cry," was the reaction of Mrs. Ollie Jenkins of Key West.

Ten other persons just missed a share of the eggs by a rabbit's whisker when they were one word off the correct answers.

For both Mrs. May, of 490 NE 61st St., and Mrs. Jenkins of 912 Whitehead St., the prize money came "just at the right time."

Mrs. Jenkins, who has been working the puzzles about a year, said her part of the prize would go for bills and a spring outfit for her 10-year-old daughter, Sharon.

The $200 meant an Easter outfit for Mrs. May, too. "Now I can splurge," she said. "That shopping trip I was going on will become a real tour."

Neither woman takes time from her domestic activities to make a practice of entering contests. "But I've been working this one since it started," Mrs. May said, "and just decided I wouldn't give up."

FOREIGN RELATIONS — The bond between the U.S. and Great Britain is closer than at any time since World War II, thanks to President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The U.S. makes the mistake of thinking of Latin America as one great area, instead of in terms of individual countries with different problems. U.S. prestige generally is better than a year ago.

FIDEL CASTRO — If there is anything the U.S. wants it is friendship and cooperation with the Cuban people and government. Castro has indicated opposition to some U.S. policies, but it is based on misunderstandings which can be removed when the rebel leader visits the U.S.

Nixon added that U.S. relations with Latin America are being improved through the creation of an inter-American loan institution, studies aimed at stabilizing prices of Latin products and mounting interest in Latin America.

He noted that world peace has been maintained during the seven years of the Eisenhower administration, "but we are going to have crises in world affairs as long as international communism persists in its present tendencies."

He said that the major qualifications of presidential candidates shift with the times and their issues.

In addition to the usual prerequisites, he opined that presidential timber must have experience and understanding of international affairs, plus a working knowledge of domestic economics.

Nexon, however, begged off the question of whether he possessed those qualifications on grounds of prejudice.

Grim News Awaited Cinderella

NEW YORK — (UPI) — A pretty 13-year-old ballerina danced the role of Cinderella for the Perry Como television show Saturday, unaware that when the ball was over, she would be told her father was dead.

Sharon Lerit's father, Sanford, 43, died in a Newark, N.J., hospital Friday night. He had been ill 10 years and in a hospital for 11 weeks. But Sharon's mother, Florence, decided to bear her grief alone, until after Sharon had appeared before a nationwide television audience.

The members of the cast and others associated with Como show kept silent about Sharon's loss, so her mother could break the news to her after she returned home to Newark Saturday night.

The news was kept from Como, too. His associates said they had drawn a curtain of silence to keep Sharon's loss from him because it would upset him to know.

"He's a softy," a source close to Como said. "If he knew about it, he'd take her off the show to spare her from the possibility of being hurt."

The Como show on the National Broadcasting Co. television network, was in rehearsal throughout the day, and Sharon did not miss a step.

Everyone tried to treat her as though nothing had happened, but it was difficult with a score of reporters and photographers clamoring for photographs of the little Cinderella.

"We are sure she doesn't know her father is dead," a program official said. "She has been very excited over her chance to be a TV star. It is difficult for us to treat her as though nothing were wrong, but we have really worked at it."

Sharon, an eighth grade pupil who looks like a miniature version of the famous ballerina Maria Tallchief, wants to be a ballet dancer when she grows up.

She danced the Cinderella role in Como's Easter show last year, and was invited for a return engagement as the prima ballerina of a troupe of 12 little girls from the New York City Ballet School.

"I'm sure her father would have wanted her to go through with it," Mrs. Lerit said.

Prayer for Today

Oh, Blessed Night When Christ Rose

By JIM BISHOP

Go With God

St. Gregory, the first of 16 Popes of that name, was a patrician who held a high political post in Rome before he felt the call to religious service. He then gave his wealth to the poor and made his home into a monastery. He rose to be Pope, from 590 to 604. As Pope he sent St. Augustine to effect the conversion of Britain to Christianity. His name also is associated (perhaps incorrectly) with the arrangement of so-called Gregorian mode or chant. The following Easter prayer comes down from him.

It is very meet and right, with all powers of heart and mind, and with the service of the lips, to praise the invisible God, the Father Almighty, and His Only-Begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who paid the debt of Adam for us to the Eternal Father, and effaced the bond of the ancient guilt by the Blood poured forth in loving-kindness.

For this is the Paschal festival in which Thou first didst bring our fathers, the children of Israel, out of Egypt and madest them to pass over the Red Sea dry-shod.

This, then, is the night which cleared away the darkness of sin by a pillar of radiance.

This is the night throughout the world which now restores to Grace and unites to holiness believers in Christ, separated from worldly vices and from the gloom of sin.

This is the night in which Christ broke the bonds of death and ascended from the grave, the conqueror. For to be born had been no blessing to us, unless we could have been redeemed.

Oh, the wondrous condescension of Thy loving-kindness towards us!

Oh, the inestimable tenderness of Thy love. To redeem the servant, Thou gavest up the Son.

This holy night, then, puts to flight offenses, washes away sins, and restores innocence to the fallen and joyousness to the sad.

Oh, truly blessed night, which spoiled the Egyptians and enriched the Hebrews — the night in which Heaven and earth are reconciled!

We pray Thee, Lord, therefore, that Thou wouldst preserve Thy servants in the peaceful enjoyment of this Easter happiness: through Jesus Christ our Lord, Who Livest and Reignest with God the Father, in the Unity of the Holy Ghost, God now and forever: Amen.

resurrection appearances is given in Paul's first letter to the church at Corinth:

"For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins in accordance with the scriptures, that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day in accordance with the scriptures, and that he appeared to Peter, then to the twelve.

"Then he appeared to more than 500 brethren at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have fallen asleep. Then he appeared to James, then to all the apostles. Last of all . . . he appeared also to me."

It is sometimes said that the resurrection of Jesus is "the best-attested fact in history," because the whole Christian church bears witness to it.

Those who make this statement usually have two ideas in mind.

First, they mean that the existence of the church can hardly be explained except in terms of the resurrection. As one scholar has written, "it is easier, even for a non-believer in miracles, to accept the fact of the resurrection than to find any other adequate explanation of the change that came over the disciples within three days after they had fled Jerusalem in terror."

The second meaning is that the church, from the time of the apostles until now, has consisted at its core of men and women who are convinced — not by anything they had read or have been told, but by the irrefutable evidence of their own experience — that Christ is living still.

Stay in Berlin, Most Say

Nikita Is No Better Bluff Than Stalin, Poll in U.S. Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J. — Nikita Khrushchev is having no more success in threatening the American people on Berlin than his Kremlin predecessor, Josef Stalin, did 10 years ago.

Then, as now, the basic issue at stake in the beleaguered German city, as the public sees it, is the same:

"We've got to stand firm or Russia will overrun all of Europe."

If standing firm means keeping Western troops in Berlin even at the risk of war, the public is willing today — as it was over a decade ago — to take that gamble.

The Gallup Poll

The latest vote on the issue, in fact, is amazingly similar to that recorded in the late spring of 1948 when the Soviet blockade of Berlin provoked one of the first major crises in the "cold war."

At that time, Gallup Poll reporters asked voters across the nation:

"Do you think the U.S. and her Western European allies should stay in Berlin, even if it means war with Russia — or should the U.S. give up Berlin to the Russians?"

The vote:

STAY IN BERLIN?
1948

Stay in Berlin	80 Pct.
Give up Berlin	11 Pct.
No opinion	9 Pct.

When Gallup Poll reporters asked voters their sentiments on the same basic issue in recent days, here is how those persons familiar with the Berlin crisis replied:

"Do you think we should keep American forces in Berlin — along with British and French forces — even at the risk of war?"

STAY IN BERLIN?
1959

Yes, should	81 Pct.
No, should not	11 Pct.
No opinion	8 Pct.

Since Khrushchev raised the Berlin issue anew in his ultimatum to the West last November, checks on public opinion have found virtually no change in voters' attitudes toward keeping U.S., British and French forces in West Berlin.

The most recent vote, for example, closely parallels that recorded immediately following Khrushchev's ultimatum on the subject as reported last December.

The vote among those familiar at that time (77 per cent):

STAY IN BERLIN?
December '58

Yes, should	78 Pct.
No, should not	11 Pct.
No opinion	11 Pct.

Compared to other critical national issues of recent years, the Berlin crisis has stirred up wide interest throughout the nation and in all segments of the population — 78 out of every 100 voters nationally say they have heard or read about it.

government and the Communists.

"Socialist? Yes. But Communist? No.

"The Bible says 'You shall know them by their works.' Give Castro a chance to prove himself."

Another official admitted off-the-record that Castro "talks too much when he should be listening."

"Cuba today is in a state of shocked hero worship," said this official with surprising frankness. "Unfortunately, the most 'fidelista' of all — believer in Fidel Castro — is Castro himself. Soon he must come down from the clouds and face reality."

A prominent Cuban newspaperman, known as a longtime Castro backer, said he is fearful that while the 32-year-old prime minister talks himself hoarse on radio and television, left-wing extremists are moving into key advisory positions.

Among these are Alfredo Guevara, who directs classes in Marxist teachings to the army; Baco Alanso, head of the National Fine Arts Commission; Carlos Franqui, former proofreader on the Communist organ "Hoy" who now runs Castro's governmnet newspaper "Revolucion;" Antonia Antuna, who directs the National Institute of Culture under the Education Ministry; Casals Perez, head of "Rebel Radio," and many others.

Castro's brother, Raul heads the new army and "tolerates" communism. Another military strongman, now ill, is Argentine-born "Che" Guevara, who claims to be non-Communist although he has played ball with the Reds.

Two leftist authors, Emil Roig de Leuschenroig and Antonio Nunez Jimenez, have been reinstated to places of prominence and their works are being used in the schools and in indoctrinating the military.

Alberto Suno, assistant secretary general in the Prime Ministry, discounted the Red threat to this newsman.

"There is no question but what the Communists are trying to get into Cuba's government," he said. "They won't succeed.

Castro has lofty aims. But too many of his plans are unrealistic and dangerous. Right now he appears to be in the position of an amateur tightrope walker on a high wire for the first time without a net.

National Summary

A high pressure area pushing southward from Canada resulted in fair and cool weather over most of the country from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic during mid day Saturday with temperatures ranging from the 20s in the northern tier of states to the 50s in the Gulf States, except in Florida where readings reached the 80s.

Fair weather will continue over much of this area through Sunday, but frost was expected to extend as far south as the Carolinas by dawn today. Slowly rising temperatures are expected in this area by afternoon, however.

Scattered thundershowers or rain showers from eastern Texas into the lower Mississippi Valley will move into the eastern Gulf States today, while the variable cloudiness over the plains will continue through tomorrow.

Fair to partly cloudy weather will continue through Sunday over the southern portion of the Rocky Mountain States while showers or snow flurries will be scattered over the northern part accompanied by variable cloudiness during the same period.

Northern California, where snow fell Saturday, will be cloudy today, while the remainder of California will remain generally fair.

Holiday Not for These 7

By ED PFISTER
Herald Bureau Chief

No one will argue that Easter — closely coupled this year with the arrival of spring — isn't a time for great rejoicing.

PFISTER

But there's a strong possibility that seven candidates for seats on the West Palm Beach City Comission would enjoy it a lot more if if fell a few days later.

For an off-year election, the current City Commission campaign has stirred up a lot of excitement, and there isn't any indication that the verbal barrage laid down by the candidates will slack off until late on Easter Monday.

Only two of the seven candidates can be elected, and those who are won't swing much weight on a board where three others still have a year to serve.

* * *

Vice Mayoralty

EVEN THOUGH the election itself simmers down when the ballots are counted on Wednesday, there should be some more interesting developments.

If there is no runoff — and the chances are there will be — the board will be confronted with the task of selecting a new mayor, vice mayor and president pro tem.

There wasn't much excitement a year ago about the mayoralty. It was the vice mayor post that caused some heated exchanges.

Both Commissioner L. W. Kelloway and Sylvan Burdick, who was brand new on the board, were determined to get the toga.

The way it turned out, W. P. Holland, a former mayor, landed the berth as a compromise selection.

You wonder why candidates are interested in the vice mayoralty? Traditionally the vice mayor simply steps up to the top post at the next election.

Chief Cards

DON'T THINK, either, that there isn't a subtile underground campaign under way to keep the position of West Palm Beach chief of police an elective job.

The undercurrent campaign has nothing to do with that segment of the population who will vote against an appointive chief simply because they think it would infringe on their rights to pick their own officials.

The latest move could have as its sponsors several persons)who themselves have their eye on the job of police chief. They wouldn't stand a ghost of a chance it if was an appointed post. They believe they could be elected.

It couldn't be these persons who are circulating cards reading "Stop the City Commission Grab for Power," and subtly trying to convey the impression that somebody else, actually — never themselves — are supporting the idea?

The cards are going around town but those who hand them out drop the hint that a couple of other guys had them printed.

Eggy Bedlam At Currie Park

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — You could hardly hear yourself shout.

The gun went boom, and the kids went zoom, hollering with the full power of gusty lungs. Peter Cottontail, or his facsimile, was trampled in the stampede, and 1,000 kids lost their parents.

MOMMMY!

It was the annual Elks Easter Egg Hunt in Currie Park. Boisterous bedlam, sheer pandemonium.

The kids, outnumbered only by eggs, were roped off in age groups. The gun, fired with benefit of loudspeaker, signaled the start of the egghunt.

Babes, secure in their mothers' arms, wailed in fright. Whooping like marauding Indians, the kids galloped under the ropes and into the hunting grounds.

They screamed, they pushed, they fell, they pressed on.

The younger of the younger set didn't have to look long. In their hunting grounds, you could walk on the eggs, spread generously on the lawn.

The eggs were pale pastel in color and some gold. All were for real and hard-boiled, of course. Eggs gathered up, the kids slowed their pace.

They sat on the lawn concentrating studiously on peeling their treasure trove. Some were distracted by ice cream and soda pop served, courtesy of the Elks.

One boy walked aimlessly through the park, bawling. He didn't need a loudspeaker.

Finally round-up time. The loudspeaker squawked incessantly. Kids paged lost parents. Parents paged lost kids.

You could hardly hear yourself shout.

Royal Park Bridge Span Paving Slated

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH—It won't be long now until the reconstructed four-lane Royal Park Bridge linking the Palm Beaches will be open to traffic.

Cleary Brothers Construction Co., prime contractor on the big bridge project, announced Saturday the approaches to the span in the Flagler Dr. area will be paved next Wednesday and Thursday.

Because of the paving Flagler Dr., in the area of the work, will be closed to traffic for the two day period, the contractors said.

The newly rebuilt bridge-central and one of the most important of the three connecting the neighboring cities — has been closed to traffic for months.

Officials are discussing plans for a ceremony that will mark the reopening of the bridge.

In addition to four lanes, the new bridge will also have a lift span, replacing the old swing device that sometimes jammed.

PO Facilities To Be Expanded

WEST PALM BEACH — The Post office Department has decided that Jupiter, the county's northernmost incorporated community and one of its oldest, is also in the middle of a boom. Increased space is needed there for postoffice facilities.

Robert C. Johnson, Lake Worth, Republican state committeeman, announced Saturday word has been received that the government has directed its realty officer to obtain bids.

Chamber 'Reserves' Name for WPB

'Hands Off Palm Beach City'

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Who's on first?

The West Palm Beach Chamber of Commerce wants surrounding suburban communities to keep hands off the name Palm Beach City. West Palm may want it for itself.

The new turn in the much-talked-about name change for West Palm Beach developed Saturday when the Chamber announced its stand on the name Palm Beach City — a name already proposed for a new 10,000-home development west of North Palm Beach Village.

John D. MacArthur, Chicago banker and insurance executive, is asking that his proposed development be incorporated under the name Palm Beach City.

But C. Robert Burns, Chamber president, declared Saturday, "The name Palm Beach City connotes the central hub of the metropolitan area rather than a suburban community."

The chamber official, however, emphasized that the chamber has not taken a stand on changing West Palm Beach's name. Still, Burns said, West Palm should have "first refusal of the name Palm Beach City if it so desires."

The name Palm Beach City, if given to a new community, might lead to "possible confusion in the minds of people not well acquainted with local geography," Burns argued.

On the suggestion of changing the name West Palm to Palm Beach City, Burns commented, "perhaps there has not yet been enough time for this proposal to be thoroughly analyzed."

The Chamber is forwarding copies of its resolution to the Palm Beach County delegation to the Legislature, urging them not to pass a bill creating a new municipality under the name Palm Beach City.

It is also urging the West Palm City Commission to take a firm stand against the use of the name Palm Beach City by any new city in the county.

Suicide Killer Psycho?

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Authorities disclosed Saturday that an apartment house owner they said shot and killed his girl friend and then ended his own life underwent a county mental examination as recently as Feb. 13.

Victims of the double shooting Friday night in a car west of Lake Worth were identified by the Sheriff's Department as Walter F. Marsh, 40, and Sarah Munock Kitchell, 30-year-old divorcee.

Sheriff's deputies said Marsh had fired five slugs from a powerful .44 caliber magnum revolver into the abdomen and chest of the woman and then sent the last bullet in the cylinder crashing into his head. Both apparently were killed instantly.

Sheriff's records show that Marsh, who owned apartments on Southern Blvd. here, had been held by the Sheriff's Department three days in February for an examination by a psychiatrist.

Chief Deputy John F. Kirk Jr. said Marsh had been brought to the county jail when his condition at Lake Worth Hospital had been diagnosed as due to narcotics and alcohol.

He said Marsh was also arrested in 1954 on a charge of assault to commit rape but that the charge was later reduced and the defendant went free.

Kirk, who with Deputy Harold Hodges investigated the double killing west of Lake Worth Friday night said no definite reason for the murder-suicide had been turned up.

He added, however, that the couple had apparently been going together "for three or four months," and that Mrs. Kitchell may have been planning to "break it off," when she picked up Marsh in her car near his Corrigan Ct. Apt.

Kirk said Mrs. Kitchell, an employe of a Lake Worth bank, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Munock, of Miami.

He said when he phoned Munock of his daughter's death the father commented, "I was afraid something like that would happen."

Both bodies are at the Barton Funeral Home, where it was said funeral arrangements for Mrs. Kitchell would be made by members of the family. Rites for Marsh will be in Waynesboro, N. C.

Death Has Rendezvous with Funeral Cortege

Teen Rams Funeral Escorter

By ED PFISTER
Herald Bureau Chief

WEST PALM BEACH — A 35-year-old motorcycle policeman who was escorting a funeral was killed here Saturday in a collision with a motor scooter operated by a 15-year-old boy.

The policeman, Festus Alvah Tatum, a member of the department for four years, was pronounced dead of a broken neck on arrival at Good Samaritan Hospital.

Elmer Joseph Lutz Jr., 3104 Parkland Rd., who police said was riding the motorscooter, suffered a fractured right leg, cuts about the legs and arms and other injuries and was admitted to the same hospital.

The accident was the second of the day to involve a policeman and also the second in which a boy on a motorscooter was injured, police said.

It occurred near the intersection of Parker Ave. and Hampton Rd. as the funeral cortege moved southward.

Tatum and Sgt. S. R. Trent were riding escort with the procession of more than 40 autos.

The scooter, police said, cut through the cortege at the intersection and struck the motorcycle, spinning it around and hurling Tatum against a tree.

Police said eyewitnesses told them the policeman tried to drop his motorcycle on its side to avoid the crash but was struck before the machine could be dropped.

A former semi-pro baseball player in Wilmington, N.C., Tatum came here about six years ago and recently had been closely identified with Little League baseball.

Married less than a year, he and his wife resided at 7437 Pine Tree Lane, Lake Clare Shores.

The body was removed to the Vogel Funeral Home and an autopsy was planned. Police Chief R. W. Milburn said the accident was still under investigation late Saturday.

A second motor scooter rider who was injured earlier in the day was identified by police as Ernest Anthony Kuonen, 16, of 700 Hampton Rd. He suffered a broken left leg and foot, a possible fractured skull and other injuries and was admitted to Good Samaritan.

Police said the boy was playing with a snake while riding his motorscooter and that it struck the rear end of and auto at S. Dixie Hwy. and Jefferson Rd.

The car was driven by Mrs. Ruth Lytal of Lake Clarke Shores, wife of Lake Lytal, chairman of the County Commission.

The other policeman, Harold Depaul Mitchell, 36, of suburban Palm Springs, suffered shoulder injuries when the patrol car he was driving on an emergency call was involved in a crash.

Police said an auto driven by Lilyan Hancock Duke, 36, Greenacres City, struck the police car as it emerged from a First St. parking lot near the Florida East Coast Railroad tracks.

2 Board Seats at Stake

WPB Going to Polls Tuesday

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — A total of 26,804 residents have are eligible to go to the polls Tuesday in the first go-round of a municipal election to pick two city commissioners and decide a referendum.

The referendum, which will determine whether the city should make the elective office of police chief appointive, is expected to bring out more than the normal contingent of voters.

Four attempts by the present and previous city commissioners to bring the office of police chief directly under their control has been defeated by the voters.

At stake also in the election are the commission seats of Mayor Horace S. Miller and Commissioner L. W. Kelloway.

Miller currently is completing his third consecutive term on the commission and his first term as mayor, a post which is normally rotated each year among members of the board.

Kelloway is also seeking a fourth term but in his case reelection would mark only a second consecutive term. His three prior two-year terms on the board were non-consecutive.

Issues raised during the campaign have included roads, sidewalks, an auditorium and whether the city should change its name.

Arrayed against Miller for his seat on the commission are J. H. French, a retired contractor, and C. M. Morris Jr. son of a retired city employe. Morris operates a detective agency and a greenhouse.

Both opposition candidates are new to politics.

Competing with Kelloway are Henry R. Antonik, a dealer in photographic supplies, Ralph G. York, a south side barber, and William M. Mitchell, county Negro veterans service officer.

It is the second bid for a commission seat by Mitchell, the first for the other two opposition candidates.

Because seven candidates are in the running for only two commission posts, a runoff within a week after the first election appears probable.

Under normal circumstances, winning candidates would be seated at a special meeting Wednesday to canvass the vote and certify the results of the election. If a runoff develops, April 7, the commission would reorganize the following day or at the first Monday meeting thereafter.

Engineers To Open Bids For Dredging

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Army Engineers at Jacksonville will open bids April 16 for maintenance dredging in three areas of the Okeechobee and Intra-coastal Waterways, U. S. Rep. Paul G. Rogers announced Saturday.

Shoals to be removed in the Okeechobee Waterway are in the St. Lucie River, and dredging will take place between the St. Lucie locks and the Intracoastal Waterway at Stuart.

Two shoals will be removed in the Intracoastal Waterway.

One is in the vicinity of the St. Lucie Inlet at a point close to where the two waterways intersect. The other is near Fort Pierce, between State Rd. A1A bridge and the Fort Pierce turning basin.

Gulfstream Home Burgled

WEST PALM BEACH — Furs, gems and cash valued at nearly $5,500 were stolen from the R. C. Reed home in Gulfstream by thieves who gained entrance through a screen door, the Sheriff's Department reported Saturday.

Red Hibiscus to Be WPB's Own Flower?

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH—City commissioners Monday will be asked to pick the red hibiscus as the city's official posy.

The request will come from the West Palm Beach Garden Club, whose president, Mrs. W. H. Proctor, will also appear to speak on the group's proposed clubhouse in Dreher Park.

The commission referred plans to erect the clubhouse in the park to the City Planning Board and the Parks and Recreation Commission for joint approval.

Special guests at Monday's session will be Girl Scout Troop No. 250.

Other business will include:

A report on tabulation of bids on oil, gasoline, cable and wire.

A petition requesting shuffleboard courts at Currie Park be improved.

WEST PALM BEACH — The younger generation is going backward—way back, in fact, to the prehistoric.

Here in this era of space, atoms and jets, youngsters are keen on the stone age. That is if you judge a child by the books he reads.

"Ever child goes through the horse and dog book stage," says Mrs. Doris Skidmore, children's librarian at Memorial Public Library.

But now something new, or rather very old, has been added — the dinosaur.

"From kindergarten up, the children want to know about wildlife way back. They ask about dinosaurs and other things adults can't even pronounce much less be interested in."

But latter day science, in all its forms, isn't being neglected in the wake of the new rage for dinosaurs.

"They are interested in space also. They go from one extreme to the other," the librarian said.

In fact, the entire reading scope is broader these days. TV can take some credit for it, too. The "idiot box" is no bugaboo for bookworms in Mrs. Skidmore's view.

"It widens the scope of ideas," she explained with examples.

Remember the Shirley Temple series? Youngsters came to the library to read the stories. Let TV put on a good West Point drama or a spy and FBI thriller, and the library has a run on books about West Pointers, spies and FBI men.

"The same is true on biographies," says Mrs. Skidmore.

Then there are some books which captivate the younger generation year in and year out.

"Interest in fairy tales, legend and folk tales is not dead," the librarian said emphatically. "And boys will never get enough of the Civil War and World War I."

The best send-off any book can get is a recommendation from another child. The adjectives 'keen' or 'super' are a mark of distinction for any children's book.

"Children like to be one of the crowd," says Mrs. Skidmore.

Illness, Starvation Stalk Northwest Haiti

Drought Brings Death

Agriculture is the backbone of the northwestern area of Haiti. Farm products need rain and this area has had no rain for many months. One brief shower caused the desperate farmers to plant the last of their seed. Now, even if it should rain, there can be no planting.

On the footsteps of the drought have followed the grim spectres of starvation and disease. Evelyn DeTardo of The Herald staff recently visited Haiti and here tells the grim story of what she found there.

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

PORT-DE-PAIX, Haiti — For the last 13 months northwest Haiti has been slowly drying up.

Illness and death are now taking its toll of the starvation-weak people.

A farming region, northwest Haiti exists on its production of bananas, coffee, beans, peanuts and grain. Normal rainfall in May varies from five to seven inches in this area. Last May not a single drop of rain fell.

Except for a brief shower in December, which encouraged farmers to mortgage their homes or borrow money for seed, they have had no rain for more than a year. The seed now lies dried and rotting in the ground.

Heads of families, already weak from starvation, have left the area in search of jobs, walking as far as 100 miles. Most do not find jobs and on their return find their wives or some of the children have died in their absence.

ONE FATHER, who left to sell charcoal for his starved wife, fell from weakness on the way. After resting a day and making the sale, he returned home to find his wife dead.

A WOMAN in the area took her youngest child and set off to beg, leaving two older ones with neighbors. The children left behind are not expected to live and the father, who went in search of work and food about two months ago, has not been heard from.

The Haitians' woes began with hurricane Hazel, which battered the area in 1954. The people have not been able to recover from the economic losses of the big wind.

Animals have been holding up better than people, but they are not expected to last much longer.

Donkeys' which used to sell for $12 to $14 are now being offered for $1 and $2. There are no buyers. No one has food for animals.

Farmers are starving and in debt. Merchants can no longer give credit as their customers are penniless and not buying or paying back.

A number of residents are too ashamed to leave their homes because their clothes have worn completely away and they have no money to buy new ones.

Marcel Cornet, French priest in the Jean Rabel parrish, fears a typhoid epidemic may decimate the famine stricken area. More than 200 have died already from lack of food and typhoid in that region, which has about 45,000 population. There is no estimate of the entire population in the northwest.

Father Cornet, touring the medical dispensaries in the hunger areas, said the medicine which exists is too expensive for the populace at cost, and many dispensaries even are out of aspirin.

At one dispensary they did not even have tea to give a young woman who had just given birth to a child. Instead they sent her out into the market to beg for food so she could come back and nurse her baby.

More than 2,000 persons are believed fled to the Bahama Islands from the drought stricken coastal areas in the northwest and from the island of Tortuga.

A Baptist Church in La Belle, which used to have a congregation of about 260 had an attendance of two on a recent Sunday.

One family visited near Jean Rabel, is typical of the famine infested area of the northwest.

A young boy, arms and legs like thin twigs sat shelling a handful of peas for lunch. His stomach was swollen like a balloon and his cheeks puffed from fever.

His father, Estilen Vital, was boiling green mangoes in a tin can. For a change of diet they sometimes bake the mangoes.

Vital's 15-year old son recently died of starvation. The only animal they have left is a pig, which, if there were any buyers, he would have sold for his son's funeral.

Haitian funerals generally require elaborate ceremonies. Without money, the dead are now being buried under the cover of night, without coffins.

The hopeless attitude of the people is appalling.

Some have written to the president, and have received no reply. "Only God can save us now," they say.

One farming family in Fond-La-Loi works all day Sunday weaving baskets. They are able to weave about five or six a day which once sold for one cent, or two for a penny.

They then walk to the market or 30 miles to Port de Paix without hope for a sale. "But it is something to do."

Everyone left in the area seems to have the same resignation. "If rain does not come we're all going to die. If it does come we'll just have to look at it because we have no more seed to plant."

Church World Service and Catholic Welfare Organization will have sent about 6,000 tons of food into the northwest by the end of the fiscal year in July.

Mrs. Charles Zellermayer, liason between the Episcopal Deanery of Women of South Florida and Haiti's Episcopal Church, said they plan to get together about 600 pounds of food at the minimum to send in. But even at this most families are lucky if they get one meal in a month.

And, if you don't happen to be a member of the congregation, you go without.

NEWS FROM AROUND LATIN AMERICA

Somoza Foes Active

Nicaraguan Group Wants Envoy's Scalp

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

SOUTHWORTH

POLITICAL enemies of the Somoza brothers who rule Nicaragua are demanding that U.S. Ambassador Thomas Whelan get out of their country.

A letter mailed to Whelan and signed by more than 50 distinguished leaders of the opposition accuses the ambassador of intervening in the internal affairs of Nicaragua.

The letter — a copy of which was mailed to The Herald—charges that Whelan has damaged the friendly relations between the two countries.

"It is sad," the letter states, "that the political forces of the opposition parties in Nicaragua to which we belong have lost all contact with the American Embassy...

WHELAN

LUIS

ANASTASIO

"We believe that this change and the cold relations are due principally to your attitude for years, by words and deeds . . . of being too friendly with the dictatorship that oppresses Nicaragua . . . and by taking part in internal political matters."

* * *

'Would Be in Best Interest'

THE LETTER adds that the interests of both countries would be served "if you will decide to step down from your high post."

A blue-eyed Irishman, Whelan was a wholesale potato buyer in the Dakotas before he became ambassador to Nicaragua eight years ago.

The Somoza family has ruled Nicaragua for more than 20 years. After the old soldier, Anastasio, was assassinated in 1956 his sons took over. Luis was educated in the U.S. and groomed to replace his father. Anastasio Jr. went to West Point and now runs the army.

Young Gen. Anastasio is spending his Easter vacation outside the country and President Luis scoffs at rumors that his land may soon be invaded by revolutionaries.

Nicaragua on the List

BUT THE SOMOZA BOYS know that dictatorship foes in Cuba, Venezuela and other Latin American countries have listed Nicaragua, the Dominican Republic and Paraguay as the only three dictatorships remaining in Latin America and have vowed their support of any attempt to overthrow them.

Last month Honduras and Nicaragua signed an agreement in Washington to prevent their territories from being used as bases for mounting revolutions against each other. Strong bands of rebels have been reported to be gathering on the border.

President Somoza says his government is in a position to "repel any armed attempt against it, whether it comes from inside or outside the country."

Two Already Have Resigned

LAST WEEK, Nicaraguan Ambassador Leonte Herdocia and Nicaraguan Minister-Counseller Otto Somarriba resigned their posts and were given diplomatic asylum by the Costa Rican government.

Herdocia and Somarriba said they could not continue to serve the government of Somoza because of its "outrages and excesses."

An expert political observer from Nicaragua visiting in Miami said the political opposition in Nicaragua is trying to find a peaceful way of easing the Somoza family out of power and conducting free elections.

Strike Threats Confront Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO — The government is faced with growing strike threats despite President Juscelino Kubitschek's appeal to the nation for voluntary economic austerity. The president said the people themselves must stop the runaway rising cost of living by working together with the government to solve this grave problem.

Argentina Costs Mount

BUENOS AIRES — The cost of living went up 9.1 per cent in the month of February, mostly in higher food prices. It was necessary to set higher prices in March for the financing of a gigantic dam and hydroelectric power plant at Chocon in northern Patagonia.

'Disease' Pointed Out

'Sick' Silver Dollars Used In Campaign on Inflation

HARTSVILLE, S.C.—(AP)—A. Lee M. Wiggins, former undersecretary of the Treasury, is dramatizing a personal fight against inflation by sending "sick" silver dollars to congressmen, financial writers, editors and others.

The 67-year-old, one-time president of the American Bankers Association said he is getting some results.

He said he has received replies from almost all the personal friends in House and Senate to whom he sent uncirculated 1923 silver dillars. And "all showed keen interest," he added.

The silver dollars were accompanied by notes which said:

"Although it has done no work in the 30-odd years of its existence, it has lost about one-half of its ability to do a day's work, or to buy goods and services.

"This dollar is ill from a disease called inflation. The further spread of this disease may destroy it. Effective remedies are well known. They can be administered by the American people."

Housewife Puts Colombia In the Know

By GIL SLOAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia — As the U. S. becomes more conscious of Latin America, these southern neighbors are discovering more and more about the country to the north.

Now, any native of Barranquilla (who reads the papers) not only knows, for example, that there are such places as Richmond, Ind.

They also are acquainted with the type of family life in such a smallish, quiet town.

It was addressed simply to "Barranquilla newspaper, Barranquilla, Colombia, South America." It appropriately was delivered to the paper whose editor has a good command of the English language.

It reads: Dear Sirs:—

"I have been reading an article written by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service. It tells about some of the things your people have learned about the life of an American in the U. S. I think maybe you have not heard enough of the average American Norte Americano).

"First of all, my husband is a World War II vet. He took advantage of G. I. schooling and became a teacher. He graduated with a B. S. degree from Ball State at Muncie, Ind.

We have a 1949 Pontiac and a 1950 Pontiac wagon for transporting the children tp school.

"My husband has to drive rough country roads to teach in a country school that is 20 miles away. That is the reason for the second one.

"We have several radios, one working TV set, eight room house, full basement, oil furnace, two bathrooms, automatic washer and dryer and a nice small library.

"I do not dye my graying hair, my husband does not wear a toupee on his receding hair line. Our love is wonderful.

"Thank you for listening.

"Now in France . . . Bah!

Yours truly,
Mrs. Wm. E. Williams

"P. S. Hasta luega. We hope to visit South America when the children grow up. Maybe we might meet then."
